FOOTBALL CLUB ANNUAL DANCE

Large Crowd Present at Pontypool Hall—Y.P.L. Meeting.

PICTURES AT CHURCH.

PONTYPOOL, May 4.—The second annual dance held under the auspices of the local Football Club was a great success. Edgerton's Orchestra supplied the music and was in its usual good form. The proceeds amounted to over $50. A large crowd were present from outside towns as practically every place was represented.

Manager—Mr. James Richardson.
Captain—Mr. Fred Graham.
Secretary-Treasurer — Mr. Will Scott.

They are in the Clark and Manvers Football League and this is the schedule arranged for at the annual meeting:

May 14—Pontypool at Lotus.
May 21—Leskard at Kirby.
May 28—Lotus at Leskard.
June 4—Kirby at Pontypool.
June 11—Lotus at Kirby.
June 18—Pontypool at Leskard.
June 25—Kirby at Lotus.
July 2—Leskard at Pontypool.
July 9—Kirby at Leskard.
July 16—Lotus at Pontypool.
July 23—Leskard at Lotus.
July 30—Pontypool at Kirby.

Y.P.L. Meeting.

The last meeting for this year for the Young People's League was held on Tuesday evening. The programme was of a social nature consisting of readings by Miss Lily Barwell, solos by Mr. George Smith, an interesting talk on hunting by Rev. A. J. Terrill, community singing, contests, etc. which was concluded by a dainty lunch provided by the ladies.

Miss Ida Payne of Bowmanville spent Sunday at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kellett and son, Gordon, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Kellett and daughter, all of Oshawa, spent the week end with Mr. John Kellet.

One of the features of the Sunday evening service in the United church was lantern slides showing pictures representing the birth, life and crucifixion of Christ. These were put on through the kindness of Mr. Horton, who put on some lantern slides in I.O.O.F. hall a short time ago. The church was well filled and the pastor extended a cordial invitation for all to be present at the Mothers' Day service to be held on Sunday, May 8th.

Richardson Bros. have installed another gas tank which will make three varieties of gas to handle. They have had a rushing business up to date having sold eight cars last week including one truck. Among the recent purchasers were: Mr. Archie Wilson, Franklin, Mr. Harry O'Brian, Brunswick, and Dr. G. W. McNeil.

Mr. William Rennie has put on a new steel roof on his "Latonia" hotel which improves the appearance very much. The roof was put on by Mr. N. D. Chambers.

Mr. Richard Staples, who has been confined to his bed for some weeks suffering from a stroke, is improving in health again. Several customers are endeavouring to purchase this hardware business but nothing definite has been done up till now.

Mrs. W. J. Goheen is in poor health with heart trouble.

Miss Luella Scott of Cobourg was home at her fathers, Mr. T. Scott, for the week end.

KEEPING IN TRIM

Jack Dempsey, who is to be given a chance to "come back" by Tex Rickard, continues to keep in trim, working on a regular schedule, part of which is a five-mile jog, mowing the lawn and spading the garden.

CRICKET CLUB AT LAKEFIELD

GAMES SCHEDULED.

LAKEFIELD, May 4.—Cricket is being revived in the village and the following have already signified their intention of playing: T. Watson, A. B. Burrows, D. Fitzgerald, C. S. Tanner, G. J. Elmsley, F. Remnant, E. Robertson, J. W. Ridpath and E. M. Grier.

Arrangements have been made with The Grove to use their grounds for practicing and the following schedule of games have been drawn up for May and June.

May 10—Lakefield vs Grove.
May 17—Lakefield vs Grove.
May 31—Lakefield vs Peterboro.
June 11—Lakefield vs Peterboro.

The revival of cricket will be welcomed by many of the sporting enthusiasts. Lakefield was noted for its cricketers in its earlier days but the game was finally crowded out by baseball and football.

DAVIS LEADS.

Lead Over Newman of 165 Points in Billiards Match.

MANCHESTER, Eng., May 4. Canadian Press Cable. — In his professional billiards championship match of 16,000 points with Tommy Newman, J. Davis led at the conclusion of last night's play by 165 points.

Newman during the past few days has usually been three hundred points ahead of Davis. The scores were: Davis to play, 10,666; Newman, 10,501.

RUNS TO 3,569.

LONDON, May 4. — Canadian Press Cable. — Using his newly invented "pendulum cannon stroke," Tommy Reece ran his unfinished break of 2268 points made on Saturday to 3569 in last night's play in his match with Arthur Peall, and was still in play. He therefore has an excellent chance of exceeding his record break of 3964 points, made with his pendulum stroke on April 30th.

SOFTBALL NOTES

MARMORA, May 4.—At a meeting held at the A.Y.P.A. rooms on Monday evening to discuss the formation of a Girls' Softball League, delegates were present from the A.Y.P.A. and C.G.I.T. of Marmora, the Sunnyside Club of Deloro and also from Springbrook. It was decided to wait a week before organizing so that other girls' organizations who feel like joining may be given the chance to attend. It is hoped therefore at a meeting in the same rooms convened for next Monday, that organization will be proceeded with, registration of players carried out and a schedule drawn up.

WARWICK BEATEN.

Defeated By Eight Points in Opener of Cricket Season.

LONDON, Eng., May 4.—(Canadian Press).—In an opening fixture of the English county cricket season Lancashire defeated Warwick by eight wickets. Warwick scored in their two appearance at bat 363 and 64. Norman Kilner scored 60 and Bates 66 in Warwickshires first innings. Lancashire scored 285 and 43 for two wickets. The feature of the champion county's first innings was Hallow's well played 65.

HOW TO REDUCE VARICOSE VEINS

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way.

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will help reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first class drug store and apply it night and morning as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is a harmless, yet most powerful germicide and two ounces last a very long time. Indeed, so powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic cases of Piles are often entirely absorbed and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. Bond's Drug Store, McDermid Co., Ltd., and McDermid & Jury sells lots of it.

STARS DEFEAT NEWARK BEARS

Collect Ten Hits Off Swaney For 3 To 2 Victory.

GAMES POSTPONED.

NEW YORK, May 4. — Canadian Press. — The Syracuse Stars nosed out Newark 3 to 2 yesterday. Syracuse collected ten hits off Swaney, which was three more than the Bears got from Haid, and enough to win.

Otherwise the International schedule was at a standstill yesterday, as follows:

Jersey City at Buffalo, rain.
Reading at Toronto, rain.
Baltimore at Rochester, wet grounds.

DUTCH TO HOLD TITLE NET PLAY

Sanction Granted For World's Championship Play in 1928.

NOT AT OLYMPICS.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Holland will conduct an officiar world's championship tennis tournament in 1928, but not in conjunction with the 1928 Olympic games. This was settled at the last meeting of the International Lawn Tennis Federation in France, it was divulged Monday by the U. S. L. T. A.

Over the objection of Holland and Belgium, a resolution was adopted not to take part in the Olympic games "until such time as full satisfaction shall have been obtained." It is contended that the I. L. T. F. did not obtain "satisfaction on all the requirements placed before the International Olympic Committee by the previous meeting."

An application to conduct an official championship tournament in Greece in 1927 was rejected, while another from Jugoslavia was withdrawn. Great Britain submitted the proposition which gave the 1928 championships to Holland.

DOCTORS ADVICE TO THE SICK

Wash Away All Poisons in Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Bowels Before Breakfast

To feel your best day in and day out, no more headaches, indigestion, gas on stomach, bilious attacks, rheumatism, kidney pains, bad breath, you must bathe your self inside. Start today by taking one Tanol Calomel tablet before meals or two at bedtime, then next morning drink a glass or two of hot water to wash from the stomach, liver, kidney and bowels all the previous day's waste, poison and toxins before more food is taken in. Get a few Tanol tablets from F. C. Weber, Charlotte street, Peterborough. They are harmless to take, do not nauseate, no bad after effects, no salts or seidlitz next morning, like ordinary calomel. Then you can eat better, sleep better, work better, think better and look better.

YANKEES WIN SECOND GAME

Break Tie in Eighth For 6-4 Victory Over the Senators.

WHITE SOX LOSE.

NEW YORK, May 4 (Canadian Press).—The Yankees made it two straight from Washington, taking yesterday's game at the capital, 6 to 4. With the score four all in the eighth, Combs scored when Stewart knocked down Gehrig's rap, but failed to get any of the three on base. Koenig then was forced in with another run.

With Manager Harris and Walter Johnson already on the bench, due to injuries, the Senators were further crippled yesterday when it developed that Goslin had pleurisy and Rice was suffering from sinus trouble. West played left in place of Goslin, while Tucker took over Rice's position in right field.

At St. Louis the Cleveland Indians, smarting from a ninth inning rally defeat by the Browns Monday, came back to even up the four-game series with a five to three victory. Pitcher Buckeye of the Indians went the full route, striking out five Browns, while Ballou, who started for St. Louis, relinquished the mound after six innings, in which he yielded eight hits and four runs. Van Gilder held the Indians to one hit, a homer by Neise, in the last three innings.

Tigers Break Streak.

The winning streak of the Chicago White Sox, which had extended through seven successive games, ended at Detroit when the Tigers took the second game of the series, 5 to 1. Rip Collins outpitched Red Faber, whose wildness was costly in the fifth inning, when the Tigers clinched the game with three runs. Faber walked three batters.

The Athletics made it two straight over the Boston Red Sox at Philadelphia, winning by a score of 7 to 2. The Mackmen hit Slim Harriss, their old team-mate, for six runs in the first three innings. Cobb sent two runs over the plate in the first inning on a double, and a cluster of four hits behind a base on balls accounted for a quartette of runs in the third. Howard Ehmke did not allow a hit until Jacobson singled with one out in the fifth inning.

NEW ARRANGEMENT FOR HANDLING OF TOURISTS' AUTOMOBILES BETWEEN COBOURG AND ROCHESTER.

The Ontario Car Ferry Company of the Canadian National Railways takes pleasure in annouricing that arrangements have been completed for the handling of tourists' automoolles between Cobourg, Ont. and Genesee Dock, N.Y., via the steamers Ontario No. 1 and Ontario No. 2, commencing with the scheduled summer service on May 28th.

This new arrangement will undoubtedly prove of great convenience to automobile tourists who will be able to take full advantage of this short and pleasant direct route between Central Ontario and Central New York State. Only a limited number of cars may be handled on any one trip of the steamers, and in view of the anticipated heavy traffic, it will be necessary to make reservations in advance through the Agent at Cobourg. The charge for each automobile will be $12.50 each way.

Tourists will also require to comply with the regulations of the Canadian and United States Customs resyecting the export and entry of their cars. 2d-4-11.

DEVOTION ENDS AT CATHEDRAL

Forty Hour Services Most Successful—Closed By Bishop.

CHURCH CROWDED.

The Devotion of the Forty Hours had a very successful final service at St. Peter's Cathedral last night, celebrated by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, assisted by a large number of priests from the city churches and the surrounding parishes. St. Peter's Choir and the choir of St. Peter's High School and St. Mary's Convent chanted the responses to the Litany of the Saints, and Father Finn's Chancel Choir, fully robed, was also in attendance, singing the "Pange Lingua" and other Latin hymns during the progress of the Procession of the Blessed Sacrament.

Little girls in white gowns and veils attended in a body for the final ceremony, witnessed by a packed church, of one of the most successful Forty Hours' Devotions in the history of the Cathedral. His Lordship addressed the congregation briefly at the conclusion of the services.

CITY DEMANDS ITS BONDS BACK

St. Catharines Issues Writ Against Hydro For Radial Debentures.

AGREEMENT VOID.

St. Catharines, Ont., May 4. Canadian Press. — A. C. Kingstone, city solicitor for St. Catharines, has issued a writ against the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, demanding the return of the Hydro Radial debentures deposited in connection with the proposed Hydro radial line from Port Credit to St. Catharines. The writ cites that "the bylaws and agreements have been declared void and are of no further force and the power house for which the debentures were so deposited have become impossible of performance."

FIGHT SUNDAY WORK BY CHEESE MAKERS

Lord's Day Alliance Leaders Told Investigation Will Be Made.

TORONTO, May 4.— Complaints from the Lord's Day Alliance regarding Sunday operating by Ontario cheese factories has resulted in assurance from the Department of Agriculture that an immediate investigation of the situation will be made with a view to determining whether circumstances justify such operation or not. George H. Barr, head of the Dairying Branch of the department, will conduct the survey.

Rev. A. R. Terryberry and Rev. Dr. C. H. Huestis, officials of the Alliance, carried their complaint to Queen's Park yesterday, waiting first on Attorney-General Price, and later on officials of the Agricultural Department. Their contention was that Sunday operation of cheese factories was unnecessary. In this connection they pointed out that only some fifty plants of the hundreds in the Province were, in their opinion, offending.

The attitude of plants, it is learned, is that seven-days-per-week work must be done, if the high standards in cheese set by the Government are to be attained. Shutting down their plants on Sunday would, they claim, result in a falling off in the quality of their product, with an attendant loss of trade.

CARD OF THANKS.
Mr. Edward Vinette and family wish to thank all friends who assisted them in their sad bereavement; and also for the many spiritual and floral offerings.

WEDDING BELLS.

MORROW—O'BRIEN.

The new Corpus Christi church saw its first wedding ceremony at 9 o'clock on Tuesday morning when Josephine Mary, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John O'Brien, of Peterborough, was united in marriage to Thomas Howard Morrow, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Morrow, of this city. Rev. Father S. McGrath officiated. Roses had been placed on the altar and during the signing of the register and at the offertory Miss Mae Morrow sang sweetly. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Martin A. O'Brien, was prettily gowned in flesh tone chiffon and silk lace with hat and shoes to match and carried Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley. The only attendant was Miss Helen O'Brien, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, wearing a becoming gown of peach taffeta, a turquoise blue hat and shoes to match. Her flowers were roses. Mr. Willard Morrow, brother of the groom, acted as best man. The ushers were Mr. Clarence Morrow and Mr. Jack O'Brien. Following a wedding reception Mr. and Mrs. Morrow left for a honeymoon trip to New York, the bride travelling in a red and black gown, a black faille coat trimmed with monkey fur and hat and shoes to match. On their return they will reside on Lark street, this city. Out-of-town guests were present from St. John, N.B., Detroit, Peterborough, Brockville, Montreal and Port McNichol.—Toronto Star.

46 COUNTRIES IN CONFERENCE

Economic Conditions Under Discussion at Meeting Called By League.

TO PROVIDE GUIDANCE.

GENEVA, May 4.— (Canadian Press.)—The great International Economic Conference, aiming to stabilize economic conditions throughout the world, opened to-day in Reformation Hall with delegates representing forty-six nations present.

In his opening address former Premier Theunis, of Belgium, the president, said there never had been a conference so comprehensively qualified to study the problems which jeopardize "two precious boons for which mankind is ever yearning, peace and prosperity."

The conference, he said, must help maintain peace by providing guidance in the economic field in the face of the difficulties which made the world uncomfortably dangerous and sensitive.

QUIET CAMPAIGN WAGED IN QUEBEC

Polling Only Fortnight Away, But Little Activity Is Yet Shown.

MONTREAL, May 4. Canadian Press. — With polling due to take place on May 16, and the speaking itineraries of opposing party leaders still unannounced, the present campaign for supremacy in the Quebec Legislature, beyond the delivering of speeches by the candidates and would be candidates, may be described as dormant.

Hon. L. A. Taschereau was in Quebec on Monday. According to information locally he is likely to remain there for a few days and then sally forth for more meetings. He spoke in his own constituency of Montmorency on Sunday. The leader of the opposition, Arthur Sauve, left for Quebec last night, to hold meetings in the vicinity of the Ancient Capital. He has no fixed schedule.

Daylight saving time will not affect the elections, according to an official notice sent out by L. P. Geoffrion, Clerk of Crown in Chancery, municipalities which have put their clocks on to "summer time" will hold nominations next Monday between one and three o'clock, and polling stations will be opened from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on the new schedule. Localities which have not advanced their clocks will follow the regular election time, viz., nominations from 12 m. to 2 p.m., and polling from 9 a.m., to 6 p.m.

STOCK'S BREAD IS ON DISPLAY

Ingredients Used in Each Loaf Also Exhibited in Examiner Window.

PURITY STRESSED.

That bread is a wholesome and nourishing food is shown by the ingredients used in the forming of the "staff of life," which are now on display in the front window of The Examiner office. The exhibit is sponsored by the Stock Bread Company and each part of the mixture that goes to make up the bread is shown separately in small containers. Not only does the exhibit show how pure bread is, but it also makes an attractive view for the public eye.

The following things are used to make up this necessary food: Fleischmann's yeast, pure salt, pure cane sugar, Arkady yeast food, condensed milk, choice hard wheat flour, malt, and Crisco shortening. In the window are shown also two loaves of white bread; the famous loaf baked on the bricks and another appetizing loaf called Stock's home-made.

This window shows that bread should be eaten a great deal more than it is at the present time, as an aid to health. It contains only ingredients necessary for a life free from all the ailments that arise from excessive eating of rich food that contains none of these vitamines. From this one company, eight thousand loaves of bread (brown and white) are sent out daily to Peterborough and the surrounding district.

T. Dutton, of Stocks' Bakery, told The Examiner this morning that they are going to make a specialty of this window during the week and display the different brands of bread that the company produces. This exhibit will include brown bread, raisin loaves, rolls, and the different shapes of the white loaf, so the public will be able to see exactly what they are purchasing, and the ingredients that go to make up the "popular food" that so many, if not all, the people in the world eat, to help maintain their most cherished longing, or in other words, good health.

DOG OWNERS AWAY BEHIND

Have Taken Out Only 140 Licenses So Far This Year.

DOG CATCHER OUT.

Dog owners in this city have been very tardy in getting their new dog tags. Last year at this time the police department had issued 370 dog licenses and to date only 140 have been issued.

A dog catcher was appointed today, and Chief Constable Newhall told The Examiner this morning that unless the citizens who own dogs get the tags immediately, they will be brought before Magistrate Langley.

Alderman Nagle Phelan this morning appointed Mark Pengelly as dog catcher, and the official custodian of stray canines started out determined to round up all those running at large.

POLICE SEIZE RUM VESSEL

Consternation Reigns Among Bootleggers of Port Colborne.

"EXPORT" LIQUOR.

PORT COLBORNE, May 4. —Consternation reigns in the rum colony here as the result of the seizure by Mounted Police on Monday night of the big cabin cruiser the Doctor, with a cargo of "export liquor. It is charged the boat was operating in violation of the Canadian Customs laws.

The Doctor is one of three American rum boats placed under seizure by the Mounties during the past day or two at this port. No information as to the seizures could be secured from the local Customs office or from officers Graham and Chishold of the Mounted Police, who made the seizure.

The Doctor is reputed to be owned by 'Paddy Fix" of Buffalo. Her liquor cargo was removed to the local Customs office. It is stated here abouts that the Doctor loaded at Whitby and then procceded here. It operated out of Port Maitland all last summer.

Conditions Governing Tickets For The New Free 'Whippet'

In connection with the NEW "WHIPPET" COACH which we are giving away absolutely FREE, we respectfully beg to advise that each person is entitled to ONE ticket only.

If anyone signs more than one ticket their tickets obviously will be nullified.

Each day's tickets are being carefully checked, and it has already come to our notice that a few have signed two tickets, due, very likely, to the fact that two instead of one had been handed to them by mistake.

If anyone remembers having signed two tickets, please advise us so that the mistake may be rectified.

We are giving this car away absolutely FREE and unconditionally, and we are extremely anxious that everyone be given a fair and even chance.

In order to have an opportunity to win this car the person filling in the ticket must be present.

All the cards in connection with the contest will be thoroughly investigated before the car is delivered, so that if anyone who, for any reason whatever, does not qualify according to the rules it must be understood that the car will not be delivered to them.

The Motor Exhibit will continue every day and evening of this week. The public are cordially invited to attend.

BRITISH PRESS CHARACTERIZES U.S. ATTITUDE AS "MELLONISM" AND CONCURS IN CABINET NOTE

All Papers Uphold Government in Questioning Statements.

NOT DOMESTIC MATTER.

Standard Says Traducing Conduct of Friendly Nation By Minister Not Unofficial.

LONDON, May 5. (United Press.)—"Mellonism" was the word coined to-day by the London press to describe the attitude of the United States Treasury Secretary towards war debts. The editorials were unanimous in agreeing that the British debt note delivered this week was a "well deserved rebuke" to Secretary Mellon.

The afternoon and evening papers alike joined in the barrage of support for the British note which questioned the accuracy of statements made by Mellon in a letter to President John Grier Hibben, of Princeton University.

The principal complaint was that Mellon had implied that Britain was receiving more from her debtors than she was paying to the United States. Britain all along has reiterated the war debt policy stated first by Lord Balfour, that Britain would exact no more from her debtors than was required to pay the British debt to the United States.

Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg, the independent Conservative Evening Standard said, may call Mellon's statement to President Hibben a domestic affair, but "when a Cabinet minister in high position publishes a letter in which he traduces the financial conduct of a friendly government, it ceases to be either a privileged or an unofficial document. That is especially so when as in this case there are third parties eagerly listening, and not well informed and inclined to be suspicious. Mellonism in such circumstances is likely to prove highly explosive."

The Standard editorial was accepted as having revealed the major purpose of the British note to get the British position before her continental debtors ,and thus to counteract the effect of Mellon's implication that Britain was profiting from the debt arrangement.

CAR DAMAGED IN BAD SMASH

Hits Front of Store When the Driver Tries To Avoid Truck.

NO PERSON HURT.

What might have resulted in a serious accident occurred last night when a small roadster driven by Jack McClelland crashed into the front of Atkins' second hand store on Charlotte street, in order to avoid hitting a truck owned by the proprietor and driven by his son, Benny Atkins, who, police say, possesses no license.

Both cars were going west on Charlotte street when the truck driver made an attempt to turn into the alley adjoining the store, and though he claims to have put out his hand to signal to the other car, witnesses who saw the accident say that he turned without any warning whatsoever. McClelland, in swerving to go around the truck, lost control of the car, and, even though the brakes were applied, his car jumped the curb and smashed into the cement work below the plate glass window with such an impact as to dislodge a huge piece of the granite.

McClelland's car was the only one damaged ,for the other driver, realizing his danger, turned the truck and proceeded along Charlotte street. One wheel of the roadster was completely smashed, the headlights broken, axles twisted and the right front fender broken. When the car hit the curb the impact was such that a new tire was blown out. Neither of the two boys in the car was injured.

Fireman Arrested At Fire Charged With Starting It

PERTH AMBOY, N.J., May 5 (United Press).—While fearlessly playing the nozzle of a hose upon a fire in a garage yesterday, Raymond Jenson, 29, a volunteer fireman, was arrested by the police on a charge of arson in connection with the fire which he was fighting.

According to the police Jensen was seen in the vicinity of the fire just before it started.

Jensen was arraigned and released on $2,000 bail, pending action of the grand jury.

New Break in the Levee Will Cover Waterproof

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 5. (United Press.) — A break in the west bank of the Mississippi, opened at Winter Quarter, 30 miles south of Vicksburg, Miss., United States engineers were advised.

As the water rushed through a crevasse 150 feet wide at Winter Quarter, the levee at Villa Clara was abandoned by workers who had battled for a week to save the embankment. A break at Villa Clara is only a matter of minutes, the engineers were informed.

BRITISH TARS WOUNDED BY CHINESE FIRE

Three Injured When Chinese Fire on H.M.S. Kiawo.

FIRING CONTINUES.

Japan's New Ministry Confirms Policy Towards Forthcoming Naval Conference.

(By United Press.)

LONDON, May 5. — Three British sailors were wounded when Chinese fired on H. M. S. Kiawo and a destroyer, an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Hong Kong said yesterday. One of the men was wounded when field guns on shore were fired at the destroyer. Two were hit when the Kiawo went into action against Chinese guns for the second time this week.

Firing Continues.

SHANGHAI, May 4—Indiscriminate firing on British warships on the Yangtse river continues. The gunboat Cockchafer was under rifle fire yesterday near Nanking, while convoying steamers, but there were no casualties. The destroyer Wanderer was fired on with rifles at Kianyin, a member of the crew being slightly wounded. Both warships returned the fire.

U. S. Destroyer.

Confirms Policy.

TOKIO, May 4.—At a conference yesterday of the new ministry, which was formed on April 19, it was formally agreed to confirm the policy adopted by the previous government towards the forthcoming naval limitation conference at Geneva between the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

(At the time Japan accepted President Coolidge's proposals for a tri-partite naval limitation conference, the Japanese foreign office was quoted as having said that the government was prepared to co-operate with any powers seeking naval reduction on a basis of fair ratios.)

Interview Refused.

LONDON, May 4.— A lawyer engaged to defend Mme. Borodin and other Russians about to be tried with her on charges of conspiracy against the Northern Chinese government, has not been permitted to speak to the prisoners, says a Pekin despatch to the Daily Express.

The Westminster Gazette's Pekin correspondent, reporting the arrival at Pekin of Mme. Borodin and the other prisoners, says they were under military escort and a strong guard. It was stated that the northern authorities had not yet decided whether these prisoners, who were arrested when the soviet steamer Pamiat Lenina was seized, should be tried together with the agitators captured when the soviet embassy compound in Pekin was raided by Marshal Chang Tso Lin's agents on April 6.

At police headquarters in Pekin, according to the Westminster Gazette despatch, it was said that documents seized on the Pamiat Lenina proved conclusively that those accused were engaging in plots against the Northern Chinese government.

RACE CALLED OFF.

Weather Conditions Cause Postponement of 10 Mile Run.

Owing to the weather conditions, the race between George Whetung and Dick Bates will be postponed until Saturday afternoon at three o'clock when they will run from Lakefield post office to the Yeotes tobacco store on George street.

U. S. ANSWER TO DEBT NOTE IS VERY SHORT

Says Mellon Letter Entirely Domestic—No Desire For Exchanges.

BRITISH NOT CRITICAL.

Had No Wish To Enter U. S. Controversy—Forced By Misrepresentations.

WASHINGTON, May 5. Canadian Press. — Britain has sought an official restatement from the United States government arising from the letter of Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, to President Hibben of Princeton University, regarding the British war debt, but Frank B. Kellogg, secretary of state, in a two paragraph note, has replied that the discussion was purely domestic and no desire for diplomatic exchanges is entertained.

To the opinion expressed in the British note that Mr. Mellon's letter was in some instances inaccurate and that some declaration seemed advisable "to remove the unfortunate impression that has been created," Secretary Mellon countered with a lengthy statement devoted to the defense of his Hibben communication, and reiteration that cancellation of debts would place an unjust burden upon the people of the United States.

NO CRITICISM.

LONDON, May 5. Canadian Press. —The British government, an official said, had no criticism to make of the brief reply made to its note by Frank B. Kellogg, the United States Secretary of State.

Britain had no desire to enter a United States controversy over the war debts question, it is stated here, but the issue was forced by what is still stoutly maintained in government circles, to be Secretary Mellon's "misrepresentations."

These, it is asserted, were creating a grave situation on the continent of Europe, and could only be contradicted by a full statement of the British viewpoint in a formal note to the United States government. The note, now delivered, it is believed, cannot escape the attention of Great Britain's continental debtors.

It is pointed out as a fact that the British government took no action regarding the Mellon - Hibben letter until now (the letter was given out March 16) is evidence of Britain's desire not to be precipitate. The British government, it is asserted, had a clear opportunity to "expose Mr. Mellon's mistakes" weeks ago, but the controversy was then regarded as a purely domestic United States affair.

PLANS TO HELP FLOOD VICTIMS

Red Cross Will Give Assistance at Brandon.

CONDITIONS SERIOUS.

WINNIPEG, May 5 (Canadian Press).—Financial and other assistance from the Red Cross is to be rushed to the flood victims at Brandon, Manitoba, if conditions warrant, Major J. F. Forbes, the secretary, announced before leaving for Brandon to confer with the civic authorities. The action was in response to an appeal from Brandon Red Cross officials, who stated that conditions were serious enough to demand attention.

Reports to-day indicate that west of Brandon and north of Virden, Man., conditions are assuming a serious aspect, rains having swollen the Little Saskatchewan River at Minnedosa, Man., and the Ochre, while the waters of Bear Creek, at Piapot, Sask., have washed out several bridges and damaged roads in the district. In the lowlands near Virden several families have been made homeless by the floods.

Small Cafeteria Trays Found Costly In London

LONDON May 5. — London cafeteria frays are to be enlarged. Managers here, where the cafeteria idea is still in the early stages of development, began with sort of tea tray affairs, and have found by experience that those were entirely too small to meet the daily needs of their hungry customers. As a consequence a great deal of China has been broken.

But the trays are being enlarged, not necessarily as a remedy to save the china—which is exceptionally cheap here—but as an inducement to the cafeteria patrons to take more food on their trays, thus improving business.

Ultra-Violet Rays Are Used To Transmit Voice New Device In Italy Is Said To Give Privacy

ROME, May 5—Lecturing to-day before the Academy, Italy's foremost scientific institution, Professor Quirimo Majorana, the scientist whose early researches in the wireless transmission of speech earned him the title of the "Father of Wireless Telephony," announced the invention of wireless transmission of speech by means of ultra-violet rays.

His method, which he said had proved successful over a distance of ten miles, has the advantage over all other systems of being absolutely secret and must, therefore, have important application in war.

Professor Majorana's apparatus consists of a mercury vapor lamp, the light of which is modulated by means of a microphone. Modulated ultra-violet rays are projected in a beam toward the receiving station by means of reflectors.

At the receiving end they fall on a photo-electric cell of sodium and potasium which transforms them into electric currents of varying intensity. These currents, after being amplified in thermoionic valves, are led to a microphone which transforms them into speech again.

Over the distance of ten miles, said Professor Majorana, this system proved successful beyond all hopes, giving a truly remarkable clearness of audition. The method is secret in the sense that the voice or other signals cannot be intercepted by any one who does not hapepn to be on straight line between the sending and receiving stations.

UNIT REACHES FULL STRENGTH

Machine Gun Company Signs On Enough Recruits—Men Of Good Calibre.

ANOTHER ROUTE MARCH.

Enough recruits were received last night by the 3rd company, 4th Battalion, C.M.G.C., to complete the establishment. The unit, which is now up to strength, is concentrating this season on limber and pack drill, studying the loading and transportation of these extremely useful weapons. Shooting and drill in the handling of the guns in action is, of course, not being neglected.

Officers and men of the machine gunners are displaying great aptitude and interest in their training. The recruits come up to the standard set by their seniors in the service, and a good showing is sure to be made at the inspection by General Emsley during the period at camp.

Next Wednesday evening the company will march out with the Peterborough Rangers in the second route march of the season. Plans for the coming joint camp of the two units are being formulated.

NEW PLANS LAID TO SAVE TWO MEN

One-Hour Strike Planned To Help Sacco and Vanzetti.

NEW YORK May 5. — A one-hour stopping of work in New York, involving at least 200,000 garment workers, cloak and sack makers, barbers and other laborers, is being planned for May 26 by the Sasso-Vanzetti liberation committee..

ASK JUSTICE.

BOSTON, May 5. — What was expected to prove one of the most human documents ever penned by men in the face of death, was prepared for presentation to Governor Fuller yesterday as the next move in the six year fight to save Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeon Vanzetti from the electric chair.

In their cells at Dedham jail, the two internationally known liberals, fighting of a common cause, have collaborated in the painstaking task of preparing with their own hands their personal appeal "for justice."

They will not ask to be pardoned for they say they have committed no crime.

Submission of the petition by Attorney William G. Thompson, chief defense counsel, to the governor, may represent the final action of the defense in behalf of the condemned men, who are scheduled to die in the chair during the week of July 10.

LYFORD REMANDED.

Man Charged With Wounding Wife Will Come Up On May 13.

TORONTO, May 5. — (Canadian Press.)— Henry Lyford, charged with wounding his wife Clara, with intent to do her bodily harm, was remanded in custody until May 13, when he appeared in county police court today. Lyford, according to the police, shot his wife while he was lying in ambush for another man.

MORE BREAKS IN LOUISIANA

WARNINGS ISSUED.

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 5 (AP) —The charging Mississippi River tonight rapidly was completing the devastation of Northeastern Louisiana started by its tributaries.

Sweeping through its banks at two more places yesterday between Vicksburg and Natchez, the river was sending roaring torrents into Tensas parish, north and south of the town of St. Joseph. These slowly were reaching out to inundate that and other towns and to meet the floods racing through the four crevasses opened Sunday at Glasscocks, immediately south of Natchez, and the one created Tuesday at Cabine Teele plantation north of Vicksburg.

Save for narrow ridges running through Franklin and West Carroll parishes and Ouachita and Morehouse parishes, water now covers or soon will cover the whole of the five thousand square miles in the funnel bounded on the north by Arkansas, on the west and east by the Ouachita and Mississippi and on the south by the Red and Old Rivers.

Pin Faith on Levees

While backwaters long since have driven a large percentage of the population of the nine affected parishes to refugee concentration points, many other thousands have pinned their faith on the Mississippi levees and clung to their homes.

Warned by telephone and aeroplane, these began moving out Tuesday night and the human stream continued on the move today although all reports indicated there was no wild dash before the water as it crept slowly toward nearly a dozen towns whose populations had been augmented by hundreds of refugees.

WALKERS PAID BOTH PARTIES FOR SUPPORT

$250,000 IN THREE YEARS.

Some Was Cost of Watching Proceedings at Ottawa and Getting Legal Advice.

WINDSOR, Ont., May 5 (Canadian Press).—An account headed "protecting trade marks" in the books of Hiram Walker and Sons, Walkerville distillers, covered payments to fight for Government liquor control and against prohibition, small payments to political parties, and payments for obtaining legal advice and "watching things at Ottawa."

This was stated to the Royal Customs Commission this morning by Clement King, Director of Hiram Walker and Sons.

The amount of the payments charged to "protecting trade marks" over about three years, was approximately $183,000. With certain payments charged in the books to "Distillers' Association" they totalled approximately $250,000. Mr. King said that the distillers were "more or less pestered by politicians."

"Your policy was to support the candidates who supported you?" Hon. N. W. Rowell asked Mr. King.

"I think that is the policy of all of us," was the reply.

Mr. King said that the political contributions were made irrespective of party.

"Do the payments include sums for fighting prohibition?"

"Yes."

CAUSE OF CRASH IS INVESTIGATED

Ten Airmen Killed in Last Two Weeks By Flying "Jinx."

TWO ON TUESDAY.

NORFOLK, Va., May 5 (United Press).—A board of inquiry yesterday was investigating the cause of an airplane crash Tuesday, which brought the death toll of navy flyers near the Hampton Roads navy air base to ten in the last two weeks.

Lieut.-Commander Hardy B. Page, of Washington, D.C., and Lieut. Russell V. Pollard, of Hampton Roads, were the latest victims of the navy flying "jinx" in this locality.

Their navy seaplane, which Pollard was piloting, got out of control 1,000 feet in the air, spiraled downward for 500 feet, went into a sideslip and crashed near the Norfolk municipal pier, hardly a hundred feet from a safe water landing. The ship burst into flames with the occupants trapped and charred beyond recognition before they could be extricated.

Pollard, who served as an aviator during the war, leaves a wife and child. Page, also leaving a widow, was in his second day of air training preparatory to being stationed at Pensacola, Fla. Until this week he had acted as aide to the judge advocate-general of the navy.

RESCUE WORK MAIN CONCERN

Craft of Every Available Type Used in Flooded Areas.

50,000 TO BRING OUT.

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 5 (Canadian Press).—The rescue of 50,000 men, women, and children, thousands of them cornered by repeated breaks in Mississippi levees during the past four days, became the immediate problem today of the great relief machine of Louisiana.

Craft of almost every type, from the lumbering river steamer to the flat boat propelled by an outboard motor, were busy in wide stretches of Northeastern Louisiana, moving the homeless to concentration camps in Louisiana and Mississippi.

Many swift seaplanes of the navy roared over the most isolated inland places to locate refugees clinging to house tops, trees, and tops of promontories projecting above the swirling flood waters.

Heart-rending scenes are enacted as rescue goes forward. Children cling piteously to mothers, while men struggle along under the weight of treasured household possessions.

At the southern end of the flood country engineers ar endeavoring to guide the raging waters back into the Mississippi course in an effort to save a rich cane sugar belt.

The greatest relief machine in the nation's history is in position caring for the swelling ranks of homeless.

SAYS BOGUS BILLS OF LADING WERE USED TO CARRY LIQUOR SHIPMENTS ACROSS BORDER

Evidence Given By Former Shipping Clerk of Walker Distiliery.

AGREEMENT FORMED.

Estimates Profits Of One Importer at $450,000 Per Annum.

WINDSOR, Ont., May 5 (Canadian Press).—Bogus bills of lading for liquor shipments figured for the first time in the Customs probe yesterday. Evidence given by Charles H. Harwood, former shipping clerk at the distillery of Hiram Walker and Sons, Walkerville, was that arrangements were made with S. V. Beck, then Canadian National Freight Agent at Walkerville, that Beck would sign bills of lading covering shipments that were never made. The liquor, instead of being shipped to the points designated in the bills of lading, went across the Detroit River to the United States.

Mr. Harwood expressed ignorance when pressed by Hon. N. W. Rowell K.C., to tell whether or not the directors of Hiram Walker and Sons were aware of what was going on. The bills of lading purported to cover shipments made in 1923 and 1924.

"When the auditors asked about this, you referred them to the directors of the company," said Mr Rowell. "The directors must have known about it."

"I don't know whether they knew about it or not," replied Mr. Harwood. "I referred the auditors to the directors because I am a subordinate and should not give information."

The matter arose during the examination of Mr. Harwood, when Mr Rowell pointed out that there were a great many bills of lading covering liquor shipments to the "George Companies" of Montreal. Major A. E. Nash, auditor for the Commission had previously informed counsel that some of the bills of lading furnished him and covering transactions in 1923 and 1924, were not bona fide and did not refer to genuine shipments.

"Why did Mr. Beck, as agent for the railway, sign bogus bills of lading?" Mr. Rowell asked Mr. Harwood.

"How much was he paid for signing these false documents?"

"I don't know."

Mr. Rowell pointed out to the witness that his signature was on the bills with that of Mr. Beck.

"Did you have an understanding with Beck that he would sign bogus bills of lading?" asked counsel.

"No."

"Did you understand that such an arrangement had been made?" Chief Commissioner Brown asked the witness.

"Yes."

"Who told you?"

"Mr. Cooper."

"Mr. James Cooper?" asked counsel.

"Yes."

"What did he tell you?"

Mr. Harwood said that Mr. Cooper had told him to send the bills of lading up to the agent and they would be signed.

"Who was Mr. Cooper?" asked Mr Rowell.

"I understand that he was connected with the George Companies."

"Arrangements were made with Mr. Beck that he would sign fraudulent bills of lading, and you sent down and got them?" counsel asked the witness pointedly.

"Yes."

Purpose Unknown

Mr. Rowell then tried to ascertain the purpose for obtaining the false bills of lading.

"It was to cover up sales of liquor to bootleggers," suggested Commissioner W. H. Wright.

"Was it because your directors were living in the United States and did not want to become parties to shipping of liquor across the line?" asked Mr. Rowell.

The witness did not know the purpose.

"Were you profiting by it?" asked Counsel.

"Not directly," was the reply.

"Indirectly?"

"Yes. I was in with a friend across the river," said Mr. Harwood.

Mr. Rowell asked the witness how shipments purporting to be covered by these bills of lading were dealt with.

"I delivered them down to the dock," Mr. Harwood stated. There they were put in the warehouse.

"How did they get out of the warehouse?" asked counsel.

"I don't know."

"You're very ignorant about somethings today," Mr. Rowell suggested to the witness.

"Well, Mr. Cooper or the George Companies would take them from the warehouse, I suppose," Chief Commissioner Brown remarked.

Again the witness did not known.

Mr. Rowell then turned to the winter trips of the steamer Killarney which, he stated, cleared from Walk-

WOMEN WOULD MAKE TREATIES MORE LASTING

Delegate To Economic Conference Says There Would Be More Solidity.

PROPOSES PRICE FIXING.

Dutch Expert Says Europe Has Too Many Government Officials.

GENEVA, May 5 (Canadian Press) If women had sat around the treaty tables when the Great War was ended, the peace treaties would have been more imbued with the idea of solidarity, Frau Emmi Freundlich, Austrian delegates, told the International Economic Conference today.

She proposed the creation of a permanent international conference institution which would exercise control over prices. The institution should include representation of all categories of population, she said, including especially consumers and women. The latter, she claimed, had a deeper feeling than men for international solidarity.

Dr. Neumann, Dutch expert, declared that Europe must learn a lesson from the United States, where Labor gave a real return for a high wage. Europe, he said, was suffering from a plethora of public officials.

Noted Ape Builds Fire And Dies in the Flames

BERLIN, May 5. — Bajazzo, the noted ape of the international vaudeville stage, is dead, the victim of a fire that he started himself. Night after night Bajazzo would step on the stage with a rolling gait, hang his hat on a peg, tuck a napkin under his chin, light his cigarette, sup his wine and butter his bread, while the audience howled with laughter. After his last performance he was led to his straw carpeted cage. Unnoticed, he took the matchbox from his pocket and set the straw in the cage on fire. When the fire was put out, he was dead.

BROOKS CASE LEFT TO JURY

Judge Refuses To Take Indictment When Asked By Counsel.

DEFENCE BEING HEARD.

TORONTO, May 5 (Canadian Press)—Mr. Justice Logie today refused to take from the jury in the assizes the indictment against Bartlett J. Brooks for manslaughter and aiding and abetting in procuring an illegal operation on his fiancee, the late Ruth Dembner. Counsel for Brooks moved that the case be taken from the jury, (in so far as it concerned Brooks) immediately following the announcement of crown counsel that the prosecution had closed.

"After considerable argument, His Lordship said "I will go so far with you as to say the case against Brooks is weak, but I cannot say there is an entire absence of evidence such as would warrant me taking it from the jury. We will therefore go on."

Dr. Alfred Mavety, family physician of the Dembners, was called as the first defence witness and told of the condition of Ruth Dembner. The trial is proceeding.

Following the application of defence counsel to take the case from the jury, His Lordship then called on the crown counsel to answer the motion of defence.

The relations of Brooks with the girl are admitted. Crown counsel said. "If this were an innocent operation, why did he lend his name to her and call her Mrs. Brooks? He used that name to her himself. He called her up by that name. The whole thing is absolutely inconsistent with an innocent operation on woman not in the condition of approaching motherhood.

"The evidence of Inspector Miller showed that Brooks' actions fitted in to an illegal rather than legal operation. He took her to the hospital as Mrs. Brooks; when he lied so repeatedly, time after time about her in deceiving her family as to her illness and her going to the hospital and to Muskoka, is it possible that these

POLES ERECTED FOR POWER LINE

P. C. Denyes Ready To String Wire For Rural Service at Campbellford.

STORES IMPROVED.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 5. — P. C. Denyes, who has the contract for the erection of the power line from the end of present line to Curles Corner, reports the work progressing favorably. Nearly all the poles are in place and the erection of the line proper will proceed in a day or two. When completed farmers on the line will be enabled to enjoy all the comfort and convenience of electricity.

The brick block on Front street occupied by Denyes' Hardware and the Royal Cafe had settled so much that three of the plate glass windows were cracked. The building was jacked up and a cement base and entrance erected. The new windows are divided by a sash, a short distance from the top, and appear more modern than the old ones.

Macintosh Bros.' drygoods store, and H. G. Denike's grocery, have each received a fresh coat of paint.

250 Michigan Farmers Immigrated To Canada Within Six Weeks.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 5, (Canadian Press).—Heading a party of 20 farmers from Michigan, F. W. Kerr, Dominion Government immigration agent, reached Winnipeg yesterday and will shortly leave for the West to survey lands on which this party proposes to settle. Mr. Kerr stated that 250 Michigan farmers had immigrated to Canada during the past six weeks and intimated that a steady flow could be expected from the United States next year, if conditions were found satisfactory by the advance guard.

Prohibition Adversaries Note Progress Of Cause

ROME, May 5. Canadian Press —Delegates to the international league of adversaries to prohibition meeting here yesterday, were told by their president, Baron Raymond de Luze that the cause of prohibition had lost considerable ground in Canada, the U. S., and Norway during 1926.

The meeting, the eighth annual congress of the league, was inaugurated by Signor Belluzo, Italian minister of national economy, with 200 delegates present, representing the principal wine and liquor manufacturers of the world.

SONG SERVICE.

Story of "Christy's Old Organ" Read By Pastor at Cavan.

CAVAN, May 5.—On Sunday evening in Cavan United church a very interesting and enjoyable song service was given by the choir and pastor, Rev. J. A. Totten.

Mr. Totten read the pathetic story of "Christy's Old Organ," and choir sang at interludes, as the story progressed.

In the service were duets, quartettes and choruses which were rendered by members of the choir, Mr. Totten assisting in some of the numbers.

Commencing May 15th, Cavan Centre Sunday school will meet at 10.30 in the morning for the summer months. It was formerly held at 2.15.

Cavan Centre and Mount Pleasant Sunday schools have accepted the invitation of Cavan United Sunday school to join with them next Sunday, May 8th, in their 'Mothers' Day' service.

Ebenezer Sunday school will observe 'Mothers' Day' in their own church.

Mr. W. W. Staples, Lindsay, will be the special speaker at Cavan United church. Mr. Staples has been heard before in Cavan, and is always sure of a welcome. Everybody is invited to attend the service, which opens at 2.30 p.m.

MILLIONS OF FISH PLANTED IN 1926

Total of Eggs and Fish Distributed By Government Near Billion Mark.

OVER WHOLE COUNTRY.

MONTREAL, Que., May 5.—Fish eggs, fry, fingerlings, and young game fish were "planted" in Canadian waters by the hundreds of millions during 1926, by the various hatcheries operated by the Dominion Government, according to a report of these hatcheries' operations, received by E. G. Poole, sportsmen's representative of the Canadian National Railways. The majority of the fry and eggs planted were of salmon, while game fish included various species of trout planted in waters favored by Canadian sportsmen.

The report shows a total of more than 716,300,000 eggs, fry, fingerlings and older fish, up to four and five years old, placed in waters where they will be allowed to develop into the fighting game fish for which Canadian waters are famous.

Salmon eggs and fry planted included Atlantic and Pacific types of salmon cohoes, steel heads springs and albinos. Trout eggs and fry included those of speckled, loch leven, cut throat and kamloops trout. Pickerel, white fish, salmon trout and ciscoes were also packed in various waters during the year for commercial fishing as well as angling.

No planting of eggs or fish was carried out in Jasper National Park waters during the year, the report states, because a thorough investigation of the food contents of the many lakes and streams is being made by the Biological Board. When this investigation is completed and it is determined which species of game fish are best suited to the different waters, extensive planting is expected to be made to provide an additional sport for visitors to Canada's largest national park.

Excellent fishing is enjoyed in many of the lakes and streams within the park at present, Dolly Varden and rain-bow trout being taken with the fly pike are found in many of the lakes and streams and last year a large white fish was taken with rod and line in Lac Beauvert.

BALDWIN SAYS THAT NEW BILL GAINS SUPPORT

Tells Laborite Interrupted Conservatives Will Win in Election.

MEMBER SUSPENDED.

LONDON, May 5 (Associated Press).—Sneers and jeers from the Labor back-benchers punctuated Premier Baldwin's speech in the House of Commons yesterday in justification of the Trades Union Bill, and at one point in the debate the lie was passed, with the Prime Minister as the target.

As one reason for the Government sponsoring the bill, which seeks to prevent general strikes and strikes of a coercive nature, Mr. Baldwin maintained that in some unions the power was gradually getting into the hands of what is called the minority movement. This brought Labor interruptions from several quarters. There were cries of "Withdraw!" and John Beckett, member for Gateshead, sprang to his feet, and, pointing at the Premier, shouted: "Admit you are a liar!"

Member Is Suspended.

In a moment the House was in an uproar. Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, immediately moved that Beckett be suspended, and, the motion being carried, the Speaker ordered suspension for five days, and Beckett left the building.

As to the Government's mandate for the bill, Premier Baldwin explained that it was last year's general strike. But he had made no endeavor to press a bill of the kind immediately afterward, although he felt it would have been perfectly easy to force through any legislation. The chances were that then it would have been of an extreme and vindictive kind.

"I believe," he said, "that the more the bill is known in this country, the more it will be supported."

This was greeted with Labor shouts of "Wait till the general election."

This aroused the Prime Minister's ire for the first time, and he retorted: "Make this bill the principal plank in your program at the general election, if you choose, and we will defeat you, even though your slogan be 'Let London Walk.'"

Former Laborite Scored.

There was a lively interlude just before the debate adjourned until to-day, when George Spencer, who had been ousted by Labor owing to his attitude on the general strike, and who at the opening of the debate had spoken in favor of the bill, was taunted by the Laborites. As Mr. Spencer sat in the Liberal benches, Joseph Westwood (Labor, Peebles) excitedly shouted: "Look at Judas smiling there."

This was the third day of the bill's second reading, and, on the whole, the day passed much more peacefully than had been expected. But in Parliamentary circles it was predicted that something decisive in the way of opposition was in store for the final hours of the debate to-day. There were really no organized interruptions yesterday. J. H. Thomas, Labor's fighting debater, winds up for the Opposition, and Mr. Lloyd George is also expected to speak.

LADIES' AID PLANS VICTORIA DAY WORK

Bethany United Church Ladies Will Give Supper in Basement.

BETHANY, May 5. — A very interesting gathering of the Ladies' Aid of the United Church, was held at the home of Mrs. Ona Thorndyke on Wednesday afternoon. Fourteen ladies were present.

Mrs. P. C. Dawe, the newly elected president, presided. After the opening and devotional period Miss Elsie Richardson sang a solo. The secretary read the minutes of the previous meeting and the treasurer gave the financial statement of the year; both reports were adopted.

It was decided to serve supper in the basement of the church on the evening of May 24th for the convenience of those who attend the afternoon sports in the athletic park, and wish to remain for the evening entertainment.

It was also decided to hold the annual garden party some time during the first week in July. At the conclusion of the meeting Mrs. Thorndyke served a dainty supper and was assisted by Mrs. Walter Rowland. Next month the ladies are to meet at the home of Mrs. P. C. Dawe.

The Sunday school session of the United Church was held on Sunday morning, May 1st, with an attendance of 99. The orchestra was also present to lead the music. Having Sunday school in the morning is an experiment which is being tried out for a month to see if it will be more successful than the regular afternoon session during the summer months.

OLD MASTERS

I think that I shall never see
A poem lovely as a tree.

A tree whose hungry mouth is pressed
Against the earth's sweet flowing breast;

A tree that looks at God all day
And lifts her leafy arms to pray;

A tree that may in summer wear
A nest of robins in her hair;

Upon whose bosom snow has lain;
Who intimately lives with rain.

Poems are made by fools like me,
But only God can make a tree.
—Joyce Kilmer: "Trees."

MANY FISHERMEN OUT AFTER TROUT

Take Advantage of First Day of Season Being Sunday.

CAVAN, May 5. — Trout, fishing season opened on Sunday, May 1, and no time was lost in taking advantage of it.

On Sunday morning, early, cars were seen going, with fishing rods in view, to Bigelow's trout stream and by afternoon a number of cars were parked there, while the occupants were busy trying to catch the speckled trout. Doubtless at other trout creeks there were fishers just as busy.

LIQUOR VESSEL READY TO LEAVE

Ordered Released From San-Francisco By U. S. Federal Court.

START NEW MOVE.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 5. Canadian Press. — Steamed up and ready to make a quick getaway out of the Golden Gate, the whisky-laden Panaman Federalship yesterday awaited the signal to shove off after having been again ordered freed by the federal court. New complications were threatened, however, when it was reported from Washington that the prohibition department was making another attempt to hold the famous rum runner.

The ship's owners ,the Consolidated Exporters, of Vancouver, B. C., won another signal victory in federal court here yesterday, when Judge Kerrigan ordered release of the craft which two months ago was seized 270 miles at sea, and which has been since then the centre of a complicated fight, involving the state, treasury and legal departments of the government ,as well as Canadian and Panaman liquor and shipping interests.

Order not Served.

In spite of the new court order, which is the second court decree issued in her favor since her seizure, the ship was not released last night, because of failure of her attorneys to have the order served on Collector of Customs Hamilton. This step is necessary in order to have the coast guard relinquish its hold on the craft and her $1,000,000 cargo of choice whisky.

Late last night it became known that a conference was called for today among representatives of the treasury department, United States Attorney's office and counsel for the ship's owners. The purpose of the meeting was not revealed. It was hinted, however, that the treasury would make a new move to have the ship held.

ORCHESTRA CONCERT.

BAILIEBORO, May 5.—On Friday evening the Symphony Orchestra of Peterborough, under the direction of Mr. Rupert Gliddon, rendered a very high class concert in the Centreville Sunday school hall, under the auspices of the South Monaghan U.F. Y.P.O.

There was a splendid audience present to enjoy the programme, which consisted of numbers rendered by the twenty-four piece orchestra, quartettes and vocal solos, a swell as violin solos by members of the orchestra.

Miss Voila White, of Bailieboro, also added greatly to the programme by playing an instrumental and encore.

At the conclusion of the programme the ladies of the club served lunch to the members of the orchestra.

WIDOW DETERMINED.

Admits Suggesting Sash-weight as Weapon For Slaying Editor.

COURTROOM, Long Island City, N.Y., May 5 (UP)—Henry Judd Gray yesterday cast aside everything and opened the door wide upon his clandestine affair with Ruth Brown Snyder, in one desperate effort to save himself from conviction for the murder of Mrs. Snyder's husband, Albert.

Hour after hour, he sat in the witness chair, telling with great wealth of detail a story which would rival the raciest of the old French and Italian writers of his days and nights of revelry.

By his recital he drew for the jury a picture of Mrs. Snyder as a woman who punctuated her caresses while they were together with heartless discussions of how she might end the life of her husband.

She told him, Gray charged, of one attempt after another, to kill the man to whom she was married. She gave him sleeping-powders, and turned on the gas, he said. She gave him violent poisons instead of medicine for hiccoughs, and she put other poisons in his liquor, in prune whips she prepared for him, and insisted she would persist until Snyder were dead, Gray testified.

When Snyder was sick, she said "she hoped the old crab would die," Gray testified.

Mrs. Snyder sat with bowed head throughout the day, weeping a little now and then, when some particularly intimate revelation came from the lips of Gray.

Suggested Weight

Yesterday afternoon Gray testified that it was he who suggested to Mrs. Ruth Snyder a sash weight as a "suitable" instrument with which to kill her husband. He said he went to the Snyder home close to the first of March, Mrs. Snyder being alone when he arrived.

"We talked over this matter of killing Snyder," he said, "with chloroform and an instrument."

"She said 'you are going to help me aren't you,' and I said 'no, only so far as getting the chloroform.'

"Then she asked me about a suitable instrument and I suggested a sashweight.

"She told me to get the chloroform, the weight and a pair of rubber gloves and I said I would."

In their aJnuary meeting, he said, she told him her husband had recovered from a five-day attack of hiccoughs. During his illness she gave him anyodyne, she said, at the rate of a teaspoonful every hour instead of three or four drops as prescribed. She also had given Snyder bichloride of mercury tablets, instead of bismuthe, Gray testified.

"I said to her 'my God; that's deadly poison,'" Gray related, "and she replied 'that's what I thought, but it only made him vomit.'

"I asked what were the after effects and she said the mercury apparently cured the hiccoughs."

Gray then said Mrs. Snyder asked him to buy her chloral hydrate, but that he had refused.

Gray then described his meetings with Mrs. Snyder in January of this year. She came to his hotel room in the middle of the month, he said, and told him of another attempt to do away with her husband. She had placed a mercury tablet in a bottle of whiskey, she said, according to Gray, and Snyder had been made violently ill.

"I asked her when she was going to stop all this," Gray went on, "and she said not until she was through."

Honeymoon Trip

During the morning session Gray gave a detailed description of the incidents of the "honeymoon trip," and the intimacies which characterized it. It was designed to build up that portion of Gray's defense in which he maintains Mrs. Snyder, by her attentions, reduced him to such a mental and physical state of servitude to her that she completely dominated him. Under this influence, and in the physical and mental condition, his attorneys hope to show, it was impossible for Gray to resist her alleged demands that he commit murder.

Under Her Power

Gray pictured Mrs. Snyder as a woman of strong will and of unusual physical stamina. He described himself as exhausted by the pace of galety she set for him, while she thrived.

Gray recounted another alleged murder attempt by Mrs. Snyder. At one time she gave Snyder liquor while he was puttering around his motor car. She hoped to get him dazed, turn on the motor and lock him in to die from carbon monoxide fumes. But Snyder left the garage before anything happened.

After Christmas, said Gray, he visited the Snyder home and saw their Yule tree. He played with Lorraine, Snyder's little daughter, and ate lunch with Mrs. Snyder and her mother.

Later in the day, he said, Mrs. Snyder asked him if he wouldn't shoot her husband. "I said of course not," Gray testified. "I told her I had never shot a gun in my life and was not going to begin with murder."

Gray said he never met Snyder during his twenty-month romance with the latter's wife.

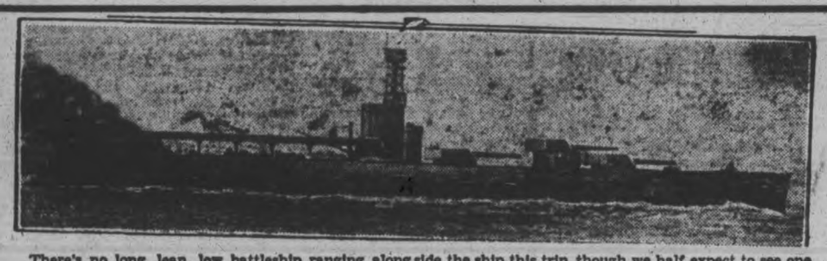
An Ex-Buck Private Goes Back to France



There's no long, lean, low battleship ranging along side the ship this trip, though we half expect to see one as we get into waters that were once the hunting-ground of the subs. The German navy and U-boats are caput.

Dear Mac:

How the galloping dominoes led by Little Joe from Kokomo would roll on that smooth linoleum on the floor of the smoking room of the liner! And wouldn't this round, polished oak table with its complement of soft, leather-backed chairs be a sweet place to stage a game of Black Jack! The accomodations are perfect — if only you were all along.

There are several nooks where it would be easy to gather around close to do some blue harmony on something like "Didn't Know the Way To" (shades of the dead past!) or that old favorite, "You're in the Army Now." A well-inspired quartet could then swing into the various "Hinky Dinky Parley Voos"—whether the demoiselle came from Armentieres or Bully Grenay. And there might be a sentimental number, too, like the one about the boy who wanted a girl like the one that married dear old dad, or, if there's an artillerymas present, this one:

"Oh, it's hie, oh, hee,
The field artiler-eee,
Shout out your numbers loud and strong,
Where'er 've go
You will always know
The eighteen-pounders are rolling along!"

And, of course, if a Scottie steps into the concert the end will come with a rendition of:

"If the army or the navy
Ever win to Heaven's ease,
They will find the streets are guarded
By a regiment with bare knees."

And no one will dare order, "Pipe Down."

Once upon a time there was a private soldier named K—— K—— (censored), who hailed from Peterborough. He was on his way back home on board one of His Majesty's majestic scows, and became infected with mal de mer. For five long days he lay down under a pile of packs to keep away from the ever-paging sergeant (a popular 4th Batt. M.-G. officer has a snap of him). When he emerged he was wan, pale and shaky.

"'Smatter?" demanded a friendly soldier. "Sick?"

"Sick! Why, boy, I'm so sick I'd have to get better to die!"

As for this matter of seasickness, a new system has minimized its terrors to the vanishing point. This system is known as the "Trefolia" and should be followed by everyone who journeys eastward over the Atlantic.

It is necessary only to secure a heavy coat hanger, which is sewn securely in the shoulders of a coat. Running fore and aft on every ship is a round pipe, attached to the ceiling of each deck. Just as soon as the first faint indication of an approaching seismic disturbance is felt, don the coat and blow a whistle. The deck steward will come a-running. Indicate by signs, and he will immediately hook the hanger over the pipe. There the patient may hang indefinitely, entirely free from the movements of the vessel, and in perfect peace. As soon as the sickness has passed, the whistle can be blown again, and the deck steward will do the unhooking, after which any occupation may be taken up exactly where it was abandoned.

But, seasick or not, everyone is glad to see land. And there it is! Land!

Every passenger on the ship crowds out on the deck to the rail as the intelligence is flashed. A dim, faint line, stretching away. It is uneven in the morning mist. An hour passes and it begins to take on definite shapes. It sort of looms finally. It's the shore line of France. Somewhere behind it there's Ypres and the Somme. Side-kicks, too, some of whom fought at Poelcappelle and Givenchy and Courcelette. For a moment the joy of going back is dimmed . . . . dimmed in reverence for those up where the crosses glisten, row on row.

We look around, half-expecting to see the darting warships that were so omnipresent on our last trip; but only a dusty collier passes, unafraid now of sub and mine.

Cliffs are jutting up out of the water. The sea is smooth and calm. A giant rock hill looms up—fortifications known in Caesar's day. There's Napoleon's breakwater, one of the wonders of the world. It's Cherbourg. The anchor of the liner splashes. Hurried packing is done. Shouts go up. Lighters and tenders draw alongside. The first lap of the journey is over. Then, with bounding heart and intoxicating anticipation, you go on to other scenes.

And delightfully free we start towards the front. Alors!

PAUL ADAMS.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

THE CHILDREN'S SWING

Many a tree comes back to me,
For who forgets a faithful friend?—
Many a tree I used to see,
Now lost to sight around the bend.
But one, I think, our hearts recall
With greater tenderness than all:
We smile, and sigh, remembering
The tree that held the children's swing.

For I have looked upon the palm
And seen the trees on many a strand,
But still a memory sweet and calm
Recalls an unforgotten land,
A lovely land of other days,
Of simple tastes and quiet ways,
When memory to mind will bring
The tree that held the children's swing.

Oh, men may make a mighty wall,
And men may build their steeples high,
Yet it is memory, after all,
That lifts us somewhere near the sky.
And just the thought of one old tree
Tonight has lifted even me,
Until I hear the angels sing—
The tree that held the children's swing.

BRINGING UP FATHER — By Geo. McManus

That "Kruschen" Feeling!

It Puts the Spring in Spring-cleaning!

Who says Spring-cleaning isn't jolly?

It's one of the biggest "larks" in the whole year to those who know how to make it so. Out come buckets and brooms, sleeves are rolled up, and everyone sets to work cheerily to set the house to rights. No one grumbles, no one gets worried or irritable.

That's how you ought to tackle Spring-cleaning, and you can, if you go about it in the right way.

When you have that feeling of not being quite up to the mark, and housework is a long dreary drudge that never seems to be finished — there is something wrong with your health.

That "something is almost entirely a matter of your internal system. Your liver and kidneys are not working as they should, with the result that poisonous waste matter is collecting in the blood and lowering the tone of the body. You must take steps to put that right—in the Kruschen way.

Every morning, in your breakfast cup of coffee or tea, take as much Kruschen Salts as will lie on a 10 cent piece. You can't taste the tiny dose, but it effectually cleanses your blood and clears your system of the waste material that is depriving you of vigour. Soon you will begin to feel better, more full of life and vitality, fresh and smiling, strong and well from first thing in the morning till late at night.

You owe it to yourself to start the Kruschen habit at once. The sooner you do so, the sooner you will get back that glorious feeling of radiant health — the much-talked-of "Kruschen feeling."

Tasteless in Coffee or Tea

Put as much in your breakfast cup as will lie on a 10 cent piece. It's the little daily dose that does it.

Kruschen Salts

Good Health for Half a Cent a Day

A 75c bottle of Kruschen Salts contains 240 doses — nearly enough for six months — which means good health for less than half a cent a day. The dose prescribed for daily use is "as much as will lie on a 10 cent piece," taken in the breakfast cup of coffee or tea. Every druggist sells Kruschen. Get a 75c bottle to-morrow.

Keen's Delicious Recipes for MAY

As Spring gives way to early Summer, every housewife gives thought to lighter diet—more salads, fresh vegetables, croquettes, sandwiches, fish and cold meats.

The following specialties for May suggest a dainty wholesomeness which will restore the spring-jaded appetite. And, every one of them contains that delectable savour which only Keen's Mustard can inspire. Clip these recipes for future reference.

SALMAGUNDI SANDWICHES

To half a cup of thick mayonnaise, made with Keen's Mustard, add 2 tablespoonfuls whipped cream, a dessertspoonful grated horseradish, and 2 of finely chopped cucumbers. Spread the bread with this mixture, then a layer of finely chopped rare beef, cover with more salad dressing and the top slice of bread.

SANDWICHES MADE WITH LEFT OVER MEATS

Put the meat in a chopper, add salt and pepper, and mix well. To 5 tablespoonfuls of this meat add the following preparation; 1 teaspoonful Keen's Mustard mixed in 2 tablespoonfuls of cream and mix in the meat. Spread the mixture between buttered bread. This makes delicious sandwiches for Summer suppers. Ham sandwiches prepared this way are also very appetizing.

FRENCH EGG SALAD

Boil 4 or 5 eggs until hard. Let cool, then cut whites of eggs in thin slices. Now take yolks and make dressing as follows: 3 tablespoons olive oil; 2 tablespoons vinegar, a pinch of salt and pepper; 2 teaspoons Keen's Mustard; a little chopped onion if liked. Beat yolks of eggs, olive oil and mustard to a cream, then add salt, pepper and vinegar, mix with the whites and serve.

CRUMBED HAM AND POTATO

One cup chopped, cooked ham, 2½ cups mashed potatoes, 1 tablespoon shortening, ½ cup breadcrumbs, 1 teaspoon minced parsley, 1 teaspoon minced onion, ½ teaspoon Keen's mustard (made into paste with water), ½ cup hot milk.

Mash the potatoes with the shortening and milk until light and smooth. Add ham and seasonings. Grease baking dish, sprinkle in part of the crumbs. Put in ham and potatoes, sprinkle top with rest of crumbs and bake until top is well browned.

COLD SALMON LOAF

1 package powdered gelatine, 2 tablespoonfuls cold water. The yolks of 2 eggs, 2 teaspoonfuls salt. 1 teaspoonful Keen's Mustard. A few grains cayenne pepper, 1½ tablespoonfuls melted butter, ¾ cup of milk, 2 tablespoonfuls vinegar, 1 can salmon.

Soak the gelatine in cold water for five minutes. Mix the yolks, beaten light, with the salt, mustard and pepper; add the milk, butter and vinegar; pour into a double boiler, stirring constantly until the whole thickens, then add the soaked gelatine and the salmon previously reduced to flakes. Place into a mould and let cool. Turn on a dish dressed with fresh lettuce. Serve with a mayonnaise made with Keen's Mustard.

INCULCATE LOYALTY.

MADRID, May 5 (United Press).—Floating universities such as the one which just completed its cruise from the United States offer an excellent means for training ships to eliminate radical ideas of would-be revolutionists, the newspaper "ABC" of Madrid suggested yesterday. After praising Premier Primo de Rivera's handling of the Catalan Separatist movement which looked to the separation of the Province of Catalonia from Spain, the newspaper advised that young Catalonians be taken aboard such a school ship as the American floating university.

There they could be trained in the proper ideas of government and loyalty to Spain and made into promising subjects of the King, the newspaper maintained.

THE minute you break the golden seal of the aristocratic bottle and pour a bit of "Canada Dry" slowly down the side of a thin-edge glass, as a connoisseur would pour a glass of fine old wine, you will know that here, at last, is real ginger ale.

Hold it to the light! See how clear it is! How it gleams and sparkles! The abounding life and vitality of it. The champagne-like "dryness" and color.

And then—taste it! Here is a revelation in ginger ale quality—a delicate, alluring flavor that intrigues your taste — a flavor unlike that of any other ginger ale you have ever tasted!

"Canada Dry" is unquestionably the most famous product ever made in the Dominion and it is recognized in New York and in foreign capitals as the finest ginger ale on the market today.

What "Serv-Us" Brand Means in Food Products

We do not manufacture or pack any of our own merchandise, but buy when and where quality is offered. Before we allow the "SERV-US" label to be placed on any product, we make certain of two things:

1ST—The quality of the article must be SUPERIOR to any product being offered under any extensively advertised brand; or 2ND—The quality must be EQUAL to any more familiar brand, and the price lower.

Canada produces some wonderful food products—equal or superior to those obtainable anywhere in the world. Many items in this advertisement and many others under "SERV-US" and "RED & WHITE" label are Ontario products. Convince yourself of their superiority by trying "SERV-US" Canned Fruits and Vegetables—grown and packed in Ontario.

BYE-BYE, BLACKBIRD.

The necessity of a campaign to rid Peterborough of the pest of blackbirds, which birds appear to be largely on the increase in this neighborhood, is brought to the attention of The Examiner by a well-known citizen in the hope that some of our readers may be able to suggest a practicable means of eliminating this nuisance.

He points out that while children are being urged not to molest the nests of the song birds, the bandit blackbirds are doing much more damage to the eggs and to young song birds than mischievous boys could possibly accomplish.

In some of the Western Provinces a bounty is paid for each blackbird destroyed, but here the city bylaws prevent shooting at the black robbers, and poisoning is a means of destruction that is too dangerous to be used.

One suggestion is that the police be instructed to get in a little target practice with shotguns.

Examiner readers may be able to point out some other more effective way of waging warfare upon the destructive blackbirds.

CENTRALIZING EXECUTIONS.

Dr. J. W. Edwards, M.P., has given notice of motion that at the next session of Parliament he will endeavour to have an amendment passed providing that all prisoners convicted of murder shall be immediately removed to the Provincial Penitentiary and confined there until the death sentence has been executed.

The centralization of such executions has long been urged by The Examiner, in common with many other Canadian newspapers, and Dr. Edwards' proposal will be generally endorsed throughout the country, especially by the people of those centres which have experienced the depressing effects of being the locale of a hanging.

There are many good reasons readily apparent why the Provincial Penitentiary is the logical place for the confining of murderers and for their execution, and it is to be hoped that Dr. Edwards' amendment, when it is introduced next year, will receive sufficient support to ensure its coming into effect.

The chief opposition, so far as popular opinion in Ontario is concerned, will likely come from the people of the village of Portsmouth, which happens to be in Dr. Edwards' next-door constituency and the home of the Provincial Penitentiary.

MRS. FALLIS HONOURED.

With the national convention of the Conservative party occupying such a large share of newspaper space these days, it is the privilege of The Examiner as a community newspaper to express general congratulations to one of Peterborough's daughters on the very prominent part she is taking in the preliminary preparations for the Winnipeg gathering.

Very singularly honoured indeed has been Mrs. Howard Fallis, who not only was chosen to be the principal speaker at the recent Conservative convention as the representative of the many thousand Conservative women of the Province, and won further laurels by being elected First Vice-President of the Ontario association, but was also the recipient of greater distinction in being selected as one of the twenty delegates representing the Province of Ontario at the Winnipeg convention.

The choice of Mrs. Fallis for this representation, which is of course, entirely apart from the delegations sent from each constituteuncy, is perhaps the greatest tribute of all to her qualities as a speaker and leader.

Regardless of their political alliances, Peterborough citizens should be delighted that such high honours have been paid to a local woman.

The Winnipeg convention will loom large in the public eye next autumn, and through Mrs. Fallis Peterborough will share to some extent in the resulting publicity.

AN OUTSTANDING INDUSTRY.

The City Council has decided to submit a bylaw at the municipal elections next January to grant a fixed assessment for ten years to the Western Clock Company upon the new addition to their plant, and the proposal will undoubtedly be favourably received by the citizens.

It already provides employment for 220 people, and the addition to be commenced next week will eventually mean a considerable increase in the number of workers employed.

As an advertising medium for Peterborough, the Western Clock Company is of especial value.

In the first place, it is a national advertiser on a large scale, and the name of this city appears in all advertising matter.

Again, the products of the local factory go to many parts of the globe, and Peterborough is constantly receiving publicity because of this fact.

The company has lived up to all its promises so far as development here is concerned, and the new building, which will add 23,520 feet of floor space to the plant, is larger than the first announcement indicated.

This addition is not likely to be the last, in view of the rapid increase in the output of the local factory.

THE UNFAILING REFUGE.

How interesting it is to read that the Chinese Bolshevists, after conspiring and fighting to the best of their limited ability against Great Britain, take refuge with one accord under the British flag as soon as their plans go astray. So it is always. Agitators and harebrained disturbers of all kinds talk against Britain and revile her as long as they are safe, but in time of emergency they seek Britain's protection. Some Canadians, who are not worthy of the name, criticize Great Britain to the extent of their firebrand vocabularies, but they are glad to remain where the power of Great Britain makes their lives and property safe. Many of them praise Soviet Russia in the highest terms, but they are very careful not to go to Russia to live. They prefer to remain where the Union Jack flies.

Does a king somewhere in Europe or Asia or Africa lose his throne and his crown? Invariably he escapes to Great Britain for safety. Is a leader of a revolutionary party somewhere in the world defeated? He makes for Britain's shores as fast as he can.

Thus it has been for ages and thus it will continue to be while the world remains. What a proud position Britain holds! So great is she, so powerful, so unselfish, and so just that she can afford to disregard scoffers and revilers of all brands and nationalities. So impregnable is her integrity that she can allow the freest of free speech even if it is directed against herself.

But how petty Britain's attitude makes these little agitators and publicity-seekers appear. They get nowhere and they are well aware of that, but they like to shine before their own misguided admirers.—Oshawa Reformer.

GOOD ROADS IN CANADA.

It may surprise many people to know that last year, according to statistics, the Provincial Governments in Canada spent $45,000,000 on the construction and maintenance of highways. It is now clearly realized that good roads are a national asset from every point of view. There are now more than 46,824 miles included in the Provincial systems, in addition to the extensive mileage under the jurisdiction of the municipalities. These highways not only afford communication for business purposes, but they enable the people to move freely through the country, getting acquainted with one another, and with their own Province and the rest of the Dominion. This is a result that is highly desirable, because the more Canadians know of their own country the greater will be their pride in it.

Then there are many other respects in which the growing system of good roads is of incalculable importance. Highways and motor cars have combined to put thousands of farmers into close communication with their city neighbors and city markets, and rural isolation is becoming a thing of the past in large areas. Tourist traffic is almost entirely dependent on the condition of the roads, and the people of Canada are just beginning to realize the huge cash value which this traffic will have if it is encouraged intelligently.

More and more the grand scenic attractions of the Dominion are becoming known. They are not confined to any section, but each Province has its own special features. For this reason the construction of a grand national highway from coast to coast is a feature of road-building that is of the greatest importance to the Dominion. It will not only encourage inter-Provincial communication and association, which is greatly to be desired, but it will encourage tourists to remain longer, and make more extended journeys throughout the country. From the point of view of patriotism and national unity such a highway would link the scattered Dominion together more closely, and enable Canadians to journey from Halifax to Vancouver without being obliged to travel through the United States. This is an ideal to be set before the people of Canada during the year of the Diamond Jubilee.—Brantford Expositor.

THREATENING THE COSTER.

Few are the institutions that are able to resist the modern spirit of change which is held to be the mark of progress. One after another they surrender to the crusaders of utilitarianism and municipal reform, who allow no sentimental or historical considerations to stand in the way of local improvement and the regulation of public needs.

One of the latest to be threatened with extinction is that picturesque institution known all over the world as the London coster. Like the "Bobby," he has long been one of the sights of the great metropolis on the Thames, a spectacular figure in corduroy and pearl buttons, roaming from street to street in the east and south ends of the city with his donkey and cart, his Eliza by his side, and the familiar of all who come in contact with him.

Hitherto, the coster has been at liberty to pursue his vocation wherever he pleased. He could select his stance and vend his wares in any borough or in any street, or he could wander at will, as most of them do, from one district to another in quest of customers. But it has occurred to the London County Council that, however picturesque and useful the coster may be, he is also something in the nature of a nuisance to be regulated, if not altogether suppressed. In slow procession with his donkey and cart, stopping frequently to sell his goods, he blocks the streets in which he does business, obstructs the traffic, and leaves in his trail a litter of rubbish that is offensive to sight and smell alike. It is also complained that the shopkeepers suffer unduly in competition with the "pearly kings" of the market place.

Accordingly, the authorities have seen fit to ask for powers which, if carried into effect, will, it is believed, seriously cripple the coster in his operations, if they do not actually put him out of business. The proposal is to tie him up with licenses, obtainable by the payment of fees he can ill afford, and limiting his traffic to one borough, perhaps to one street of one borough, on certain selected days only. The results of such a restrictive policy, the costers claim, will be disastrous, and their protests find strong support in the columns of the London press.

It is estimated that in the east and south districts of the metropolis there are over 100,000 costers, the large majority of whom earn a bare living by supplying the poorer classes with food. To limit them in the way proposed, it is pointed out, would impose a hardship not only upon the mongers who know no other trade, but also upon the impoverished multitude which depends upon them for sustenance.

Certainly London would not seem the same without the picturesque and genial figure that for many years has "knocked 'em in the Old Kent Road" with his donah for a pal. They are types of old London that have inspired the pen of the artist and the minstrelsy of the "'alls" for generations, and added not a little color and gaiety to the life of a community otherwise sordid and gloomy. Their passing would be a sad blow to London's East End, and a source of regret to all familiar with the kindly humor and social habits of the "Alfies" and "Elizas," whose virtues live in the cartoons of Punch and the songs of Chevalier.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The nearest approach to a crime wave Peterborough has yet experienced is the spectacle of a couple of youths in Black Bottom trousers.

It is peculiar that the fewer clothes the women wear the more ladies' wear stores are opened.

Husbands seem to be the only animals not protected by the United States game laws.

The people across the border should have a keen sense of humour. They have so much to laugh at, especially in the way of murder trials.

It is needless to say that the idea of a sham battle as part of Peterborough's jubilee celebration was not suggested by Miss Agnes MacPhail.

ETIOLOGY OF DISEASE.

Many of you will think that "Etiology" means the science of eating, but it does not mean that at all. It really means a study of the "causes," and this can be aptly applied to a study of the causes of disease.

There are a thousand and one systems of treatment of the various ailments, but the "Regular" physician and the osteopath, chiropractor, or any other practitioner of the healing arts, is required to study and be examined in practically the same subjects about the diagnosis of disease. All physicians, of whatever school, who are licensed, use the same systems and methods of arriving at a diagnosis. Even the report written on the death certificate, as to the cause of death, is usually the same whether made out by a licensed physician and surgeon or by an osteopath. Every physician is asked to fill out a certain form, and a small space is allowed after "Cause of Death"..... In this space the physician is ordered to write the special name of the disease which caused death. He is not allowed to generalize and write, for instance, Kidney Trouble, but must state the exact form of kidney disease from which the patient suffered and which seemed to cause death. Of course, if several physicians, from different schools were each asked to make out a report, there would be, occasionally, a difference of opinion as to what to name the disease, but, as a rule, the chiropractor would write down the same cause of death as the allopath.

However, if each were asked to make out a lengthy statement about all of the causes which originally produced the trouble, there would be a wide difference of opinion. If the patient died of Nephrolithiasis (Kidney Stone) they would all agree on the cause of death, but the surgeon would say that the patient should have had the kidney removed. The chiropractor would say that an impingement of the nerves going to the kidney made the kidney lose its proper power to function. They might both be perfectly right, but still the dietitian would also be correct when he stated that the original cause of the kidney stones was because the patient ate the wrong kind of food, and so, therefore, the real cause was a lack of knowledge about proper diet and habits of living.

From time to time, physicians write to me criticizing statements which I make in this column. I expect this, and am not disappointed as I realize that my theories regarding the causes of disease must be necessarily different from every other physician. My experience has taught me not to be satisfied with a discovery of any immediate cause, but to look a long way back to the fundamental causes of the different diseases.

Each reader, whether a physician or a layman, who reads these daily articles, must understand that the theories put forth are true to me from my honest observation and experience, and that I make no attempt to adhere to a set creed established by any particular medical or non-medical school or association.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, May 5 (Canadian Press).—Outside of sales of a few odd loads of wheat, barley and rye, the export trade in grain on the Montreal market yesterday was quiet.

The only business of importance transacted in the local cash grain market was the sales of some fair sized lots of No. 1 Northern wheat at 14 1-2c per bushel over the Winnipeg may option, and No. 2 Northern at 10 1-2c per bushel over, c.i.f. Montreal. Trading in coarse grains was quiet, but prices were firm.

The local and export demand for Spring wheat flour was quiet and prices were steady at the late advanced noted. A moderate amount of business was done in Winter wheat grades and prices ruled firm.

A fairly active business was again done in all lines of millfeed and values were well maintained. Trade in rolled oats was quiet but the undertone was firm.

A feature of the country produce trade yesterday was the much stronger feeling that developed for potatoes and prices for car lots scored an advance of 90 cents per bag. This was attributed to the strength that prevailed in the New Brunswick market, the very light shipments from all country points on account of the unfavorable condition of the roads and the fact that stocks in first hands on spot are about exhausted.

The volume of business done in eggs was fair and the tone was firm. The receipts were 1,472 cases.

The butter market was again weaker and prices were reduced a further 1c per pound, which was attributed to the large receipts and the small demand. The receipts were 621 packages.

The foreign demand for cheese was quiet, but the local trade was slightly improved. The receipts were 838 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 5 (Canadian Press). — Corn jumped yesterday to the highest level gained in many weeks, one of the principal speculators on the bear side of the corn market switched suddenly to the buying side and a general stampede to purchase followed. Talk of late planting was a factor. Corn closed unsettled, 1 3-8 to 2 1-8c net higher; wheat irregular, 1-4 off to 3-8c up; oats unchanged to 5-8c down, and provisions varying from 15c decline to a rise of 10 cents.

Oats did not get much inspiration from corn strength, the oats market promptly running into profit-taking on uptums.

Provisions were governed more by the ascent of cotton values than by declines which were witnessed in the price of hogs.

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL

THE ROOT OF THE CHINESE TROUBLE.

(By Dr. Frank Crane.)

There is a tremendous uproar in China. Armies are marching and countermarching, battles are being fought and riots are general. Everybody is agreed that one of the difficulties of this matter is the hatred of the Chinese for foreigners and probably they are right.

There is a disposition in all nations to have bad blood toward foreigners. The word enemy and foreigner seems to be synonymous.

From our own feuds in the South we can see that it is natural for people of one community to hate and distrust those of another. They realize the solidarity of the clan, but not the solidarity of mankind.

The root of most difficulties with nations is a simple one. It can be found in the reactions of human nature and traced ultimately to purely natural causes.

The foundation of the difficulty with the Chinese is largely the contempt with which they have been treated by foreigners. Any one who has traveled in the East has noted the supercilious contempt which Englishmen and other foreigners have for the native Chinese.

They will not let them enter their clubs, they frown upon all inter-marriages. They do not receive them as equals in society. The better class of Chinese resent it.

There is a better class as well as a lower class of Chinese and it is needless to say that the better class regard themselves as equals to, if not the superior of, other peoples.

They refer to their kingdom as celestial and look with contempt upon the West.

Naturally this egotism is wounded when they are regarded by Westerners superciliously.

The French Revolution of the late seventies was largely due doubtless to the disdain of the higher classes for the lower.

None of the humanitarian efforts of the missionaries nor the official protestations of the governments can do away with the contempt which the Westerners have always shown towards the Chinese.

This rebellion is largely a reaction of that contempt.

Have Your Foot Troubles

scientifically attended. Do not limp or run your boots over. Have foot comfort—a gait that is elastic, not shuffling. Corns and callousities are the result of maladjusted feet. It's foolish to have them pared or extracted; so long as the cause remains they will return.

Foot pains, leg pains, back pains, headaches, and no end of other pains, are directly traceable to maladjusted foot bones.

Get your feet adjusted and wear the sort of footgear you like.

Go on limping, shuffling, stumbling through life, if such is your preference; but there is a way out, if you care to take it. We will show you.

Manitotba Golf Association To Compete in Inter-Provincial Competition.

TEAM NOT CHOSEN.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 5.—Reversing its decision of several weeks ago, the Manitoba Golf Association has decided to send a team from the province to compete in the inter-provincial competition to be held prior to the Canadian amateur championships in Hamilton on July 4.

No definite announcement of the personnel of the team has yet been made, although two proposals of selection have been advanced. One ern Canada tournament of last year compose the team, while another suggests an elimination tournament. A special meeting of the Provincial Association will be held shortly to decide upon the method of selection.

Word was received here yesterday that Alberta has fallen in line with the scheme and proposes to send a team east.

Balloon Tire Tread

Low pressure conditions distribute most of the weight and wear toward the outer edges of the Balloon Tread, so that is where Firestone engineers place most of the rubber. At the direct center is a deep grove, between two narrow flexing rider strips and flanked by additional grooves, which nearly close up when the rubber spreads out as the tire is placed under load. Next come the wide outer rider strips with numerous sharp-edge projections for non-skid qualities. These projections are small to permit the tread to yield to irregularities and cling to the road. The carcass of the Balloon Tire must have the qualifications to withstand the extreme flexing which this tread permits. Firestone provides extra strength and endurance by dipping the cords of the carcass in a rubber solution, which completely saturates and insulates every fiber of every cord, insuring the highest degree of economy, safety and comfort.

BRITISH NOTE IS MEANT FOR HER DEBTORS

To Remove "False Impressions" Given Them My Mellon's Letter.

GREAT MISGIVINGS.

Britain Regrets Estrangement Growing—Challenges Accuracy of Statement.

LONDON, May 5. — (Canadian Press.)—A responsible Downing street official told the Associated Press today that Great Britain's war debt note to the U. S. was aimed primarily at her continental debtors, and was designed to remove "false impressions" created on the continent by the letter of Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the United States' treasury, to President Hibben of Princeton University.

Accuracy Challenged.

Expressing great misgivings because of the divergence of opinions and estrangement of sentiment growing up in regard to the war debts, the note challenged the accuracy of the statement of March 17 by Mr. Mellon, that Great Britain's debt payments to the United States will not constitute a drain on British resources.

The note specifically declared that in no circumstances will Great Britain receive from reparations and interallied war debts ,taken together, more than she pays to the United States ,and that it was not the desire of the British Government to retain for its country anything out of receipts from reparations and inter-allied war debts.

Errors and Inaccuracies.

Citing what the British Government regards as errors and inaccuracies in Mr. Mellon's statement, the note expresses "trust that the United States Government will take steps to remove the unfortunate impression that has been created" by the issuance of Mr. Mellon's statement.

Stating that the British Government was presenting its considerations of the war debt problem "in no contentious or controversial spirit," the note declares that "on the contrary, their desire to maintain and to promote a friendly understanding between the two great English-speaking nations on whose co-operation great issues for peace and progress of the world depend.

"They view with great misgivings the divergence of opinions and the estrangement of sentiment growing up in regard to these war obligations," the note continues. "It appears to be the task of the British and Ameerican statesmen to do what can be done to alleviate this difference of view by setting out frankly and fairly the facts of the case and the policy adopted on either side. But the controversy can only be intensified if public opinion in America is guided by statements of fact in regard to their European debtors which to those debtors appear inaccurate and misleading.

'It is for this reason that his Majesty's Government regret that there should have been issued ,under the authority of the Secretary of the United States Treasury, a series of statements in regard to Great Britain which appear to them not to represent accurately or completely the facts. They trust that the United States Government will take steps to remove the unfortunate impression that has been created by the issue of this statement. The position of the British Government in regard to these interest payments is well known, and the records are easily available; but if at any time further information is desired by the United States Treasury, his Majesty's Government will be happy to furnish it."

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story.

By Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE FRIGHTENED FOX

(Copyright 1927 McClure Syndicate.)

Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow was not far from the bungleump home of Boppy Um and the Wogglejigs where the rabbit gentleman was visiting. And one day Mr. Longears thought he would hop over to see his wife and Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy to tell them he would soon be living again with them and his forty 'leven little bunny boys and girls.

"For" said Mr. Longears to himself as he hopped through the woods "I have been visiting Boppy and Um quite long enough. And in the fall if they forget how to unscramble the Wogglejigs I can go back for another visit."

Humming a little tune to himself and twinkling his pink nose in a jolly fashion Uncle Wiggily hopped along on the green grass the green moss and beneath the April green leaves on the trees and bushes.

"Oh, please help me find it, Uncle Wiggily!"

All of a sudden just when the bunny gentleman was wondering if he might meet with an adventure there was a rustling in the dried leaves and from beneath a pile of them out leaped the Fuzzy Fox.

"Oh!" cried Uncle Wiggily.

"Ah!" growled the Fox smacking his lips. Of course this lip smacking was far from being polite but one doesn't expect a Fox to be polite so what is the use I ask you? "Ah!" growled the Fox again once more smacking his lips which showed that he was hungry. "I have caught you at last Uncle Wiggily!"

"Not yet!" cried the brave rabbit gentleman as he turned quickly to hop away. But alas! His paw caught in a tangle of vines on the ground. Uncle Wiggily tripped and fell.

Before he could get up the Fox leaped forward and caught the rabbit by his ears holding him fast there.

"Pleas let me go!" begge the bunny.

"No! No!" snarled the Fox. "I am going to drag you off to the den of my friend the Wolf and we two shall have a fine dinner. Ah ha!"

Smacking his lips harder than ever to show how much more hungry he was the Fox began to pull Uncle Wiggily along. The rabbit tried to break away but he could not.

"If there was only some way I could frighten this Fox to make him let me go!" thought poor Uncle Wiggily "how glad would I be! Perhaps if I make some scowling faces at the Fox it will scare him. I'll try!"

When the Fox looked down at the rabbit he was dragging all at once Uncle Wiggily made the most scowling face he could think of.

"If that doesn't frighten him I'll make another" said the bunny to himself. But the Fox instead of being frightened only laughed.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" he chuckled. "You can't scare me!"

Then Uncle Wiggily tried once again making such a scowling face that it seemed as if he never could straighten it out again. But the Fox only laughed more loudly and dragged the bunny on to the bottom of a hill.

"At the top of the hill" said the Fox "is the den of the Wolf. Once there he and I shall have a fine feast!"

"Well I guess this is the end of me!" sadly thought Mr. Longears and the Fox began dragging him up the hill when all of a sudden a head made of wood and round like a ball rolled down the hill. The head bounce up in the air and hit the Fox on the nose.

"Wow! What does this mean?" asked the Fox letting go of Uncle Wiggily's ears with one paw so he could rub the bruised nose.

"Oh ho!" chuckled the rabbit to himself.—"I know that round wooden red head. It belongs to Dumple Wogglejig. He must be trying to help me by frightening the Fox." All of a sudden a green wooden head rolled down the hill and bouncing up banged the Fox on the nose.

"Wow! What does this mean?" howled the bad chap rubbing his aching nose with his other paw. He had now let go of Uncle Wiggily altogether.

"That was Bumple's head!" chuckled the bunny. "There are two Wogglejigs boys trying to save me." And then all of a quickness a yellow head rolled down the hill and when the Fox saw this coming he was so frightened that tucking his tail between his legs he ran away howling.

"Good boys! You saved me!" cried Uncle Wiggily when Dumple Wumple and Bumple came running down the hill to gather up their heads which they had taken off to roll at the Fox. They had seen the danger of the rabbit gentleman and had taken that means of helping him. "You were good boys!" cried the bunny. "And I'll buy you some lollypops."

This he did as soon as Bumple Dumple and Wumple had put on their wooden heads again. So everybody was happy except the frightened Fox.

AT THE GRAND

"SCANDALS"

In inaugurating the long and successful series of the Scandals the new seventh edition of which comes to Grand Opera House, Friday, May 13th, George White, himself no neophyte in stage experience even before he conceived the first Scandals, seems to have noticeably broken away from the old traditions of musical comedy and revue. Comedy more subtle, more illusive; music more frothy, and a more rapid tempo seemingly marked the new idea in revues. The producer then set about employing casts which could interpret this distinctly-new style of humor, making it necessary then for the sponsors of the editions on tour to also search for new and highly-specialized artists. Dancers were needed who could dance the many intricate steps to be found in a typical Scandals production, and with this end in view the Albertina Rasch girls were engaged and they, together with the George White Beauty Chorus, will be seen here in the new seventh edition. That the Rasch girls have added distinctive charm and vitality to the new Scandals, it is but necessary to read the notices which have preceded the company here. An ideal comedian for the Scandals sems to have been found in Sammy Howard, brother of Eugene and Willy Howard, who themselves are now playing in the Eight Edition of the Scandals at the Apollo Theatre in New York. The cast coming here is a large one and includes many who are said to be well known to patrons of the musical comedy and revue productions of the past several seasons, both in New York and on tour.

AT THE REGENT.

TOM MEIGHAN HAS GREAT COMEDY SUPPORTING CAST

A battery composed of three of the best known comedians on the stage, furnishes a continuous fire of chuckles and laughter in Tom Meighan's latest Paramount production, "The New Klondike."

Charles Winninger, whose most recent Broadway comedy success, was in "No, No, Nanette," enacts the part of a waiter in a Florida restaurant;—one that is swamped with hungry hordes who have flocked there because of the real estate boom. This rush of business and the fastidiousness of Meighan, furnished Winninger with a series of screamingly funny situations.

No less funny is Hugh Cameron, another of Broadway's favorite sons. He is a real estate salesman who sets his litling selling arguments to music, by having a violinist stand netx him, while he charms the customers.

The last of this trio is Paul Kelly. Paul's comedy business has delighted screen lovers since the days of John Bunny and Flora Finch, in whose pictures, Kelly played juvenile parts. He goes to Florida as "Bing the Bushman,' a bush-leaguer who tries to crash the gate of a big time baseball training camp, which is part of the picture's background.

"The New Klondike," which was directed by Lewis Milestone, with Lila Lee playing opposite the star, comes to the Regent to-day.

WATCH THE KIDNEYS

Fatigue and that tired feeling is the result of poison in the blood. When the kidneys fail to remove this poison from the system it leads to backache, rheumatic pains and sometimes to that fatal ailment known as Bright's disease. When this condition exists, don't delay, go to your druggist and get a box of Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills and they will quickly correct the cause of your trouble.

Mr. Arthur Pinch of Smith Township states that Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills give him more speedy relief than any other preparation that he had tried.

OUTLINE OF SCIENCE CLXXII—Sleeping Pain Away. by MAX HAHN

Our landlord demands the store at once for re-modelling. We have been given only a short time to get our stock disposed of---so here goes for a whirlwind sale.

FORCED TO VACATE!

No time to hesitate. We must sell this $25,000 stock of fine footwear in record time. Prices never thought possible are going to make all roads lead to

HOWDEN'S SHOE SALE

Prices Down To Zero in May

We mean it. We have marked prices down to less than the Shoes can be made for. We have no choice. We are told plainly that the landlord wants the store, and carpenters are waiting to commence re-modelling. You can imagine our position, but you can't imagine such bargains as are here in hundreds. They have never been equalled in Peterborough. Prove it—come and see.

Nothing Escapes The Slash

The bargains are not confined to a few odd or broken lines that we want to clear. The knife has been applied to every pair of Shoes in the store. All our Classic Shoes for ladies, misses and children and Slater and Hartt Boots for men have been reduced most astonishingly. We can't expect profits, and our splendid stock is at the mercy of a bargain-loving public. Don't wait. It's your opportunity.

Matinee Ladies

BY William B. Courtney

"MATINEE LADIES," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Bob Ward, poor college student, working as a dancing partner for rich women, falls in love with Sally Smith, a cigarette girl. She warns him against the mysterious and beautiful Mrs. Hammond, habitue of the roadhouse, who finds her "thrill" in "hunting" Bob, who, however, trusts her. She offers him free use of her secret apartment. Bob quarrels with Sally over the offer. He returns later to Sally's house, only to find she has gone to a wild party at the home of Maxie Revere, where Aldrich, a financier, preys upon Sally—

CHAPTER XV—Continued

Aldrich leaned eagerly close to Sally, and his voice became thick with the rising lust that gorged his veins as he feasted his desires upon her lovely innocence:

"You won't be sorry if you're nice to me!" he promised.

Sally did not know just what he meant, but she said, quite naturally and instinctively:

"If it's anything important, I guess I'd have to talk it over with Bob first, Mr. Aldrich. Bob is very sensible, you know!"

"Indeed! No, I never suspected it!" remarked Aldrich dryly. "And who, may I ask, is Bob?"

"Bob—Bob Ward, the football player, you know," declared Sally proudly, "is the boy I'm in love with!"

Then all of a sudden Sally felt that the effects of the first drink she had and the second one that Aldrich was pressing on her had mixed her perceptions up a bit; had caused a slight lapse of memory, which made her confession about Bob an anachronism. It just occurred to her, making her feel quite silly, that Bob and she had come to the parting of the ways.

Why, he had been perfectly horrid to her and had left her house with the expressed intention of going to Mrs. Hammond's "lovenest" —of becoming that awful woman's male creature! For that's what it would mean, nothing less, even though Bob did not know it, or at least pretended not to know it.

On her stubborn nerve alone, on an hysterical yet subdued wave of resentment and bitterness, Sally had donned the beautiful things Mannion had sent to her and had permitted him to take her to Maxie's. Unnaturally cold without, while she was heartbroken within, Sally had come to the party and mingled with the strange and uncommon guests. Not until she had, in her tangled emotional state, sat alone with Aldrich and allowed him to persuade her to take a drink had her brave little reserve been penetrated.

The bitter heartbreak rushed through the breach. Oh, little Sally Smith felt so miserable to think that her short week of romance had ended in this wise; that her Prince Charming had deserted her and left her to wander alone and friendless amid such dangers as Maxie Revere's party and guests.

She no longer thought of Aldrich as an awesome wizard of Wall street; she thought of him as a brazen man, who was leering repulsively, desirefully, at her naked white shoulders. She folded her arms protectingly over her lowcut bosom and covered her slim shoulders with her slimmer hands and struggled with an impulse to weep.

She wished that Bob would come into her life again as he had that memorable afternoon, so shortly passed, and buoy her up again out of her surroundings on wings of romance. Alas! love's young dream between these two was stilled forever, she felt.

She felt very reckless, very desperate; hastily, as much to hide her emotions as to satisfy a thirst, she seized up her glass and drained it. And the salt tears mingled with the beverage.

There was a commotion in the living room, off the roof garden. Aldrich, whose dynastic life was untouched by commotions of any sort except those his presence or power caused, never even bothered to look or listen. Sally was quite too befuddled to notice. He leaned across the table and, seeking to take advantage of her patent emotional upset, whispered:

"Little girl, you're troubled. You need a friend. Let me be a friend to you!"

After all, why not? reasoned little Sally Smith, in her state of mind where she knew not reason. Hadn't Bob taken a friend—Mrs. Hammond? Why shouldn't little Sally have a new friend—Mr. Aldrich?

Aldrich was patting her hands now, atop the table. Sally, with closed eyes and head bowed, was beginning to have to fight against an overwhelming sense to do two things at once—cry and sleep!

Then the commotion exploded right at hand. A bulky, raging figure shouldered out from the living room, throwing off maids and butler, guests and Maxie, who sought to stop his progress. He banged a great fist on the table between little Sally Smith and wealthy Mr. Aldrich—a bang that snapped Sally out of her fog and caused Mr. Aldrich to leap to his feet, unstrung for all his billions.

Sally blinked. Sure enough, it was Bob. She was so glad to see him—but, say, was she? What was that black, murderous look in his eyes; that bitterly accusing glare? Her cry of relief aborted on her quivering lips as Bob's first words assailed her ears.

"You were a fine one to try and preach to me about Mrs. Hammond! You, who come to places like this and—my God!—get drunk! Sally Smith, you've opened my eyes. You're——"

A hand was placed on Bob's shoulder, tried to pull him around. Bob turned a baleful glance upon the interposer. It was Tom Mannion, snarling:

"See here, you, what the devil do you mean by talking to my girl like that!"

Bob swung his heavy right fist with no apparent effort, without strain; yet, meeting Mannion's chin, it drove him back and to the floor in an unconscious heap. Aldrich leaped at Bob, following that, and smashed him behind the ear; others of the twelve best clubmen rallied loyally into the fray.

While Maxie screamed, and Madame Leonine screamed, and the living statues screamed, and every female except Sally screamed, Bob went to work on the clubmen. Sally sat white of face, terror-stricken, fascinated, as she saw him smash one after the other without regard for social position into an indiscriminate heap upon the floor. Twelve best clubmen knocked out in a row!

Now he was facing her again, breathing a little harder, sneering into her horrified face.

"I came here to save you from these people, to take you home. But I don't think you're worth taking home. You, who talked so hypocritically of Mrs. Hammond! Why, you're not fit to mention her name!" Bob surely was terribly mad for one so young and handsome. "I'm going to her now!" he exclaimed dramatically.

Poor little Sally Smith! The victim of her overwrought emotions, of her own efforts to bottle up her grief, of her misguided recklessness, she tried hard to speak up to Bob. She wanted to cry out to him her gladness at seeing him; she wanted to jump up and throw her arms around him. But for one thing her legs wouldn't hold her, and for another thing the terrible anger on Bob's young face and the destruction he had caused among the Twelve Best Clubmen completed the wrecking of her physical powers and reactions. Her lips refused to voice a word!

Bob suddenly bent close to look at her, and all the drama, all the strong rage collapsed in him, stripping him to a simple expression of starkly horrified realization:

"Sally Smith, great heavens—you ARE drunk!"

A tense sob escaped him. This, then, was the very end of his illusions, of his hopes. The precious little combed-boney head that he had adored was nodding frowzily, the starry eyes that once had thrilled him were blinking dully. He cursed furiously, shrank away from Sally, turned and clove a blind, harsh way through clubmen and gold-diggers—out, out, away, to his last hope, to his final standby, Mrs. Hammond.

He would go to Mrs. Hammond's apartment, "lovenest" or not. Nothing mattered now. His degree, his career, all were killed. Yes he would go to Mrs. Hammond. However and whyever she wanted him—body or brain, or both—she could have him. He rushed away into the night.

erville for St. Pierre, Miquelon, with liquor cargoes every week or so, for a time, during the winter. He asked the witness how these trips could be made in winter down the canals to the sea.

Chief Commissioner Brown suggested that, as the time for adjournment had arrived, Mr. Harwood might be given the night to think over the cruises of the Killarney.

The examination of Major Nash revealed the fact that an account was found on the books of Hiram Walker and Sons under the headings "Distillers' Association expenses," and "protecting trademarks." From October, 1922, to September, 1926, a total of $289,628 was charged under these two headings. The greater part of it was charged to "protecting trademarks."

"There must have been a constant attack on the trademarks," said Commissioner Wright.

Shipments of the company, according to the records, said Major Nash, were made to St. Pierre-Miquelon, Mexico, Cuba, the Bahamas, British West Indies, and Bermuda. He gave figures covering the number of gallons shipped to each of these places over a period of years.

"Did you obtain bills of lading purporting to represent shipments to St. Pierre-Miquelon?" asked counsel.

"The bills of lading furnished us apparently did not represent genuine shipments," replied the auditor.

"Did you find them true or false?"

"They were not bona fide bills of lading."

Mr. Nash produced a parcel of bills of lading which he said covered 1923 and part of 1924.

"You found that these were false and no such shipments were made?"

"No such shipments had been made.

"Did you find anything in the books of the company which showed how these goods were in fact shipped?"

"Not in the books of the company."

Mr. Nash stated that the great bulk of the consignments from Hiram Walker and Sons to Mexico went to W. O. Watson and Company, Ensenada. Mexican shipments went by way of Montreal, Halifax and Vancouver, but all these to Watson went via Vancouver.

Deny Receiving Bribes

Prior to the examination of Mr. Nash, two customs officials, who were named yesterday morning in connection with receiving money for warning American autoists at the ferry that they were being watched for liquor, denied absolutely that they had been paid. The two officers were Malcolm Allen and Earl Welsh. Allen denied that he had ever discussed the matter of payments with Calderwood, the former customs officer who told of the alleged payments yesterday morning.

"Did you know cars were being tipped off to come to the wharf empty?" asked Commissioner Wright.

"No."

"Or that they were not being searched?"

"No."

Mr. Welsh said that he had never received instructions to search cars leaving Canada. He had never received money.

C. A. Williams, who is agent for a United States liquor importer called Aaron, said that his business amounted to over five million dollars a year. That was the volume of sales. Gross profits Mr. Rowell estimated at about $450,000 per annum.

The popularity of the automobile in America and Europe and the gradual disappearance of the horse have worked a hardship on China. For years large shipments of old horseshoes have been made to the Far East, where the Chinese fashioned them into ornaments and tools.

WEDDING BELLS.

BENOR—ARCHER

CAMPBELLFORD, May 5.—The following wedding is of special interest to Campbellford people, as Mr. and Mrs. Benor are popular young people of town:

"St. Paul's Anglican Church, Marmora, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Monday, April 25th, at 11 o'clock, when Florence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Archer, was united in marriage to Mr. James Benor, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Benor of Campbellford. Rev. A. B. Caldwell, rector, officiated.

The church was decorated for the occasion with Easter lilies and other Spring flowers. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Percy Archer (in the absence of her father, who is in California), looked charming in a gown of hand-painted parchment georgette with hat and shoes to match and carried a bouquet of American beauty roses. Her sister, Miss Ada Archer, was bridesmaid, and wore a becoming gown of poudre blue flat crepe and carried a bouquet of carnations. The groom was attended by Mr. Forrest Dennis. Mrs. Frank Daly, sister of the bride, played the wedding music, and during the signing of the register sang, "Until."

Following the wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benor left for Toronto; the bride wearing a costume of black satin, metallic trimmed, small hat and navy fur trimmed coat.

The groom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls, to the bridesmaid a wrist watch, and to the best man, a Masonic tie pin.

The out-of-town guests were Mrs. C. Benor, Miss Lillian Benor and Mrs. H. Glassford.

Mr. and Mrs. Benor will reside in Campbellford.

Summer Resorters Seek To Ban Planes For Hire

BROCKVILLE, May 4. — On the ground that airplanes endanger small water craft when starting and ending a flight, and that the noise they make is objectionable, prominent members of the Alexandra Bay and Thousand Islands summer resorts have begun a movement to have planes for hire prohibited. Chamber of Commerce officials state that movement has strong support.

OBITUARY.

MRS. H. EGGLETON.

STIRLING, May 5.—Sadness came to the home of Mr. Hector Eggleton on Saturday night when his wife, formerly Miss Mae Nerrie, passed away in the General hospital at Belleville. Mrs. Eggleton was taken ill on Monday morning and hastily removed to the hospital that night, where a serious operation was performed. Hope was held out for her recovery but she took a sudden turn for the worse on Saturday morning and passed away at nine o'clock that night. Mrs. Eggleton was in her 33rd year and is survived by her husband, her widowed mother, four sisters, and two brothers, one of the latter, James, being in the West.

The funeral service was held on Tuesday afternoon in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, conducted by the minister, Rev. A. N. Reid. The burial was at Mount Nebo cemetery, Springbrook.

IVAN NESBITT.

APSLEY, May 5.—The funeral of Ivan Ward Nesbitt, who was drowned in Eels Creek while working on the drive on Thursday last was held on Saturday afternoon at St. Paul's church, Lasswade, which could not accommodate more than half of those who attended the service. The Peterborough Lumber Co., in whose service the young man met his untimely end, was represented by Mr. Davidson and Mr. F. Overend. The Rev. C. A. G. Spence conducted the service, and Mrs. J. Downing presided at the organ.

Amongst the floral emblems were wreaths from the Lumber Company, and the lads comrades on the drive.

Besides his sorrowing parents, there are five sisters and two brothers left to mourn his loss.

MRS. ALONZO RICHARDSON

BETHANY, May 5.—Mrs. John Porteous has just received the sad news of the death of her sister, Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, at her home in Janesville, Ill.

To the older residents of this community Mrs. Richardson was well known as both she and her husband came to reside in this village 65 years ago and lived here for over 30 years. They were both active members in the then Methodist church. After leaving this village they lived in Millbrook for several years going from there to Janesville, Ill. where her home has since been.

About 16 years ago Mrs. Richardson, who was Martha Gardiner previous to her marriage, made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Robert Miller. The funeral service was held on Tuesday, April 26th. The service being in charge of her pastor, Rev. R. Burton Sheppard. Interment was made at Milton Junction.

Six of her ten children still survive, namely: Mrs. Robert Miller, Ralph Richardson, Janesville; Prof. Norman E. Richardson, Evansville; Mrs. O. E. Burmester, Middleton; Mrs. A. E. Will, Fort Atkinson, and Harold Wesley Richardson, Fort William. Besides Mrs. John Porteous, one other sister and and one brother, Mrs. A. Checkely of Hamilton and David Gardiner, Coldwater, survive.

CHARLES NELSON

CAMPBELLFORD, May 5 — The funeral of the late Charles Nelson was held from his late residence, "Morningside Farm," Seymour, on Wednesday afternoon, Rev. W. Elliott conducting the service. Deceased, who was 81 years of age, was born in Scotland, May 1, 1846, coming to Canada when a young man, and being a resident of Seymour since then.

The late Mr. Nelson was a man of many friends, and high integrity. For many years he was the township tax collector. He was a lifelong Presbyterian, later joining the union, and was a member of St. John's church. He is survived by his wife, Janet Watson, and two sons, Blythe and James of Seymour.

Interment took place in Burnbrae Cemetery, Rev. D. A. McKenzie assisting in the service.

The pall bearers were six nephews Messrs. Herbert, Lindsay, George and Allan Watson, and Stewart and George Nelson.

PATRICK DOYLE.

Deceased had been ailing for the past two years, and his end was not altogether unexpected. He passed away in the 64th year of his age.

As a farmer the late Mr. Doyle displayed an industrious spirit, whilst in religion he was a devout Roman Catholic. Besides his sorrowing widow, he leaves to mourn his loss two sons and five daughters, namely, Joseph, resident in Saskatchewan, and Leo at home; Mrs. W. Reynolds, of Marmora; Mrs. F. Bertrand of Deloro; Mrs. F. Simmons of Niagara Falls; Miss Frances Doyle of Marmora, and Miss Kathleen Doyle at home.

The funeral took place on Wednesday, Rev. Father J. J. O'Reilly officiating.

HIAWATHA NEWS

HIAWATHA, May 5.—Sunday, May 1 was the first of pickerel fishing. Very few of the residents of Hiawatha or of Peterborough tried to catch any fish. The chilly wind must have kept them away from the lakeshore.

Mrs. Amos Johnson and Mrs. Arthur Whetung of Curve Lake were with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Madden Howard on Sunday. Mrs. Johnson was accompanied by her daughters, Charlotte and Mary, and son, Victor.

Mr. V. Eastwood, Indian Agent and Mr. R. Conley of the Department of Indian Affairs were present at the Council held last Thursday in the Memorial Hall. Mr. Conley is Chief Accountant at Ottawa for the Department. Mr. Eastwood was disbursing the annual treaty money.

Mr. Horace Taylor was a week end visitor with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jarvis.

The friends of Mrs. Henry Cowie and Mrs. Peter Thomson will be sorry to learn that they are both ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Fife and sons, Lorenzo and Clifford, of Villiers visited Mr. and Mrs. James Howard on Sunday.

Mr. Donald Crawford was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Coward during the week end.

Splendid Washboards

Built to LAST!

Here's a washboard so strong that a big 165 pound man can stand on it without damaging it in the slightest way.

That tough SMP Pearl Enameled rubbing surface is mighty near everlasting, and the rest of the board is built in the same way. The remarkable wearing qualities of this sturdy washboard demonstrate the lifelong wear you get from all SMP Enameled Ware utensils. Made by that old established Canadian company.

DIRECTIONS FOR MODEL PLANES

Hints On Construction Given Boys By Captain Ayres.

FOR USE WITH DRAWINGS.

Aeronautics is one of the classes of entry at the Boys' Hobby show and as an aid to boys wishing to enter this class the following directions for the making of an airplane have been written by Captain Ayres of the Canadian Air Services Company, who is interested in this subject and who is conducting the flying school in this city.

Propellers.

Carve the props as opposites; that is, one revolving clockwise one anti clockwise, to push. The curved edges are to be the entering edges. First drill the center hole to fit the shafts. With a gouge cut the cups of each blade. These cups should be slightly cupped rather than deeply curved. Now, holding the prop in hand, carve the backs with a shap knife, to conform with the cups, making the blades about 1-6th inch thick but gradually thickening into the hub to preserve strength. Sandpaper smoothly.

Fuselage.

Prepare the longerons by cutting one end on a taper and the other end with a step to conform with the plan and to accommodate the back brace. Put the tapered ends together as shown, and fasten with the nose hook and a neat thread and glue joint. Next prepare the back brace by cutting the ends to conform to the sides of the fuselage and attaching by glue and thread, the comet hangars, tapering the ends of the brace, if necessary, to fit snugly against the tube of the hangar. Attach the back brace to the longerons with thread and glue. Form an "X" brace with the pieces for that purpose and secure with thread and glue, as shown, permitting the ends to lay on one under side of the longerons, but trimming neatly when finished, to prevent friction with the rubbers.

In a similar manner attach the front brace. Bind the metal elastics guides with thread and glue in the center of the longerons. These are to distribute the motor torsion. Assemble the propellers, shafts and washers, through the propeller shaft guides as shown in the drawing. Divide the 30 feet of rubber into two equal lengths. Loop these into six stranded motors and place a motor retainer rubber on each end. Hook one end to the shaft hook, the other end to an "S" hook, reeve through the cans, and hook to the nose. Proceed with the construction of the wings.

Wings.

With emery paper shine the wire. With nippers cut 4 lengths 8½ inches long and 3 length 3 inches long. Bend these to an aerofoil section as shown in the drawing at "Wing End."

To bend the wing outlines I recommend that you draw a full sized layout of the shape and bend the wire to conform with the drawing. Solder the ends, where they meet, and solder the ribs in place doing this job with a minimum of solder and maintaining a good wing section. Tightly stretch thread laterally across the wings, knotting it around each rib and end. This prevents sagging of the covering. Cut the silk to an outline as shown in the drawing, making each pattern to conform with each wing.

Lay the silk on the top wing, glue or dope the tabs and bend over the frame and cement to the under side of the fabric. Remove wrinkles from the fabric by rolling the edges between the thumb and forefinger. When the edges are dry, dope with two coats of wing solution. The performance of the model will be improved if the elevator is bent to a slight upward or dihedral angle: Should this tend to draw the fabric from the central rib, sew both together with an over and under stitch.

Assembly.

Attach the wings to the longerons with rubber bands forming a loop around the longeons with the bands and slipping the wing under same to be held by its tension. Place the incidence block under the leading edge of the elevator, to give it increased upward slant. Line up the wings accurately. The main wing should go about 2 inches from the back brace. The elevating wing should be about 4 inches from the nose.

Flying.

Wind each propeller about 400 revolutions in the direction of rotation opposite to that which will cause a back draft of air. This winding is best done with a winder operated by a companion while you hold the props and stand sufficiently far from him to stretch the rubbers at least twice their normal length. A winder may be made by rotating a hook to receive the "S" hooks, in a hand drill, or an altered egg beater may be used.

In using a winder an allowance must be made for the turning ratio of the winder, to give the props the proper number of turns. The rubbers will give better service if moistened with glycerine to improve their stretch and decrease friction. When the model is wound up, and the rubber hooks are properly connected (if a winder has been used) hold the model by the props over the head and launch at a slight upward slant against the wind. If instructions have been properly followed the model should fly nicely, and delight you with its performance. It is hardly necessary to say that the model should only be flown where plenty of space is available.

Further information may be had on applying to Douglas Loomis at the Y.M.C.A.

For the second time only in three years a gull has been known to fly across the Atlantic Ocean. The bird was marked with an identification ring in the Farne Islands in June, 1924, and discovered again in Labrador in the autumn of 1925.

120 BOYS MAKE SHOW ENTRIES

To Exhibit in From One To Eight Classes—To Be Splendid Display.

NO HOMELIEST DOGS.

In view of the delay in the printing of the prize lists for the Boys' Hobby Show which did not permit the placing of the information in the hands of the boys at the date planned for by the committee, it has been decided to accept entries for the show up until 9.30 p.m. on Saturday. To date 120 boys have made an entry in from one to eight sections of the Hobby Show and it is very certain that many people are due for an eye-opener when the various exhibits are placed on display.

The Dog Show and the City Championships in checkers, chess and pingpong have each claimed many boys who are not handy with tools or brush. It is rather noteworthy that no boy has entered his dog in the section set aside for the homeliest dog in the show. One lad solemnly assured the entry secretary that his dog was a blood hound. Whether rightly or wrongly will be seen at the dog show.

Egyptian Brickfield Scene Of First Strike

LONDON, May 5 (Canadian Press Cable).—The search for the Promised Land was presented in a new light during the debate in the House of Commons Tuesday on the Trades Union Bill. Frank Rose, North Aberdeen, one of the most independent of Laborites, delighted the Commons with his own history of strike movements.

"The first strike took place in an Egyptian brickfield," he said, "and all the masters got from it was ten plagues and a washout. The strikers were rewarded with 40 years' wandering, with only two to reach the Promised Land." The story of this first strike, said Ross, was also the story of the last.

THE MAKING OF THE DOMINION

The Dominion of Canada came into being on July 1st, 1867, but the site of the present city of Montreal was first visited by a white man, Jacques Cartier, on October 2nd, 1535.

The story of the intervening three hundred years is one of the most fascinating stories in the world's history, the story of New France and Acadia, the glory and romance of old Quebec, the thrilling tales of the coureurs du bois and the Indians, the courage and hardships of the early settlers, the brave deeds and stubborn fights in defence of hardly-won possessions, the constant struggle for control of this new land, culminating in the glorious victory of Wolfe on the Plains of Abraham, when the new empire finally passed for all time into British hands.

Many of the scenes of this wonderful story, in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, will be visited by the Kerr-Bryson Eastern Tour, which is to leave Toronto via Canadian National Railways on July 15th, 1927, a tour which will be replete with scenic, romantic and historic interest. Descriptive leaflet will be promptly furnished on request to any Agent of the Canadian National Railways, or to Martin Kerr, B.A., 4 Beulah Ave., Hamilton, or A. E. Bryson, 44 Silverthorn Ave., Toronto.

SOVIET ENVOYS DISLIKE GUARD

Make Protest Against "Excessive and Unwanted" Police Protection.

BY GENEVA POLICE.

GENEVA, May 5 (Canadian Press).—A strong protest against the "excessive and unwanted" police protection given the Soviet delegation by the Swiss authorities was made to Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general of the League of Nations, to-day by Valerian Obolensky Ossinsky, chief Soviet delegate to the International Economic Conference. M. Ossinsky told the secretary-general that the police measures were ridiculous, annoying, and an unacceptable restriction of liberty.

Sir Eric promised to intercede with the Swiss authorities, but pointed out that some protection was wisely precautionary.

OUTSTANDING SUCCESS OF THE DUFFUS MOTOR SHOW

Thousands Of Visitors Manifest Admiration For the Popular New Models.

It is very evident, by the large attendance at the Duffus Motor Show, that the Whippet and Willys-Knight Automobiles have met with an instantaneous success and that these cars, in considerable numbers, will be seen flashing by on the highways and byways of Peterborough and vicinity.

All visitors have been very much impressed with the magnificent show room and the up-to-date service facilities. After all, one of the greatest features of any car is the service back of it, by the man who sells the car.

Mr. J. J. Duffus, President and General Manager, has always maintained that just so long as his business was striving to give exceptional service and keeping abreast of the times in always improving that same service, so would the business grow and prosper and the number of satisfied customers increase from day to day. After all, success in any field of endeavour is gauged only by the capacity to serve.

EVANGELIST GIVES HELPFUL ADDRESS

Interest Growing in Series of Meetings at Bethany Tabernacle.

"The reason that people do not find peace and deliverance from their sins is because they will not take the test plunge," stated W. G. Weston, the evangelist of Pittsburg, Pa., who is holding special meetings in Bethany Tabernacle.

Mr. Weston in his message last night on the subject, "The Test Plunge," taken from the Bible account of the healing of Naaman, the Syrian, by Elisha, the prophet of Israel, very forcibly presented the plan of salvation so plainly that none of his hearers could go away without a clear understanding of God's way of salvation and healing.

After the message a large number gathered around the old fashioned altar for prayer for souls' needs and for prayer for healing. The evangelist has a profound faith in the will of God for physical healing for those who can believe. A number have testified to having received healing in their bodies. The sick will be prayed for at the close of every service.

Mr. Weston will preach to-night on the subject, "The Slighted Invitation," at eight o'clock.

Mr. Weston has announced that on Sunday afternoon at 3, he will speak again on God's healing, and urges the sick to come and hear this part of the gospel.

The attendance is increasing and the interest is rising, said the evangelist, and Sunday, the closing day of this series of meetings, will be a great day.

PROPOSES THEFT TO PAY HIS FARE

Stranger Offers London Taxi-Driver Chance To Help Rob Bank.

LONDON, Ont., May 5. — The police are investigating a story told by William Restorick, a local taxi man, that a stranger giving the name of Fred Walters of Chicago tried to interest him in the robbery of a bank at Tavistock, after Walters had been unable to pay the taxi driver $15 owed for a trip to Tavistock. Walters appeared in the Police Court yesterday on a nominal charge of vagrancy, and was remanded a week.

According to the tale unfolded to the police, Walters hired Restorick for the Tavistock journey, and when he was again landed back in London he showed that he had but one cent in his pockets. It is alleged that he then told Restorick to keep quiet and he would let him in on "something rich," later explaining his plan to raid a bank in Tavistock. It seems that he had planned to rob the bank when the trip was made, but was frightened away. Restorick told the story to Inspector of Detectives Nickle and Detective Down, and Walter's arrest followed on Tuesday night. It was decided to detain him, and investigate the taxi-man's story. It is alleged that Restorick has complicated the situation by refusing to lay a charge against his erstwhile fare.

BIRD, AGE 12, SETS RECORD

How long can a bird live? A new official record for long life among the feathered tribe has been set by a twelve-year-old pintail duck captured near Brawley, Cal., according to Popular Science Monthly. A dated band attached to the bird's leg more than twelve years ago, at Bear River, Utah, by a member of the U.S. Biological Survey, proves the record authentic.

CHILD IS SAVED FROM DROWNING

Brockville Man Dives Into Creek To Rescue Little Boy.

HIS FOURTH RESCUE.

BROCKVILLE, May 5 (Canadian Press)—Bobby Noonan, aged 3, was saved from drowning in a creek here when, while playing with a boy a year older, he fell into the water and sank. Hearing the cries of the older boy, Edward Ireland jumped into the creek and, after swimming for a short distance, saw the buttons on the child's clothing through the water as he lay on the creek bottom. By diving Ireland was able to bring the child to the surface, and the application of first aid soon restored him to consciousness. Ireland is said to have saved four people from drowning, and an effort is to be made to give him suitable recognition.

TRUCK DRIVERS APPEAR TO-DAY

Charged With Manslaughter in Connection With Death of Cyclist.

ON WINDSOR STREET.

WINDSOR, Ont., May 5.—Charges of manslaughter yesterday were placed against Albert McKinley, 44 years old, 167 Wellington Avenue, and Max Carrier, 28, of 422 Foch Avenue, in connection with the death of William Jimski, 28, an employee of the Dinsmore Contracting Company. Both men are held without bail. They will be given a preliminary arraignment before Magistrate Gundy today. Jimski was knocked from his bicycle and run over on Erie Street yesterday morning by a motor truck in charge of McKinley. Carrier was a helper on the truck. The truckmen assert Jimski drove directly across their path. The victim died at Hotel Dieu, three hours after the accident. A coroner's inquest will be held.

Strangled and Drowned

The body of a man, with a heavy wire bound around his neck, pointing to strangling, was found floating in the Detroit River, near the Solvay Process Company dock yesterday. A special deputy sheriff's badge numbered 18—A, was found on the clothes. The sheriff could not identify the body, there being no record book of those holding deputies' badges. It was said the body had been in the water about six months.

FINANCIER SUICIDES TO AVOID DISGRACE

Former Millionaire and Son Had Been Arrested, Charged With Smiles.

NEW YORK, May 5. — Abraham Crosney kicked away the chair on which he was standing in his finely appointed apartment yesterday morning, and with that gesture ended a career which had been the envy of nearly all who knew him, and sent crashing into confusion affairs involving millions of dollars.

As he died the earliest risers among his wide circle of social and business acquaintances were reading with amazement front page newspaper stories of the arrest of Crosney and his son, Paul F., the night before on charges of issuing fake stock certificates in a series of alleged swindles that are estimated to mean losses of $500,000 to some who trusted him most.

Crosney, forty-five, a prosperous-looking, energetic man, was an active lawyer until about twelve years ago, when he turned to real estate operations. His fortune, in recent years, was reputed to be as much as $3,000,000.

About a week ago it was reported that he was hard pushed for money and was being compelled to borrow at extraordinarily high rates.

THAT is true of properly canned tomatoes. From the standpoint of health qualities and food values, AYLMER Canned Tomatoes are superior to those customarily sold as "fresh". At all seasons of the year, you can have truly fresh tomatoes by asking for "AYLMER" Brand at your grocer's.

True freshness is only found in tomatoes at the moment of their perfect maturity, when the health acids are at their best and full flavor has been reached. It is then that AYLMER Tomatoes are carefully picked and immediately packed in a manner that retains every vestige of flavor and freshness. Unpacked tomatoes quickly lose their "freshness"—canned tomatoes bring this "freshness" right to your table! That is why medical science pronounces canned tomatoes more beneficial than those eaten uncanned.

Moreover, the AYLMER process of canning preserves the abundant supply of Vitamines which make tomatoes the most nutritious of vegetables. In this respect "AYLMER" Tomatoes are better than home-canned tomatoes, or those sold uncanned. Buy them by name—

AYLMER Peas and Corn Are Two Other National Favorites

AYLMER Canned Peas are graded into four sizes—all of one quality. Canned the same day as picked, AYLMER Peas are always fresh.

AYLMER Canned Corn in a variety of kinds — each plainly marked on the label. AYLMER "Golden Bantam" Corn-on-the-Cob is a real delicacy.

FIRST CROSSING OF RICE LAKE

Henry Muskratte Makes Opening Trip From Hiawatha Side.

WAVES VERY HIGH.

HIAWATHA, May 5.—To Henry Muskratte, licensed guide, who each year is employed by the Lakeshore summer hotel, falls the honor of crossing Rice Lake first, from the Hiawatha side. Many have come over from Alderville and trappers from Harwood paddled over as soon as the lake became free of ice.

He crossed in his motor boat, "Tris Speaker", and was a visitor at the home of his sister, Mrs. Fred Simpson at Alderville. Mr. E. Hinton accompanied him on Saturday.

They landed at Dunnett's Landing. Both coming and going the waves were very high but the boat is a very seaworthy craft.

At the United church on Sunday evening voting took place for the lay delegate to Presbytery meeting at Lindsay. The following is the result: Mr. George Paudash, 17 votes; Mr. E. Hinton, 9 votes; Mr. William Anderson, 2; Mr. Alfred Crowe, 2, and Mr. Robert Cowie, 1.

The little dandelion, so common in summer, was first noticed on Saturday and Sunday. May flowers, Hepaticas and adder's tongues are also in bloom. The white blood roots have been seen for over a week. A pair of birds have hatched out one family and the littles ones are partly feathered out.

Mrs. McLennan and a few friends, Mr. and Mrs. L. Dobbin and son John, Mr. and Mrs. H. MacFadden and Mr. George Duncan and son were visitors during the past week end at Hattrick's Point. They were from Peterborough.

CONFIRMATION AT WARSAW MAY 16

Eleven Candidates at Anglican Church—Rev. J. D. Pierce Speaks.

WARSAW, May 5.—On Monday afternoon, May 16, there will be a confirmation service in the Anglican church. There are eleven candidates. Bishop Sweeney will officiate. Confirmation classes are being held on Wednesday evenings.

The annual Sunday school convention for Dummer township will be held on Thursday afternoon and evening, May 19.

On Sunday, Rev. Ira D. Pierce accompanied Rev. H. B. Herrington and spoke at Bethel, Zion and Warsaw. He put in a very strong appeal on behalf of the Armenian orphans. Almost without exception these boys, seventy of whom are placed on farms, are doing well. The five boys placed near Warsaw sang one of the plaintive songs of Armenia.

In his address Mr. Pierce gave a short history of the country, and of its long withstanding the onslaught of the Tartars. He told of the hatred of the Moslem Turk towards the little Christian nation and the cross. He showed that the Christian nations of the world should do more for these people, who have been plundered in every way. One of the five boys near Warsaw has a mother who has succeeded in earning enough money for her own passage and deposit, but the government will not easily let these people into Canada. The other four boys are orphans. He told of a boy of nineteen who saved his earnings to bring his sister to Canada, and a few days ago she arrived.

On account of the general good conduct of these boys the Canadian government has given permission to bring out another one hundred children under fourteen years of age. This time half the number may be girls. There is no reduction in the fare and the full adult price of one hundred and fifty dollars transportation must be paid so there is fifteen thousand needed. Mr. Pierce used no unnecessary words, and held the interest of his audience. This collection in Warsaw in aid of the work was eighteen dollars, and for the day twenty-five dollars. There is a few dollars over the one hundred that was promised. Dr. Munro and a committee secured nearly eighty-two dollars.

During his stay in Warsaw Mr. William Darling drove Mr. Pierce to the homes of the boys. One was away with the family. He found the people all pleased with the boys, and the boys happy. The guardian of the boy Mr. Pierce did not see, phoned him how pleased he was with the boy, and offered to come and take hi mto his home.

In private conversation Mr. Pierce told that of all the boys sent out only one had really given trouble, and he hopes now that boy realizes his advantages. Another boy, who had suffered much, and was nervous was fitted with glasses and is much better, and the third boy who had to be removed, was placed in another home, with other children, and is doing well.

The government stipulates that the boys must go on farms and the girls into domestic service. Until they are placed, they are trained.

IGNORE CHALLENGE.

OSSINING, N.Y.,—May 4.—Charges that prisoners in the state penitentiary here have a pleasant and enjoyable life have been answered by a direct challenge from Warden L. E. Lawes. "Any public man who believes that Sing Sing prisoners are coddled is invited to spend a day here as an inmate," he says. So far, there have been no takers.

FOREST WEEK IS OBSERVED

Special Programme Given at Hiawatha School—Slogans Studied.

ADDRESSES MADE.

HIAWATHA, May 5. — At the public school on Friday afternoon, April 29, the pupils presented a "Save the Forest Programme."

The vice-president, Miss Nina Cowie, of the junior red cross society, was in the chair. An opening chorus, "O Canada," was sung by the school.

The Royal Proclamation, as issued by the Governor-General, through the Under-Secretary of State, was read by Mr. M. E. Hinton. It dealt with the value of trees, from money, pleasure, and health angles and the reason for setting aside of the last week in April as "Canada Forest Week."

At this part of the programme slogans, written on the blackboards were copied by the pupils. "All Big Fires comes from small beginnings." "Prompt attention keeps fires small." "Enlightened public interest is essential to efficient fire prevention." "Lumber goes up as Forests burn down." "When carelessness steps in, safety steps out. Put out your camp fire." "Forest fires destroy industries and reduce employment." "One tree will make a million matches.

One match will kill a million trees.
Each time you strike a match
You start something. Be sure
You can stop, whatever you start."

"Your camp fire; build it on dirt Scrape all round it. Put it out."

Prevent Forest Fires—IT PAYS."

Then Alan Thomson read. "The Spirit of the Woods," a beautiful poem, written by Mabel W. Phillips.

George Paudash, jr., gave an address on "Our Friend, the Forest." It was very interesting. The value of trees to mankind was stressed. The danger from fire and careless cutting to the woods supply was, mentioned. If the forests were to vanish as it has in some countries, sports men, lumbermen, manufacturers, and many classes of citizens would be the sufferers.

Nina Cowie then gave the reading "If Trees were People," which showed how trees had characteristics of people. The pines would be too prim for popularity, gnarled oaks and chestnuts would be calm sturdy business men, the maples would be vain ladies because of their love of dress, and poplars would be tall slim youths.

In "Favorite Trees," Isabel Coword spoke for the apple tree, Herman Pudash for the maple, Bernice Howard for the white birch, Alan Thomson for the hickory, Flossie Loukes for the spruce, Elmer Paudash for the pine. Fire, the enemy of all trees was represented by George Pudash, and Winnifred Blake was the spirit of the trees.

Mr. Hinton then read two poems: Bliss Carmon's "Trees," and "The Tree of Calvary," which gives in lovely verse, the story of the Cross upon which Jesus died.

One of the older boys gave a few observations he had made on the muskrat and the junior pupils gave readings.

A song was sung by Winnifred Blaker, Flossie and Isabel Loukes, which was given a hearty applause.

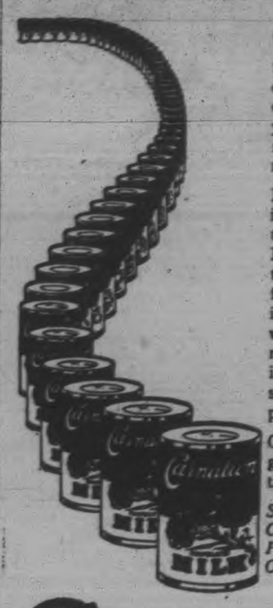
Its Goodness NEVER Varies



CARNATION MILK is not only the finest, most completely useful milk you can buy—but its high quality is always the same. You can depend on it day after day, year after year. Always, every time, it adds the same wonderful flavor, smoothness, richness, whenever you use it.

For Carnation quality and uniformity is protected right from the source to you. We maintain the Carnation Field Force whose sole job is to watch the production of the milk on the farm. The freshest, richest milk only is accepted at the condenseries—whisked rapidly through cooling rooms, evaporators, homogenizers and into the tins, there to be hermetically sealed for delivery to you, fresh and pure as when it left the condensery.

Not Elaborateness, but Perfection in Detail marks the Successful Hostess

By NELLIE LYLE PATTINSON
Domestic Scientist
Author of The Canadian Cook Book

Is it not true that success comes to the hostess through her perfection in detail rather than the elaborateness of her furnishings and her menu?

With the simplest of furnishings and with simple food, entertainment may reach a point of perfection in the hands of the expert housekeeper. In cake-baking, for instance, there is afforded the greatest opportunity for the display of the homemaker's skill.

Quaker Cake Flour assures delicious cakes. Friends exclaim about the lightness, the delicacy, the fineness of texture. There need be no thought of failure in baking, for in the hands of even the beginner Quaker Cake Flour does not fail. Its makers guarantee satisfactory results.

And so the baking of cakes becomes a pleasure. The cakes themselves are a joy to the hostess and a delight to her friends. They will keep fresh for days. The high-grade potato flour in Quaker Cake Flour retains the moisture long after cakes made with other flour go stale and dry.

If you will try Quaker Cake Flour you will become just as enthusiastic about it as I am.

Quaker Cake Flour is economical, too. Let us calculate:

WHITE CAKE
(Recipe on Package)

½ c. butter—42c. per lb.	.07c
⅔ c. sugar—7c. per lb.	.023
½ c. milk—14c. per qt.	.035
1¼ c. Quaker Flour sifted—4c. per cup	.05
½ tsp. vanilla	.025
2 egg whites—48c. per doz.	.04
2 teaspoons baking powder.
To this add 7c. for a boiled frosting.

CHURCH MEETINGS

NORWOOD UNITED CHURCH

NORWOOD, May 5.—The annual congregational meeting of Norwood United Church was held on Monday evening. Rev. R. F. Stillman presided. After the opening devotional exercises, the minutes of the last annual meeting were read by the secretary, Mr. John Marks.

The report of the session was given by Mr. E. C. Squire and showed a membership of 500 resident and 82 non-resident members.

The Stewards' report was given by Mr. B. W. Squire.

Reports for the other organizations of the church were given by Mrs. Thomas Buck, for the Ladies' Aid, Mrs. R. G. Lawlor for the Woman's Missionary Society, Miss Ruth Harper for the Young Woman's Auxiliary, Mrs. Claude Bongard for the Mission Band and Mr. W. H. Tricker for the Board of Trustees.

Mr. Harry Wildman gave a splendid report of the work done in the Sunday school at Donegal. The cradle roll has a membership of 11. The primary class, with 12 pupils is in charge of Mrs. Sam Buck. The Junior class of girls, Mrs. J. Starke in charge, has a membership of 8. Junior class (boys), 6 members, teacher, Mrs. T. Stevenson; Intermediate class (boys) 7 members, Mr. John Starke, teacher; young men's class, 7 members, David Starke, teacher. The Bible class with a membership of 30, is in charge of Mrs. William Morton. The total membership is 81.

The report for Elgin Sunday school was not given, neither was that of the Ninth Line school Dummer.

Mr. Howard Adams gave the report for the local Sunday school. The teachers in the school are, Bible class, Mr. Thomas Clarke; Young Women's Class, Mrs. A. McNeil; Young Men's Class, Rev. R. F. Stillman; Intermediate (boys), Mrs. G. A. Brethen; Intermediate (girls), Miss N. Liscumbe; Junior (boys), Mr. W. Wendt; Junior (girls), Mrs. M. Dickson; Primary, Mrs. B. W. Squire; Superintendent, Mr. G. A. Brethen; Assistant Superintendent, Mr. George Hamblin; Secretary, Mr. Howard Adams; Treasurer, Mr. J. F. Elliott.

The report for the Young People's Society was given by Mrs. A. McNeil, and for the choir, by Mr. E. C. Squirie

After all of the reports had been received and adopted Messrs. A. G. McDermott, Arthur Gardner, Lyle McMillan, Kenneth Montgomery and Miss Stella Burgess were appointed scrutineers and the election of officers proceeded with six elders were to be elected. Several were nominated for the position and the following were elected: Messrs. T. Clarke, Harry Wildman, Hugh Robb, Fred Gardner, Frank Jenkins and Claude Bongard.

Seven stewards, namely, Messrs. Sam Buck, W. H. Buck, Joseph Gardner, Joseph Humphries, A. G. McDermott, R. J. Leeper and W. H. Giffin were elected to office for the coming year and the names of Mr. F. Gardner, E. T. Buck and W. E. Pakenham were added to the Board of Trudtees. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served in the Sunday school room by the Ladies' Aid.

BETHEL UNITED CHURCH

EAST EMILY, May 5.—The members of Bethel United church held their annual Congregational Meeting in the basement of the church last Thursday evening.

A large number of the members were present to hear the various reports of the past year's work of the church.

Rev. Mr. Rowland opened the meeting with a hymn and prayer, after which the reports were given of the different departments as follows:

A very satisfactory report of the Trustee Board was given by Mr. Ira Switzer.

Sunday school report was given by Miss Sadie Kerr.

Ladies' Aid report by Mrs. Harry Jackson.

Epworth League by Oswald Ruth.

The reports pleased all the members very well and all the different departments have money on hand.

Mr. Eugene Switzer was appointed as member of the Trustee Board in the absence of Mr. Thomas Atwell, whose death took place during the past year.

After the business part of the meeting was over, a miscellaneous shower was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Burgess, whose marriage took place recently. The choir in which Mrs. Burgess took a very active part previous to her marriage presented her with a Coleman lamp.

Mr. Burgess made a very pleasing reply on behalf of himself and his wife and Mrs. Burgess also spoke, thanking all present and expressing her surprise.

A social half hour was spent and refreshments were served by the young people after a very pleasant occasion had come to a close.

The best wishes of the community go out to Mr. and Mrs. Burgess.

MARMORA NEWS.

MARMORA, May 5.—A well-attended dance was held in the town hall on Friday evening under the auspices of the Sodality of the Sacred Heart church.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hart and Mr. T. Cousins spent the week-end in Toronto.

Among those attending the banquet given to the Hon. J. R. Cooke, M.P.P., at Madoc on Friday evening were Messrs. G. B. Airhart, H. Connor, J. Jones, T. E. Potts, and W. D. Donnelly.

Mr. Robert Warren, of Toronto, is renewing acquaintances locally.

Mr. George Auger has moved his family into the part of the Campion residence recently vacated by Mr. George Dennis.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Laycock recently received a visit from their daughter-in-law, Mrs. W. Laycock, of Port Arthur.

PILE SUFFERERS

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting and operations sometimes fail?

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by McDermid & Jury and druggists everywhere, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, quick and lasting relief to thousands of piles sufferers and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. Don't delay. Try HEM-ROID today. It will do the same for you.

While the Coast Guard operates under the Treasury Department during peace time, it comes under the direction of the Navy Department in war time.

SHRUBS RECEIVED FOR DISTRIBUTION

Stirling Horticultural Society Gives Out Large Consignment.

STIRLING, May 5.—A large consignment of shrubs and ferns were received and distributed by the Horticultural Society last week.

Mr. George Reynolds has purchased the building he has occupied as a boot and shoe store for some years from Dr. Frank Zwick and will continue his business there as usual.

Mr. Clayton Tucker of Sine, has taken possession of the butcher business lately conducted by Mr. A. L. Hough.

The Conservative Ladies' Association of the village held a very interesting meeting recently with a good attendance. Solos were sung by Miss L. Smith and by Miss Hazel Burkitt, who was spending her holidays here.

Mrs. W. S. Martin gave a synopsis of events leading up to Confederation, and the progress made by Canada since 1867. Mrs. Tice gave violin solos, accompanied by Mrs. C. Cain and little Miss Mary McLean, of Orillia danced the "Highland Fling" in Highland costume. Gena Spry gave a paper on "How Mrs. Jones Helped;" Mr. W. S. Martin gave an address touching on Conservative history and loyalty to Britain; Mrs. F. MacDonell's "Current Events" was greatly enjoyed; Miss Frieda Matthews put on a contest, as did Miss Agnes Stout of Peterborough, after which lunch was served, and a social hour ended a very pleasant evening's program. At the May meeting it is expected that the Hon. J. R. Cooke will be the principal speaker.

Hour of Service Changed.

The Presbyterian and United churches held their evening services at 7.30 last Sunday for the first time this season, and will continue holding them at this hour during the summer.

The auction sale of the housheold effects of Mr. G. F. Fralick last Saturday was largely attended and good prices obtained. Mr. C. U. Clancy wielded the hammer.

Oddfellows Attend Church.

Stirling Lodge No. 239, Encampment No. 80 and Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 211, I.O.O.F., observed the 108th anniversary of the founding of the great organization "The Independent Order of Oddfellows" in America, by attending divine service in St. John's Anglican Church on Sunday last, where they listened to an able sermon by the rector, Rev. B. F. Byers. There were about eighty members in line, coming from Tweed, Madoc, Springbrook, Campbellford, Belleville and other places.

Summer conditions for the benefit of rural customers, will prevail in the stores here; they will be open on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings for business, closing at 6 o'clock as usual on the other nights of the week.

Cheesemakers in this district are not overworked this season as yet, the milk supply being held back by farmers on account of the price of cream being good, the need of the skim milk for the calves, and the price of cheese not being to their liking.

Evangelistic Services Start.

The Rev. H. T. Crossley and Mr. Leonard began a series of evangelistic services in St. Paul's United church on Sunday last, which will continue for two weeks. At the services on Sunday there were large numbers present. The sermons were inspiring, and the song service consisting of solos and duets, was much appreciated.

At the Guild meeting on Monday evening in St. Andrew's church, Mrs. Rollins was in charge. Rev. Mr. Reid read the Scripture lesson from 1st Cor. 3 v. then led in prayer. A much enjoyed piano duet was given by Miss Hume and Lorne Anderson. A play, the "Revivified Lily" was well presented by nine young ladies and two young men. A chorus by three boys was much enjoyed. The topic, "Choosing An Occupation" was in charge of Miss Willmoore Morton and was both interesting and instructive. There were sixty-eight present. It was decided by the Guild to purchase 100 hymn books for the use of the Sunday school and church. On May 20, the Guilds of Burnbrae and West Huntingdon are to visit St. Andrew's Guild.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Hogle, of Trenton, spent Saturday in town.

Mr. Silas Green, of Picton, was also a visitor in town last week.

SAFEGUARDING MILK BY PASTEURIZATION

In 1886 Soxhlet in Munich, recommended that all cow"s milk fed to infants should be boiled or sterilized for at least thirty-five or forty minutes, to kill the germs contaminating the same, he having observed that in the process of milking and the handling of milk, particles of manure and barnyard contamination of different kinds, together with disease germs, gained access to the milk and rendered it unfit and unsafe for infant and child feeding.

In 1892, the late Professor Jacobi, and Professor Roland Godfrey Freeman of New York, advised Mr. Nathan Straus, a public philanthropist, who had manifested a great interest in the ways and means of reducing the infant mortality, to adopt this Soxhlet method for sterilizing the milk in the infant milk depots that he was about to establish in the tenement house districts of New York.

It might be mentioned in this connection that Professor Jacobi and Professor Roland Godfrey Freeman of New York were two of the most outstanding authorities on the diseases of children on this continent. Freeman was the first physician on the continent to be identified with the establishment of infant milk depots, in New York City.

Through the influence of these outstanding authorities and guided by their scientific knowledge, Mr. Straus was the pioneer in establishing infant milk depots, and in the use of pasteurized milk for infants, on this continent. Although Mr. Straus was engaged in a large business enterprise, a merchant prince, yet he devoted a large part of his time to the establishment and operation of the infant milk depots in New York, and has since established them in other cities, not only in America, but also in Europe and Palestine, for the distribution of pasteurized milk for infants.

Richardson, and piano numbers by the Misses Helen Bonney, Dolly Custance and Florence Cripps. During the tea hour, the piano was played by little Edith McLaren and Doreen Elliott. The guests were received by Mrs. Fairbrother and Mrs. F. D. Armstrong, the latter acting as convenor of the committee in charge of arrangements, composed of Mrs. Wm. Fell, Mrs. J. O. Fife and Mrs. F. B. Elliott. Assistants were Mesdames Emery, Fife, Heale and James.

Citizens who met Mr. and Mrs. F. McGillivray Knowles of New York City, on the occasion when they held their Summer School in Painting here last year, will be interested in the following extract from last evening's Toronto Star:

"Mrs. McGillivray Knowles, a former Toronto artist, had just been awarded a prize in New York for one of her paintings, which she describes as being of 'chickens.' Mrs. Knowles and her artist husband moved to New York recently but already they are in the inner circle of the artists' fraternity in the American metropolis. Mrs. Knowles was in Toronto recently and some of her work was on exhibit here.

"Her own letter describes the success which has come to her most recently. She writes:

"'Just before I went to Toronto, I was invited to become a member of the artist group of the League of American Pen Women and since my return at an exhibition now being held, I have been awarded a prize of $100 for the "best picture"—is not that quite thrilling

"'The headquarters are in Washington and Mrs. Thompson Seton is the president. This morning I received such a charming letter from her inviting me to attend as a guest of honor the "Author's Breakfast" to be held shortly.

"'I believe I will go although I feel quite "scared stiff" about it as I will surely have to make a speech when that $100 is handed to me! For indeed I would rather paint a thousand chickens than make one speech! (N.B., My picture is one of chickens.)'"

CAR SUNDAY.

Drivers Penalized For Failure To Bring Full Load To Sunday School.

WOOLER, May 5.—Sunday was "Car Sunday" in the Sunday school. The Superintendant, C. F. Wessels, appointed men to check the cars, as they drove in, according to the number of people. A car supposed to carry five should have six, and so on. And if under average, would be taxed to help the Sunday school funds. S. L. Terrill haa the banner, as he had nine in his landeau. The attendance was two hundred and eleven. Miss Margaret Teal conducted the missionary programme as follows: Papers were read by Percy Whaley, Mary Teal, Lucille Waite on the subject, "Ukrainians of America advance towards religious freedom." A solo by one of the juniors, Edith Austin. Recitation, "Life"—Lulu McColl; recitation, "Death"—Marion Dempsey. Then Miss Teal closed with a missionary talk.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dafoe, of Belleville and Dr. and Mrs. Hess, of Hastings, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Terrill, on Sunday.

Alden Arthur, accompanied by L. H. Rowe called on a sick friend at Chisholm's Rapids, on Sunday afternoon.

W. A. Smith is building a cement wall and adding beauty to his home, by filling in with shrubs and flowers.

William Ruttan and Malcolm Waite motored to Kingston on Sunday.

Mrs. John Terrill broke her arm on Monday afternoon. She was putting up curtains and fell off the stool.

L. H. Rowe bought and shipped 4200 dozen eggs, in one week.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

The next day, Tuesday, the eighth day of the trial of Cherry Lane Wiley for the murder of Ralph Cluny, her millionaire fiance, was given over to the examination of a small army of relatively unimportant but necessary witnesses. The Reverend Mr. Arthur Ashburn, rector of fashionable St. Peter's, at which the wedding was to have taken place, told his story of Faith's arrival, distracted, at the church, to break the news of Cherry's elopement. Chief of Police Morehouse, three detectives, and the coroner told their stories of the discovery and examination of the body of the murdered man, as well as their search of the house and grounds for clues.

Churchill, in cross-examining Chief of Police Morehouse, succeeded in having the peculiar footprints, discovered by Bob Hathaway, and pointed out by him to the chief, introduced into the evidence.

"You have testified, Chief, that you and Mr. Hathaway were together in the bedroom in which the body of Mr. Cluny was discovered dead—you were there with him about eleven o'clock Thanksgiving night, you say?" Churchill asked.

"Yes," Morehouse answered.

"I will ask you if Mr. Hathaway, with your permission, raised the window which, according to his testimony, was closed when you and he together visited the death chamber, though it had been open when he discovered the murdered body of his uncle?"

"He did. We both looked out of the window," Morehouse answered readily.

"And what did you see, Chief—that is, did you see anything in the nature of a clue to the murder mystery?" Churchill struggled with the phrasing of this vitally important question.

"I didn't see anything that I regarded as a clue," Morehouse answered a little belligerently.

"Will you tell the jury just what you did see?" Churchill suggested sharply.

"We looked down, leaning out of the window, and just below, that is, about three or four feet below the window, on the sloping terrace, were two sets of footprints in the snow. One set led toward the window, up the terrace, you know, and one set led toward the porte cochere, away from the window."

"Describe those footprints, Chief," Churchill demanded.

"Well, the right footprint was of the whole shoe, but the left one was of the toe half of the shoe only, the kind of footprint a man would make if he walked on tiptoe, with his heel held up," Morehouse explained conscientiously.

"Now, Mr. Morehouse, how many of these footprints were there altogether, or that you could discover?" Churchill urged him, with supreme satisfaction.

"There were three sets of the footprints going each way."

"Did you go out and measure these footprints?" Churchill went on triumphantly.

"I did, but I lost the envelope I jotted the figures down on. Hathaway measured them, too." Morehouse explained apologetically.

"Will you give the measurements from memory as accurately as possible?"

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

For Friday, May 6, 1927.

(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Although good aspects rule to-day, according to astrology, it is a time to be cautious.

In this sway early morning is not lucky and it is wise to delay important action until later in the day.

It is not a favorable rule for women, who should make the most of opportunities to fit themselves for important public service and postpone personal ambitions.

This is not a fortunate direction of stars for lovers, who will be strongly inclined to quarrel and to deceive one another.

All the signs appear to indicate a revival of the hysteria of romance which swept the country in wartime and it is well to curb the emotions.

Divorces and scandals probably will multiply through the next few months when prominent persons will be involved.

Under this planetary government there may be developed a restless and erratic mood, which breeds dissatisfaction with one's station in life and for that reason all unhappy thoughts should be banished.

Mexico is subject to a direction of the stars, which may cause embarrassment for the border states, it is forecast.

Persia, India and France are under a malific sway, which may cause grave troubles in the next few months, astrologers prognosticate.

The conjunction of Jupiter and Uranus, July 15, is read as portending world upheavals. New military dictators are to arise, according to the interpretation of the aspects.

An era of force is to sweep the world, if the stars are rightly read, for Uranus in the house of Mars is supposed to be the "flail of the gods."

Persons whose birthdate it is have the promise of a year of unusual financial success.

Children born on this day usually succeed in any line of work and attain extraordinary prosperity.

"WE SELL FOR LESS"

CITY SMOKE COSTS PEOPLE $16 YEARLY

Science Seeks To Clean the Air We Breathe of Tons of Soot and Dust.

NEW YORK.—"Modern cities have made enormous progress in cleaning out their dirty corners and purifying their food and drink; yet until very recently, they have given hardly a thought to supplying their people with clean air to breathe."

Sumner N. Blossom, editor of Popular Science Monthly, made this statement today, discussing the growing need for scientific methods of cleaning the atmosphere in busy municipalities.

"Chemical analysis," he said, "has revealed the atmosphere of large cities to be charged literally with thousands of tons of dust. Stone, coal, cinders, ashes, dusts from industrial and building operations, paving dust from traffic, pollen, decayed organic matter, soil, steel—these are only a few of the kinds of solid matter which city dwellers inhale with every breath. Mixed with it, too, are injurious gases from manufacturing plants and the extremely poisonous carbon monoxide gas from the exhausts of automobiles."

Of all these substances, Mr. Blossom declared, probably the most harmful and costly is the soot from coal burned as fuel.

"When you inhale particles of soot," he explained, "some of them lodge in your throat and nasal passages. Finer particles reach your lungs. They carry the active germs of colds, influenza, pneumonia and even tuberculosis. Moreover, soot soils and damages clothing, curtains, draperies, woodwork—in fact, it injures almost every surface with which it comes in contact.

"Smoke costs people of the United States $1,879,000,000 a year, according to one expert's estimate. This is equivalent to about $16 for every man, woman and child in the country! In America's smokiest city (which, by the way, is not Pittsburgh) every square mile was covered last year with 775 tons of soot which fell from the air. In the smokiest districts, it has been estimated, the soot particles breathed every hour by city dwellers would, if placed in a row, extend for a distance of nine miles."

As an illustration of how the soot menace can be overcome by scientific methods, Mr. Blossom mentioned the experience of Salt Lake City. There, in an air-cleaning crusade directed by the Bureau of Mines not long ago, soot in the business sections was reduced ninety-five per cent. Householders were shown how, by simple methods of selecting and burning bituminous coal, they might cut down the production of smoke enormously. Firemen in industrial plants and on railway locomotives were instructed in firing methods that not only cleaned the air, but saved huge fuel bills for their employers. An inspector was stationed at a vantage point on the twentieth floor of an office building. During the daytime he kept a lookout for smoke from chimneys, and immediately telephoned a warning to any factory which violated smoke regulations. At night, a searchlight was mounted on the building and its beam focused on one section of the city after another.

"As for reducing other forms of dangerous dust," declared Mr. Blossom, "some of our large cities now are directing attacks on street cleaning methods that raise dust instead of laying it; on garbage and ash wagons that go about the city uncovered, and on city dumps. Municipal incinerator plants are being widely adopted. Efforts are even being made to prevent the beating of carpets and shaking of dust cloths in the open air. Citizens are being educated not to litter the streets with refuse and not to leave garbage exposed.

"Perhaps the day is not far distant," he predicted, "when vast ventilating and purifying systems will cleanse the air of entire cities; when huge vacuum cleaners will provide a dustless method of municipal housekeeping; when belching smokestacks no longer will be needed, and when men and women will work under atmospheric conditions best suited to their needs."

CANADIAN FARMER TELLS HIS EXPERIENCE

"Les" Booth, Widely Known Ontario Farmer, and a Sick Man For 20 Years, Suffered Daily, Only Half Alive. Now Strong, Robust, Vigorous, Credits New Found Health To Tanlac.

Though popularly known as "Les," Mr. Booth's correct first name is George. His home is at 271 Perth St., Brockville. For the past three years he has enjoyed vigorous health but what he endured before then is best told in his own words. "For twenty years my arms, shoulders, back and hips, ached with rheumatism," said Mr. Booth. "Often I had to quit work entirely and I remember one bad spell that kept me in bed for six months.

"My case got to be so chronic that the help ran the farm. I was practically helpless. Even my wrists and hands would swell up so that I couldn't write my name. I dreaded bedtime, for I got no rest, but lay there in agony, waiting for morning. Nervous spells would seize me and I would tremble all over like a leaf. I couldn't get any benefit from my food and had to force myself to eat. My weight was far below normal.

"Three years ago I decided to give Tanlac a good trial, for nothing else had helped me. I could scarcely believe such results were possible as those Tanlac soon showed. The aching stopped, my appetite came back and I could eat heartily. My nights became more restful, too, and I slept soundly. I gained 16 pounds which I still retain, and I now work hard outdoors from 8 to 10 hours a day. I never have an ache. It's hardly believable! If folks want to know what Tanlac can do, tell them to write to Les Booth, or to come and see me. I'll tell 'em.

If your health is broken from overwork or neglect, profit from Mr. Booth's experience. Try Tanlac, nature's own body builder, made from roots, herbs and barks. Your druggist has it. Over 52 million bottles sold.

ANNUAL MEETING WARSAW INSTITUTE

Will Be Held Next Thursday—Business To Be Transacted.

WARSAW, May 5.—The annual meeting of the Women's Institute will be held on Thursday afternoon, May 12. A full attendance of all the members is requested. There will be a roll-call, to which each is requested to answer in some way, preferably some helpful hint, some thought, or quotation, or pet superstition. Besides the election of officers, the school fair prizes will be decided, and some other business. Light refreshments will be served.

Next Sunday, Mothers' Day, will be observed at Sunday school and at the evening service. There is a special "Go-to-Sunday-school" program for the Sunday school.

Bethel Sunday school reopened on Sunday, May 1.

The great estate of Crulkston Park, near Blair, three miles from Galt, Ontario, is again the centre of interest owing to the accounting in Gotham the other day of the affairs of Mathew Wilks, nine times a millionaire, and who founded it during the middle of the last century, living there for many years. He came to America in 1816. It is now occupied by his youngest daughter, Miss Katharine Langdon Wilks. It comprises 1,600 acres and has long been the home of the best strains of trotting bred stock on the continent. The late Mathew Astor Wilks, a son, who married a daughter of the famous Hettie Green, also lives there. The illustration, UPPER LEFT, shows the mansion of the English style. RIGHT is Miss Wilks. A GOOD RECIPE FOR DANDRUFF

Noody loves Dandruff. But thousands endure it, not knowing it can be easily stopped and the scalp kept free and clean by just three minutes daily attention. From any drug store, get 6 oz. Bay Rum, 2 oz. Lavona (de Composee) and ½ dr. Menthol Crystals. Mix together and allow to stand over night before using. Then each morning on arising rub the mixture thoroughly into the scalp with the finger tips or a stiff brush.

Dandruff quickly vanishes under this treatment, itching ceases instantly and hair stops falling out and is made lustrous and fluffy and looks and feels 100 per cent better.

If you want to stop dandruff and save your hair, try this simple home recipe, just as thousands have done and are doing. It is a famous old English formula that is harmless and inexpensive.

DOCTORS ADVICE TO THE SICK

To feel your best day in and day out, no more headaches, indigestion, gas on stomach, bilious attacks, rheumatism, kidney pains, bad breath, you must bathe your self inside. Start today by taking one Tanol Calomel tablet before meals or two at bedtime, then next morning drink a glass or two of hot water to wash from the stomach, liver, kidney and bowels all the previous day's waste, poison and toxins before more food is taken in. Get a few Tanol tablets from F. C. Weber, Charlotte street, Peterborough. They are harmless to take, do not nauseate, no bad after effects, no salts or seidlitz next morning, like ordinary calomel. Then you can eat better, sleep better, work better, think better and look better.

MAY DAY SERVICE HELD AT WELCOME

Rev. D. R. Clare Preaches Splendid Sermon on Observances of the Day.

WELCOME, May 5.—On Sunday morning there was an interesting May Day Service at Welcome United church. The music was patriotic.

Rev. D. R. Clare, the pastor, took for his text Deuteronomy 34:1-4—"And the Lord showed him all the land."

Mr. Clare first described the May Day festivities in the countries across the sea and described the large socialist and labor gatherings in many of the countries of Europe.

Turning to his text, he described the promised land of the Israelites—a land flowing with milk and honey—yet a land that had to be conquered before they had peaceable possession.

He spoke of the different theories as to the destination of the lost tribes of Israel and the Mormon belief that the tribes reached America, and that Mormon was the last descendant.

He then turned to the thought that Canadians have also a land of promise. He dwelt on the mineral wealth, the wonderful transportation facilities and other glories of this country.

The country is new. The people are all descendants of emigrants and pioneers from other lands.

They also have their problems and difficulties to surmount.

One is the racial problems in the thousands of foreigners who are coming to Canada. The problem is that of making them good Canadians.

Rev. J. M. Shaver, in speaking of this problem gives as his solution "Make them Christian and they will be good Canadians." Another problem is Sabbath desecration; another is the liquor question of the day. Canada has gone back ten years in its temperance policy. One cannot blame any one man. The people did it by their vote. In a few days liquor will again be sold. The young people who do not remember the war do not remember the open bar, and do not recognize the dangers of easy access to liquor.

It is for the Christian people of the land to face and conquer the problems and make fair Canada a land of promise.

A number of the school children are home, on account of an outbreak of chicken pox in the locality.

Why is it?

that people with weak digestions eat

FARM NEWS AND PROBLEMS

BEES REQUIRE GREAT CARE DURING THE SPRING SEASON

Principal Object Is To Increase the Strength of Colonies.

BEES NEED WATER.

Best Stimulus To Breeding is the Gathering of Nectar and Pollen.

SPRING MANAGEMENT

Spring is an important and critical period of the "bee year" because it is during this season that the bees have to build up their strength, often under trying weather conditions and in a short time, in readiness for the honey flow, and also because colonies that are in bad condition may die if not attended to.

The principal object of spring management, therefore, is to get a large number of bees reared in each colony, and also later on, to prevent the tendency to swarm. For a maximum production of honey there should be, during the honey flow, an abundance of bees between the ages of two and six weeks.

If the bees have been well prepared for winter no anxiety need be felt about their condition in early spring and they are best left undisturbed for a while; but if any colonies are likely to run short of stores, or if so many bees have died in a colony that it is in danger of getting robbed out, or of perishing, a short superficial examination should be made on a warm day when the bees are flying. The weight of stores may often be estimated by lifting the hive. Combs containing stores may be taken from colonies that have more than they need and given to those that are deficient, provided that no disease is present. If it is found there are not enough bees to cover two combs the colony should be united to a stronger one. It is often possible to save a weak colony by placing it on top of a strong one with a queen-excluder between the two, care being taken to see that the weak colony has a little brood (taken, if need be, earlier in the day from the strong colony) to keep the bees from deserting. This work is best done towards evening and the colonies disturbed as little as possible. Two or three weeks later these colonies may be separated, moving the one containing the most brood to a new stand.

When the weather improves, a warm day, on which the bees are flying freely, should be selected for making a thorough examination of the brood nest. Evidence of the presence of a fertile queen may now be found in the appearance of worker brood. Any colony that is found to be queenless or to contain a drone-breeding queen should be united to one containing a fertile queen. Colonies may be equalized by shaking bees from the combs of strong colonies in front of the entrance of those to be helped, or by giving combs of emerging brood; of course the queen must not be included and precautions may have to be taken to avoid fighting.

Since a high temperature is needed for brood-rearing, care should be taken to conserve the heat generated by the bees in the hive by providing good insulation. Colonies wintered out-of-doors should be kept in their wintering cases until settled warm weather. In most places this is not until the latter end of May or the first week in June. The amount of protection to be given to colonies that have been wintered in the cellar will depend on the spring climate and the extent of shelter from wind. In many places it pays to give special protection in the form of an outer case deep enough to cover the sides of the brood chamber and projecting several inches above it, giving room for several sacks or a chaff cushion to be placed over the bees. In exposed places and those subject to great changes in temperature it will be advisable to have the case large enough to take packing material between the hive and the case. The size of the entrance should be kept small in early spring—only an inch or two wide in the case of weak colonies.

Bees need water in spring. If there is none within easy reach it should be supplied in a warm sheltered place in or near the apiary.

The building up of colonies may be seriously delayed by spring dwindling, that is, the dying of the bees that have wintered faster than the young bees can be reared. The common cause of dwindling is bad wintering, the bees having died in large numbers or become enfeebled through age or dysentery, and it is more likely to occur in coastal regions where the spring is long drawn out than in the interior where the transition from winter to summer is more rapid.

The colonies should be examined weekly, weather permitting, or fortnightly if the weather has been cool, to see that the brood-nest is expanding properly, the aim being to get the bees gradually to consume the stores and replace them with brood. If stores accumulate it may be necessary to remove a portion of them and give empty comb.

The best stimulus to breeding is the natural gathering of nectar and pollen in favourable weather; these are usually supplied in abundance, first by the willows and maples and later by dandelions, and, where it is plentiful, fruit bloom, as well as from a number of minor sources. In many places there is a short period of dearth between fruit bloom and the opening of the honey flow from alsike and white clover. If the weather during this period is warm and fine a little thin syrup given every evening will maintain breeding, but whether it will pay to do this depends on the duration of the honey flow and other considerations.

Periods of inclement weather preventing the collecting of nectar may occur at any time in the spring. Short periods of this kind may be guarded against by making certain that the bees have a reserve store of a few pounds, but longer periods demand feeding to avert starvation, especially if such periods occur late in the spring or in the summer when the rate of food consumption is high. As swing advances the putting on of supers and preventing preparation for swarming will need attention. Systematic management of the apiary from this time forward is of great importance.

ENGLAND'S BEST

Duchess of Westminster is not only one of England's most beautiful matrons, but also one of that country's most accomplished horsewomen. She is the daughter of Col. Cornwallis West, while her husband is reputed to be one of Britain's three richest men.

GRADED SEED IS NECESSARY FOR POTATOES

Careful Selecting Will Save a Great Loss of Life.

QUALITY IMPROVES.

Severe and careful grading of potatoes intended for seed, and the discarding of all abnormal tubers during cutting operations is not only commendable, but absolutely essential, if the maximum return from the crop is to be expected.

It is extremely fortunate that the majority of diseases which attack the potato, decreasing if not entirely ruining the crop, manifest themselves in the tubers before planting time. Therefore, removal of this source of contamination insures the crop to a remarkable degree.

Grade Carefully.

Before cutting the seed run the stock over a hand rack and remove all tubers that are off-type or under three ounces in white; all showingg black scurf and anything showing brown necrotic lesions on the surface or rot of any kind no matter how slight. Even during careful grading certain diseased tubers will pass by unnoticed, therefore unless the greatest care is taken the object will be defeated.

Upon the completion of judicious grading there is still another step. There are many internal abnormalities such as black heart, stem and browning or internal necrosis which can only be observed after the tuber is cut. Under no circumstances should sets exhibiting these conditions be planted.

Save Best.

How many farmers would raise progeny from animals known to be diseased and of inferior type or plant grain harvested from badly smutted fields and expect to be recompensed for their efforts? Then why expect so much from a potato? You can't expect to sell all your marketable stock and keep the seconds for your own planting without paying the penalty. As long as a set, when planted, has an eye, that is all some people think is necessary to secure satisfactory returns. The laws of nature cannot be disputed; a man can harvest only what he plants. If only carefully selected seed is used for planting the resulting crop will more than compensate for the labor expended.

Do you know where to get your next herd sire? Be reasonably sure that he will niche with the females to be used on, and that he will work improvement. When buying haphazardly one is more likely to take a backward step than to go forward. Inferior sires have kept many herds from progressing.

Overhaul the harness and make needed repairs before it is in every-day use. A rough collar surface may soon start a sore shoulder, and many a horse has had a sore side or leg due to bad harness.

In case of difficult parturition do not exert pressure until sure there are no complications. More than one cow and calf have been lost through the inexperienced trying to do the impossible. If in doubt, get a veterinarian or a neighbor who is experienced in such cases.

Plan on growing all the roughage required by the stock. Grain can be purchased easier and more economically than hay.

May Be a Winner

Prominent among the many blue-blooded representatives of equine aristocracy that will face the barrier in the famous Kentucky Derby, to be held on May 14th at Churchill Downs, Louisville, Ky., is The Starap, the British bred three-year-old, shown above. William Du Pont paid $100,000 for him, and racing fans "in the know" have turned their eyes on him.

DAIRY HERDS NEED ALFALFA

Can Be Grown on Most Farms if Conditions Are Made Right.

RICH IN PROTEINS.

Farmers have been getting in a supply of seeds for the spring planting. The dairy farmer who has omitted a supply of alfalfa seed from his list is making a mistake in at least nine cases out of ten. At the risk of becoming monotonous we would again urge that alfalfa is the greatest crop that can be grown on a dairy farm and that it can be grown on most farms if conditions are made right. Henry and Morrison's Feeds and Feeding gives a table that tells more of the merits of alfalfa than any amount of talk. Here it is:

	Yield per acre pounds	Digestible crude protein	Total digestible nutrients
Corn Ears and Stover	3574	150	2251
Alfalfa Hay	4372	463	2250
Clover Hay	2624	199	1336
Timothy Hay	2340	70	1134

Not Costly.

This table was compiled from average returns for the whole United States. A Canadian compilation would not differ materially. It will be noted that alfalfa produces over twice as much digestible protein per acre as red clover three times as much as corn and almost seven times as much as timothy. Professor Bell of Kemptville Agricultural school was not far wrong when he said that timothy was a weed on a dairy farm. In total digestible nutrients alfalfa is the equal of corn and much superior to the other crops listed. But this is not the whole story. Alfalfa is a perennial crop. Once seeded in favorable soil it will last for 15 years or more. Under less favorable conditions it will yield profitable crops for three to seven years. Clover yields in appreciable quantity for only one season. The first cost of the seed may seem high but divided over the years it is low.

SPRAYING OF TREES.

Dusting and Spraying Are Both Valuable to the Orchards.

While admitting that both spraying and dusting of apple trees is effective, the authors of a Dominion of Agriculture pamphlet bearing the title, "Nova Scotia Apple Spray and Dust Calendars, 1927" suggest that where the grower has time to spray thoroughly a sufficient number of times it is wise to follow this system. Where this cannot be done thoroughly, due to lack of time or to soft or hilly ground, the dust system is a good one to follow. If the orchard is on the large side it is well to keep both a sprayer and a duster, spraying when there is opportunity and dusting otherwise, particularly during damp, critical periods. As a rule, say the authors, at least four applications should be made, first when the leaves are about a quarter of an inch in diameter, second, just before the blossoms open, third, just after the blossoms fall, and fourth, about twelve days later. Modifications to this rule for special pests are described in another part of the pamphlet. Dusts, which are more likely to wash off than spray, should be applied when the air is calm, but if possible, when the foliage is wet.

An important warning is given and, in view of happenings last year, when some apples supposedly shipped from the United States were found to be tainted, should be universally heeded, not to use arsenical insecticides in either dust or spray after July 1, in order, it is added, to ensure compliance with the British standard of arsenical tolerance in foodstuffs.

The Calendar, which can be had free of cost by dropping a post-card to the Publications Branch, Ottawa, prescribes dusts and sprays, and tells how, when and for what purpose they should be used.

The quota of live stock per farm can be increased in proportion to the success with growing alfalfa and sweet clover.

WASTE LAND IS RECLAIMED

Future Growth of Timber Will Be Increased By Feforestration.

4,000 ACRES.

Over 8,000,000 trees for reforestation purposes are being distributed this year free to farmers in Ontario from the Provincial Government nurseries. This number of seedlings will be sufficient to plant 4,000 acres of waste land which has no agricultural value, and when these trees have attained the age of 40 to 60 years their estimated value is between 400 and 500 per acre.

Important Work.

Almost 7,200,000 seedlings were distributed in 1925. The chief demand is for conifers, of which 6,357,312 were sent out. Pine, spruce, European larch and white cedar in the order named are the most popular. Of the hardwoods poplar takes the lead, and is used chiefly for windbreaks, but white ash and white elm are also in great demand. Eleven species of conifers and fourteen species of hardwoods are supplied by the government nurseries, which are being enlarged each year.

The work of reforesting waste lands and barren areas in Ontario is beginning to assume some importance from the standpoint of future growth of timber. In 1905, when the first work was started between two and three thousand seedlings were distributed, and in 1926 between seven and nine million seedlings were permanently planted. In addition large stocks of seedlings are kept on hand in the three provincial nurseries, and the two transplant nurseries.

BREEDING PIGEONS FOR SQUAB RAISING

Vigorous, Hardy, Prolific and Flesh Producing Breeds Required.

One of the conditions essential to success in pigeon breeding is the judicious choice of a breed possessing the desired characteristics when the object of the breeding is considered. The breeds most generally recognized as best for squab raising, according to a bulletin on Pigeons, published by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, are the Homer, the Carneau and the Mondaine. These are vigorous, hardy, prolific and flesh producing breeds. The best way to build up a flock is to start with a few pairs of birds of these breeds, not less than one or more than three years old. By practising careful selection and systematic mating, a good flock can be built up in a short time.

It won't do any harm and it may destroy a lot of germs and parasites if the walls and floor of the farrowing pen are scrubbed with a hot disinfectant. For safety the sow's udder might also be washed before placing her in the pen to make sure infection is not adhering to her udder and teats. Such precautions are taken when lung worms and other parasites are prevalent.

NEW VARIETY OF GOOSEBERRY

Fruit Can Now Be Produced Free From Any Thorns.

NAMED SPINEFREE.

For some years the Horticultural Division of the Experimental Farms has been working on the production of a variety of gooseberry free from thorns on the bush. A difficulty that persisted for some time was the securing of a bush of this character that would produce fruit of a marketable size. In his latest report, the Dominion Horticulturist announces that they have succeeded in isolating a variety which is practically thornless and spineless, and bears fruit of a commercial size. It has been named Spinefree.

The spineless variety is the result of a second cross with an original thornless specimen, the first being Victoria and the second, Mabel. The fruit of the Spinefree is said to be good in quality, rather thick-skinned, bright red in color when ripe, and entirely free of prickles. The bush is an upright, vigorous grower, and has the very desirable quality of being free of mildew and practically resistant to spot. Other desirable new varieties reported are: Chataugua and Clark. The former bears fruit of large size, whitish-green in color, with smooth skin and plenty of bloom. The Clark variety, which is claimed to have a large amount of English blood, produces a vigorous bush, quite hardy at Ottawa, bears very large greenish-yellow fruit, turning red when ripe. It is said to be free of mildew and of fair quality.

TO ASSIST MARKETING

The sum of $50 000 a year is to be placed at the disposal of the Quebec Department of Agriculture for the purpose of assisting in preparing classifying and selling agricultural products to conserve and improve present markets and to find new ones in the country in the United Kingdom and abroad. An attempt will be made to expand the West Indies market.

DECREASE IN FARMS

"While the decrease in farm acreage in the United States since 1920 has been four per cent it has not lowered the productivity of agriculture. Statistics show that crop production per farm has riven 13 per cent since 1915. Increased farm efficiency through improved machinery has been a factor in the gain. The size of the average farm is now 148 acres. Total improved farm land amounts to 503 073 007 acres."

TOMATO IS FRUIT

Is a tomato a fruit or a vegetable? Frequently this question has been raised in the produce markets, the dealers not agreeing as to which class it belongs. For Canada, at least, the matter has been officially decided by G. E. McIntosh, Dominion Fruit Commissioner, and in the trade the tomato will be known as a fruit. The Government, in accordance with a recommendation sent on by the Fruit Branch, passed an order-in-council on classifications, which contained the tomato, which was included in the list of fruits. The status of the tomato, therefore, has been settled.

Better live stock comes from the use of better sires and practicing better feeding.

Buff Rock Hen Imitates Artificial Easter Eggs; Produces "Henfruit" of Strange Shape, Size And Color

NORHAM, April 27.—Some hens seem wont to equal by nature what individuals have done by way of dyeing and painting eggs for presentation at Easter time. Mrs. J. F. Everson has a pure bred buff rock hen which, a short time previous to Easter, laid an egg that was rich in color and a combination of two eggs. One was natural in shape and measured one inch in length by seven-eighths of an inch in diameter. On one end was what appeared to be a perfectly mature egg, with a hard shell, which measured a quarter of an inch in diameter, being perfectly round save for a slightly flattened side where it was joined to the other egg. This combination was shown to The Examiner and later, when broken and examined, were found to have no yolk. The larger one had a shell that distinctly separated it from the smaller one.

A couple of days ago that same hen climbed off her nest and made such an announcement that Mrs. Everson hurried to see what had taken place and in the nest discovered warm and new laid, and of rich color, an egg which measured seven-eighths of an inch by three-fourths of an inch. This hen has been well cared for during the winter, being fed buckwheat and fall wheat, along with mash of shorts and bran almost daily, also some pulped mangolds and plenty of oyster shell. She began laying in February. What is the omen?

Forest Industries Are Important To Canada

"Industries dependent on products of the forest are of the utmost importance in our national life. They are second only to agriculture in the national wealth they produce. From the standpoint of the public credit their export trade especially in pulp and paper renders invaluable aid in maintaining a favorable rate of exchange with foreign countries. From the standpoint of the people they of all industries return to the workers in the form of wages perhaps the largest proportion of the cost of production. It follows that the destruction of the raw materials for these industries threatens directly the future means of livelihood of an important part of our population."—Hon. Charles Stewart Minister of the Interior.

THREE PRAIRIE PROVINCES ARE GOING AHEAD

World Wheat Championship Won 14 Times in 16 Years.

YIELDS ARE HIGH.

Average Wheat Yield in 1926 Was 17.8 Bushels Per Acre.

Today the three prairie provinces of this part of the Dominion show nearly 100,000,000 acres occupied, with promise of one of the greatest agricultural developments in the history of Canada.

Last year, the Canadian Pacific Railway reports, nearly 38,000,000 acres of these provinces were devoted to field crops alone, which returned more than 647,000,000 to producers. The wheat crop, third largest on record, amounted to almost 380,000,000 bushels grown on less than 22,000,000 acres, and had an estimated value of 407,413,000.

Makes Record in Wheat.

Years ago it was believed that Canada would never produce wheat commercially. Now these prairie provinces of Alberta Saskatchewan and Manitoba are established as the world's greatest producing and exporting wheat area. In the last 16 years the wheat championship of the world has been won 14 times by one of the three provinces. Last year it went to the Peace River country of Alberta 500 miles north of the United States border.

Now other crops demand attention. One of these is corn prospects for which were regarded skeptically up to a few years ago.

Yields Are High.

Sugar beets is another crop coming to rival corn in interest. So far Alberta is the only province producing this crop commercially although tests point to its adoption elsewhere.

The yields of these crops compare favorably with those in the United States where conditions are similar. In 1926 Canada's average wheat yield was 17.8 bushels to the acre. In the United States it was 14.7. Canadian oat yield was 30 bushels to the acre against 28.2 in the United States.

PRINCE OF WALES TO SEND POULTRY

Birds from the royal poultry farms of England and Spain will vie with each other in interest at the World's Poultry Congress to be held in Ottawa from July 27th to August 4th of this year. Congress headquarters has been notified that fowl from the poultry farm of His Royal Highness, the Prince of the Asturias, eldest son and heir of King Alfonso of Spain, will be shown at Congress Exhibition. Only recently it was announced that H. R. H. the Prince of Wales was sending along some live birds from his famous farm Cornwall, England, and that His Majesty King George would exhibit prize pigeons from his lofts at Sandringham. The birds from the Spanish Crown Prince's farm will be the feature of the Spanish national exhibit.

Mr. Ernest Rhoades, Congress Secretary, has received word from Professor Salvador Castello, in charge of the Royal Poultry School at Arenys de Mar, Spain, that the Spanish educational exhibit is being forwarded on May 15th, and that the live bird exhibit will be sent via Cherbourg on July 14th. An exhibition is being held in Madrid on June 10th at which will be chosen the birds that will represent Spain, in addition to those from the royal farm. The Spanish Government has taken three spaces at Congreee Exhibition, with a total frontage of sixty feet, to a depth of thirty feet, and is prepared to leave the exhibit in place for the Central Canada Exhibition. Twenty official delegates are coming from Spain.

BOSSY'S BICYCLE

The News and Critic, Laconia, prints this regarding a roadside notice posted in New Hampshire:

"By order of the selectmen, cows grazing by the roadside or riding bicycles on the sidewalks is hereby forbidden."—Norway (Me.) Advertiser.

CANADIAN FORESTS TO REMAIN PERPETUAL SOURCE OF WEALTH

Forest Industry Ranks Second, Yielding Annual Income of $433,000,000.

CANADA LEADS.

One-third of Total Land Area Only Suited For Growing of Wood.

The man on the street is just beginning to realize that in the backwoods in Canada lie the second greatest source of wealth in the country. Of the primary industries, agriculture still leads the forests, mines, fisheries and water powers in net value of products, but the forests come second, yielding annually about $433,000,000 to the income of Canadians. A relatively small amount of this sum is represented in profits, but it goes mainly into wages and supplies consumed in production and in that way teaches all classes of citizens from the farmers, who supply hay and oats for the horses in the lumber camps, to the manufacture of silk stockings for the wives and daughters of the paper makers.

Among the manufacturing industries, the two great forest industries, the pulp and paper industry and the lumber and allied planing, sash and door industry rank first and third, respectively, in net value of products. They each add more to the value of the raw materials used than any other industries and therefore distribute more in the localities where they operate. In 1925 the pulp and paper manufactured was worth $115,000,000 more than the raw materials that were used and the lumber, lath and shingles $56,000,000 more than the logs, bolts, etc., used. The stumpage value of the timber, including government dues, is generally not more than one fifth to one quarter of the value of the primary products of the woods operations. The flour and gristmill industry which ranks second in value of products adds less than 2,500,000 to the value of the grain. However, the farmer, as the primary producer, derives most of the benefit from this industry.

Unlike many other manufacturing industries, the forest industries are dependent primarily on Canadian natural resources, wood and water power, which need never become exhausted if proper care is taken in their exploitation. The water powers are in turn dependent on the forest cover of their drainage areas for the control of their discharge.

There is approximately $1,200,000 square miles of land in Canada—one third of the total land area—which is better suited for the growing of wood than any other purpose. Roughly a litt e more than one-third carries timber enough for commercial use as pulpwood or saw material, about one-third is more or less re-stocked with young growth and a little less than one third is considered inaccessible or useless from the standpoint of profitable commercial use in the immediate future. At least one-half, and probably 750,000 square miles, is so situated that the timber could be profitably grown on it. With 600 000 square miles under silvicultural management it should be possible to produce annually 9 6000 million cubic feet of timber allowing an average increment of 25 cubic feet per acre. At present we are using only about 2 800 million cubic feet for domestic and industrial purposes but we are allowing about 775 million cubic feet of merchantable timber to be destroyed annually by forest fires and the loss from insects decay and wind will bring the total annual depletion up to 5 600 million cubic feet.

To offset this there is the annual increment but since decay equals growth in the mature standds and there has been on the average 1 400 000 acres of young growth representing the accrued increment of 20 to 30 years destroyed annually by fire and no attempt is being made to provide for the reproduction of the more valuable species it is doubtful whether more than 2000 million of the 5000 million cubic feet is being replaced by natural growth.

Canada is now the greatest producer of newsprint in the world our output in 1916 being 1 881 737 tons exceeding the United States production by 195 042 tons and equipment is being added to our paper mills which will increase the capacity in 1927 a further 350 000 tons. If this position is to be maintained it is imperative that the forests mature and young growth be protected from fire. We have ample land the kinds of timber the world's markets demand and favourable growing conditions. All the forests of Canada require is rational treatment to make them a perpetual source of wealth.

EARLY VARIETIES OF APPLES SCARCE

The early harvest apples of our childhood are still a memory to many of us and while we seldom see this variety of good quality now as it proved very subject to apple scab the Red Astrachan is still with us but while attractive in appearance is too acid to suit most palates. The same may be said of Yellow Transparent which lacks flavor also. The Crimson Beauty is an attractive-looking early apple but it also is lacking in flavor and owing to its inferior quality the eating of it is not likely to materially increase the consumption of apples. Duchess of Oldenburg has been with us a long time and while handsome in appearance is too acid to become popular as a dessert variety. Thus until recently there were no early apples available that were good enough in quality to make a great demand for apples at a time of year when many people are craving for a good apple to eat.

We are fortunate however in now having in the Melba apple originated in the Horticultural Division Experimental Farm Ottawa an apple which is not only handsome in appearance but very good in quality being equal to the McIntosh itself of which it is a seedling. It is in condition a little before Duchess but keeps longer than that variety. Trees of the Melba can now be obtained from nursery firms and it is recommended by Government Institutions and private individuals who have fruited it in preference to any other early variety. Another sort called Joyce also originated at Ottawa which follows it closely in season is as good in quality as the Melba thus making two excellent early varieties either for market or the home garden.—W. T. Macoun Dominion Horticulturist.

FREE SAMPLES IN BIG DEMAND

Two Thousand Farmers Have Already Applied To Guelph For Seed.

LARGE SUPPLY.

About two thousand farmers have already applied to the Ontario Agricultural College for small samples of seed for experimenting on their own farms. The demand this season for these free samples for experimental purposes has been heavy in the case of roots, including mangels, sugar mangels, Swedish turnips, fall turnips and field carrots. It has also been strong for experimental material for field beans, sweet corn, early oats, hulless barley, and field peas. Those who have not already had some of the new choice varieties of other crops such as O. A. C. No. 144 oats, O. A. C. No. 211 soy beans, O. A. C. No. 85 spring wheat, and O. A. C. No. 61 spring rye, are securing these varieties from which to make a start. Application for the earlier crops are still being received at the college from Northern Ontario, and those for the later kinds will continue to arrive from all parts of the province for some time to come. Any of the farmers wishing this material should apply to the Field Husbandry Department, Agricultural College, Guelph, Ontario.

PRIZE COMPETITION FOR CHEESE MAKERS

United Dairymen Co-operative Offers Three Prizes For Belleville District.

Last year the United Dairymen Co-operative offered nine cash prizes to be competed for by the cheesemakers in the factories, selling through the U. D. C., for the season of 1926, three of the prizes being awarded to the factories in the Belleville district and six to the factories shipping to Montreal direct. The prizes were awarded for the grading period from the first day of June to the 31st day of October, both dates inclusive. As this competition proved very popular with the cheese-makers, it will be continued again this season, and, in addition, there will be offered a silver trophy, to be awarded to the cheesemaker having the highest score in the competition, and to be held by him for one year but to become the absolute property of any maker winning it three times. Each season the name of the winning cheese-maker and his factory will be engraved on the trophy, which is being presented by the firm of A. J. Mills & Co., Limited, London, England, who are the exclusive agents for the U. D. C. brand of cheese in the United Kingdom. The object of this competition is to encourage the cheese-makers to take a greater interest in their work and to strive to make cheese that are as near perfection as possible in regard to quality, finish, boxing and marking.

WHEAT FOR CHINA

When China settles down to pecaeful pursuits, Canada may expect to have a new and immense market for its wheat. This is the promise of J. E. Scott, representing a large British firm at Hongkong.

SWITZERLAND BUYS WHEAT

The total exports of raw products and merchandise from Canada to Switzerland in 1925 was over 18 500 000 of which wheat was 80.5 per cent. Oats came next with a total of 2 350 000. The reason so few people in Canada realize the value of Switzerland as a customer is because France is the port of entry. Switzerland purchases wheat direct in Canada but it goes to Switzerland by way of the United States and France and its ultimate destination is lost sight of. In addition to the grains mentioned and other cereal foods Switzerland took animals and animal products to the amount of nearly half a million.

GRAY DESCRIBES USE OF WEIGHT

Says He Joined Mrs. Snyder in Crime Because She Dominated Him.

CHANGES CONFESSION.

NEW YORK, May 5.— (Canadian Press.)—Henry Judd Gray began his ordeal of cross-examination by counsel for his co-defendant, Mrs. Ruth Snyder, with unruffled manner today.

In the first few moments of the cross-examination he was forced to leave his seat and demonstrate how he had beaten Albert Snyder over the head with a window weight. He did this without apparent emotion, lifting his arms and bringing them down like a wood chopper.

Mrs. Snyder averted her gaze during the demonstration and kept her head bowed until the noon recess.

Gray, in answer to a question, said he joined Mrs. Snyder in the crime because she "hounded and dominated" him . The dominance began about last May. The power over him grew gradually.

The direct examination of Gray was concluded this morning and the cross examination was begun by Dana Wallace, counsel for Mrs. Snyder.

Gray told in unemotional voice of trying to strangle Snyder with wire after he and the art editor's wife had beaten him unconscious and she had chloroformed him. "But I couldn't do it," he said. "I was too shaky and intoxicated."

Both defendants seemed to have themselves well in hand after their collapse yesterday when Gray told how the woman responded to his plea of "Momie, Momie, help me," and ended her husband's fight for life by a sashweight blow from behind.

Gray to-day related how they burned their clothing and hid the sashweight in the basement of the house.

"Then we went upstairs and into the room where Snyder lay," he continued. "She asked me if he was dead and I said I did not think so. She asked me to help her twist the wire around his neck. I tried, but I was so shaky and so intoxicated that I couldn't.

"I started to muss things up as if there was a burglary. She asked me if I would not hit her over the head to help the burglary story, but I said I could not. I did tie her up, however and took two drinks and left by the side door.' He then told of his movements afterwards and events leading up to his arrest.

His confession was produced and he read it, omitting such parts as he asserted were untrue.

Wheat Prices Stronger On Adverse Conditions

CHICAGO, May 5 (Canadian Press).—Material fresh upturns in wheat resulted today from further adverse weather, Northwest and Southwest. Crop comment from typical domestic, Spring wheat territory was that the season is late and conditions must be favorable hereafter to make an average yield. Starting 3-8c to 3-4 to 7-8c higher, wheat scored some additional gain. Corn, oats, and provisions were relatively easy, corn opening at 1-4 to 3-4c advance, but later receding to below yesterday's finish.

Opening prices were: Wheat, May 139 7-8, July 134 3-4. Corn, May 78 7-8; July 81 1-8. Oats, May 47 5-8, July 47 5-8.

Speculators Force Many Shares Up

NEW YORK, May 5. (Canadian Press. — Speculators for the advance, taking advantage of an overcrowed short interest in many issues, continued to mark up prices in to-day's stock market, gains of one to three points being scattered throughout the list. A reduction of 50c a ton in basic pig iron prices at Pittsburgh and a further increase in crude oil production, were disregarded. Marland and Houston were prominent in the advance of oils. Public utilities continued to respond to reports of steadily expanding earnings and rumors of new combinations.

General Motors continued to anticipate a record breaking first quarter earnings report and the probable distribution of another extra cash dividend. Textiles were accumulated on reports of improvement in that industry. Some good gains were also recorded by the chain store and mercantile stocks. Rails were not as active as industrials although Atchison, Southern Railway, Reading and Chicago Northwestern moved up briskly.

Unlisted Stocks Feature Toronto Exchange Session

TORONTO, May 5 (Canadian Press).—With unlisted issues forming the bulk of the trading, today's session on the Toronto Stock Exchange had unusual features. Bank shares and bonds were neglected, and the general stock list narrowly dealt in, with price changes of little moment, while Kirkland Lake, on the unlisted side, having more than sixteen thousand shares dealt in, gained nine at 145. Noranda left Kirkland Lake far behind with a gain of 70 cents at 23.00, after touching 23.12.

Brazilian lost 1 3-8 at 135 1-4 on very light dealing. Brantford Cordage Preferred gained 1-8 at 23 1-8 Cosmos Milling was up 1-4 at 24 1-4 and Industrial Alcohol gained 1-2 at 29 1-4. International Nickel, McKinnon Voting Trust, and Seagrams, while receiving a fair share of attention were unchanged. Page Hersey Common was 3-4 higher at 60 3-4, and Massey-Harris Common dropped 1-8 at 36. G. & W. was down 1-8 at 57 3-8, and Imperial Oil dropped 1-4 at 44.

Many Gains Recorded On Standard Exchange

TORONTO, May 5. Canadian Press —Gains were the rule on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day and nearly all the issues dealt in were higher. Towamagac, for the second day in succession the leader, gained 15 to-day at 480; Osiko was 7 higher at 77; Howey Gold up at 64, and Central Manitoba Mines up 5 at 149; Argonaut Consolidated was up ¼ at 46¾; Area ½ higher at 26; and Beaver up 4 at 111. Columbus Kirk went 1-8 higher at 4⅛; Kirkland Lake was up 13 at 146, and Lake Shore joined the higher issues at $19.45, with a gain of fifteen; Stadacona at 18½ was ¼ higher. Barry Hollinger with a loss of ⅝ at 40, was one of the few issues recording glosses to-day.

OMEMEE NEWS

OMEMEE, May 5.—Every day brings new evidence that summer is on the way. The hepaticas, or commonly called May flowers, and adder's tongue are being gathered from the woods in huge bouquets by numerous flower lovers of the village. Garden bulbs, such as daffodils and tulips, are making their beauty shown in sheltered corners, and the lawn mowers have already been in use. Last week saw numerous citizens commencing to work in the gardens, and some early stuff was planted. With all these indications, most people have not found the rays of the sun too warm as yet, but one farmer attracted attention last week when he appeared in town with a straw sun shade on.

MEDALS GIVEN FOR BRAVE ACT

FOR RESCUE ATTEMPT.

MONTREAL, May 5—"To the one who gave his life that others might live and to the other who is with us to-day we pay homage. Their example ,is one we may worthily keep before us not only in those moments of stress but also the example they have set us in the performance of their daily duties."

In those words Sir Henry W. Thornton, K.B.E., chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways paid tribute to S. G. Watson, tax commissioner of the railway system and to the memory of the late W. H. Sharp, locomotive painter, in presenting the bronze medals of the Royal Humane Society for their bravery in attempting the rescue of a woman from drowning at Old Orchard Beach, Maine, on Sunday, Sept. 5, 1926. The medal awarded to the late Mr. Sharp was presented to his widow in the presence of a gathering of Canadian National officers and employees which taxed the capacity of the board room at headquarters. Mrs. Sharp was also presented with a beautiful bouquet of roses. The heroic act for which the awards were made took place at Old Orchard in September last. About midday on that date Mr. and Mrs. Watson and Mr. and Mrs. Sharp were on the beach which was practically deserted when they noticed some one signalling for help a long way from the shore. A man on the beach at the time stripped off his clothing and after considerable difficulty succeeded, despite a very rough sea in reaching the woman who was drowning. By this time a few people had collected on the beach and Mr. Watson, Mr. Sharp, and another man succeeded in launching a small boat with the help of other persons on the shore. It was thought at the time that while the boat could not stand up for long in such a heavy sea, if it could be got near to the two people in difficulties it would give them something to cling to until help arrived.

When the boat had gone a considerable distance it was capsized by the heavy seas and the three men were thrown into the water. They attempted to swim to shore but were unable to make much headway against the strong undertow, due to the fact that they were fully clothed. Mr. Watson was the only one able to regain the boat, to which he clung for some twenty minutes. The life savers of the beach went to his assistance and subsequently to that of Mr. Sharp. Mr. Watson was brought back to consciousness after an hour effort with the pulmotor but Mr. Sharp was dead when brought ashore and resuscitation methods were unavailing, the body of the third man was recovered later.

Mr. Watson has been in the service of the Canadian National system for nineteen years. Mr. Sharp had thirteen years service with the railroad.

Man Nearing Fortune; Must Live Till Friday

CHICAGO, May 5. — Charles Wilbur Hess has his wife's $500,000 just within his grasp. All he has to do is to live until Friday.

Mrs. Lydia Harmon Hess was killed by a train in Winnetka, March 6. She left a will that startled her husband and his counsel. She bequeathed her estate of the above approximate figure to her husband if he lived 60 days after her death. In the event that he should pass on in the meantime, the money was to go to charity and distant relatives.

Since the eventful date of his wife's tragic death Mr. Hess has been watching his step. He quit driving his automobile and took his walks on lonely streets. He was guarded in every possible way against sudden death so that life was not so rosy. The tension will be relaxed after today.

SERIOUS RIOTING IN LAHORE, INDIA

Troops Called Out and Patrol City With Armored Cars.

LONDON, May 5. (United Press.)—Many persons were killed and injured in serious rioting at Lahore, India, said a despatch to the Daily Telegraph to-day.

British Indian troops were called out to quell the riots, and armored cars were patrolling the streets today, the despatch said.

The Governor-General considered the situation so grave that he postponed a trip to Simla to remain at his post.

STEAMER FAILS TO REACH OCEAN

Killarney Finds Detroit Handier Than Miquelon For Winter Voyage.

WITH LIQUOR CARGO.

WINDSOR, May 5. — (Canadian Press.) — The steamer "Killarney" never sailed down from Walkerville to the sea in winter laden with Hiram Walker and Sons whiskey. Bills of lading discovered by the Royal Customs Commission declare that liquor was shipped by the Killarney from Walkerville to St. Pierre Miquelon during the winter months. But today it was discovered that this perilous voyage, involving navigation of the canals in winter, had not been made. Instead the liquor made a somewhat less perilous voyage across the Detroit river for United States' consumption.

W. H. Furlong, counsel appearing for certain of the liquor interests, told the commission this morning that "there was no possibility of the Killarney having come to St. Pierre," as stated in the bills of lading. The liquor had gone across the river.

CANADIANS MAY REGAIN STATUS

Will Be Given Citizenship When Back Here One Year.

MUST INTEND TO STAY.

OTTAWA, May 5 (Canadian Press) —Canadian-born persons, who have been naturalized in the United States and have returned to Canada, may now be readmitted to British Nationality after one year's residence in the Dominion. Former Canadians, however, must furnish convincing evidence of their intention to reside in Canada by the acquisition of property in this country and by the submission of an affidavit or statement that they propose to stay here.

This is the gist of an Order-in-Council making special provision in respect to Canadian-born persons who have become naturalized in the United States.

WHEN FOOD FAILS.

There are thousand of people who do not get the proper nourishment from the food they eat, because their digestion is defective. Food that lies undigested in the stomach is not merely wasted, it will ferment and poison your system. Flatulence and sour risings in the throat follow and unless you are careful you will become a chronic dyspeptic.

By toning up the stomach to do the work nature intended, you will remove the cause of the trouble. Nothing will more prompty restore the digestive organs than good new blood. Stomach, nerves and glands all depend on the blood, and when it gets thin and watery they are at once weakened. It is because of their action in building up and enriching the blood that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved successful in so many cases of indegstion where ordinary medicines have failed. The new rich blood quickly tones up the digestive organs; the appetite improves and you are able to eat with comfort and get full nourishment from your food.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SENATORS WIN OVER YANKEES

Washington Knocks Reuther Out of the Box in the First Inning.

GEHRIG SCORES RUTH.

NEW YORK, May 5 (Canadian Press) — Coming to life after two straight defeats, the Senators defeated New York at Washington yesterady, 7 to 4, in the third game of the series. With five regulars out of the game on account of injuries and sickness, Washington knocked Dutch Ruether, a one-time Senator, out of the box in the first inning and also touched Shawkey freely. Gehrig hit a home run over the fence in the first, scoring Ruth ahead of him.

At Detroit, a grouping of hits by the Chicago White Sox with Gibson's wildness and one Detroit error, resulted in the Tigers losing the third game of the series yesterday, 71 to 5. Ted Blankenship, who started in the box for Chicago, was taken out in the seventh when the Tigers threatened, but Connally, who relieved him, held the opposition safe for the remainder of the game.

Win Home Game

The St. Louis Browns knocked Levsen and Shaute out of the box yesterday and won a home game from the Cleveland Indians 13 to 3. The Browns garnered six of their runs in the sixth inning on five hits. Sisler stole home in that frame.

Rain yesterday ended the Philadelphia game at Boston at the end of the third inning with the Athletics leading, 7 to 1.

BILLIARD NOTES

MANCHESTER, Eng., May 5 (Canadian Press Cable).—Tommy Newman, professional billiards champion, was leading J. Davis by 579 points last night in their championship match of 16,000 points, the scores being: Newman 12,001, in play; Davis, 11,422.

Newman has at last succumbed to Tommy Reece's pendulum cannon stroke which his opponent has been using. At the close of play last night he had make a break of 680 points with the pendulum and had the balls in position to continue his run.

The average salary paid to managers of the big professional football clubs in England, is less than $5000 a year.

REECE EXTENDS BILLIARDS RECORD

LONDON, May 5 (Canadian Press). —Employing his questionable pendulum cannon stroke throughout, Tommy Reece last night extended his new world's record billiards break to 4,873 points, unfinished, far above the record of 3,964 he set last week. He finished yesterday afternoon with 4,221 points and with the balls in position for his pendulum stroke, added the extra points before the close of play last night. During his break he has made 2,400 cannons.

It is noticeable that the position on the cloth where the balls rest for Reece's stroke is covered with chalk dust. Each time the object ball comes to rest from the top cushion to the side of the table it settles in a ring of dust and Reece, therefore, last night played with much greater deliberation.

EXHIBITION GAME

A softball game will be played between Peterborough Lock Works and The Examiner, on Friday night, in Central Park, at 6 o'clock. All players of both teams please turn out.

ONE REASON FOR KING GEORGE'S POPULARITY

CARDS GAIN LEAGUE LEAD

St. Louis Hammer Two Pirate Hurlers For 8-3 Victory.

ROBINS LOSE 4-3.

NEW YORK, May 5 (Canadian Press) — Brooklyn's winning streak ended yesterday when the Giants poked through a 4 to 3 victory in the tenth inning. Bentley drove Lindstrom home from second with the deciding run with a single to centre field. Eliott pitched great ball for Brooklyn up to the ninth when four straight hits and a wild pitch scored two runs. Cummings sent in the tying run with a sacrifice fly. Babe Herman got a homer and a triple.

St. Louis avenged Tuesday's defeat at the hands of Pitsburgh by hammering two Pirate hurlers on their home mound for an 8 to 3 victory. The win put the Cards at the head of the league.

It was a field day for Frankie Frisch. He collected two triples and two runs and took nine chances in the field without a slip. L. Bell hit the only homer of the game.

Reds Defeated

Chicago blasted Jake Donahue and Jakie May off the Chicago hill in the third inning yesterday, scoring eight runs and easily defeating Cincinnati in a slugging match, 13 to 9. Kaufmann pitched his first game for the Cubs since being sent home from Cincinnati last week and was hit freely by the visitors and had to give way in the ninth inning when the Reds started a belated rally.

The Philadelphia-Boston game was postponed because of cold weather.

NINE TITLES WON BY EASTERN LADS

Harry Cobb Captured Only Mitt Title For Ontario.

WINNIPEG, May 5.—Outside competitors carried off the major honors at the Dominion boxing and wrestling championships, which concluded here yesterday. No less than nine of the fourteen titles decided went to visiting athletes, while the local boys were successful in attaining the laurels in the other five.

As was the case on the opening night of the tournament, eastern mitt and mat stars were again to the fore Tuesday night, and no less than seven championships were won by Port Arthur, Toronto and Montreal men. A crowd of approximately 4,000 witnessed the lengthy program.

Of the seventeen bouts on the boxing card, only one clean knockout was registered, while E. Pickering, of Toronto, was forced to retire at the end of the second round in his fight with P. Shiffer, owing to an injured nose.

Cobb Won Title.

Montreal lads scored victories in three boxing finals , while Harry Cobb, of Camp Borden, was the only Ontario representative to gain a title in the mitt events.

The wrestling championships were well distributed, two being won by Winnipeg, while Regina, Port Arthur, Toronto, Kenora and Oklahoma competitors were successful in gaining the honors in the remainder of the classes.

Probably the outstanding bout of the evening was the heavyweight final in which Harry Cobb, of Camp Borden, created an upset by defeating Jean Retelle, Montreal, after a thrilling fight. Another match that caused considerable excitement was between Paul Frederickson and Sammy Hackett, of Winnipeg and Toronto, respectively, in the featherweight final. The local boy won the decision in three rounds that were filled with action.

Jack Smith of the Uniontown team earned the title of home-run king of the Middle Atlantic League last season by polling out 28 circuit drives.

AMATEUR TROPHY TO BE RETURNED

Cup Won By Jesse Sweetser Going Back To Scotland.

NEW YORK, May 5 (United Press) —The British amateur championship golf cup, won last year by Jesse Sweetser, will be sent back to Scotland Saturday on the liner Olympic. The cup, valued at $2,500, will be competed for at the Royal and Ancient Golf club matches at St. Andrew's, Scotland, this summer.

BASEBALL MEETING.

Plans For Season Discussed at Meeting Held in Warkworth.

WARKWORTH, May 5.—A large number were present at the meeting of the local baseball club which was held Tuesday evening in the community hall.

The question of raising money for necessary equipment and league fees was discussed and it was decided that Morley Smith, Neil Thompson and Orval Kelly be a committee to interview the town and school teams of the Softball League and Athletic Association for donations.

Morley Smith, L. Fowler, J. F. Dingman and Orval Kelly were appointed as finance and advertising committee and to canvass the village for subscriptions if necessary. It was also decided that anyone who donated five dollars or more was to receive a complimentary ticket for home games.

Morley Smith and Korey Zuefelt were appointed to attend the meeting of the Northumberland League which is being held on May fifth. A score board was under discussion and the secretary was instructed to correspond with different companies for prices.

The question of uniforms was brought up and discussed but it was carried over until the next meeting.

Korey Zuefelt, Jack Leonard, W. H. Jones and Orval Kelly were appointed grounds' committee.

FORM TEAMS AT CAMPBELLFORD

League To Open On Monday Night at Agricultural Grounds.

SCHEDULE ADOPTED.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 5. — The softball executive held a lengthy meeting in the Public Library Tuesday night. The passing of certificates took considerable time, a number of players being protested as to the elegibility of them playing with the clubs they had signed with.

Jack Nesbitt had signed with St. Andrew's and the Hydro. He will be given the choice of which team he wishes to play with.

Harry Lambert had signed with the Mill and Outlaws. The executive decided he would have to play with the Mill team.

Harry Bennett had not signed at all. Several of the clubs had approached him, but he had stated a preference to cast in his lot with the Clerks. The executive decided the Mill had first claim on his services and he will be asked to sign with them. Thornton Ibey was signed by the Clerks with whom he played last year, he was also claimed by the Outlaws. Both representatives talked themselves dizzy, telling the executive why he should play with their respective teams, but failed to openly impress the governing body, so a ballot was taken; the verdict going in favor of the Outlaws, 4 to 3.

The decision was a severe blow to the champions who, with Ibey in the line up, had hopes of winning the Cloth Co. Cup for the third year in succession.

The first league games will be played at the Agricultural Grounds and H. Atkinson and Rev. C. D. Daniel were appointed to lay out the diamond and get it ready for the first game Monday night.

Start at 6.20

All games during May must start at 6.20 p.m. and Ontario Softball Rules will govern all league games with the exception of the size of the ball, the local association deciding to use a 12 inch inseam ball. The following lists of players were approved as being eligible to play in all league games:

Mill.—J. H. Bell, J. Heptonstall, M. Reid, John Poulton, R. Sweet, A. Stocker, Fred Blake, Walter Blake, Manley Blake, C. Montgomery, V. Cochrane, H. Cubbitt, H. Lambert, F. Beaudoin.

Hydro.—J. B. Cowell, F. DeCarroll, H. Tinney, T. Brunnelle, A. Lonz, G. A. Ironsides, H. Bleecker, C. Johnston, F. Adamson, H. Saunders, P. Saunders, H. Beatty, C. Watt, C. Meyers.

St. Andrew's Thistles—B. Reynolds, J. Storie, W. Blakely, C. Irwin, A. Little, R. Blakely, D. Grills, O. Hendy, E. Fox, H. Dunk, P. Bland, M. Pilling, H. Hoard, Gerald Bailey.

LEAFS MAKE CLEAN SWEEP

HITS ARE SCARCE.

MAPLE LEAF STADIUM, May 5.—The Leafs made it a double on the day and three straight on the series by whipping the Reading Aces, 3-1, in the second game yesterday afternoon. Faulkner pitched nicely and but for a close decision at first base would probably have scored a shutout. Jack Noble, former local sandlotter, turned in a nice effort in his first appearance in his own home town, resting the Leafs to two hits after the first innings, when he was touched for three singles.

Baltimore at Rochester, rain.
Jersey City at Buffalo, rain.
Newark at Syracuse, rain.

England, Sweden, Norway, Rumania and probably Canada are to be represented at the Y.M.C.A. international sports tournament to be held in Copenhagen next July.

SPEED LIMIT NOT LAWFUL

Only Incorporated City, Town, or Village May Impose One.

BRIDGENORTH CASE.

There appeared in The Examiner some time ago an article regarding the speed limit through the village of Bridgenorth, the question coming up after some tourists had been caught exceeding the limit that had been set. Frank Stinson, secretary of the Peterborough Automobile Club, told The Examiner that he was in possession of statements that no unincorporated villages could set any speed limit.

To verify these, Mr. Stinson wrote Department of Public Highways, for an official explanation to the public. Following is the letter that he received from Mr. Cockburn:

"I have your letter of the 2nd instant, with respect to the two signs on each side of the village of Bridgenorth, reading 15 miles per hour.

"I understand that this village is on a County Road, and in this connection I am writing to Mr. D. MacFarlane, County Road Superintendent, and am enclosing herewith a copy of this letter."

WHAT'S IN A NAME?
NOT MUCH DIGNITY

(By NEA Service)

SEATTLE, Wash., May 5.—The feminine influence threatens to pervade the vernacular of the logging camps. No one knows how much longer the chokermen, fallers, hookers, teetehs, punks, buckers, king riders and others with hard-boiled titles can call themselves by their right names. It started when Mayor Bertha K. Landes was called upon to sign an ordinance creating the job of "bull cook" for a hydro-electric development project. "It seems," reproved the mayor, "that the council should have adopted a title suggesting some degree of dignity, if not culture." The council, cowed, promised to see what could be done.

WEDDING BELLS.

SEXSMITH—NORTHEY

A quiet but pretty wedding took place on Wednesday, May 4, at 10 o'clock at the George Street Parsonage, by the Rev. J. E. Todd, when Mary, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Whitfield Northey, 223 London Street, was united in marriage to Mr. John Sexsmith, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Sexsmith, of Fraserville.

The young couple were unattended. The bride wore a lovely dress of blue canton crepe trimmed with grey with hat to match, and sand coat.

Mr. and Mrs. Sexsmith left immediately by motor for Toronto, Niagara, and points west, and on their return will reside in Otonabee.

Brazil has a constitution similar to that of the United States.

OBITUARY

MRS. DRUCILLA PEARSON.

The death occurred on Tuesday, May 3rd, of Mrs. Drucilla Pearson, wife of Harry Pearson, in her 62nd year. She leaves to mourn her loss a sorrowing husband, three sons, Reginald, Wellington and Stanley, also three daughters, Mrs. Samuel Trude, of Lakefield, Mrs. Wilbert Northey of Smith, and Mrs. Galvin Dunford, Detroit, Michigan.

The funeral will be held from the family residence, lot 27, concession 14, Smith township, on Thursday, May 5th, 1927, at 1.30, and proceed to the Lakefield cemetery, with Rev. Mr. Wesley officiating.

WILLIAM HEAD.

The death occurred this morning of William Head of South Monaghan. He leaves to mourn his loss three sons, Fred of Toronto, Arthur of Peterborough, and Frank at home. He also leaves one daughter Mary, of London.

The funeral will take place from the home of his son, Arthur Head, 257 Bethune street, on Friday morning.

LEGION NOTES

An enthusiastic meeting of the Canadian Legion was held at headquarters last night when considerable business was transacted. Several new members were initiated, and cordially received by the members present.

The Vice-President J. Abraham, presided, and remarked upon the steadily increasing membership, and which he said, augured well for the future of the organization.

Comrades Ebbs, Townsend, T. Griffin, H. Fisher V. Stewart and Church were appointed as a membership committee for the month of May.

The report of the Social Entertainment Committee was submitted by Comrade O. Hurrie, in the absence of the chairman, Comrade Crowe. This report was one of the most elaborate reports that has ever been submitted by any committees of the branch and covered three years activities. At the conclusion of the reading of the report a hearty vote of thanks was accorded both the Social Committee and the Concert Committee.

A special meeting will be held on Wednesday, May 18th, when all members of the local branch are asked to be present to discuss problems pertaining to the Provincial Convention, and to appoint a reception committee and delegates to represent the branch. It is expected that Comrade Alex. Shield, the Provincial Secretary will be present to address the meeting.

The question of Civic Holiday sports was discussed, the matter being left over for a further report to be made by the secretary at a later meeting.

The chairman of the Sick Committee, Comrade J. Abraham, reported that Comrade A. E. Everett, a prominent worker of the Social Committee, had met with a serious accident, having broken several ribs. The sympathy of all the veterans will go out to this comrade, and it is hoped that he will be speedily restored to health again.

Arrangements for Decoration Sundays are under way. Further particulars as to date and other matters will be announced later.

IN MEMORIAM.

BEARNE. — In loving memory of our beloved sister and aunt, Beatrice Alice Bearne, who passed away, May 5, 1922.
Home at last, thy labor done,
Safe and blest, the victory won,
Jordan pass'd, from pain set free,
Angels now have welcom'd thee.
When earth's songs have all been sung,
Labor ended, trials done,
We'll meet again; Oh, happy word.
And be 'for ever with the Lord.'
—Ever remembered by her sister and brother, Mrs. and Mr. T. R. Cooper, niece and nephew Joe and Doris Cooper.

IN MEMORIAM.

BEARNE. — In loving memory of our dear mother, Beatrice Bearne, who passed away May 5, 1922.
When a mother breathes her last farewell,
The stroke means more than tongue can tell;
The world seems quite another place
Without the smile of mother's face.
—Inserted by her sons, Leonard and Lewis.

IN MEMORIAM.

MURPHY. — In loving remembrance of Sarah Murphy who passed away May 5, 1922.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
—Husband and Family.

IN MEMORIAM.

BEARNE. — In loving memory of "Trix," my dear wife and our sweet mother, who passed away May 5, 1922:
We do not forget her; we loved her too dearly
For her memory to fade from our lives like a dream,
Our lips need not speak when our hearts grieve sincerely,
For grief often dwells, though it may not be seen.
—Inserted by husband and daughters, Rose and Eunice, Winnipeg.

Links Names of Prominent Men in Connection With "Rat Fund."

PAID ON CASE

WINDSOR Ont. May 6 (Canadian Press).—The "snake fund" discovered in one Ontario brewery some time ago gave place to the "rat fund" before the Royal Customs Commission yesterday. With the "rat fund" James Cooper Walkerville liquor exporter linked up the names of A. F. Healy former Liberal member of the House of Commons for North Essex. W. M. Egan one time Windsor lawyer and a former campaign manager for Healy and a John O'Gorman of Toronto who has not figured thus far in the evidence. Mr. Cooper declared that within a week after Mr. Healy's election to the House of Commons the new member had telephoned him and told him to go and see Mr. Egan. On obeying the direction he was met with a demand for money which he satisfied only to the extent of $272. This was not satisfactory he said and he was directed to go back and "see Tim." When he saw Mr. Healy the member told him to go to a local hotel and see "the big fellow" who was called John O'Gorman of Toronto. When he saw Mr. O'Gorman a demand was made for $2.00 a case on export liquor shipments and 25 cents a case for export beer. This Mr. Cooper said he refused.

Mr. Cooper who is recovering from an illness gave his evidence sitting. He was questioned by Hon. N. W. Rowell K.C. Commission counsel more particularly in regard to liquor shipments from the distillery of Hiram Walker and Sons. It was in the course of this testimony that he referred to the "rat fund." Mr. Rowell asked him to tell the Commission about this fund.

Demanded Money.

"We called it a rat fund" said Mr. Cooper. "We elected a member of Parliament named Mr. Healy here and he used his influence to hurt and help in accordance with your desires to pay or not to pay. He selected a man called Egan who was prosecutor here in 1923. He was with Healy to shake down or blackmail those who were interested in the business. Only a week after he was elected he sent for me and said I would have to see Egan. I asked what for. He said Egan would tell me. I went and saw Egan."

Mr. Cooper told of his interview with Egan whose office he said was in the same building with that of Healy. Egan had demanded money from him. After some conversation and "sparring round" Mr. Cooper said that he gave Egan $272.

"While he took it he said: 'this won't do. You'll have to see Tim'" said Mr. Cooper.

"I said 'all right I'll see Tim'."

Then he returned to Mr. Healy's office.

"Healy told me I would have to see the big fellow. I said 'who is the big fellow? I thought you were the big fellow'."

The big fellow according to Mr. Cooper turned out to be John O'Gorman, who, Mr. Healy informed him, was staying at a local hotel. He went to see Mr. O'Gorman.

Charge a Case.

"The big fellow only took ten seconds to tell me that they wanted $2.00 a case for export liquor and 25 cents a case for beer. I told him that I wouldn't pay, because the Dominion laws were not being interfered with."

The witness then went to see his lawyers, he stated, and was advised that he should not submit to the levy because it was nothing less than blackmail.

The activities of Mr. Egan were testified to further by another large liquor exporter. Harry Lowe, vice-President of the Carling Brewing Company, and a large agent for United States importers of liquor, was asked by Mr. Rowell what his dealings with Mr. Egan had amounted to.

"Well, they weren't very nice," Mr. Lowe remarked.

He said that Mr. Egan had demanded 3.00 a case for whiskey and ten cents a case for beer going across to the United States. On its being refused, Mr. Egan had subjected him and his assistants to numerous annoyances in transacting their business.

"He sent a man round to lie in the grass on our wharf and try and get us," said Mr. Lowe. Egan, he declared, had sent numerous men around to their dock to make proposals which were calculated to get them into trouble.

"Did you pay him any money?" asked counsel.

"No, and he made us a lot of trouble," was the reply.

A story was circulated that Carlings were interested in a barge which was

12 Words Made Short After a Long Study

NEW YORK, May 6.—(A.P.)—Twelve words in "alternative spellings" have been entered in dictionaries of the English language after 20 years of effort by the Simplified Spelling Board of America.

The dozen word progress in the simplified spelling movement was announced yesterday at the annual meeting of the board at Columbia University. The society still has 29,988 words of a handbook of 30,000 respelled words "to advance to dignity of formal lexicography."

The words accorded dictionary recognition are: Tho, altho, thru, thruout, thoro, thorofare, thorroly, program, catalog, decalog, pedagog and prolog.

MANY WILLING TO GIVE FLOATS

MILITIA TO ASSIST.

The Parade Committee for the Jubilee on July 1st, held a meeting last night and by the different reports it looked as if this committee is going to make this celebration an event that will have a lasting effect on even Peterborough's youngest citizens.

Lieut.-Colonel W. G. Hall, of the Peterborough Rangers, was present, and offered to do what he could in the military line, and thought that a sham battle could be staged in front of the grand stand for the evening performance.

Previous to this meeting the committee had written to different organizations in the city requesting that they enter the parade with a float of some description and representing some particular province.

Mr. Day, as a representative of the Foresters, told the Committee that his lodge was willing to do all in its power to help the celebration, but they did not understand just what the committee required.

Dr. Craig told him that he expected a bood describing different floats and their make-up, and when the book came would gladly lend it to the Order for reference.

Mr. Knox, representing the Knights of Pythias, told the committee that his lodge was also eager to share in the Jubilee, but that it was short of funds at the present time, and if the floats were to be anything elaborate they would have to withdraw.

The chairman replied that nothing like that was expected and they only wished to have the effect of olden times.

Mr. Knox then promised that he would bring the suggestion up at their next lodge meeting, and he thought that they would be able to enter a float for all the lodge members were enthusiastic over the celebration.

Dr. Craig, chairman of the committee, reported that out of fifteen organizations, ten had replied favorably, wishing to take a part in the parade.

A suggestion was then made that the committee encourage the school children to enter the parade: and also get the cooperation of the teachers on that point.

Mrs. Lynch of the Woman's Catholic League reported that her league would in all probability enter a float and suggested that the chairman loan them the book of instructions in regard to floats.

Different firms throughout the city have been written to for floats representing the industries in Canada, but the committee decided that floats of all the provinces must be in the parade before any attention is given to the industries, although they will play a large part in making this celebration historic, for it will show how much Canada has progressed since it was first discovered.

BATAVIA, Java, May 6 (Canadian Press)—Ten Chinese are reported to have been killed and many wounded in a clash with police and soldiers during a search of the houses in the Chinese quarter of Samarinda, on the coast of Borneo.

A telegram from Banjermassin telling of the incident, says the police made some arrests and seized "important documents."

Sues Theatre Because Boy Fell On His Neck

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 6.—(United Press.)— Because a small boy tumbled from the balcony of the Palace Theatre, falling on his neck, William Mc. Laughlin sued the theatre management for $2,500.

He alleged in his petition that the theatre was poorly lighted or the boy would not have fallen. The boy was not hurt.

MARCONI BEAM STATIONS JOIN ENTIRE EMPIRE

Conversations Between Countries Will Soon Be Possible.

AT CHEAPER RATE.

Facsimile Reproduction of Printing To Be Next Forward Step.

LONDON, May 6 (United Press).—R. V. Vyvyan, chief engineer of the Marconi Company, announces that Canada and Great Britain will be linked by wireless telephone during the summer and that Transatlantic conversations will be much cheaper than the present American rate of 15 pounds for three minutes.

Later, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa will be similarly connected up, making possible conversations between two parties throughout the British Empire.

Experiments in connection with the Canadian service, Mr. Vyvyan says, are now regarded as complete, and it only remains to demonstrate to the British post office authorities that the Marconi "beam" stations are adequate for the efficient transmission of verbal messages.

Vyvyan expects that with the "beam" stations in existence it will be possible to carry on a two-way conversation without interfering with telegraphy, for which the stations were primarily built.

Later still, the "beam" will be used for facsimile reproduction, which means that it will then be possible to send a sheet of printed matter as if by wireless photography, at a speed of about 400 words a minute.

TITLE CHANGE FOR GOVERNOR

King May Make Him Viceroy in Dominion Day Message.

FOLLOWS CONFERENCE.

OTTAWA, May 6. — Announcement may be made on the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation of a change in the title and status of Viscount Willingdon. After July 1st His Excellency may assume the title of Viceroy, or the King's representative in Canada. Since the recent Imperial Conference the title of the Sovereign has been changed by the British parliament so that His Majesty is now King of Canada. It was as King of Canada that he gave Hon Vincent Massey his credentials as Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Washington. Premier Hertzog announced in South Africa this week that henceforth the Governor General of that country would be known as the King's representative.

It is anticipated in Ottawa that the change to Lord Willingdon's title may possibly be announced in a message from His Majesty on July 1.

The United Kingdom is expected to send a High Commisioner to Canada in the near future and some definite word regarding this may be looked for soon.

COURTNEY WILL FLY TO CANADA

Winner of Aerial Derby in 1923 To Make Attempt.

ACROSS ATLANTIC.

LONDON, May 6 (Canadian Press) Captain F. P. Courtney ,winner of the aerial derby for the king's cup in 1923, the Westminster Gazette says, is the airman who will make the attempt within the next few weeks to fly to Canada and return in a seaplane.

An evening paper, the News, published the possibility of such a flight by "one of the best known British airmen," but did not name him. It added that all the plans were being kept secret.

MUCH BUSINESS IS TRANSACTED AT PRESBYTERY

Large Attendance at Meeting Held in Lindsay Yesterday.

CHANGES APPROVED.

Reports Show Progress Made Since Last Meeting of Presbytery.

LINDSAY, May 6. — Lindsay Presbytery of the United Church met yesterday in the First United Church with a splendid attendance of ministers and lay delegates. Rev. R. F. Stilman, of Norwood, President, welcomed the delegates. Rev. Mr. Patterson, of Janetville, and Inspector R. F. Downey of Peterborough were appointed a committee to prepare the roll for general conference. Suggestions relative to vising congregational records were left to a committee comprising Revs. Archer of Havelock, T. E. Holling of Lindsay, J. W. Gordon of Peterborough, and Mr. D. W. Walls of Beaverton.

The report of the committee on remits relative to ministers' salaries was favorably commented upon. A. C. Denike of Havelock giving an authoritative address.

The committee on military training reported, recommending that no action be taken relative to the remit on this item sent down by the higher court.

Rev. C. E. Dyer of Greenbank addressed the Presbytery relative to the arrangements to be made between pastors and charges before a pastor takes up work in any charge. A committee was appointed to consider the matters outlined in the address.

It was decided to hand over the examination of students, probationers, and candidates to the college and students' committee.

The Presbytery with regret released Rev. E. O. Seymour of Fenelon Falls in order to accept a call to Hamilton Presbytery.

The call from Roseneath congregation to Rev. Redvers Brown of Cordova Mines, was dealt with. Rev. Mr. Brawn has accepted the call.

A change in the pastorates of Rev. Mr. Glover of Cambray, and Rev Mr. Mutton of Smithfield was referred to the settlement committee.

STARTS TO FIX LIQUOR STORE

T. C. Ephgrave Has Contract For Fitting Up Selected Property.

AT 408 GEORGE STREET.

Peterborough's government liquor store has definitely been located at 408 George street, and T. C. Ephgrave has been given instructions to commence renovating the store to make it suitable for the selling and storing of liquor.

Liquor Commissioner Stewart McClenaghan visited this city some two weeks ago and this was the only building which suited him. He was not impressed with the idea of having the store on the main street, but was unable to find a suitable one on any of the side streets.

A new floor has to be put in the cellar of the store and the whole upstairs will have to be made over, with new hardwood floor. The partition which was near the front of the store will be moved back and there will be two entrances from the street. There will be steel doors at the back, and a chute into the cellar.

ANGLE PARKING IS SUGGESTED BY MERCHANTS

Propose Adopting This System Now Street Cars Have Stopped.

WOULD SOLVE PROBLEM.

More Cars Could Be Parked Than Now Possible—Streets Narrow.

That angle parking be established in this city, since the street cars have stopped, is the suggestion that many merchants are making to the Peterborough Automobile Club, according to Frank Stinson, secretary of the club this morning.

The parking question has been a big problem lately in this city as well as others, and as angle parking will permit more cars to stand along the streets, the merchants are wondering why this scheme has not been adopted to prevent the congestion that arises quite frequently on George street.

"The only thing that would probably hinder this method of parking," said Mr. Stinson, "is that our streets are not as wide as larger cities, but this difficulty could be overcome by having angle parking on one side of the street, and so remove some of the obstacles of the present parking problem.

COUNCIL PLANS FOR RECEPTION

WILL BE HERE JUNE 20.

A meeting of the Reception Committee of the City Council was held last night at which plans were made for the reception of the Governor-General when he visits this city on June 20th next. Committees were appointed to make the various arrangements. Alderman Fife is to look after the building of the platform in Central Park. The chairman, Alderman Macdonald, was appointed to see the Board of Education and the bands. The Mayor and Chairman were appointed to mark out the route for the drive and the Mayor is to draft the address.

Those present were: Alderman Macdonald, Mayor Holloway, Aldermen Denne, Fife, and Phelan. Dr. Bisgrave was also at the meeting.

THE WEATHER

An old proverb says that "One swallow does not make a summer," but when these swiftly-manoeuvring birds are numerous it is pretty certain that warmer weather is not far distant. A few pioneers made their appearance last Sunday but to-day they were around in large numbers. Lowest temperature last night 36 degrees; highest yesterday, 58; rainfall .13.—W. P.

DAMAGE BY STORMS.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 6.—(Canadian Press.)—Damage to Oklahoma buildings and crops from a series of wind and hail storms to-day was estimated at nearly $2,000,000.

Secret Contents Of Prophetess' "Mystery Box" Closed For 100 Years Is Revealed By X-Ray

LONDON, May 6 (Canadian Press).—"X"-rays have succeeded where psychic power failed in revealing the secrets of the famous mystery box left by the Prophetess Joanna Southcott, who died in 1814.

The rays showed the outlines of a skull, scissors, a horse pistol, a bead bag, rings, coins, pins, a roll of manuscript or a dice box, and other articles.

On the theory that the manuscript, if there is one, may throw light on the prophetess' announcement that she was to be the "mother of a new Messiah," the box will be pried open in the next few days.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, famous psychic investigator, declined an invitation to the ceremonies extended by Harry Price, secretary of the national laboratory of psychical research, who has possession of the box.

The contents of the box have been a matter of speculation for more than 100 years. Accordi to tradition, it was turned over, after Joanna's death, to Rebecca Pengarth, her sole companion, who solemnly promised it would never be opened except in a national crisis, and in the presence of 24 bishops. The box passed from the Pengarth family some years ago, and recently was turned over to Mr. Price, who had it "X"-rayed.

Joanna Southcott, a domestic servant, born in Devonshire in 1750, claimed supernatural powers, and dictated prophecies in rhyme. Her sect numbered over 100,000 at one time, and was still in existence, although disappearing rapidly, in 1886.

Seats Kept For Sailors To Hear Child Evangelist

NEW YORK, May 6 (United Press).—One thousand seats in Carnegie Hall were reserved for men of the United States fleet last night to hear Uldine Utley, the 15-year-old evangelist, who is conducting a revival in the heart of the theatre district. Earlier in the day little Uldine had addressed 500 blue jackets aboard the battleship Pennsylvania, converting six of them.

CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION IN LONDON TO-DAY

LEADERS PRESENT.

Hon. G. H. Ferguson and Hon. Hugh Guthrie Are in Attendance.

LONDON, Ont., May 6. Canadian Press. — Conservatives from all parts of Western Ontario assembled here this morning, prominent among them being Premier G. Howard Ferguson, members of his Cabinet, and the Hon. Hugh Guthrie, to attend the annual meeting of the Western Ontario Conservative Association.

Dr. A. R. MacMillan brought a party of forty from Sarnia and R. E. Ryerson, M. P., Brantford was accompanied by fourteen from that city. A. A. Ingram, president of the Western Ontario Association, brought a large number from St. Thomas.

With the Premier this morning were Hon. John S. Martin, Hon. Lincoln Goldie, and Hon. J. D. Monteith. The Prime Minister was welcomed to London by acting-Mayor James McCormick, and members of the council. The business sessions of the meeting began this afternoon, and the addresses of a number of speakers will be topped off to-night with a supper dance in the Masonic Temple. A reception at the Y.W.C.A. is being held late this afternoon for the wives of the visiting Conservatives.

Nungesser's Plane Is Damaged By Fire

PARIS, May 6 (AP)—Capt. Charles Nungessers airplane, in which the noted French ace intends to fly from Paris to New York, was slightly burned by a gasoline fire early yesterday morning. It is stated that the plane can be repaired in a day or two.

Fabric on the underside of the wings must be replaced, but otherwise the machine suffered no damage. The fire started in the shed at Villacoublay, where the plane is housed. It is thought an electric lamp ignited the gasoline, which was in tins under the wings.

LINDSAY FREED BY MAGISTRATE

Charge of Having Still Is Dismissed in County Court To-day.

"STRONG SUSPICION."

The case of the Crown against Richard Lindsay of Centre Dummer, was dismissed by Magistrate O. A. Langley, in the County Police Court this morning. Mr. Lindsay was charged with having a still in his possession during the month of January last, contrary to the Inland Revenue Act. Joseph Wearing appeared for the Crown and E. F. Reid for the accused.

Magistrate Langley was unable to find sufficient evidence to convict the accused, but he said he had a very strong suspicion that Lindsay put the still in the swamp on Matthew Lytle's farm.

The evidence of the Crown and defense was heard yesterday in Norwood. The case arose from a number of peculiar circumstances. Richard Lindsay, the accused, told Constable Maker where a still could be found. Constable Maker, on investigating, found the still, and on further investigations, Excise Officer William Buller laid the charge, of having a still, against Richard Lindsay.

In the evidence Lindsay maintained that Matthew Lytle, on whose farm the still was found, owned it and Lytle charged Lindsay with planting it.

One of the witnesses, a boy of 21 years of age, was unable to write, he said he had never gone to Sunday school, he was not quite sure what the Bible was, and only knew that one had to kiss it to take an oath and after taking the oath, if he did not tell the truth one "would go to hell."

The still was put in by the Crown as an exhibit and consisted of a large rectangular can, a piece of piping and a worm.

Constable N. F. Maker.

Constable Maker told the court of how, after receiving information from the accused, Richard Lindsay as to the whereabouts of a still on Matthew Lytle's farm, he, accompanied by Inspector Stewart and William Buller, searched the premises and found it hidden in a jute bag in the swamp.

William Buller, excise officer for the County of Peterborough, said that from information received on Easter Monday from Richard Lindsay, he went with Constable Maker and Inspector Stewart the next day and found a crude still, but one which would make the best of whiskey, on the farm of Matthew Lytle.

Charles Lytle, son of Matthew Lytle, was able to identify parts of the still as those which he had seen amongst some of the fittings, when he moved Richard Lindsay last December to the home of his father. He said he had been convicted a couple of years ago under the O.T.A.

Wellington Lytle, another son of Matthew Lytle, asked by Mr. Wearing where he lived, said: "Back north in what they call the backwoods." He told of having seen the three parts of the still at various times through the winter and identified the exhibits as those which he saw. He also said he saw Richard Lindsay with the still in a bag when he went to plant it in the swamp.

Laura Lee said she had paid several visits to the Lindsay home over a year ago, when they lived in a house owned by John McNorton, and on one visit she saw a can which resembled one of the exhibits of the seized still. The Lindsays were then living in a one-roomed house and this can was hidden in one corner covered up with some sheets.

Labor Members Reprimanded By Speaker For Singing in House.

DEBATE QUIETER.

Motion To Reject Bill Defeated By a Vote of 366 to 171.

LONDON, May 6 (Canadian Press). — Amid an attempt by the Laborites to sing "John Brown's Body," which was stopped by a sharp reprimand from the Speaker, and the chanting by Laborites in the lobbies of "Glory Hallelujah," the House of Commons last night passed the second reading of the Trades Union Bill, which aims to prevent general strikes and strikes of a coercive nature.

The House was crowded. The Laborites had tried to persist with the debate past the customary hour, but were prevented by Sir Douglas Hogg invoking closure and when the motion of J. R. Clynes to reject the bill was put, it was defeated, 366 to 171.

The bill was referred to the committee of the whole House, instead of the usual small committee, and the committee stage will begin next Tuesday. The Laborites already have submitted hundreds of amendments.

David Lloyd George, former Liberal Prime Minister, and Philip Snowden, former Labor Chancellor of the Exchequer, were the principal opponents of the bill in the final day's debate on that measure, which proceeded in a calmer atmosphere than on the previous days. Both made tempered speeches and the House listened quietly.

Foment Class Strife

Mr. Snowden, for the Laborites, maintained that the bill would foment a class strife and be a God-send to the Communists. The only real way to prevent a general strike, he contended, was by creating machinery whereby industrial disputes could be settled by reason instead of by force. All strikes, he argued, were intended to coerce somebody and if it were made impossible to increase coercion by a sympathetic strike, then the strike weapon would become valueless.

As to the coercion of the government, said the former chancellor, governments existed but to be coerced, and was surely something new to make coercion of the government a criminal offence.

Mr. David Lloyd George for the Liberals, refraining from a discussion of details, attacked the bill on its wisdom at a moment when the best relations between capital and labor were essential to restore dwindling trade.

Undoubtedly the Trade Union Law needed clarification, but the bill, he asserted, instead of clarifying the law, only muddled old ambiguities and created new ones.

Would Not Prevent Strikes

The crippling of trade union funds would not prevent strikes—witness the fact that the miners with insufficient funds to carry on for a single week, prolonged the coal strike seven months.

The bill, said Mr. Lloyd George, was not a bill for trade recovery, but for Tory recovery; there was not one clause in it which would prevent a general strike, but many which would prolong a general strike.

Denounces Government

The House remained calm throughout the fiery speech of S. Saklatvala, Communist, who predicted that the bill would enlighten and quicken the proletariat and foster unity between the trade unionists and the Communists. He denounced the Government as a "gang of conspirators and forgers."

J. H. Thomas, Deputy Labor Leader in the House and Secretary-General of the Miners' Federation, declared that the bill was an attempt to cripple the only bargaining power the workers possessed. He agreed that a general strike was useless, but if any member of the Government or Conservative party thought the bill would prevent strikes, he was living in a fool's paradise.

Characterizing the measure as dangerous, Mr. Thomas said he only wished the government possessed the courage to test it immediately before the country. Addressing the ministers, he exclaimed: "You have abused your position, abused your majority and have struck a blow at those desiring peace in industry."

WESTCLOX CONTRACTOR LOADS MATERIAL FROM CAMPBELLFORD

T. A. Brown & Company, of Toronto, Well Known in District.

PETERBOROUGH WORK.

Trent Canal Open—Peterborough Masons Pay Visit.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 6. — T. A. Brown & Company, who have been awarded the contract for the construction of the new addition to the Westclox factory at Peterboro, began shipping from here yesterday concrete forms, waggons and other material to be used in the work. Two of this Toronto's company's last jobs were at Young's Point and Frankford a year ago.

The annual inspection of the High School cadets will take place on the high school campus this afternoon, and the corps will parade to Christ church for the morning service on Sunday.

Tried at Belleville.

Mr. N. Alex. MacColl, local barrister, will appear for the plaintiff in the case of Dickenson vs. Allen in the non-jury sittings of the Supreme Court of Ontario at Belleville next week. The court opens on Monday, and Mr. MacColl's case is second on the docket with Chief Justice Mulock Mr. Justice Grant presiding.

In this action Joseph Dickenson claims from John Allen damages for interference with the sale of a farm, or in the alternative, return of payments made by the plaintiff and damages for conversion of crops. The case has aroused considerable interest in Percy and Seymour townships.

Signs of Summer.

Heralds of summer are becoming numerous along the highway of the year. The Trent Canal is manned and ready for the season's operations, the local section under the supervision of Mr. J. Sanders having been opened on Monday, and this afternoon is the first half holiday. For some it means a quest for trout or pickerel; for others an automobile outing, and for some others duty calls to the garden, or as reinforcement in the Spring house-cleaning drive.

The visit of Peterboro Lodge A.F. and A.M., to Golden Rule lodge here Tuesday night, was greatly enjoyed by both the hosts and their guests. The degree work was assumed by the Peterboro Masons, and they also took charge of the subsequent entertainment. A buffet lunch was served by the Golden Rule Lodge. The visitors numbered about sixty.

Stock Selling Well.

Among the purchasers of stock in the National Steel Castings Limited, are Deputy-Reeve C. H. Davidson, Richard McKelvie, A. J. Meyers, Chas. Nadoo, Fred Wood, J. E. Birks, J. P. Archer, D. W. Douglas, Dr. C. C. Watson, Walter Wiggins, J. N. Stone, Dr. E. J. Free, J. C. Birmingham, A. Riendeau, John Free, T. E. Hall, J. C. Birmingham, Walter Henson, J. A. Irwin, Dr. Longmore, J. Lofchy, J. A. Frederick.

The promoters of the company are quite pleased with response of local investors. The underwriting of the stock, which may be sold up to $50,000, has disclosed a sound confidence in the company and its prospects in Campbellford, and it is generally believed that the enterprise is assured to the town.

Cologne Cathedral Fire Cause Of Much Anxiety

COLOGNE, May 6.—Great excitement was caused in Cologne the other day when volumes of smoke were seen to pour from the main entrance to the Dom, ancient and famous cathedral of this city. A fire brigade and three engines was prompt, and the fire was soon mastered. It did not attain serious dimensions, thanks to the immediate assistance rendered by the Francisvan brother on duty. The blaze was due to a disturbance in the electric transformer which regulates the electricity supply of the Dom. The cathedral was filled with smoke, and for a time acute anxiety was felt for its safety.

VATICAN KEEPS OUT OF POLITICS

Statement Issued on Al Smith's Candidacy For U. S. President.

WILL NOT MEDDLE.

(By Thomas B. Morgan, United Press Staff Correspondent. Copyright, 1927, by United Press.)

ROME, May 6.— A semi-official and presidential candidacy of Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, was obtained by the United Press yesterday from a qaulified spokesman for the Vatican.

Among the points made by the spokesman for the Vatican were the following:

1. The attitude of those Americans who view Smith's candidacy as really the candidacy of the Holy See was "most unfortunate."

2. The Holy See does not know of any reason for desiring that a Catholic should be president of the United States.

3. There will be no meddling on the part of the Vatican in the campaign.

4. The Holy See often has expressed satisfaction with the attitude assumed by the president of the United States.

5. It is the policy of the Holy See to abstain from all political struggles within the various states.

"It is most unfortunate," the United Press was informed, "that those (some?) Americans view Governor Smith's candidacy for the presidency as really the candidacy of the Holy See. Why should the Holy See wish a Catholic president? The Holy See does not see any reason for desiring a Catholic for the presidency."

HALF HOLIDAYS BEGIN.

Hastings Merchants To Close on Wednesday Afternoons For Four Months.

HASTINGS, May 6.—The first half-holiday of the year was enjoyed by the business men of Hastings on Wednesday. The holidays have opened earlier this year than for the past two years. Previous to this the holidays started in June. Only July and August were kept for many years. Now the merchants and business people have May, June, July and August.

Laborites Vie With Tories In Fashionable Costume

LONDON, May 6.—(Canadian Press).—"Labor held its own in the cut of its morning coat and the gloss and tilt of its top hat," no less a person than the editor of the "Tailor and Cutter", reported after attending the wedding of Miss Peggy Thomas at City Temple recently, when Prime Ministers and statesmen of this and former ministries were present. The editor of the Daily News is delighted to hear it. "Why should not Labor," he demands, "hold its own in this field as in others? If it wants to wear a morning coat, why not? And if it desires a top hat, by all means let it be glossy and properly tilted. Still one can almost hear the gnashing of the teeth of the 'Worker's Weekly' at these shocking revelations."

CLERKS WITHDRAW FROM LEAGUE RACE

Dissatisfied With Decision on Player—Schedule To Be Played Out.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 6.—Just when President Bell and his executive had the softball teams all lined up and ready to go, the Clerks caused a flurry by announcing they will not be a starter in the race.

The Clerks were dissatisfied with the action of the executive in not allowing Ibey to play with them.

However, the upset will not interfere with the other teams in the League, and the schedule will be played out with the Clerks' opponents drawing a bye on the dates arranged.

TRIAL ADJOURNED.

Counsel's Request Granted in Trial of Albert DeBruge, Brockville.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., May 6 (Canadian Press)—The trial of Albert De Bruge on a charge of arson arising out of the burning of his home in Elizabethtown in January was adjourned in police court yesterday until May 17 on the request of his counsel.

DeBruge was recently acquitted in Ottawa of a charge of murdering Jane Lameront, his common-law wife, who was burned in the fire.

OLD MASTERS

Therefore to whom turn I but to thee, the ineffable Name?
Builder and maker, thou, of houses not made with hands!
What, have fear of change from thee who are ever the same?
Doubt that thy power can fill the heart that thy power expands?
There shall never be one lost good!
What was, shall live as before;
The evil is null, is naught, is silence implying sound;
What was good shall be good, with, for evil, so much good more;
On earth the broken arcs; in the heaven a perfect round.

All we have willed or hoped or dreamed of good shall exist;
Not its semblance but itself; no beauty, nor good, nor power
Whose voice has gone forth, but each strives for the melodist
When eternity affirms the conception of an hour.
The high that proved too high, the heroic for earth too hard,
The passion that left the ground to lose itself in the sky,
Are music sent up to God by the lover and the bard;
Enough that He heard it once; we shall hear it by and by.

CO-OPERATION BY GROWERS IS ADVOCATED

Colin H. Burnell Thinks Farmers Can Control World Markets.

HOLD CONFERENCE.

Substiution of International Co-operation For Competition Could Be Obtained.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 6 (Canadian Press).—Direct farmer control of world grain markets through co-operative selling organizations with resultant curtailment of speculation was advocated by Colin H. Burnell, president of the Manitoba Wheat Pool, at the opening session of the second international wheat pool conference here yesterday. Substitution of international co-operation for international competition in agriculture could be obtained, in the opinion of Mr. Burnell, chairman of the conference, with a system similar to that used for three years by Canadian growers.

In tracing the spread of the co-operative plan from Canada to Russia, Australia and the United States, Mr. Burnell pointed out that pool members did not have to "dump" grain on the market in the fall to meet expenses. The growers receive a payment on their grain when it is harvested and are paid in full when the sale is completed by the pool. This, he found, enables farmers to avoid price slumps caused by speculators taking advantage of forced deliveries to drop prices.

Bread Price Unchanged

Mr. Burnell quoted figures to show that any gain in the price of wheat made by a farmers' agency does not necessarily advance the cost of bread to consumers. He found that in 1925, when wheat prices fluctuated around 81½ cents a bushel, the wholesale price of bread in Winnipeg was unchanged. This, he declared, showed that the pools were not monopolies, but held a gain for all concerned, including the consumer, in that they do away with speculation.

Saul G. Bron, of Moscow, head of a delegation of seven Russian delegates, said that growers of his country are displaying a keen interest in establishing contracts with other wheat pools.

The conference will continue for three days.

HASTINGS NEWS

HASTINGS, May 6.—Mr. John Fairman is gradually improving since his recent serious operation in Nicholl's Hospital in Peterborough.

WIELDED HYPNOTIC INFLUENCE OVER HIM, GRAY TELLS COURT

States He Was Powerless To Refuse Her Request To Murder Husband.

TESTED POWDERS.

NEW YORK, May 6, Canadian Press. — It was a woman's "magnetism" that pulled Henry Judd Gray 300 miles to help Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder murder her sleeping husband, the dapper little corset salesman testified yesterday at the Snyder-Gray murder trial.

In the matter of fact tone of voice used by witnesses at bankruptcy trials, Gray yesterday uttered the word "magnetism" for the first time in the trial. He also branded the killing of Albert Snyder a "murder."

Gray was under cross-examination. Dana Wallace, counsel for Mrs. Snyder, was thundering questions at him in an attempt to riddle the dramatic recital of the murder Gray gave Wednesday afternoon.

Gray had told of travelling from Syracuse to New York to be led by the hand of Mrs. Snyder both of them armed with lethal instruments, to the bedside of sleeping Albert Snyder, her husband. He had testified that he had never seen Albert Snyder; that he had joined a plot to kill a man against whom he had no enmity whatsoever. He has demonstrated, with the fatal sashweight upraised and gripped by both hands, how he had struck the first blow.

And then Dana Wallace wanted to know how Gray expected "the judge and jury" to believe that a woman's influence could reach out over a distance of 300 miles and be the lodestone of death. No motive for the part of Gray in the murder has been definitely ennunciated.

"It was her magnetism," Gray replied

"You say her magnetism drew you?" Wallace sneered.

"I would say so, yes sir," Gray replied.

Felt her Influence.

Wallace literally pounced upon the

Fear Second Explosion In Mine Which Trapped 70

FAIRMONT, W. Va., May 6 —(AP)—Fearing a second explosion in the Everettsville Mine, where 24 men are known to have been killed and 70 others entombed three days ago, rescue leaders last night decided to seal a section of the workings where a fire is raging so other parts of the mine can be explored. This will give the rescue workers an opportunity to enter the northeast sections where it is hoped some of the men escaped the blast.

PRINCE OF WALES LEASES RESIDENCE

Will Live For Three Months at Summerfold, in Surrey.

LONDON, May 6.— (Canadian Press).—Many a motorist and motorcyclist, with a perhaps pardonable curiosity, has within the last week or two directed his Saturday or Sunday afternoon trip towards Ewhurst, the remote little Surrey village, where the Prince of Wales has leased from the Duke of Sutherland the house known as Summerfold. This will serve him as a place of retreat for three months from the end of May. The house is small, but stands on very high ground, with a magnificent outlook across the South Downs. On a clear day it is possible to espy the English Channel; in the foreground well-night all Surrey is in front of the observer, with its rolling meadows, its red-roofed villages, and its dark woods. The estate comprises only 35 acres, but there is some good stabling—a matter which will no doubt appeal specially to the Prince. There is also a tennis court. But the great charm of this long, low, white stone house, is the wonderful view to be gained from the terrace.

TRENT RIVER NEWS.

TRENT RIVER, May 6.—The Five Hundred Club, accompanied by a number of others, went to Healy Falls Tuesday night, where they were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claud Insley. Eight tables were played, and the following won the prizes: Ladies' first, B. Blakley; ladies' consolation, Mrs. D. Greenly; gents' first, Dr. Michell; gents' consolation, Mrs. Claud Insley, who played in place of a man. Twelve extra prizes were awarded those who had not won prizes during the season, as this winds up the games for this year. Six games were played, after which a buffet lunch was served and dancing was enjoyed for a couple of hours to the accompaniment of two violins.

The Ladies' Aid held a social hour at the church on Tuesday, when afternoon tea was served.

CONFERENCE MAY AFFECT CANADA TRADE

Russian Makes Strong Bid For Grain and Timber Market.

GENEVA CONGRESS.

Economic Parliament Attracting But Little Attention From British Press.

LONDON, May 6 — The world's first economic parliament now in session at Geneva, is receiving scant attention from the British press, excepting Lord Beaverbrook's newspapers, which are emphasizing the importance of Russia's participation in the conversations and her demand that British manufacturers seek new markets in the Union of Soviet Republics in return for Russian grain and timber.

In this connection it is pointed out that such a policy would result in Russia becoming a competitor of Canada.

The main purpose of the Geneva gathering is to bring about "an Economic United States of Europe."

Lower Tariffs

The British delegation now in Geneva is generally favorable to lower tariffs owing to the fact that since the war every small nation has been trying to raise tariff barriers along its boundaries, thus leading to a series of Chinese walls which British manufacturers deplore as making impossible the free flow of business.

The difficulty for Great Britain is that even though an Economic United States of Europe did come into being, which at present is regarded impossible, she would be faced with the dilemma of whether to belong to the European economic union, thereby antagonizing the United States or to stand outside and be dependent on whatever economic links it might be possible for her to form with her dominions.

This situation is coupled with the fact that already half of Britain's trade is done with the dominions.

Lay Foundations.

Meanwhile, Geneva observers declare that it is unlikely that the conference will do more than study the necessary preliminaries for a readjustment of European business generally, and assert in proof of this the fact that France is now contemplating levying tariff duties on 8,000 new commodities. It is known that British manufacturers regard the French proposal with no little consternation, and it is believed that some of them will hit the Canadian motor car trade heavily.

SAYS SHE BEGGED HIM TO WED HER

COURT ROOM, LONG ISLAND CITY, N.C., May 6 (United Press).—Ruth Snyder, while she plotted her husband's death, begged Henry Judd Grey to marry her, Gray testified yesterday as he drew near the end of his story of how Albert Snyder was slain.

Gray said he had shown her a newspaper clipping about a "marriage mill" in Maryland.

She frequently thereafter "kidded" him, urging him to take her to Elkton, Md., and marry her, he testified.

"I told her I absolutely would not. That would be bigamy," indignantly said the corset salesman, now being tried with Mrs. Snyder for murder.

Gray previously had retold a part of the murder by inference, accusing Mrs. Snyder of tying wire around her husband's neck—the specific act which a medical examiner said was the cause of death.

Examination of Gray by his attorney was concluded at noon yesterday.

Mrs. Snyder's lawyers were given opportunity to examine him next.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

KEEP CLEAN

Keep clean, my boy, without, within;
For sin is dirt, and dirt is sin;
With either one you'll never win.

It always seems, in every case,
The world can always find a place
For someone with a shining face—

The world a place can always find
For any fellow of the kind
Both clean of body and of mind.

Keep clean, my boy, within, without,
And not a one will ever doubt,
In life's hard race, how you'll come out.

A few will win. Will one be you?
I'll tell you, son, the ones who do—
The clean in mind and body, too.

BRINGING UP FATHER — By Geo. McManus

NEGLECT, Dirt, Rust, Wear and Decay are on the run once more, prodded from their dark corners by the flashing sword of the "Crusader."

Nothing that harms health—nothing that depresses the spirit, will be tolerated. This Clean-Up and Paint-Up Crusade is nation-wide in its scope. But always, in every section and along every street, the individual worker is absolutely essential. "One for all and all for one" is an ennobling slogan, which fits this situation with peculiar significance.

You, in your own right, are one of the Crusaders, with obligations and duties not alone to your community and your city, but to yourself. A Nation is measured by the character of its homes. Leave no task undone that will make this home more livable, more pleasing to the eye of the passerby.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., May 6 (Canadian Press)—The foreign demand for Canadian grain on the Montreal market continued of a limited character yesterday and little new business of importance was transacted.

Owing to the continued upward tendency of prices for corn in the Chicago market the past two days, a stronger feeling developed in the local market and prices were marked up another three cents per bushel. Car lots of No. 3 yellow were quoted at 94 1-2c, No. 4 yellow at 89c, and sample corn at 86c per bus., ex-store. There was some demand from local and export buyers for Canadian Western Oats and sales of No. 1 feed were made at four cents per bushel over the Winnipeg May option, C.I.F. Montreal, and scalping oats at 41c per bushel, C.I.F., bay ports. The spot market for car lots was firm.

In sympathy with the continued strength in the Winnipeg cash wheat situation, the local market for spring wheat grades of flour was stronger and prices were marked up another ten cents per barrel making a net rise of twenty cents per barrel for the week. The local and export trade was fair.

The tone of the market for winter wheat flour was firmer, but there was no actual change in prices. A moderate trade was done.

The market for millfeed was without any new feature to note, the undertone being firm with a steady demand. There was no change in prices for standard grades of rolled oats and the market was rather quiet.

Prices for all grades of eggs were well maintained under a good demand. The receipts were 4,327 cases.

The undertone to the potato market continued strong on account of the steady increasing inquiry from all sources and the somewhat limited supplies available. Sales of car lots of Quebec white stock were made at $2.00 per bag of ninety pounds in bulk, ex-track.

A feature of the local butter situation continues to be the weak undertone and prices scored a further decline of 1-2c per pound yesterday. This was attributed to the steady increase in the supplies coming forward and the somewhat limited demand. The receipts were 1,174 packages.

A firmer feeling prevailed in the spot cheese market but the volume of business was small. Curernt receipts were quoted at 16c to 16¼c per pound.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 6 (Canadian Press)—Wheat and corn rivaled each other yesterday in regard to active buying and to brisk upturn of values. Forecasts of ten per cent reduction of wheat seeding in Canada were current and there were advices at hand as to lateness of corn planting.

Both wheat and corn closed strong. Wheat ⅝ to 2 5-8c net higher; corn at 1⅝ to 2½ to 2 5-8c advance; oats unchanged to 5-8 up, and provisions 2 to 40 cents off.

An outstanding feature in the wheat market was news from Alberta telling of snow and rain causing further delay to seeding. Predictions also pointed to additional moisture over spring wheat territory and winter wheat sections as well. Meanwhile, Liverpool quotations scored a sharp new advance and there was a decided falling off in the volume of shipments from Argentina, more than 1,000,000 bushels decrease for the week.

Swings higher for the corn market gained momentum especially. Oats ran into profit taking sales and failed to follow corn.

Provisions were easier.

SENATOR FAVORS QUOTA ABOLITION

Would Make Suitability For U. S. Citizenship Only Qualification.

NEW YORK, May 5. (United Press.) — Abolition of quotas regarding the number of immigrants who shall be permitted to enter the United States each year, was advocated by Senator Royal S. Copeland at the banquet of the India Freedom Foundation.

"The sole question, if I had my way," said the Senator, "would be whether the applicant for admission to the United States is physically, mentally and morally qualified for citizenship."

Other speakers at the dinner included the Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, president of the Federation of Churches, former mayor John F. Hylan, Arthur Marifield Hayes, and Saitendra Nath Ghose.

The City of London, proper, has a population of only 13,500 persons, although more than 420,000 persons work there daily.

OVER HERE AND OVER THERE.

No more glaring example of the difference between Canadian and United States methods of administering justice could be found than is offered by a comparison between the Snyder murder case and the conduct of several cases in Toronto courts during the past few days.

While Toronto newspaper editors were haled into court because it was feared by defense counsel that a heading in the case of one paper and a reference in the other paper might prejudice the prisoners in the eyes of the jury, the papers across the border, with their regular staffs assisted by all varieties of novelists and playwriters, are filled with columns of comment on the Snyder trial, ridiculing the stories of the two prisoners and treating the whole proceedings with levity and sarcasm.

A battery of special writers, press photographers, spectators munching lunches, counsel tearing off their collars and ties to impress the jury—the whole thing savours more of a theatrical performance than a court of justice.

THE JUBILEE COMES FIRST.

The programme for Peterborough's celebration of Canada's Diamond Jubilee is rapidly being completed, and enthusiastic work by the various committees goes far to guarantee a demonstration bigger than any event of its kind in the city's history.

The efforts of the committee must be backed up by loyal support from the community.

It is intended to be a demonstration of the loyalty of the people of Peterborough, of their pride in the history of this country, and of their deep faith in the future of the Dominion, and it calls for the participation of every citizen in the carrying out of the various details of the programme.

Minor obstacles that might ordinarily interfere should be brushed aside; as loyal Canadians the people of Peterborough are asked to put the Diamond Jubilee celebration ahead of any other plans they might have in view, and to do their share in making the occasion an impressive and memorable one.

Local organizations, as well as individual citizens, should put the celebration first; an adequate observance of the sixtieth anniversary of the Dominion is a responsibility that falls upon the whole community, and must be discharged in the spirit that sixty years ago made the coming together of the Provinces possible.

TOMORROW'S TAG DAY.

The tag day to be conducted by the local Salvation Army tomorrow offers the people of this city a chance to contribute to the funds needed for the social service work of the Army.

The importance of that work, which extends over a wide field of service and which means assistance given to the unfortunate and the down-and-outs, is recognized by everyone who has had a chance to see the seamy side of life and to know that the Army's activities reach out into quarters where no other organization extends a helping hand.

Your donation, no matter how small, will be of material assistance.

Salvation Army officials point out that $10 will do any of the following things through the Army organization:

Maintain a child in the Salvation Army Children's Home for two weeks.
Provide 50 meals for hungry men.
Provide two families with groceries for a week.
Provide fruit and flowers for a friendless hospital patient for 6 months.
Provide two men with a complete outfit, including overcoats.

Peterborough's response to this worth-while appeal tomorrow should be substantial.

ARE WE GOOD NEIGHBORS?

A mysterious Detroit man whose activities in the handling of shipments of Canadian liquor into the United States the Royal Customs Commission would like to investigate, has refused to come to Windsor to testify, and the intimation is made by Mr. Rowell, counsel for the Commission; that if the "mystery man" doesn't appear for examination his liquor consignments will be stopped.

That may be an effective way of bringing a reluctant witness to time, but the very suggestion itself is a sad commentary upon a condition that is not especially creditable to Canada as a presumably good neighbor.

Here is an individual known to be engaged in a traffic that is illegal so far as the laws of his country are concerned, and we find a counsel for a commission appointed by the Government of another country calmly declaring that that Government will not help him to continue his illegal operations if he does not co-operate by producing evidence that is in demand.

The Customs Commission is, of course, not responsible for the law, and it is adopting perhaps the only course likely to prove successful, but the whole circumstances surrounding this traffic are such as to make any Canadians feel ashamed.

HANDS ACROSS THE BORDER.

At the typical international gathering the speaker on the occasion proclaims in ringing tones, as though he had stumbled upon a brand-new fact, that for more than a century there has been peace on the boundary which separates Canada from "the great Republic to the south." Well, what of it? Why should there not be peace along this border? After all, what is remarkable about it? There is nothing extraordinary in neighbors of the same blood, the same broad traditions, living together amicably even for 113 years, particularly when it is to the interest of both of them that peace should be maintained.

The after-dinner speaker is attracted irresistibly by the condition that for more than a century not a shot has been fired in anger across this imaginary line—except, perhaps, at a fleeing bootlegger. His amazement that this should be so is an echo from the old days when it was considered that war was the normal state of a virile nation, peace a debilitating influence. But the old wars were fought largely by professional soldiers, and unless a country was in the path of invasion its peaceful pursuits as a rule were not seriously hampered. We have had an emphatic lesson to show us that such is not the case today.

Peace, not war, is the normal relation between the United States and Canada, and there is nothing in it to cause any comment, however eloquent. Each country is convinced it has the most perfect form of democracy yet devised, and that is all right. We do not envy the American his millions of population, with their accumulated problems, and he is quite content to pay for anything he wants from this side of the line.

We have never had a war with Switzerland, for instance, nor Mexico, and the orators totally ignore these indications of international amity. It should not be any more surprising that we have not fought with the United States for 113 years. Precedent may be against us, but we are not obliged to quarrel with our neighbors because it is the playful Balkan custom.

The fact is, one grows weary of platitudinous reiterations concerning this "invisible frontier," and the conventional peroration it supplies for a large class of public speakers. We suggest the time has arrived when the good-will of these two nations one for the other may be taken for granted.—Ottawa Journal.

"CAL" AND "AL."

According to the Washington guessers, the indications of the moment are that President Coolidge and Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, will be the starters in the presidential marathon of 1928. There are other possible candidates, of course, but Mr. Coolidge looks like a sure-fire Republican choice, while Mr. Smith seems to have the inside track so far as the Democratic party is concerned.

It is generally admitted that the popular Governor of New York strengthened his position materially as a result of the recent question-and-answer incident concerning his religious faith and its possible effect upon his judgment and action were he President. The United States has never had a Roman Catholic President, and in some quarters it has been argued that such an official might, at some time, find himself in conflict between his duty as President and his duty as a churchman. Governor Smith seized the opportunity afforded him by questions asked publicly by a New York attorney and made his position extremely clear. The correspondence served a valuable purpose. It brought out into the open a subject that had been discussed privately and under a variety of circumstances. It improved Mr. Smith's chances and it undoubtedly was beneficial to the cause of good-will and national tolerance.

It is now taken for granted that Mr. Coolidge will be a candidate to succeed himself. He has said nothing on the subject, it is true, but his speech in New York last week has been generally interpreted as the utterance of a President who is prepared to serve another term. Within the Republican party there is some opposition to Mr. Coolidge, but, at this date, it has assumed no serious proportions. Former Governor Lowden, of Illinois, is the man talked of as a possible contender for the Republican nomination, but those "in the know" say that Mr. Lowden has no chance, despite his close connection with the problem of agriculture and the supposed unpopularity of Mr. Coolidge's recent action in vetoing the farm relief bill passed by Congress. There is no question but that Mr. Coolidge is the strongest candidate the party has at this time. Many things may happen, of course, between now and nomination day. A great crisis, for instance, might bring a line of policy from the administration that would destroy its chances of re-election. The Democrats, of course, will strive to evolve policies acceptable to the people and calculated to draw support away from Mr. Coolidge. Every party tries to do this. The President, however, is in a strong position. There is nothing sensational about Calvin Coolidge, but the people trust him and admire him for his strength of character, his easy handling of public affairs, his ability to "keep cool." They know he has insisted on business methods in government and they know that his administration has made drastic tax reductions. Mr. Coolidge has been generally acceptable to the people at large, as well as to the so-called "big interests," and everyone must admit that a politician who can accomplish this double objective is rather a clever man.

A presidential election with Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Smith as the candidates would offer one of the most interesting contests in the history of American politics. As individuals they are as far apart as the poles. Each is a leader in his own way. There is no more romantic story in modern times than that embracing the rise of "A" Smith from the "sidewalks of New York" to the executive mansion at Albany. The fact that Mr. Smith is a Roman Catholic and that the United States has never had a Roman Catholic chief executive should only add to the Governor's chances of election, for, as a woman politician remarked the other day, it would give the people of the country an opportunity for the greatest display of tolerance and good-will that has ever been offered. It seems absurd, of course, that the accident of a man's religion should even be mentioned at such a time, but it has been mentioned frequently and may be expected to figure as an important factor in the campaign if Mr. Smith is candidate. There are non-Catholics, of course, who would vote against the New York Governor because he happens to be a Catholic, but shrewd observers believe this handicap would be more than offset by other considerations.

In any event, it looks like Coolidge and Smith and it is difficult to see how the United States can go wrong on either of them.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Buy a tag tomorrow and help the Salvation Army help some unfortunate human being.

In the well remembered words of the war despatches, there is "a certain liveliness" in British political circles at the present time.

Toronto City Council has voted $35,000 to help meet the expenses of the Diamond Jubilee celebration. Other municipal governments will be expected to expend in proportion.

The World's Poultry Congress to be held at Ottawa this summer will be responsible for a lot of cackling. The people of Ottawa, however, should be used to that sort of thing.

GOOD MENUS FOR A WEEK

Correspondents are constantly asking me for a complete list of menus to be used by all of the family, so I have decided to put a set of these menus in the daily health column from time to time. I advise the housewife to cut out today's article, paste it on a piece of cardboard and pin it up in a convenient place in the kitchen, so that it will be constantly in front of the eyes every time a meal is prepared.

These menus are not given with the object of curing any particular disease, but more for those who wish to stay well and who desire to use good food combinations. However, many of you who are suffering from digestive disturbances will find a steady improvement if you will follow these menus or others of a similar nature which are published from time to time.

SUNDAY

Breakfast—Two coddled eggs, four or five pieces of Melba toast, five stewed prunes.
Lunch—Corn bread, string beans, raw celery.
Dinner—Broiled chicken, zucchinis, spinach, lettuce, stewed raisins.

MONDAY

Breakfast—French omelet, toasted triscuit, stewed apples.
Lunch—Macaroni, spinach, head lettuce.
Dinner—Roast mutton, stewed egg plant, salad of cucumber and lettuce, jello.

TUESDAY

By Dr. Frank Crane.

Narcotic week has come and gone, but there should be no let up in the war against the use of narcotics.

A belated shot at the nefarious traffic may not be out of the way at this time. As Richmond P. Hobson, general secretary of the International Education Association says, "We are assailed on three sides: By opium with Asia as a base, by cocaine with South America and by heroin and synthetic drugs with Europe."

The number of victims from narcotics is steadily rising and the effect of the use of drugs is appalling.

There are more than five times as many drug addicts in the world as there were slaves at one time. Yet the use of drugs is the most abject slavery.

More than that, it is dangerous to the community. The connection between drugs and crime is only too well established.

Most of the criminals in our reformatory institutions are victims one way or another of the drug habit and the use of stimulants of this kind render the most harmless citizen a dangerous citizen.

The bootlegging business shows us that men will not stop at murder to make a profit from men's passions.

Besides this the taking of narcotic drugs is a secret vice. It is most difficult to discover. People in all walks of life, the disreputable and the respectable alike can become victims.

It would not be so bad if the victims hurt only themselves, but they drag down innocent people with them.

A man who takes drugs is like a man with a dangerous revolver or knife who is also crazy.

There is no telling whom he may attack. The problem is a very difficult one because it involves interfering with people's personal tastes and what has been called their personal liberty.

But civilization is finding out that there is no such thing as personal liberty when the social fabric is menaced. People are finding out that the only way to protect themselves against potential dangers is to restrict men's appetites when they are abnormal. The only successful way to control the narcotic traffic is at its source. The supply of opium and similar drugs should be limited.

Those governments which derive a revenue from the use of dangerous drugs will have a long score to pay off. Receiving a tax for a thing that is intrinsically wrong just because people persist in using it is tantamount to compounding with a felony. A government who keeps its hands clean of this sort of business should make a relentless war upon the vendors of dangerous drugs.

Raise Big, Healthy CHICKS

They cost you less, for you SAVE more of them. They grow faster and bigger. They are earlier and better layers.

Little chicks simply devour Ful-O-Pep Chick Starter. Feed it for the first six weeks. The Cod Liver Oil and Cod Liver Meal put all the goodness of the oatmeal, minerals and protein right into the bone, blood and flesh of the birds. The vitamins prevent rickets, diarrhoea and other fatal troubles.

From six weeks old, feed Ful-O-Pep Growing Mash. Also has Cod Liver Meal. Makes big frames and good digestion in pullets for laying, and puts flesh on broilers.

You couldn't mix any feeds which would be so good as the Ful-O-Pep Poultry Feeds. You can't buy them except under the Ful-O-Pep Brand.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story.

By Howard R. Garis

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SURPRISED BEAR

Within the bungaleump, where Uncle Wiggily was staying for a time with the Wogglejigs, sounded, one day, many strange noises. There were shouts, yells and calling voices.

"Where's my red tail?" Dumple wanted to know.

"Has anybody seen my left, hind green leg?" asked Bumple.

"Somebody has my blue head!" cried Dazie.

"There it is under the piano," said Boppy, the little wooden man, who,

Out of the bushes then stalked a big bear.

with Um, his little wooden wife, kept the Wogglejigs in order. And the little wooden creatures needed keeping in order very much for they were always getting scrambled and mixed up with their heads, tails and legs, which came off and went on as easily as a pair of gloves do for you.

But at last, with Uncle Wiggily's help, the six little Wogglejigs were all unscrambled and had started for school, so Boppy said to the rabbit gentleman:

"Now, let's you and I go off ourselves and have a nice adventure; shall we?"

"Yes, indeed!" answered Mr. Longears with a jolly twinkle of his pink nose. "But what about Um?"

"Oh, I'm going to stay in and wash the dishes," answered the little wooden woman.

You might imagine, if you saw Um, that she could never wash dishes, for she had no arms or legs, being just a round piece of wood with a head. But Um was smart. And when she had rolled the dishpan, by bumping against it, up close to the sink, she turned on the water by banging her head against the faucet and so filled the pan.

She bumped and bobbed a piece of soap into the pan, she bumped and bobbed the dishes into the pan and then she jumped in herself and bobbed up and down, making a lovely lot of suds and so she washed the dishes.

Meanwhile Boppy and Uncle Wiggily had gone to the woods. The rabbit gentleman hopped along and Boppy the little wooden man, who, like Um, had no arms or legs, rolled himself along, sometimes standing up and bobbing along for a change.

"Aren't we going to find an adventure pretty soon?" asked Boppy, turning his funny little head around and around on his wooden neck and looking at Uncle Wiggily. "I'd like an adventure."

"You never can tell when you are going to find one!" answered the rabbit gentleman.

"Oh, yes, you can!" a voice suddenly growled. "You are going to find an adventure right away! I'm it! I'm an adventure!"

With that, out of the bushes stalked a big, black, shaggy Bear—not good, kind Mr. Stubtail, the bear father of Neddie and Beckie, but a cross, hungry Bear.

"I'm your adventure!" growled the Bear, and," he went on, looking straight at Uncle Wiggily, "you are my lunch!"

"Your lunch? I'm afraid I don't quite understand," murmured Mr. Longears.

"You will understand very soon!" rumbled the Bear. "I am going to eat you for my lunch."

"What about me?" asked Boppy.

"Do you mean your lunch?" asked the Bear. "Well, you aren't going to have any lunch! I'll need Uncle Wiggily all for myself."

"No, I meant are you going to eat me:" asked Boppy, while Uncle Wiggily was trying to slip away and hide so the Bear couldn't get him. "Are you going to eat me," asked Boppy.

"Don't make me laugh, I have a cold sore on my lip!" chuckled the Bear. "I wouldn't eat you—you're wood, you know."

"Quite true," said Boppy. "But if you won't eat me you shan't eat Uncle Wiggily!" And with that Boppy began bouncing up in the air. Hard and fast he bounced, higher and higher, until he bounced up over the Bear's head. Then, all of a sudden, Boppy came down hard on the soft and tender nose of the Bear.

"Wow! Ouchie!" howled the Bear. "You surprise me!"

"Well, here's another surprise!" cried Uncle Wiggily, throwing a stone and hitting the Bear on his nose again. "And here's a third surprise!" shouted Boppy, bobbing up again and coming down once more on the Bear's nose.

"Too many surprises aren't good for me! I'll get my lunch somewhere else," growled the Bear. Away he shuffled, while Boppy and the rabbit gentleman laughed. So it all ended happily.

"THE WINNING OF BARBARA WORTH"

Some idea of the devastating effects of the flood which is now ravaging a portion of the United States may be gained by seeing the screen picture of the flooding of the desert by the runaway Colorado River, which forms the big scene of "The Winning of Barbara Worth," the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for this week end. This picture filmed from Harold Bell Wright's famous novel, has been dramatized with an eye to magnificent effect and the result makes an extremely interesting production.

The story of Barbara Worth, the little orphan of the desert who is adopted by Jefferson Worth, is outlined with dramatic simplicity in the tale which is set in the midst of a desert, with its wind storms and sand and bleakness as a background for the love story of Abe Lee, Barbara Worth and Willard Holmes. The triangle between the three, both men loving Barbara (Vilma Banky) is resolved when Holmes (Ronald Colman) helps Abe (Gary Cooper) to bring the money to the men employed by Jefferson Worth, waiting for their pay at "Barba," on the high mesa where they have gone to seek refuge from the threatening river below. Greenfield, an Eastern capitalist, with Jefferson Worth, has made the desert to "blossom like a rose" under the touch of the healing waters, but the former refuses to go on with the work of harnessing the torrent, owing to his greed for quick returns from money already spent, and Worth pulls out of the partnership. Greenfield's punishment comes later, when he, with hundreds of others, caught by the raging torrents, fly before the wrath of mighty waters, rolling up everything in their path as they make a savage way toward the higher levels. This flood scene is thrilling and dramatic in the extreme and the whole picture is well enacted and interesting.

An episode in Bensons' career at Calford, in "The Collegian" series, makes an entertaining and snappy portion of the programme.

AT THE REGENT.

NEW MEIGHAN FILM ARRIVES IN TOWN

"New Klondike" Interesting Tale of Florida with Star at His Best

Florida—with its bathing girls and auction sales has made its screen debut and been brought to you via the silver screen. It's all in Tom Meighan's latest Paramount picture, "The New Klondike," which opened at the Regent Theatre, to capacity audiences last night.

From what one is able to gather, this modern southern state would seem to be in quite a flurry of excitement. People sleep on the sidewalks and fight on the identical pavements;—all in the search and hunt for gold. It is a repetition of the "old Klondike" in a new setting with brains being used instead of bullets.

The star is seen as Tom Kelly, a baseball pitcher who is bound for Florida and the training camp. On the way, he meets Lila Lee who is going to visit her grandmother, and get rid of some property.

Arrived at camp, Tom is surprised to find that Cooley, his manager, has had him discharged. There is only one reason. Cooley is jealous of Tom's superior knowledge of baseball, and because of his being so close to Colonel Dwyer, the team's owner.

Despondent, and not knowing what to do, Tom accidentally becomes involved in a real estate deal. Soon he has made more money than he thought existed in the whole world. He drives up to the ball field and orders the team off by flashing a deed which shows him to be the rightful owner.

The men are jealous and induce Tom to admit them as partners. He agrees to do this and soon has them all on the road to wealth. As a result, the team forgets about hits and bunts, and thinks in terms of leases and sales. Then Tom is let in on a false deal; and just as fast as the money had come in—now it all disappears.

CRICKET NOTES

Peterborough C. C. play a return game with Lakefield Grove School at the Oval on Saturday afternoon at 2.30.

A full practice will be held tonight at the Oval at 6 o'clock. All players and those interested in the game are asked to turn out.

The team for Saturday's game will be chosen after practice.

The club opened the season last Saturday with a good win at the expense of the Grove School. The School hopes to reverse the decision this week.

The village of Lakefield is forming a club and has arranged home and home games with the local club.

The Peterborough club is stronger this year and has a larger membership, but there is still room for more. It is hoped to run two teams a little later on in the season.

Games have already been arranged with Oshawa, Lakefield, Birchcliffe (Toronto), Bell Telephone, (Toronto), and Trinity College School, Port Hope, and others are being arranged for.

The boys are working hard to get their playing ground at the Oval in good shape and will soon have as good a ground as any in the province.

Some good cricket is promised this season, and those interested should certainly turn out and see at least some of the games.

DEBRUGE FACES ARSON CHARGE

SON GIVES EVIDENCE.

BROCKVILLE, May 6—Albert Debruge, who on March 25 last, in Ottawa, was found not guilty of the murder of his common law wife, Jane Lameront, on the night of Jan. 7 last, was given a preliminary hearing in Police Court here yesterday on a charge of arson in connection with the same case, and which had been preferred previous to the murder charge.

No new light was thrown on the cause of the fire which destroyed the Debruge home.

In his evidence yesterday George Debruge stated that at Ottawa he noticed that rags which were contained in the box which was found in the bee-house at the Debruge place, and which he had said his father had suggested he place in Joyce's barn for the purpose of settings the building on fire, were not the same as he had given Constable Elliott. He did not say anything of his discovery until yesterday, when he went to J. F. Stewart's office and told of his discovery to Mr. Stewart, who is counsel for accused.

Questioned by M. M. Brown, County Crown Attorney, George Debruge could not recall having told any one that his father had wanted him to use ether to cause a fire in William Dion's automobile. Mr. Brown drew forth an admission from Debruge that during the past two weeks he had visited his father and his aunt, Lizzie, the legal wife of Albert Debruge, at Kemptville and Prescott.

The case was adjourned until May 17. In the meantime counsel for Debruge will ask for a stated case to show if there is any legal cause to hold the prisoner further.

CHOIR BANQUET GREAT SUCCESS

St. Paul's Choristers and Their Friends Guest of Ladies' Aid.

INFORMAL PROGRAMME.

The annual banquet to the choir of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, tendered by the Ladies' Aid Society, was held in the Sunday School rooms last evening, with an attendance of about ninety people, including choir members and their friends. The tables were decorated very artistically with marigolds and white tulips and the programme, informal throughout, was made up of brief addresses, an impromptu programme by the members of the choir and community singing. Mr. F. Sedgwick acted as chairman, and moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. M. B. Chenhall for his work during the year as choir leader and organist, and also expressed the thanks of the assemblage to the Ladies' Aid Society. Mr. James Dutton gave an address to the choir, encouraging them in attention to their practise work and outlining their aims and objects. Convenors of arrangements for the banquet were Mesdames White, Sherwood and Burrell, assisted by members of the Ladies' Aid Society.

CLXXIII—The First Ether Operation.

UNITED LADIES' AID STARTS NEW YEAR

Recently Elected Officers Discharge Duties for First Time.

MILLBROOK, May 6.—The Ladies' Aid Society of the United Church held its May meeting on Tuesday at 3 p.m., at the home of the president, Mrs. M. E. Needham, with about thirty members in attendance.

The newly-elected officers discharged the duties of their position for the first time, this being the initial meeting of the church year. By a recent regulation the church year will close in December, beginning with the current year, so that there will be but nine months in which the various organizations will continue their activities, and the present list of officers function; some confusion and financial disorder will probably result from the change, but details will doubtless be readily and speedily adjusted.

The "Sunshine Bags", which were distributed at the March meeting, were to be returned on Tuesday, and the response was most encouraging. The idea was to put in one cent every day in April on which the sun shone—even a brief gleam being sufficient to demand the copper. About $8.00 was realized, and there are several bags yet to come in.

Mrs. W. H. Johnston contributed a solo, "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go", to the great enjoyment of the listeners. Miss M. Duncan was the accompanist.

During the discussion of business items the President reported that the "Parsonage Committee", Mesdames J. L. Byam, G. E. Burnham, R. H. Edmunds, W. E. Ball, H. W. Johnston, and G. Locke, had visited the parsonage on Thursday, at the invitation of Mrs. Howard, and considered necessary repairs. A considerable amount of papering, painting, etc., was reported as an immediate necessity, and the suggestion was made that it might be a wise move to sell the present minister's residence and either build, or buy, a more suitable home. Of course no action could be taken in this regard without the consent of the official board.

The matter of repairs was left in the hands of the parsonage committee, and the need of flowers for the church on "Mother's Day," Sunday, May 8, was taken up; the decision being to have red geraniums and white lillies if possible.

There was a discussion regarding holding the annual "Strawberry Festival" in June, and this was finally left over until the next meeting, as a number favored a sale of home-made baking rather than the garden party.

Mrs. J. L. Byam extended an invitation to hold the June meeting at her home, Bank street, the gathering to be on the lawn if the weather permits.

A church notice on Sunday will remind the ladies of the congregation to begin work for the bazaar in the fall so sufficient supplies will be in readiness by early December.

A pleasing feature of Tuesday's meeting was the attendance of a number of the older members, including Mrs. W. H. Byam, probably the most advanced in years, and one of the Society's life members. Two new members, Mrs. H. Wynne and Mrs. Nattrass, were welcomed and enrolled.

Miss Needham served refreshments at the conclusion of the business session, Mrs. H. W. Johnston pouring tea, and Mrs. G. E. Burnham and Mrs. C. C. Garside attending to the wants of the guests. The tea table was very attractive, centred with spring flowers, the candle holders and floral basket of amber crystal with smaller cut vases holding single blossoms, completing an effect that was bright and seasonable to a degree.

The usual social hour was thoroughly enjoyed, the vote of thanks to the hostess being moved by Mrs. A. J. Brown, and seconded by Mrs. F. H. Smith.

C.G.I.T. Meeting.

The Wide Awakes group of Canadian Girls in Training held its regular meeting on Tuesday evening, with fifteen in attendance, including two new members, Misses Aileen Franklin and Phyllis Kidd, who were welcomed and added to the membership list.

During the business period the voting, by ballot, on the two girls who are to represent the group at the Provincial C.G.I.T. Camp this summer took place. Misses Elinor Fallis and Alvira Davis being the candidates elected. The girls expect to attend the camp at White House, Lake Couchiching, in July. Last year the delegates had to go to Beausoliel Island, Georgian Bay, because the other camp was filled up when their applications were received; hence the early election this season.

The study of Miss McCorkindale's book on "Temperance and Life" was continued, the first and second chapters being covered, with the use of the blackboard and charts, the material being both instructive and interesting. The group has the book and the accompanying charts through the kindness of Rev. Joseph Wilks, who presented them to the organization.

The meeting next week will be in conjunction with the Mission Circle, the girls deciding to affiliate with this society rather than the Woman's Auxiliary. Quite a number are members of the Circle and are among its office holders.

The devotional period is always an effective part of the weekly meetings, the girls participating as well as the leader, the Scripture lesson on Tuesday night being "What the World Teaches", the accompanying headings, with the Bible verses read by each one, comparing the Bible to a lamp, "a parlor lamp", "study lamp", "hall lamp", etc. The effect of the physical on the mental and spiritual life was emphasized during the talk on "Water and Health", "The Grape and Alcohol", when the subject of temperance was considered.

The recreation hour at the close gave opportunity for some lively activity, and there was the usual 'treat' of sweetmeats before the gathering dispersed.

OMEMEE A.A. PLANS ANNUAL FIELD DAY

Committees Already Working Busily on Arrangements for Victoria Day.

OMEMEE, May 6.—The annual 24th of May celebration is being arranged by the O.A.A. Committees have been appointed for the sports programme in the afternoon and a good programme is on the way for the concert in Coronation Hall in the evening. A one-act comedy, entitled "Which is Which," will be presented by local talent.

FISHERMEN BUSY AROUND HASTINGS

Report Catch of Pickerel on First Few Days Very Small.

HASTINGS, May 6.—The fishing season has opened up in earnest for the season of 1927. Several lovers of this pastime were making good use of the opportunity, and remembrances of last year were brought back to the local residents where on bridge, dam and locks the fishers were leisurely waiting for their prey. Some fine specimens of pickerel were exhibited, but reports given in general were not of the best, as not very many fish were taken. A real good season is looked forward to by the local citizens. Some of the tourists' houses have already reported several prospective tourists, having had many inquiries for accommodation, and although the season of last year was exceptionally good, the coming one promises to be the best yet.

TOWNSHIP SCHOOL EXECUTIVE MEETS

Rev. H. B. Neal Gives Paper — W. M. S. Hears Report.

WOOLER, May 6.—On Monday evening the Township Sunday school executive met at Stockdale. Rev. H. B. Neal gave an address on teacher training.

In the United church parlors, on Tuesday afternoon, a large representation of the members of the Woman's Missionary Society met in the monthly meeting. After quilting a quilt the regular business was conducted by the president, Mrs. S. L. Terrill and the secretary, Mrs. J. W. Lawson. A number of committees were appointed to call on the sick and shut-ins during the week, and another committee to make arrangements for a tea. The report of the Cobourg Presbyterial, recently held at Bowmanville, was given by Mrs. Neal and Mrs. J. J. Way, the delegates. Much information and encouragement was derived from these reports enabling the Auxiliary officers to carry on their work more efficiently. Mrs. C. R. Terrill moved a vote of appreciation to the delegates for their excellent report. This was seconded by Mrs. D. S. Austin.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Herb. Wessel, and her group.

ST. ANDREW'S Y.P.S. ELECTS OFFICERS

Banquet Precedes Business Session of Campbellford Young People.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 6.—An enjoyable time was spent at St. Andrew's last Monday evening, when a banquet was tendered the "Reds" by the "Blues" the latter being the losers in the contest for attendance held throughout the past term. At 7.15 about fifty of the young people and members of the Society sat down to the tables, which were beautifully decorated with red flowers

Mr. John Storie favored the gathering with several selections. His new selection, "The Stern Old Bachelor" was much appreciated by all.

Several of the old community songs were sung. Just as this period a vote of thanks in appreciation of the work of the president throughout the year was tendered Miss Watson by Miss Freda Nelson, seconded by Mrs. Storie. Miss Watson very ably replied. A vote of thanks was moved by Miss Nelson and seconded by Miss A. Atkinson for the splendid banquet prepared by the "Blues." The response was shown by a hearty clap of hands from the "Reds." Two verses of "Onward Christian Soldiers" was sung after which Rev. Mr. Grier led in prayer. This closed the social part of the meeting. The business part consisted of re-election of officers. This part was in charge of Mr. Grier and the following officers were elected:

Hon. President—Rev. Mr. Grier (re-elected).
President—Mrs. Scott.
Vice President—Mrs. T. Campbell.
Secretary—Miss G. Blue (re-elected).
Treasurer—Miss Nelson.
Convenor of Devotional Committee—Miss C. Ivey.
Convenor of Missionary Committee—Miss V. Patrick.
Convenor of Membership Committee—Miss A. Atkinson (re-elected).
Convenor of Social Committee—Mrs. H. Inns and Mrs. Storie, joint convenors (re-elected).
Pianists—Miss Brady and Miss Verna Hay.
Correspondent—Miss B. Blue.

The meeting adjourned and the meetings have closed for the summer vacation when they will re-open in the fall.

MILLBROOK NEWS

MILLBROOK, May 6.—Mary Burnham, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Burnham, entertained a few of her school friends at a party on Monday evening in honor of the tenth anniversary of her birthday.

Games and music kept the little guests happily entertained until the tea hour when all gathered round the dining table, which was daintily decorated in a color scheme of white and gold. The birthday cake, with its lighted candles, appropriately centred the table, the anxiety of the young folk as to who would find the ring, button, five cents, etc., hidden in its toothsome slices, being for them a very delightful feature of the party.

Mrs. Burnham waited on her young guests and made sure that healthy appetites were fully satisfied.

Those present included: Madeline McDowell, Mary Nattress, Gertie Richards, Bryer Edmunds, Helen Mitchell, and Myrtle Nattress.

Mrs. (Rev.) P. C. Howard is in Toronto this week attending the forty-first annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the M.S.C.C. and to Diocesan Mission, Diocese of Toronto, at which a large number of delegates are registered. The meetings are being held in the parish hall of St. Anne's church, and are presided over by Miss M. Cartwright, M.A., Ph.D.

Mr. W. Fred Fallis has purchased the 100 acre farm formerly belonging to Mr. George Fallis, and located just across the quarter line from his present farm property, Fallis Line. The fifty-acre farm, also belonging to Mr. George Fallis has been rented by Mr. Allie Fallis, who will work this land in addition to the farm he is at present occupying. Mr. George Fallis has bought the home on King street recently occupied by Mr. James McMillan and will move in within the next few weeks.

Grace Presbyterian church, Rev. John Riddel, pastor, is holding its anniversary services on Sunday, May 8, at 7 p.m. Through the winter months Grace church held its Sunday school and church service in the afternoon, the one immediately succeeding the other, but has now changed to Sunday school in the morning, and church at the usual hour of 7 o'clock.

Mr. Irwin Allen, of Shaws (near Bowmanville) has purchased Mr. J. F. Staples' farm, 11th Line, Cavan, and will take possession in June. Mr. and Mrs. Allen were made the recipients of two handsomely-upholtered chairs, with an accompanying address, recently, as tokens of the high esteem in which they are held by their neighbors and friends. Their three children were given fountain pens by their school chums at the same social gathering.

Councillor G. W. and Mrs. Sayles, and family, and Miss S. Muir motored to Peterborough and attended the pageant given by the Y.W.C.A. Miss Marjorie Sayles was among those taking part in the popular entertainment.

Among those from Millbrook who motored to Cavanville on Friday evening and attended the "Old Tyme Concert", given by the United church choir, were Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Bradley, Rev. F. H. and Mrs. Howard, ex-Warden A. J. and Mrs. Henderson.

Miss Alice Needler of Toronto spent the week-end the guest of her aunt, Miss Etta Needler.

More than 50 per cent of the students of Robert College, Constantinople, an American institution, this year are Turks, contrasting with 5 per cent before the war.

word But Gray maintained that he had "felt" her influence, and that "psychic dominance" of which he had previously testified in other terms.

As Wallace shouted questions at him, some of them so involved that the court ordered them re-framed, Gray sat unperturbed. Mrs. Snyder dabbing at her eyes now and then, held whispered consultations with her lawyers. She was pale and there was the discoloration of worry to be seen around her eyes.

The dominance, Gray said, began about a year before the murder. He dated it from the time he took "sleeping powders" to test them for Mrs. Snyder before she gave similar powders to her husband. The powders left him dazed and hazy, he asserted, tears for the first time coursing down his cheeks, that he had been drawn from his own happy home and had violated Snyder's home because of a state of mind that he could not explain. This mystic influence he ascribed to Mrs. Snyder.

Not with Him.

But pressed for further reasons for the murder, and with Wallace seeking to show that Gray killed Snyder in the hope of profiting by part of Snyder's $96,000 insurance, Gray could only add whiskey to "magnetism." Wallace then led Gray to acknowledge that Mrs. Snyder was not with him in Syracuse to ply him with liquor to "steel you to murder her husband."

Was Mrs. Snyder with him when he bought the sashweight? No. Was she with him when he bought the chloroform? No. Was she at his side when he picked up while en route to her home on the murder night, the Italian language newspaper left on the floor of the Snyder home to trick detectives into thinking Italians had killed Snyder? No.

Gray revealed himself a vacillating, whiskey-soaked creature, trying to shake off her influence, resolving to have nothing to do with killing Snyder, and then as he walked along a Rochester street, picking up waste to be used in the very murder he had just decided he had no desire or "courage" to commit. He showed this "magnetism" controlling his subconcious mind when he bought the sashweight, after swearing to himself that he "could not go on with this thing."

Mrs. Snyder, he related, had "practiced using the sashweight" and had reported to him that "she lost her strength" trying to wield it. Wallace wanted to know if Gray had rehearsed with the sashweight. Gray said he had not. He didn't think that he would ever use it. He found picture wire; carried it to the Snyder home, sought to stupefy or prime himself with whiskey always certain that in the end he would find himself unable to go on.

In the Snyder home on what Gray called "the murder night," he tried to run away. Fate, in the form of automobiles, halted his flying feet.

Thinking these contained the returning Snyder family, he hastened back to his ambush ,to pour more whiskey down his throat.

Shows how Blow Struck.

When Gray demonstrated with the jury watching him most intently, and with women spectators gasping horrified little "Ahs!" how he struck Snyder with the sashweight, Gray was calm. He went about the demonstration reluctantly, sighing as he removed his glasses and rose from the witness chair. That the simulation of the blow was repugnant to him, was apparent. He did not raise or bring down the sashweight with alacrity or force.

Gray frequently asserted that he had not testified as Wallace quoted him, and Wallace, after looking at the transcript as frequently, withdrew questions.

Wallace, reading from the record, quoted the testimony of a doctor who testified that anyone of the three blows of the sashweight would have rendered Snyder unconscious. In the face of that expert testimony Wallace defied the witness to tell "the judge and jury" that Albert Snyder, after Gray had struck the first blow, had raised up and grappled with him.

Gray stared into Wallace's eyes and said: "I have no doubt the doctor thought that the truth when he testified; but I know better—I was there."

SENSATIONAL CHARGES

used as a "blind pig" at Sarnia, the witness stated. The Carling Company had never had anything to do with the barge.

Mr. Rowell asked Mr. Lowe if he had been present at the meetings of brewers, when Egan's demands were discussed. The witness recalled some of the meetings, but maintained that he had never agreed to paying anything to Egan and had never paid.

"If the government allows me to export I'll export without paying graft," he said. "If it doesn't, I'll stop."

Samuel Beck, who stated that he had been for 25 years in the employ of the Grand Trunk, now the Canadian National Railways, admitted that he had received about $1,000 a carload for signing bills of lading for liquor which did not cover genuine shipments. The liquor which, according to the bills went to St. Pierre-Miquelon, merely crossed the river to Detroit.

"Who did you sign them for?" asked Mr. Rowell.

$1,000 a Carload.

Mr. Rowell had some difficulty finding out just how much was paid to Mr. Beck. The witness said that he had no definite arrangement with Kemp, but that now and then he received an envelope containing money. "I sometimes got a thousand dollars at a time," he stated. He thought that his payments would work out at about $1,000 a carload.

"Did you leave the railway because of this practice?" Mr. Rowell asked.

"Mr. Beck admitted that this was one of the reasons. He was "asked to resign."

"Yes."

Mr. Rowell pressed the witness to ascertain if money had been paid to him for other purposes than the one designated.

"I don't remember any" said Mr. Beck.

"Oh yes you do. A man doesn't forget things like that" objected Chief Commissioner Brown.

Mr. Rowell informed the witness that he gathered from his previous testimony that he had received money on other occasions than those concerned with the bills of lading.

"I didn't mean for liquor shipments" said the witness.

"Did you get money for others?" asked counsel.

The witness said he thought all agents received money sometimes for accommodating the public.

"I thought that that was what you were paid your salary for" remarked Mr. Rowell.

Knew Harwood.

Mr. Cooper followed on the stand. He said that he had been in business in Walkerville for eleven years. He also stated that he knew Mr. Harwood former shipping clerk for Hiram Walker and Sons. His connection with Mr. Harwood had been "in seeing that orders were got out."

Mr. Rowell asked him what knowledge he had of the bogus bills of lading which were signed by Harwood and Beck and used to cover shipments to Detroit. The witness replied that some of them had to be camouflaged because of the nature of the business.

"Who made the arrangement with Beck" asked counsel.

"I think it was made by one of my customers called Kemp" replied Mr. Cooper. "The Americans on the other side of the line were good and thirsty and we had good liquor to sell." He told his United States purchasers that the liquor could not be supplied unless the shipments were covered up by bills of lading. They asked how the bills of lading could be obtained and he said he would try to "arrange it" for them.

"Did you provide the money?" asked Mr. Rowell.

"No it all came from out of the cost of the liquor."

Mr. Beck "had not committed murder" in signing the bills of lading Mr. Cooper remarked.

"Oh no not as bad as that" agreed Mr. Rowell.

Then counsel asked Mr. Cooper a number of questions in regard to shipments to Cuba and other foreign points.

Mr. Cooper said that when he and his associates found that 'Lord Shaughnessy's company was doing this business he just followed suit. "It was the same camouflage as Corby's used" he stated.

Mr. Rowell told the witness that they were not dealing with any other company which was not represented. Mr. Cooper said that it was usually the "little fellow" who suffered and he wanted to see that the "Lords and Sirs" were also attended to. Counsel assured him that the investigation would be very thorough.

Mr. Cooper told Mr. Rowell that every case of liquor shipped by the Walker distillery to St. Pierre and Miquelon actually went to that destination.

"If you are as sure of getting to Heaven as that Walker's goods were landed at St. Pierre and Miquelon you'll get there all right" he told counsel.

"They were mad for whiskey over there" Mr. Cooper said with reference to the export over the Detroit river "and lots of them were dying from drinking bad liquor so we didn't think we were doing much harm. I've paid my income tax and I'm proud that I was handling Walker's whiskey."

SPORTING EVENTS ARE ALL ARRANGED

Warkworth Will Play Campbellford at Victoria Day Celebration.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 6. — Arrangements have been completed for the Victoria Day celebration on Tuesday, May 24th, the sport committee announcing that Warkworth will be the opponents of the local Northumberland League ball team in a schedule league fixture, commencing at 2 p.m., and Trent River and Havelock will combine forces to battle the local softballers. The local softball executive will likely pick the team to face the visitors.

The five-mile marathon is causing more than usual interest among a number of athletes. Quite a few of the boys are training almost daily and should be able to stand the grind by May 24th. A handsome silver cup is the award to the winner.

The harness horses will draw their share of attention from the sport-loving public, and the races promise to be keenly contested. There are three races on the programme with purses of $150.00, $125.00, and $125.00 respectively.

The Northumberland Regiment Band will furnish music during the afternoon.

Women's Hygienic Habits

Being greatly changed—New way discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

OLD-TIME "sanitary pads" are rapidly disappearing, because of a new way called KOTEX, that 8 in 10 better class women now employ.

Being 5 times as absorbent as ordinary cotton "pads," it permits lightest gowns and frocks without slightest fear. Dance, motor, go about for hours without a moment's doubt. And it deodorizes; thus ending all fear of offense.

Obtain at any store without embarrassment simply by saying "KOTEX." Try today and you'll never again risk the uncertainty of old ways.

Box of 12 costs only a few cents. Be sure you get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

HOME FURNISHING CO. ANNIVERSARY

Celebrates 18 Years in Business By Staging a Big Sale.

The Home Furnishing Co., 208 Charlotte Street, are putting on a big sale of home furnishings, commencing tomorrow, May 7th, and continuing till Saturday, May 28th, inclusive. This is in celebration of their Eighteenth Anniversary, and everything in the store—handsome living room, dining room, and bedroom suites, odd pieces of furniture, stoves, baby carriages, congoleum rugs, etc., is offered at from 25 to 35 per cent off regular prices. Harry Florence, the energetic managing director for the company the past eight years, has experienced a prosperous regime, and "intends," he says, "by giving mighty good bargains, making this selling event live long in the memory of all who take advantage of the occasion." Mr. Florence has recently added additional floor space to the store, to permit of buying in larger quantities to meet the growing demand for his modern merchandise.

EARTHQUAKE ZONE IN NEW ENGLAND

Timed For First Time By Scientist, Who Suggests Cause.

BOSTON, May 6—The New England earthquake zone, which affects New York by reason of proximity, was for the first time defined yesterday by Arthur Keith of the United States Geological Survey, who offered to the Seismological Society of America the idea that the tremors are caused by a gigantic fold in the earth's crust which bulged up when the ice cap of the last glacial period retreated to the north.

The seismologists were in annual meeting at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Professor Kirtley F. Mather of Harvard University, commenting on a survey by the Engineering-Economics Foundation of the stability of Boston, warned that New England was still in a period of earthquake expectancy and said New York should look to its underpinnings.

He concluded with the statement that accumulated strains in the "fundian zone of crustal instability" would sooner or later cause another earthquake of destructive force.

Friends of Mrs. Matthew Wilson will be sorry to hear of her serious illness.

Interest in the marriage of women golf stars, which has been discussed to considerable length in English newspapers recently has centred in the recent marriage of Miss Edith Frances Leitch, eldest of the famous golfing sisters, to Mr. Herbert Guedella, chaiman of the Imperial and Foreign Corporation. Miss Leitch won the Middlesex county championship three times and a medal in the Canadian women's open championships in 1921.

FRENCH-SPEAKING ORATOR IN FINAL

Mlle. Simone Landry Wins First Place in Manitoba.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 6 (CP).—Mlle. Simone Landry of St. Adolphe school, provincial French-speaking finalist, was awarded first place in the Free Press oratorical contest and will represent Manitoba in the Dominion championship finals to be held in Toronto within the next few weeks. Mlle. Landry's position is unique in that she will be the only French-speaking candidate in the Dominion contest, just as she was in the Manitoba finals. Her feat in conquering over her 17 opponents by sheer force of personality and sincerity was acclaimed by Sir James Aikins, who presented her with a gold medal as winner of the Manitoba championship; with a silver medal as winner of her district in the preliminary contests and with a special prize of $200 in Canadian gold.

NO ALCOHOL AT LUNCHEON

Official Dinner at Opening of Australian Capital To Be Dry.

RULE AT ALL FUNCTIONS.

MELBOURNE, May 6 (Canadian Press).—No alcoholic refreshments are to be provided at the official luncheon on Monday, when the Duke and Duchess of York will open the Parliament Buildings of the new Australian Commonwealth capital at Canberra. Premier Bruce made this announcement to-day, saying the same would apply to all official functions while the present Legislation was effective.

SUFFERINGS OF CAPTIVES TOLD

MANY USED FOR FOOD.

MONTREAL, Que., May 6 (CP).—W. D. Lighthall, the Canadian litterateur, praises highly a book just issued in two volumes. It is an enlargement of "True Stories of New England Captives," the book published by the late Miss C. Alice Baker in 1897 in association with Miss Coleman, recording their researches in the archives of the province of Quebec and the state of New Zealand on the same subject. "The facts they relate are much more terrible and pathetic," he says, "than those of the expulsion of the Acadiens, with which they have a certain connection. To take some typical examples: in Hertel's attack on Salmon Falls in 1689, Mrs. Mehitabel Goodwin lost her father and was carried off to Canada by Abenakis. She had a cruel master, who was disturbed by the wailing of her young baby. To quiet the child she would sit for hours in the snow far from the fire but the Indian, impatient of her slow progress, snatched it from her arms and killed it.

"One mother was led for five weeks through the snow, during two of which the snowshoes were taken away from her, yet she must go every step of the way above the knee in the snow. At one place, with the snow beneath her and the heavens above, in a rainy season, she gave birth to her fourth child. She was then put to hard work and the savages would please themselves with casting hot embers into the mouth of the child, so that it starved and died. . . after they gashed the child's forehead with their knives. No wonder that after being redeemed she shot and killed the leader of the next war party who attacked her home. Many times the captives were roasted to death and eaten. In many cases however it is to the credit o the Indians that they respected women having a superstition that they possessed mystic power.

"In the museum of the Chateau de Ramezay is a spinning wheel which belonged to a Mde. Bourgeous of St. Marcel who got it from her grandmother, Josephine Littlefield, who was one of the captives of 1703, adopt d by a Canadian family, who had ransomed her from the Indians. Later, she refused to return to her own people." This was the case with many children, who grew up among French or Indians. Another interesting story is that of Esther Wheelright, who, being placed by Governor de Vaudreuil in the Ursuline Convent at Quebec, as a pupil in 1709, ultimately became its noted superioress.

Chang Hsueh-Chang, son of Marshal Chang Tso-lin (IN OVAL), with other northern military leaders, has fled to Japan for refuge, as the future of the Pekin Government dwindles in the face of the steady advance of the southern or Nationalist armies. Fear of revenge and treachery on the part of their erstwhile subordinates has actuated this policy of "safety first." The photo at the RIGHT shows Chang Hsueh-Chang arriving in Tokio with his wife, who is regarded as one of the most beautiful women in China. She has been called "Queen of the Eastern Provinces."

FEATHERS FILL AIR AT COURT HEARING

Suit Based On Use of Wrong Down in Quilts.

TORONTO, Ont., May 60 (CP).—Feathers festured a certain recent case in court. They filled the air and got on garments of counsel and spectators. A large feather quilt was unfolded before Judge Morson and feathers were taken out in handfuls by lawyers and witnesses. The story of the quilt was tragic. Mrs. Yetta Harris had cerefully kept goose-down for years and cleaned it and put it away. Then when she had enough she gave two begs of beautiful down to an individual to have two quilts made. When she got them they were heavy. Ripping one open she found dirty chicken feathers mixed with her down. She sued the man and got $80. He thereupon sued a quilting company of the city, but the evidence was in the latter's favor. When it conflicted the judge said at one time, "better bring in the geese."

TO BE REPORTER IS HIGH AMBITION

Associated Press Official Says Conception of Journalism Important.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 6 (CP).—One can have no higher ambition than to be a good reporter, Edward McKernon, Eastern Superintendent of The Associated Press, said in an address to the second Tri-State Interscholastic Press Conference at St. John's College. "If I may make bold to suggest anything to you who are contemplating journalism as a profession, it is that you concern yourselves first of all with your state of mind. The important thing now is your conception of journalism.

"If by any chance you see in journalism only an opportunity to play upon the human emotions; to try to paint the lily of facts and with sobs and groans and shrieks make salable that which has no essential importance as news; then, I beg of you, renounce this 'journalism' and be con ent to mak an honest living.

"Journalism is the profession of observing and reflecting the facts and significance of current events. That is our mission. The future of society is in our keeping. For as the millions read, so will they think and act. The business of thinking has been taken over by the masses. If they don't think straight, we are 'ost. They can't think straigh unles they get straight information, and by straight information I mean through the news columns of the daily press a picture of things as they are.

"In this day when the influence of the newspaper is far beyond that of any other secular agency, one cannot have a higher ambition than to be a good reporter."

INFANTRY OFFICER TERRITORIAL HEAD

General Sir R. B. Stephens, of Rifle Brigade, Leads Militia.

LONDON, May 6 (CP).—Lieut.-General Sir R. B. Stephens has been appointed Director General of the Territorial Army, in succession to Lieut.-General Sir H. S. Jeudwine. General Stephens will be the first infantry officer to be appointed head of the Second Line since the end of the war. He was with the 2nd Battalion Rifle Brigade at Omdurman and in the defence of Ladysmith. He succeeded to the command of the battalion in March, 1924, when it went to India. Later he held commands in France.

Extra Power

that levels hills with ease

The same gesture of ease for the lightest task or the hardest is the distinctive mark of Hudson performance.

Its source is sheer extra power delivered with the same silent certainty and silky smoothness, from a force that would move a knitting needle to the full flood that soars easily up the steepest hills.

And this extra range and activity of power, as everyone knows, are advantages exclusive to the patented Super-Six principle.

With it you get a chassis, engineered to provide safety, continuously and economically, for the speed, power and stamina of the motor.

No wonder everyone calls it the "World's Greatest Value."

OMEMEE A.Y.P.A. ELECTS OFFICERS

Miss Marion Dickson Chosen President at Annual Meeting.

OMEMEE, May 6.—On Monday evening, the annual meeting of the A. Y. P. A., of Christ church, was held in the basement. Before proceeding with the election of officers, an amusing dialogue was given by a number of the members.

The officers were elected by ballot, the following being the choice: President, Miss Marion Dickson; vice-president, Miss Ethel Stephenson; secretary, N. Burgomaster; treasurer, Miss I. Clemett; publicity secretary, Mr. R. Hill.

The Rev. A. T. Weir declared the newly elected officers installed when the president, Miss Dickson, spoke briefly on matters pertaining to the A. Y. P. A. The other officers very briefly expressed a few remarks when called upon, all voicing a desire to further the work of the branch.

Reviewing the past year, the rector expressed his pleasure at the success that had attended A. Y. P. A. efforts and a hope for a continuance in that direction.

Y. P. U. Meeting.

The Young People's Union, of Trinity United church, held its regular meeting on Monday evening. Miss Eva Race was in charge. The Scripture lesson, found in Psalm 123, was read by Miss Evelyn Bland. A pretty duet was contributed by the Misses Mary Weir and Florence Rutherford.

An interesting paper on "Hymns and How They Came to be Written," was given by Miss Lila Parsons. Among the hymns dealt with were, "Blest be the tie that binds," "O, love, that will not let me go," "Jesus, lover of my soul," "God moves in a mysterious way," "Onward, Christian soldiers," "Lead kindly light," "From Greenland's icy mountains," "Stand up, stand up for Jesus," "Abide with me." The paper was interspersed by the hearty rendition of a verse or two of some of the hymns referred to.

The closing meeting of the session will be held on May 16, when Mr. F. G. Sandy, M.P.P., will address the gathering and a social hour will bring to a successful conclusion the meetings until the fall season.

WARKWORTH NEWS

WARKWORTH, May 6.—"My Irish Rose" was presented by the young people of the parish of Our Lady of Mount Carmel church, under the auspices of St. Jerome's church improvement in the town hall on Monday evening, May 2.

The hall was crowded and all thoroughly enjoyed every item of the evening's program.

A violin solo by Alex. Shand, of Hastings, was a treat, and the solos by Rev. Tom Ferguson, of Brantford, and Miss Brunelle, of Campbellford, were beautifully rendered.

Kathleen Barry also sang two selections. Mr. A. W. Bailey was pianist for the evening.

Father Ferguson, in his jovial manner, thanked the people for their generous response in making the evening a success.

Act 1.—The scene took place in Colum McCormack's farm yard. Rose Creigan (Mary Walsh), an Irish country lass, is the pride of her bachelor uncle, Colum McCormack (James Crowley), and her aunt, Anti Mary (Nelly Doherty). Her brother, Terrence Creigan (Joseph Collins), has been exiled to America. Maurice Fitzgerald (Dan O'Sullivan), a wealthy Dublin artist, falls in love with Rose while painting her picture. He learns from his lawyer, Mr. Pepperdine (Fred Barry), that he is heir to an estate. Pegeen Burk (Mary Coveney), and Shawn McGilly (John Doherty), are servants of the McCormack family. Widow Hannigan (Muriel Lynch), a village gossip with money in the bank, proposes to Colum McCormack.

Act. 2.—With same scene. Lady Agnes Barricklow (Louise Heffernan), has long been in love with Maurice, and now that he is a wealthy baronet, she decides to marry him. She arrives with Eileen Fitzgerald (Mary Jones) at the McCormack farm. They are accompanied by Archibald Pennywith (Louis English), an English tourist. Lady Agnes attempts to break off the engagement between Sir Maurice and Rose. Pennywitt unwittingly discloses that Eileen is Maurice's sister.

Act 3.—Scene takes place in the library of Fitzgerald's house in Dublin a year later. Rose and Maurice are married for a year. Terrence Creigan returns from America, conditionally restored, and Sir Maurice decides to go to Belfast to remove all restrictions against him. Rose, after a bitter quarrel with Agnes, orders her from the house and Agnes decides to go to Belfast also. Rose, suspecting that Maurice is to join Agnes at Belfast, spurns her husband and depart for a grand ball with her brother, Terry.

Murice, thinking that Terry is Rose's boyhood lover, decides to challenge him to a duel. Rose and Terrence return from the ball and the brother is introduced to the husband and all ends well.

VIMY RIDGE LODGE WAIST-LINE PARTY

Address By Col. J. W. Miller is Feature of Programme.

On Tuesday evening a large number of members and friends of Vimy Ridge Lodge held a waist-line party in Victoria Hall.

Mr. G. Porter acted as chairman for the evening. After his address the following program was given: Pianoforte solos by Miss Pollock and Miss Hetherington; a violin solo by Mr. Ruseau, and readings by Miss E. Miller and Miss A. Wright. Nearly all the numbers were encored.

An address by Colonel J. W. Miller was much appreciated by all.

At the conclusion of the programme a social time was spent in bowling and playing cards after which dainty refreshments were served. The general committee in charge were Mesdames Elliott, Milliard, Wright, Devall, Foster and Campbell.

THERE HAS NEVER BEEN ANYTHING ELSE LIKE HUSKY

This Medicine Gives Relief and New Strength and Health in Practically Every Case.

Never before has any medicine received the praise that is now being heaped upon Husky, the herb preparation, which relieves stomach, liver, kidney and bowel ailments and their accompanying ills. Husky receives this praise because it does all that it claimed for it and builds up the system as it gives relief—its help therefore being of a permanent nature. Husky helps in every case when it is taken regularly and over a reasonable length of time.

Interesting Case Cited

One of the many wonderful experiences with Husky in Ontario is that of Mrs. Bemand, 13 Coxwell Ave., Toronto, who tells of her case and what Husky did for her as follows:

"For months I was weak and in a terrible run down condition. I lost 30 pounds in a short time from taking an imported rheumatic remedy. I grew worse and was so weak and emaciated that I was very worried about myself. I made a trip to England for my ailments, but I did not get any lasting relief. I could hardly get about and I couldn't think of exerting myself in the least.

"As my condition grew worse I heard of Husky and decided to try it. I have taken several bottles of this medicine and have received wonderful results. I am feeling much stronger and am able to get about without suffering for the first time in months. You do not know how this medicine has helped me. I have gained five pounds since I have started the Husky treatment, and before I was losing weight rapidly.

"I am feeling so much better in every way that I cannot praise Husky too highly. Naturally I am still taking Husky and will do so for sometime to come. I can recommend Husky to anyone who is weak, tired or run down or suffering in any way that I did. It gave me help after other treatments and a trip to England had failed."

At Good Drug Stores

Every person in this city suffering in any way Husky is recommended to relieve, is urged to give the Husky treatment a trial. Husky can be obtained at good drug stores everywhere and when taken regularly and over a reasonable length of time it will help you just as it is helping thousands of others.

FRENCH PLANE FOR COMMERCIAL FLIGHT

Won't Cross Atlantic Unless Builders Sure It Can Repeat.

PARIS, May 6 — At least one of those planning to fly from Paris to New York hopes to make the flight the basis of a regular commercial service. The Farman Company, building a plane for the pilot, Drouhin, announce they will not make the attempt unless they are sure of success, and that the return trip can be made in a few days.

They even want to be reasonably certain the feat could be repeated in the same plane within a week. However, Drouhin will make the trip in three stages, landing in Ireland and Newfoundland before reaching New York.

BURIAL MOUNDS SAVE LIVES

Probably this airplane picture reveals the tragedy of the Mississippi floods better than any photograph yet taken. It shows more than a score of people marooned on an Indian burial mound near Greenville, Mississippi, with the water steadily rising and threatening to innundate it. Hundreds of people were rescued by boats from these tiny little islands in that great inland sea formed by the flood waters of the Mississippi. Several head of live stock also were on the island.

THE JUBILEE OF CONFEDERATION

Report from Decorations Commitee

A brief report from the committee was submitted to the Executive Committee meeting on Tuesday evening last, 3rd inst. From the report the following extracts are made:

The Sub-committee passed a resolution to the effect that Triumphal Arches be erected as the main part of the decorative scheme, and placed at points on the streets as best conducive to display and impressiveness. Appeals to be made to several of the well known Clubs and institutions to come forward and assist in the decoration scheme by undertaking to erect, from their funds, an arch. These bodies included:

Peterborough Branch Engineering Institute.

Kiwanis Club to be canvassed by W. S. Merrill and C. E. Blewett.

Rotary Club to be canvassed by F. H. Dobbin.

The Masonic Lodges to be canvassed by F. H. Dobbin.

The extent to which the above organizations will co-operate will determine the number of arches that may be erected.

Further decorations of a general nature will involve the use of bannerettes, and of colored lights running the entire length of George street from Smith street to the Exhibition Grounds. For this illumination scheme it was decided to approach the Utilities Commission with a view to assistance in the stringing of these lights, and the Exhibition Board to permit use of any lights they have on hand and will not be using.

In addition business houses and institutions will be approached to decorate their buildings and an appeal sent out to individuals to decorate their homes.

It is expected that a grant from the Central Committee of $600.00 would cover the erection of three arches as a public contribution to the general display.

At a meeting of the Engineer's Branch, held on Wednesday evening it was decided, that acting with the Decorations Committee the Branch would be responsible for the erection of one of the proposed arches, the Committee to provide the material for the framework, and the Branch to build and decorate the structure. The matter will no doubt gain the approval of the Executive Committee at its next meeting. This offer is a substantial help to the general scheme for July 1st Celebration.

The Finance Committee, Ald. Phelan, chairman, brought to the meeting of the Executive Committee, Tuesday evening, what the sub-committee considered a reasonable view of the possible revenue that could be looked for from admissions to the grounds and stands, on the two days of the demonstration. Taking the bulk admissions at 10,000 (35 cents) and grand stand (25 cents), would reach a gross revenue of $6,000.000.

If the admission was placed at 25 cents, with grand stand the same, the revenue would be only $5,000.00, from this source. The stand privileges, for the two days were estimated at about $200.00. The Executive Committee felt that these amounts might be increased, especially from a reserved seat section of the grand stand.

A letter had been addressed to the military authorities at Kingston Headquarters asking that sixty rounds of blank ammunition for field guns be supplied, in order to fire a salute on the morning of July 1st, one round for each year.

A reply from the department noted that, under certain conditions, the ammunition would be supplied at a cost to the Committee of $2.50 per round. The above charge gives an idea of the cost of the millions of shells that were fired in the field during the four years of the late war. The matter has not been decided.

The publicity committee asked for more explicit instructions regarding the extent of the territory to be covered with its publicity efforts. The extent of the effort to reach the public depended to some extent on what places are putting on celebrations of their own. The secretary was instructed to write to those who would know at Lakefield, Omemee, Keene, Hastings, Havelock, Millbrook and other points as to what was in view and report to the executive committee at the beginning of next week. Following is the enquiry from the Publicity Committee:

For the present it was decided that no publicity involving any expenditure would be made, but that reports of different committees would appear in the newspaper, keeping everybody informed and enthused as to what was going on.

The Publicity Committee desires to know whether it is to go after citizens of the district within a radius of thirty miles, such as was done in the case of the Peterborough Health Association when they ran the Motor Show and the "Made in Peterborough" exhibition conducted by the Kiwanis Club. If such is the case we will have to give much more publicity outside the city than we do in the city.

As a means of publicity the Committee had in mind banners across the streets or roofs leading into the city, and possibly in some of the towns and villages, window cards which could be distributed freely in many localities, with several lots of large posters which could be posted and distributed in and out the city and dodgers at large gatherings, and newspaper advertising if desirable. The Publicity Committee includes the service of R. M. Glover, chairman, Chas. Cook, I. P. McNabb, Gerald McClelland, Chris. Hughes, J. A. McNabb, Arthur Blade and Harry Dickin.

As most men know of the diversified abilities of these mentioned it is agreed that between the lot can be handled the bracing and enthusing news concerning processions, pageants, sports and even horse racing. The committee will never disappoint. If the entire show is as good as the committee is able, then everybody will get a hatful of enjoyment.

A nice booklet of suggestions and instructions comes from the National Committee at Ottawa, and one of the suggestions is, "if there are any Indians in the vicinity they should be asked to participate in the procession and in the subsequent ceremonies. Do not overlook the earliest inhabitants."

Both Dr. Craig, chairman of the Procession Committee, and Ald. Greene, of the Music Committee, have had this thought in mind, since the beginning of activities in this city. Both of these chairmen go out to Curve Lake the Reservation at the eastern end of Chemong Lake) to consult with Chief Dan. Whetung as to possibilities of attendance from the tribes there located.

Ald. Greene has been in touch with the men of the Reservation at Alderville (eastern end of Rice Lake), with regard to attendance and the use of the fine Indian Brass Band, for the days of the demonstration, here. This Indian Band is notably good, and seems to be in large demand for the occasion, Cobourg offering inducements to come and settle in that town for three or more days. This reservation seems to be just as good as its band, and fairly prosperous to boot, for the band stipulated that if it came to Peterborough it should come in its own autos, getting a fee for the use of the cars, which is quite proper. Ald. Green interviewed the principal men of the village and told the Executive committee all about it last Tuesday evening.

PAINT UP & CLEAN UP

Make Beautiful Home Interiors

On all interior or exterior woodwork (except floors) SUN VARNISH furnishes a brilliant lasting lustre that will maintain its beautiful gloss. Hot soapy water cannot mar the beauty of a Sun Varnished surface. For door fronts or porch ceilings it is particularly good because it withstands the ravages of the weather.

SUN FLOOR VARNISH is the most satisfactory finish for Hardwood Floors. Defacement and discolorations quickly vanish when SUN FLOOR VARNISH is applied. It dries out stone hard with a satiny beauty that will never crack, chip or show heel marks. Even if the radiators do leak or the rain drives through the window, your floor will be unharmed if SUN FLOOR VARNISH is used.

We carry a complete stock of SUN VARNISHES. Come in and let's talk about that particular job you have in mind. It will be a pleasure to furnish you with estimates and information.

WELSH MUSEUM IS MASTERPIECE

Wonderful Architecture in Building Recently Opened By King.

CARDIFF, May 6. — (Canadian Press).—The National Museum of Wales, just formally opened by the architecture, the dominant feature of architecture, the dominant feature of a large group of handsome public buildings erected in the 60-acre park acquired by the corporation from the Marquess of Bute. It has been in use for some time but is not yet wholly complete. The main feature of the plan is a large interior court with two one-storey pavilions for Welsh natural history and history and antiquities respectively and a central garden and fountain.

When completed the museum will have a dome-like lecture theatre on the eastern side and an open-air theatre at the northeast corner. Round the court on two floors, so far as they are completed, are grouped the public exhibition galleries with a range of rooms for reserve collections.

From the point of view of museum organization the building is described by those controlling it as a constant delight and it excites the interest of visitors similarly employed, from America.

The Times' architectural correspondent describes the whole park, with its seven buildings featured by the museum, as the finest group of public buildings in this country. This was by a combination of good luck—in securing the Marquess' deer park—and good management, that of a singularly enlightened body of civic authorities. They not only commissioned first-rate architects to design the buildings they had in view but made stipulations about materials, harmony of a style and relationship in scale and proportion between the buildings.

The buildings already erected are the City Hall and the Law Courts, the National Museum of Wales, the Glamorgan County Hall, the University College, the Technical College and the University Offices. Of the whole group, the Museum is the "most satisfying."

The museum is a general museum with exclusive reference to Wales. Its purpose has been summarized in the sentence, "To teach the world about Wales, and the Welsh people about their own Fatherland."

"The footprints were made by a man wearing about a size eleven shoe, a narrow shoe, probably an A width," Chief of Police Morehouse answered.

"That is an unusually long and narrow shoe, isn't it, Mr. Morehouse?" Churchill asked smilingly.

"I believe so."

"Mr. Morehouse, may I ask if you told the Grand Jury about these peculiar footprints in the snow beneath the window of the room in which Ralph Cluny had been murdered?" Churchill demanded with sudden portentous gravity.

"Well, no," Morehouse admitted reluctantly.

"Why didn't you?" Churchill shot at him fiercely.

"Well, I thought they were made by a detective or a policeman. The grounds were alive with my men looking for the murderer or for clues."

"One more question, Mr. Morehouse," Churchill became more placative. "There is a drain pipe down the outside wall of the house near the window which was open when Mr. Hathaway discovered the body of his uncle, is there not?"

"Yes. About a foot from the window. It ends in an elbow near the ground, that is, near the terrace that is banked up to within three or four feet of the window," Morehouse replied conscientiously.

"The drain pipe extends down the wall between the porte cochere and the window, does it not?" Churchill persisted.

"Yes."

"There is a roof to the porte cochere, isn't there, Chief?" Churchill was suave and pleasant again.

"Yes."

"There was no snow to speak of on the concrete driveway beneath the porte cochere roof?"

"No."

"Did you look for the peculiar footprints further than immediately beneath the window?" Churchill kept at him.

"Well, we did look around, Hathaway and I, but there were thousands of footprints by that time, made by my men searching the grounds, as I told you."

"Now, Mr. Morehouse, did it occur to you, in ordering a search of the grounds, to examine the roof of the porte cochere for traces of the murderer? Churchill sprung his sensational question in a thunderous voice, a forefinger leveled on the unhappy chief of police.

"No, Mr. Churchill, it didn't occur to me to do that," Morehouse answered, his face flushing darkly.

"Now, Mr. Morehouse, one more question: Is there a policeman or a detective on your entire force that wears a size eleven, width A shoe?" Churchill demanded impressively.

"Not to my knowledge," Morehouse answered.

"Is it not true that you have consulted your records and have found that no member of the force wears that size shoe?" Churchill persisted.

"Yes."

"That is all," Churchill said, smiling broadly, as he took his seat.

Banning seized ferociously upon his chance to examine his witness further.

"At whose instance did you make this interesting research into the records of the police department?" he asked sarcastically, his anger getting the better of his caution in dealing with the chief of police.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Fellowship With the Risen Lord

Text: John 20:1-10; 21:15-17

The first day of the week cometh Mary Magdalene early, when it was yet dark, unto the sepulchre, and seeth the stone taken away from the sepulchre.

Then she runneth, and cometh to Simon Peter, and to the other disciple, whom Jesus loved, and saith unto them, They have taken away the Lord out of the sepulchre, and we know not where they have laid him.

Peter therefore went forth, and that other disciple, and came to the sepulchre.

And he, stooping down, and looking in, saw the linen clothes lying; yet went he not in.

Then cometh Simon Peter following him, and went into the sepulchre, and seeth the linen clothes lie,

And the napkin, that was about his head, not lying with the linen clothes, but wrapped together in a place by itself.

Then went in also that other disciple, which came first to the sepulchre, and he saw, and believed.

For as yet they knew not the sepulchre, that he must rise again from the dead.

Then the disciples went away again unto their own home.

So when they had dined Jesus said to Simon Peter, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me more than these? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, Feed my lambs.

He saith to him again the second time, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, Feed my sheep.

He saith unto him the third time, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me? Peter was grieved because he said unto him the third time, Lovest thou me? And he said unto him, Lord, thou knowest all things; thou knowest that I love thee. Jesus saith unto him, Feed my sheep.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for May 8: Fellowship With the Risen Lord—John 20:1-10; 21:15-17.

(By Wm. E. Gilroy, D.D., Editor of The Congregationalist.)

The title of our lesson is in itself very striking and instructive. The whole significance of the resurrection of Jesus is found in this matter of fellowship with the risen Lord.

Of what use is it to believe that Jesus rose from the dead unless we really find the risen Christ and live with him? If he is not risen in our heart, his resurrection, so far as we are concerned, is in vain.

We shall not see the risen Christ in some outward and visible form as he was revealed to Mary Magdalene and to Peter and John, but if we seek him in the spirit in which these early disciples came to his tomb, full of affection with hearts responsive to his love, we may find the proof of the resurrection in our own lives.

We may note in these early disciples the elements in this responsiveness to Jesus. Mary Magdalene came with deep love but also with a certain hope and expectancy. Peter manifested considerable courage: it may have been the courage of impulsiveness, but Peter in reality was no coward. John had in him a depth of emotion that is not easily stirred, but that moves with power and conviction when it is once aroused. Peter might outrun John but he could not surpass him in endurance and steadfastness.

It was to these expectant souls that Jesus manifested himself in resurrection glory. We shall never explain his resurrection or his reappearances after his death, for if we could explain these things there would be no miracle involved. But the witness of Christ's living presence comes to modern disciples as it came to those of old. It is the pure in heart who see God: it is those of Christly character and vision who see the Christ and who most surely experience the strength and comfort that he gives.

The manifestation of the resurrection in our lives comes through the presence of a new love and steadfastness. To us, as to Peter, there comes the challenge of this Christ who loved us and died for us and rose again for our justification, "Lovest thou me?"

What this resurrection faith did for Peter is beautifully revealed in this incident. His boastfulness has gone, his passion to be first, his assurance that though all others might deny his Lord he is not of ordinary flesh and blood and he could not be guilty of such cowardice and baseness. It is not only a subdued and penitent Peter, but a Peter who has had brought home to him his crucial weakness.

He ignores the penetrative aspect of the question of Jesus, "Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me more than these?" His simple reply is, "Lord, thou knowest that I love thee." He has no disposition to compare the quality or quantity of his love with that of others.

This is the evidence of true love, that it establishes true humility of soul. The man who has not learned the meaning of humility has never learned the meaning from the largeness and glory of the ideal by which we test our own lives. The man who is not humble has never known what it means to measure his own life and character by the standard of the fullness of the love of God.

giving. The W.M.S., and its auxiliary orgnizations ,the Mission Circle, and Mission Band, reached their objective, $319.00. Besides the actual money sent forward a bale and many other useful articles to the value of $52 was sent to Alberta.

The treasurer's report was given by Mr. Aaron Clarke, who has been the treasurer for the past eight years. His financial report showed the most successful year in the church's history, and a splendid balance was reported.

Besides the regular work of, the church about $800 was raised and expended on church renovation and decoration.

During the year sixteen new members joined the church. On Easter Sunday, at a most impressive service, fourteen were received on profession of faith. The Easter communion service was the largest since the church was built. The congregations have shown a marked increase during the year, and the work of the whole church is in a splendid growing condition.

During the evening very kind reference was made to the pastor, Rev. H. B. Neal, and his good wife, and a resolution of thanks and appreciation was presented to Rev. Mr. Neal for his splendid leadership, his untiring zeal, and for his very efficient services during the year.

A very important part of the evening was the half hour of fellowship when the ladies served refreshments.

Cigarette Pistol Fails To Frighten Policeman

DETROIT, May 6.—Orville Lafleur, 18 years old, yesterday faced a charge of attempted robbery as a result of an unsuccessful effort to hold up four policemen with a toy pistol. Newton Avery, aged 23, is held for investigation.

While Sergeant Albert Hartsig and three patrolmen were patrolling an alley near St. Antoine and Napoleone streets they heard a command of 'Hands up!" Lafleur steped from cover with a pistol in his hand, but he was amazed to see the officers laughing at him.

"Why, you can't hold us up," said Hartsig. "We are policemen. By the way, let's see that gun."

He grabbed Lafleur's arm and wrenched the pistol from him. After observing it a moment he pulled the trigger and a cigarette popped out. He pulled it again and another cigarette was ejected.

He placed Lafleur under arrest as a robbery armed suspect. Then Lafleur confessed that he and Avery intended to hold up a confectionery store. The officers went to Avery's home and took him into custody for investigation.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The bolero is a fashion detail which the French have taken from Northern Africa. This frock is of beige georgette and lace with shirrings of crepe de chine and embroidery. The belt is of shaded pink ribbon.

It is an interesting fact that while Orientals now generally show an ever-increasing tendency to lay aside their own peculiar type of costume, Occidental costume—at least for women—is showing an ever-increasing Eastern influence.

The Occidental, however, goes about it in an entirely different manner from the Oriental, who adopts the Eastern ensemble intact. With us the Eastern influence is a subtle, intangible sort of thing—the result of the readiness with which a number of the creative dressmakers of Paris take ideas here and there from picturesque costumery of lands that lie to the east and south.

A generation ago a writer on costumery pointed out that though the various peoples that we call Oriental—Japanese, Chinese, Turkish, Persia Arabian, Armenian, modern Egyptian—differed from each other as much as races could differ, still there were certain marked characteristics in their dress, as distinguished from that of the Occident. They were all more or less inclined to wear clothes of comfortable looseness—or, if closely draped, clothes that followed the natural contours of the body. "Their feet are very lightly equipped—they delight in white fabrics, mingled with such as exhibit the most brilliant colors and richest designs; and they indulge in an abundance and variety of personal ornaments."

Well, our own clothes are much looser than they were. Scant though they may be, they no longer bind and constrict our bodies. And the modern shoe is as light as any Oriental sandal White fabrics may be no more popular with us than ever, but we have adopted a variety of brilliant colors and rich designs that were unknown to our grandmothers. Fashion now sanctions a lavishness in the use of jewelry that is truly Oriental.

Interestingly enough we never adopt enough of any one Oriental fashion to make it clearly distinguishable. We borrow a little now from Cambodia, a sleeve from China, a wrap from Arabia, designs from Persia, drapery from ancient Egypt.

Just at present there is much talk about inspiration from Northern Africa—which in the matter of costume if not in geography is certainly Oriental. Lanvin of Paris borrowed more or less lavishly from the costumes worn by the mixed races of Algiers and Morocco, and further announcement has been made that for one of the great costume balls to be held in Paris next year this type of costume will be chosen.

CHURCH MEETINGS

WOOLER UNITED CHURCH.

WOOLER, May 6—The annual congregational meeting of the Wooler United church was held recently. The reports from the various departments of the church showed splendid progress in every branch of the church's activity. The Sunday school report showed the largest enrolment in its history, with an average attendance for the year of 138 each Sunday. The Ladies' Aid reported a fine year of helpful service, having contributed $425 to the local church for improvements and for local church purposes. The W.M.S. has had a record year, marked by increased membership and

Simple Susie Consults The Dictionary

I was tryin' one of these here mental tricks that gives you a lot of free exercise for your grey matter. The idea was to get hold of all the words that you could wrench out of "Transcontinental," and then get a prize of a lot of money for the job.

I thought it would be easy. I took a look at it and thought of "ran" and "can" and "tin" and a bunch of words like that, mostly small ones. Before I realized what was happening, I had about a dozen words on a sheet of paper and then my sister, who is an amiable girl, thought of some more and made another contribution to the lot. I figured out that there were ten different letters in Transcontinental, the rest being repeats, and thought it would be a real easy job to go through the dictionary for just ten sections and gather all the words I could out of them. So I started.

But first of all I discovered that there was a certain dictionary that had to be used, and no other would do. There was just one in town, at the public library, and that had to be looked at on the premises. It couldn't be toted away from its own particular corner of the table. I reckoned I would have to do some overtime work, and made arrangements accordingly. So I got a good supply of nice fresh white paper and a couple of well-sharpened pencils. Every time the point got a trifle dull, I stopped and sharpened it up again, because there is nothing so delightful when writing as to have a real good point to your pencil. And I started in.

Of course, there were a lot of rules to this game. You couldn't use Scotch words, like "ain," or popular words like "con," for instance, and you couldn't use plurals of the same word, like "tin" and "tins." One had to remember a lot of things. But anyway, I started.

However, there was another thing. The dictionary was an awful thick book. How did anyone ever think of so many words and where did they all come from? It was a hefty volume and ten letters, nearly half the alphabet, made a considerable slice in its thickness. It gave me a sort of a dizzy feeling to look at it and the little tiny type that the words were written in. Down at the bottom of the page was a section where were all the words they forgot when they printed the upper part of the book. Just neglecting to study this section set me back a long way, after awhile. Anyway, I started.

I got along swimmingly at first. The 'A's' made a long section, but there were plenty of the words that had 'g's' and 'Y's' and 'ms' and 'v's' in them, so they wouldn't do at all. Anyone would know that. I worked hard for about two hours and a half and got half way through the first letter of the alphabet. My head was aching and my eyes were smarting with all the looking at the little letters. I looked at the clock. It was away past tea time. Nearly all the people had gone home. The two little girls who had been staring at me for some time past from across the table, probably wondering if I was trying to get hold of all the wisdom of the world in one afternoon, had disappeared, also the young man who had been engrossed in a huge "History of Music."

I had added a lot of words to my vocabulary. Anyone does who begins on a dictionary in this way. I never knew there was such a word as "abstrahent," for instance, and who would ever think of calling a neighbor an "accolent," unless the dictionary told you to? Then there are convenient words like "acedia." If you know anyone who appears to be lazy, you can describe him as suffering from "acedia," and be perfectly safe from the consequences. And your bald-headed friend isn't really bald. He has "acomia." The lady who has a sharp tongue might be easily described as being "aculeate," while you can talk about being relieved of your "addendum," instead of "appendix," if you so wish. As for "aconite," does anyone know what that means?

Then, just when I was feeling a bit tired, I looked at the bottom of the page and saw an explanation of some of the signs. It seems they meant different things like "obsolete" for some words and "foreign usage" for others. So that meant I had included lots of words that wouldn't do at all, and that I'd have to start the 'a's' all over again.

I shut the book and went home. I never went back

CO-OPERATION ONLY SOLUTION SAYS BURNELL

Thinks Farmers Could Then Control Markets of World.

WORLD-WIDE SCHEME.

Manitoba Man Advocates Extension of Canadian Plan To Other Lands.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 9.—(By Canadian Press).—World-wide application of the co-operative principle of marketing the surplus grain, and ultimately other farm products, was advanced as the only solution in affording the producer a fair return for his product and as a means of efficiency in stemming the flood and speculation in the world's chief commodities, by Colin H. Burnell, president of the Manitoba wheat pool, in an address before the International wheat pool conference here yesterday.

The trail toward successful co-operative grain marketing, the speaker asserted, has been blazed by the Canadian farmer, and the opportunity for extending the system to other countries was now at hand.

"As agriculture was the cause of civilization in the first place, so agriculture may yet save civilization for the world. It is my hope that agriculture may be the first to replace international competition by international co-operation," declared Mr. Burnell.

As a result of the wheat pool conference of last year, Mr. Burnell said, much had been accomplished in the co-operative field in all countries that had been represented. In Australia alone, he pointed out, approximately 60,000,000 bushels of wheat would be handled through pool facilities this year. Russia, too, had made appreciable strides.

The farmers in Ontario were actively engaged in organizing a grain pool, and all the Canadian pools were engaged in acquiring their own elevator facilities. Probably the biggest event in agricultural history on the continent, he said, was the purchase by the Saskatchewan pool of elevators of the Saskatchewan Co-operative company whose assets totalled more than $11,000,000.

"This pool form of organization is a comparatively new thing, and we welcome this opportunity of getting together with those interested in similar work in order that we may not only benefit from each other's successes, but that we may learn from one another's mistakes," Mr. Burnell asserted.

"Let me say," he added, "that we in Canada believe to be a positive fact that the binding contract is an absolute essential to a successful wheat pool and that our five-year contract is the keynote of our success."

"Years ago western Canadian farmers tried to obtain a better price, first by forming local co-operative associations, each one of these owning and operating their own elevators. Then in Manitoba we tried government owned and operated elevators. In each of these three provinces the farmers formed big line elevator companies. Eventually two of these had between them more than 60,000 shareholders, and every one of them owned 450 local elevators and operated three big terminals at the Fort William and Port Arthur, and a transfer elevator at Buffalo."

None of these efforts, however, could prevent the farmer having to stand the full strain of the yearly slump during the periods of heavy deliveries in the fall and the problem of finance connected with the handling of this grain became one of great concern, Mr. Burnell said.

Continuing, he described the function of the war-time Canadian wheat pool, its replacement by Canadian contract pool, controlled entirely by the farmers. From its inception in Alberta in October, 1923, with a membership of 22,000 and handling 34,000,000 bushels of wheat the pool had extended to Manitoba and Saskatchewan until to-day its membership embraced about 138,000 farmers and more than 187,000,000 [illegible] and 26,000,000 bushels of coarse grains had been marked through the Central Selling Agency.

"Last year the Canadian pool had the largest turnover of any other organization in Canada except the dominion government, Mr. Burnell declared. "While this gigantic organization has been built in four years, it would not be fair to term it a mushroom growth because it is based on the educational work and efforts put forth in the farmer's organizations of western Canada for more than 25 years."

Mr. Burnell continued: "While the formation and operation of the pools had not solved all the problems of the western Canadian farmer, yet the better prices resulting therefrom have brought about much better conditions, not only among the farmers but throughout the whole Canadian business field. The frozen credits of former years are being generally and gradually liquidated and a more prosperous condition brought about. This is reflected in the general rise in land values, and the return of people to the land. Another factor making for our success was the fact that our farm organizations were all united in the effort to co-operatively market our grain through the pool. The farmers controlled the organization of the pools themselves without looking for government assistance.

In studying some of the efforts that have been made toward co-operative marketing in some of the countries represented at this conference, one is forced to the conclusion that what is needed is more pool and less politics. In some cases pool officials show a decided tendency to try and find an easy way for the farmer to better marketing conditions. I do not believe that there is an easy way that will materially benefit the grower; the things he seeks to remedy are hard conditions. Any attempt to loosen up the pool contract, any lack of enforcement of the terms of the contract, any attempt on the part of the pool organization to allow the pool members to eat their cake and have it too, will prove futile and eventually lead to disaster. The farmer's can not overcome hard conditions without facing the music.

"In Canada we are overcoming many of our difficulties by a continual and intensive campaign of co-operative education. It can not be said too often that the first business of the pool is to sell the grain of its members, but we must always bear in mind that the pool might sell the grain to advantage, might be a factor in raising the price for the producers, might be very efficiently managed and then might fail if a sufficient number of producers were not acquainted with the facts and kept informed as to its operations.

"One fact of importance is that the influence of the pool on prices is reflected on the world price. The whole wheat price level is affected and consequently it is impossible to prove directly the influence of the pool. The better price is received by all and this makes it imperative that we keep constantly before pool members the fact that the market price is a price made by the pool.

"One fact that should be emphasized to the individual farmer is that if he would organize his selling so that he could stand on an equal footing with all other manufacturers, he would be respected by all businessmen and have the sympathetic help of all of them, except of course those who have fattened on the handling of farm produce.

"Once our farmers showed the Canadian business world, by signing the five-year binding contract in thousands, that they really meant business, they received no real opposition from any of our Canadian business institutions. Our Canadian banks have financed the pools from the beginning and have supported us at all times, placing their very efficient system with their branch offices at our services during the last three years in marketing, a total of nearly 500,000,000 bushels of farmer's grain.

"Our two Canadian railways have placed their excellent facilities freely at our disposal and work in close co-operation with us at all times. Besides these organizations we have many mortgage companies and others owning land who put the grain they control through the pool. Boards of trade, retail merchants' associations, and many others have, together with many of our newspapers, helped in a very considerable degree by spreading education along co-operative lines and lending encouragement to the pooling movement and have in some cases helped with sign-up campaigns.

"This help from the business men has been forthcoming because they were clear-headed enough to recognize that if the farmer was prosperous all other businesses would prosper also. And last, but not least, we have had the steady sympathy of our Dominion government and our three provincial legislatures.

"It is generally recognized now that co-operative enterprise leaves plenty of scope for individual initiative, but enables the farmer to do those things unitedly that can be done better by the community than by the individual. We believe that we must build up a strong sentiment among the business men in our communities for co-operation if we are going to weld the farmers together and make a real success of the pool. The future of co-operation will depend on the foundation that is now being built by our educational efforts. While for success it is important that we secure the fullest possible market value for our grain, nevertheless, to assure our pools of permanency and effectiveness the spirit of loyalty must be developed in the hearts of pool members and we must by education develop a devotion to co-operative ideals, if agriculture is to achieve a permanent success.

"If our movement is to succeed it must do more than obtain a good price for wheat. It must take means to let the farmer know the conditions surrounding the sale of his grain. Thousands of farmers must have their vision broadened and their courage stimulated. Our wheat pool movement has for its objective that he shall inherit this fair share of the good things of this twentieth-century civilization. We must join hands with other co-operatives and weld the co-operative world into a strong, virile and marching movement. The co-operative movement is a crusade and co-operators must be crusaders. In my opinion we must be continually striving to grow, to give to all our members better service, to improve our operating methods. If we do, we can not fail to go forward. Too many co-operative associations stagnate because their directors and management and too many of their members have too low a vision of their functions, and too little anxiety to spread the knowledge of the principles of co-operation.

"One of the main difficulties we run up against as soon as we attempt to organize as farmers to improve the price of our chief products whose value is determined in an export market, is that if we are to make any substantial and lasting progress, all exporting countries must move forward together. One of the main objectives of a conference of this kind is to stimulate pool organization among the farmers in the various countries and states here represented and to eventually bring about a closer co-ordination between the co-operative marketing agencies of these various countries.

"Co-operation in agriculture is the world's next biggest social development. It will amount to before long a revolution in business methods, but, thank God, a peaceful one. I do not anticipate any quarrel with the consumers when they understand that the objective of our wheat pools is to bring about wheat prices in line with the prices of the commodities which the farmer has to buy. Nearly all the consumers are wage earners, the reward for whose labor has been either directly or indirectly determined by organization. The farmer through his co-operative marketing organizations has simply adopted the trade union idea and is controlling the product of his labor in order that he may, through the bargaining power thus obtained, increase his wages, or to be more explicit, the net returns from his crops.

"In Canada we have had a big influence on price because Canada produces about forty per cent of the world's exportable surplus. Our three-year experience in the Canadian wheat pool leads me to believe that the price of wheat can be stabilized at a level which will be profitable to the producer. By that I mean a price which will allow him a standard of living in keeping with those engaged in other industries and having similar investments. But if we are to obtain this objective the Canadian farmer must not be left alone to stem the flood of speculation in the world's chief product."

Matinee Ladies

BY William B. Courtney

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"MATINEE LADIES," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Bob Ward, poor college student, working as a dancing partner for rich women, falls in love with Sally Smith, a cigarette girl. She warns him against the mysterious and beautiful Mrs. Hammond, habitue of the roadhouse, who finds her "thrill" in "hunting" Bob, who, however, trusts her. She offers him free use of her secret apartment. Bob quarrels with Sally, who in spite goes to a wild party, where Aldrich, a financier, preys upon her. Bob, learning where she is, raids the party, denounces her, then rushes off to Mrs. Hammond.

CHAPTER XVI.

By afternoon of the following day—which was one of those rare and peaceful Sundays in June when it seems that there could be nothing wrong in the world—a bit of shame, a lot of repentance, and a great deal of humble anxiety to re-right things animated the aching bosom of little Sally Smith.

Her brothers had told her of Bob's second visit to the house, after she had left with Mannion for Mazie's. Sally reasoned that this indicated on Bob's part a contrition for their earlier quarrel, and a resolve not to go to Mrs. Hammond. But Sally's hasty spite in going to Mazie's party, and the conditions under which she had been found there by Bob, had maliciously torn down the new understanding that Bob had been attempting to build.

Therefore, this serene Sabbath afternoon, Sally finally brought her timid self to the determination that she must seek Bob out and endeavor to explain matters to him. It was not so much a case of swallowing pride for Sally to do this as it was of abasement for the condition in which he had found her at Mazie's. If Sally had been experienced in her cups, Bob's raging visitation would most likely have shocked her sober. But it was Sally's misfortune to be innocent.

Resolutely, she put on her simplest frock, and made her way uptown to New York University's campus. She was unacquainted in the University Heights neighborhood, but by dint of inquiries she located Mrs. O'Sully's unchoice boarding house.

"He's not here any more," said Mrs. O'Sully in response to Sally's shy question. There was hurt in Mrs. O'Sully's manner as she explained, "He moved out without giving a bit of notice, and him after being here four years!"

Freddy and Arch, summoned by Mrs. O'Sully, explained dolefully to Sally:

"We haven't any idea what got into old Sackcloth and Ashes. Hardly deigned to say good-bye to us. Just came home last night, packed up in a hurry, said he was leaving college, would never see us again, paid no attention to our questions, and beat it!"

"We ran down and watched," added Arch, "and saw that he went off in Mrs. Hammond's limousine. And that was the last of good, old Bob Ward!" he concluded mournfully.

Hardly knowing to whom to turn in her extremity, she found herself heading for Mazie Revere's. There had been a certain fondness between Mazie and her, before Bob had come to the Palisado Inn. It was as though Mazie saw in Sally something reminiscent of her own girlhood; and yearned, in a measure, to protect her. The worst of this was that Mazie's idea of protection was an offensive one; that she was not satisfied to consider virtue as its own reward. Mazie's protectionism reduced into the motto: "Get all you can!"

Anyway, there was absolutely no one else to whom Sally could go. Her Mother, hardened by adversity into a money seeker, ready to sell her daughter in matrimony to the highest bidder, hardly brooked girlish love confidences!

When Sally reached her, Mazie was propped up on a brocaded chaise longue; hot water bottles at her feet and ice packs on her head, recovering from the after effects of the night before. Mazie had always prided herself on the variety of her entertainment for gentlemen friends, but her program had never before included assault and battery. She had always kept indigestion nostrums and plenty of ice water to take care of weak-stomached guests; but never before had she had to administer first aid for black eyes, broken noses, and mashed lips to the Twelve Best Clubmen. The strain of this duty, the damage she believed done to her reputation as a hostess, the need for calling a doctor to set Tom Mannion's fractured jawbone; all these little odds and ends of cleaning up the carnage wrought by Bob Ward had given Mazie a most severe headache.

Mazie, however, was one of those souls, soft at base, who mellow with trouble. She regretted even partially helping Mrs. Hammond in her frame-up against Sally. She had only agreed to take Sally as a guest for the evening, and knew nothing of the details of Mrs. Hammond's plan. Certainly, because of the visitation from Bob, which she had not bargained for, and which she felt was somehow a punishment for her share in Mrs. Hammond's scheme, Mazie's sympathetic cooperation switched back wholly to Sally.

"You poor little cutie," Mazie blurted out after Sally had tearfully recounted her efforts to locate Bob, "if I were you I'd put him out of your bean. The Big Boy's gone to Mrs. Hammond's love-nest. That's all, kid. He ain't worth worrying about. He's a lotta bunk—all men are a lotta bunk!"

The maid entered and announced: "Mrs. Hammond!"

The girls, in utter amazement, looked at each other. What could she want? Mazie signified hesitantly to the maid, "Show her in!"

Sally's first diffident inclination had been to hide until this hateful creature had gone. But, proudly, she decided against running away; and stood, while the blood drained from her face and left it chalk-white, facing Mrs. Hammond.

Mrs. Hammond, for all her haughty poise, was taken aback to find Sally present; and exchanged a quick look with Mazie. Finding in the gold-digger's eyes no hint of alliance, Mrs. Hammond tightened her lips a bit, girding her mind, so to speak, for a lone fight.

"I've come on a message of the utmost importance to both of you," she began, after she had sat down at Mazie's carelessly gestured invitation.

Sally couldn't help it; the words escaped her lips in involuntary fright, because of Mrs. Hammond's grave manner; "Is it about Bob?"

Mrs. Hammond, staring at Sally coldly, ignored the question; but turned to Mazie and declared, while pinpoints of red glinted in her eyes:

"I've been sent by my dearest and closest friend, Mrs. Aldrich—"

Mazie sat bolt upright; even Sally caught her breath.

"Yes," continued Mrs. Hammond, "you may well look surprised, both of you, for Mrs. Aldrich has had detectives following her husband. She knows all."

"Say," snapped Mazie, "I'd keep my own skirts clean if I were you!"

"No use taking that attitude," sneered Mrs. Hammond; "I'm just giving you a friendly tip that Mrs. Aldrich is not to be trifled with."

After a further brief exchange of verbal shots with the boiling Mazie, Mrs. Hammond made a haughty exit.

Close on the heels of her departure there came another ring. This time it was Aldrich, distinguished looking in his afternoon suit; but the richest man in New York was the most excited man in the world.

"Jove, Mazie!" he cried, "this is a pretty pickle. What was she doing here?"

"What was who doing here?"

"Why, the woman who just went out. My wife!"

"Mrs. Hammond is your wife?" cried both girls in amazement.

"Mrs. Hammond, eh? Mrs. Aldrich, you mean. I saw her coming out of here just as I stepped off the elevator, and ducked until she got by. Lord, what I'm worried about is how she found out that I knew you, and how she learned this address!"

"Dicks!" said Mazie significantly.

"Oh Lord!" groaned the greatest financial wizard in the world, reduced to the humble proportions of an harassed human male by the Great Common Reducer—fear of his wife.

WAR MEMORIAL AT EDINBURGH MOST MAJESTIC

Scottish Monument Far Enough Advanced to Show Beauty.

SHAPED LIKE "E"

Beautiful Shrine Central Feature of Building—Contains Records.

EDINBURGH, May 6.—(Canadian Press).—Although it is not to be dedicated until the end of the summer, the Scottish National War Memorial at Edinburgh Castle, designed by Sir Robert Lorimer, A.R.A., is now far enough advanced to allow its character and qualities to be appreciated, says The Times correspondent. The plan of the memorial is in the form of a letter E. 120 ft., long in the stem, with the heptagonal shrine projecting at the back in line with the middle limb, which forms a porch allowing a vista into the shrine.

The porch, which is approached by four semi-circular steps, is low and vaulted, with a paved parapeted walk on either side between it and the other limbs of the E. It opens into the stem, forming a Gallery of Honor, across which a lofty, round-headed arch gives access to the shrine, though the lower part of the arch is to be filled with a wrought iron grille, with gates, to give an effect of mystery. The barrel-vaulted gallery is divided into bays by octagonal columns, with stiffly foliated capitals; four Bays on each side of the shrine, with two in each of the limbs for the 12 Scottish regiments.

Each bay has a carved and inscribed panel devoted to the regiment concerned, with a stone shelf below to support an entablature, upon the frieze of which is carved, in bold Roman capitals, a list of the actions in which the regiments were concerned. The western limb of the E is dedicated to the women who took part in the war; the eastern to the artillery, engineering, and yeomanry forces.

The shrine is, of course, the special feature of the building. Through the floor of grey-green granite there breaks a projection of the Castle Rock itself to support the casket containing records, which is to be presented by the King. Suspended from the fan-vaulted roof, directly over the table, is a large carved and colored figure of St. Michael, in oak. The seven tall windows of the shrine are to be filled with stained glass, designed by Dr. Douglas Strahan, with the general subject of "War" as a mysterious element in the Destiny of Man", the coloring being mainly blue and purple.

CLUB MEMBERS TELL OF JOBS

MOST INTERESTING

Something of the processes followed by two of the city's important industries was explained to the Y's Men's Club at the weekly meeting held last night in the Y.M.C.A. The speakers were Bill Hamilton, of Barries, Ltd., furriers, and Ed. Hall of the Colonial Weaving Company, manufacturers of woven labels. President Roy White presided.

Bill Hamilton based his talk largely on the muskrat, as this fur-bearing animal is found largely in this district. He touched upon the family life of the animals, stressing their rapid multiplication both in the wild state and on fur farms, which are becoming more numerous as the wild rats become scarcer.

A great deal of muskrat fur is sealed, or made into a replica of sealskin, making it possible to sell handsome coats at a lower price than the genuine seal. The process of dyeing and plucking the fur was described in an interesting manner.

Some furs, the speaker explained, are noted for their wearing qualities while others are preferred for their appearance and style. Not always is the most expensive one the most durable, but most of them will, if properly treated, outlast any other fabric.

Samples of several kinds of fur were passed around, adding to the interest of the talk.

Ed Hall took his listeners from the designing of the label to the shipping of the finished product, as the processes occur at the Colonial Weaving Companys factory which has the largest output of this material in Canada. He showed designs and patterns, with the labels magnified many times, so that there was a line shown for each of the several hundred threads composing the warp.

The speaker explained how the threads are wound and prepared for the loom, and told how the pattern, consisting of perforated cards, actuates needles which raise and lower the threads of the warp so that the colored threads on the shuttle appear on front or back of the label.

Many sample labels, with sketches from which the pattern is made, and a skein of silk thread, as it is received at the local plant, were passed around. The vari-colored labels were marvels of precision and artistry, many of them much more perfect than the sketches which formed the original artist's conception.

These short talks by members of the club on the business which engages their attention are one of the most enjoyable features of the meetings of the Y's Men's Club. It was announced that Thursday, May 19, will be charter night, when members of the Belleville Club will be here to give the local branch an official start along the paths of Y'sdom.

"Paint-up Bill" Says:-

"NOT painting a house is the most expensive thing you can possibly do!"

A man said to me the other day when I went to see him about painting his house (and it needed it badly), "Can't afford to go to that expense just now."

Poor chap! That's faulty reasoning. He can't afford NOT to paint that house of his. It was built not more than five years ago and it looks twenty. I could point out a hundred places where decay has set in. He'll need an entirely new roof in a few seasons. And it looks second-rate, too. Wonder what his neighbors think on the subject!

TWO NATIONAL PARKS.

Jasper National Park, Alberta, is a magnificent natural playground, 4400 square miles in extent, located in the heart of the most scenic regions of the Canadian Rockies, and set aside by the Dominion Government for the enjoyment of the people for all time. Towering snow-crowned peaks, (such as Mount Edith Cavell), magnificent mountain ranges, pierced by the beautiful valley of the Athbaska River, and in the centre of it all, Jasper Park Lodge, a wonderful hostelry with every comfort of a modern hotel—such is Jasper National Park.

Yellowstone National Park, Wyoming, U.S.A., which has been fittingly named "Nature's Show Window" is a park which, in the variety of its attractions and diversity of natural phenomena, has no rival. Geysers, hot and boiling springs, prismatic pools, multi-colored paint pots, tinted terraces, and the awe-inspiring mighty canyon of the Yellowstone River—all have been described many times, but they must still be seen to be appreciated.

These two parks, and many wonderful scenes, will be enjoyed by the members of the Kerr-Bryson Western Tour, which leaves Toronto via Canadian National Railways July 2, 1927. The trip is fully described in the handsomely illustrated booklet which may be had on request to any Agent of the Canadian National Railways or to Martin Kerr, B.A., 4 Beulah Ave., Hamilton, or Mr. A. E. Bryson, 44 Silverthorn Ave., Toronto.

LINDSAY FREED

unable to throw any light on the subject. Frank Rusaw, a boy about 17 years old, told of seeing a can in the democrat of Mr. Lindsay, which was left at his home after the Lindsay family had moved last December. Harvie Rusaw, Frank's younger brother, said the can on exhibit was similar to the one he saw in the democrat, but that there appeared to be a little difference in the tops of the two cans. Charles Rusaw, the boys' father, said he had seen a can in the Lindsay democrat during the winter, but that he never examined it.

The Defence.

Richard Lindsay, on being called to the box, swore that he had never seen any of the parts of the still on exhibit until the day he found it in the bag in the swamp. He said that Matthew Lytle was drunk most of his time and he was abusing Mrs. Lindsay, so he determined to find the source from whence the whiskey was coming. He suspected that there was a still some place and one morning he and his wife and daughter saw Mr. Lytle go to the swamp with a bag over his back. Mr. Lytle remained in the swamp about 10 minutes and then returned to his home without the bag. The accused said he immediately set out and after about an hour's searching in the swamp he found the bag with the still in it covered up with leaves.

On the day they moved to the Lytle farm he said he and his wife followed the sleigh on which Charlie Lytle had their furniture and that nothing fell off. Witness denied ever having a still or seeing any parts around his home. While at John McNorton's house he said Laura Lee never saw any still and that she never was there in the day time, but was there several times drunk in the evening.

Eleanor Lindsay, wife of Richard Lindsay, told the same story as her husband, but their daughter, Rosie Lindsay, did not have the time when she and her father and mother saw Matthew Lytle going to the swamp with the bag the same as her parents. Mrs. Lindsay said that on the day they moved she and her husband followed Charlie Lytle with the furniture and that a stove pipe fell off and that was all. Later when Charles Lytle was called to the stand he told of a stove pipe falling off along with the card board boxes.

Mr. Wearing then called Matthew Lytle to the box and witness said he had asked Lindsay to leave his house and that in the end he had to sheriff him out. He denied having a still or being drunk or abusing Mrs. Lindsay. Mrs. Lytle corroborated the evidence given by her son Charlie as to what he did on the day he moved the Lindsays, and that they arrived at their new home at least two hours after Charlie did with the furniture.

Lawyers Sum Up

E. F. Reid, in summing up his case, submitted that there was no evidence to show why Lindsay would plant a still on the farm of Matthew Lytle and then tell the officers. "Several of the Crown witnesses, when put in the box, knew absolutely nothing about the case," said Mr. Reid, and Mr. Wearing suggested that they had forgotten a lot in a week.

Mr. Wearing said: "I see a very weak case on both sides for we are all familiar with the character and personality of the witnesses. We can't always be sure of the evidence that will be given, for we know enough of the history of Centre Dummer.

"I believe Lindsay hid the still in the swamp, for if Matthew Lytle had put it there he would not have been doing the deed in broad daylight. There is a chain of circumstances which lead to show that Lindsay owned the still and was connected with parts of it at various times."

His Worship, in giving judgment, said that it was somewhat of an unusual case under very peculiar circumstances. The accused tells the officers where they will find a still, and the officers after finding it become very suspicious and arrested the man who gave the information. His Worship paid very little attention to the evidence of Laura Lee and Wellington Lytle and he ruled that the evidence of the Rusaws and Mrs. Hill had nothing to do with the case. Charles Lytle's evidence is contradicted by Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay.

"There is no definite evidence laid before me that the accused ever owned the still and that which was submitted is not exact enough to convict," he concluded.

Toronto was the scene of an extraordinary crime recently, when Henry Lyford, who, for some time, has been separated from his wife, burrowed beneath the foundation of the house where Mrs. Lyford lives, remained in his tunnel all night and the next morning until his wife went out. Then he cut a hole through the floor and when she returned, entered the house and shot his wife seven times in quick succession. He then turned the weapon on himself. Both are living. CENTRE sketch is a diagram of the scene of the shooting. TOP LEFT is a picture of Mrs. Lyford and BELOW, one of Henry Lyford. The pictures were probably taken on their wedding day. TOP RIGHT is Constable Michael Byrt, who lives but a block away and was on the scene very quickly. BOTTOM RIGHT is shown the German army automatic pistol with which the shooting was done. BELOW is shown a sketch of the hole under the bed and a photo of the house from the front.

SYNTHETIC FUEL IS PRACTICABLE

French Government Convinced of Value of Mixture For Motors.

PARIS, May 6.—(Canadian Press.)—The French government is convinced of the practicability of the new synthetic motor fuel which has been developed by French engineers, Edouard Herriot, Minister of Education, stated yesterday. The fuel is a specially prepared wood and charcoal mixture for automobiles, trucks and farm tractors.

Life is only justified by service, and it only becomes worth while while when we stand our corner, pull our weight and pay our footing in the service of others. But then how well worth while it all becomes!

NOTABLE ADDRESSES DELIVERED AT ANNUAL NEWSPAPER DINNER

Three Veteran Journalists Tell of Advances Made in Recent Years.

A PLEA FOR UNITY.

TORONTO, May 6.—A distinctive note of unity in Canada from coast to coast, pervaded the addresses delivered at the annual dinner of the Canadian Daily Newspapers' Association, held in the King Edward Hotel last night. A hundred newspapermen, representative of the whole of Canada listened last night to many reminiscences and anecdotes both highly humorous and of a serious vein, which brought back to them the great traditions of the past.

The speakers of the notable gathering were: His Honor, William D. Ross, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario; the Rt. Hon. George P. Graham, R. S. White M.P., of Montreal; and Hon. Frank Oliver. Hon. Frank Carrel presided, and J. H. Woods, of Calgary, president of the Canadian Press, and E. H. Macklin, of the Manitoba Free Press and newly elected president of the Association, both spoke briefly.

His Honor, the Lieutenant-Governor was tendered an ovation when he rose to speak. He referred in a few well-chosen words, to the power, the indispensability, the influence, and the responsibility of the press in Canada to-day.

Rt. Hon. George P. Graham, was introduced as a "veteran newspaperman." After Hon. Mr. Carrel had reviewed the many honors Mr. Graham had received in his life-time he declared that through them all, the Senator had never forsaken his first love, journalism. As head of the committee in charge of the arrangements for the celebration of Canada's Sixtieth Anniversary, Mr. Graham took the opportunity, he said last night, to ask the press, "to see that in every community there rings true a Dominion-wide note of unity for Canada. Perhaps in this country of such wide and unending stretches it is impossible," he declared, "to always see eye to eye in all things, but surely at the age of sixty years we are in a position to grow less provincial, and more Dominion." Each Province had its problems, Mr. Graham said, but if Canada was to go ahead and take her place among the great nations of the world, "We must place ourselves," he declared, "in a position to accede sometimes to the whims of other provinces and try to get their viewpoint. Then we will demonstrate to the world, that with all our variations from coast to coast, we are able as a people to stand on one common platform for the upbuilding of this young country called Canada."

A Broader Spirit.

R. S. White, M.P., who was at one time president of the Ottawa Press Gallery and who joined the staff of the Montreal Gazette in 1874, delighted the gathering with his anecdotes, courteousness of manner and charm of speech. Referring to the extreme partisanship of the press of the old days he told the following story. A certain country editor had gone to a great deal of trouble to persuade his readers that a certain policy of Sir John Macdonald's was the right policy for them to support, Sir John, after counting noses decided to change this policy, and just when the editor was congratulating himself on his success he received word from his chief to that effect, and a request that he try to change his readers back again. "Well," he wrote back, "it's a d—d, sharp curve, but I'll chance it." "That kind of partisanship," said Mr. White, "has very largely disappeared from the press of Canada. I think," he declared, "that there is less personality and greater breadth of view and perhaps more candor in the press to-day than in any period in the past, and I believe that the press has gained in influence, as a consequence."

As far as editorials went, however, Mr. White believed that the great mass of other matter in the press to-day did not give the people the time to read the editorials, and in this respect the influence of the press was not what it used to be. He ventured to say that only 25 per cent. of the newspaper readers read the editorials. Referring to the belief that "distance lends enchantment," Mr. White recalled a number of old newspaper writers, and declared that, in his opinion, while not detracting rom the worth of these men, he did not believe that they were better than a number of Canadian newspaper writers of to-day.

Hon. Frank Oliver was introduced as an old Peel County boy, who went west in the 70's. Hon. Mr. Carrel termed as "a pioneer of Canadian journalism." As he rose to speak, Mr. Oliver received a great ovation from the gathering. He indulged in a number of reminiscences, beginning at the time he started in the newspaper business in Toronto with the Globe. While he didn't assist the paper in an editorial capacity, he said, he was afraid that "the Honorable George" never knew how much he was indebted to me for the appearance of the page every day." Mr. Oliver was number 36 of a group of forty men working in the composing room. The work that he used to do was now done by machine, he said.

Hon. Mr. Oliver wished to say something to the Eastern audience last night, and he knew, he said, that there were a number of Western men present who would agree with him. "I want to say to you," he declared in ringing tones, "that the idea of a division in Canada between the West and the East, to the detriment and disrepute of both, is all wrong so far as Western Canada is concerned. Canada is Canada in the Prairie West, as much, and more so," Mr. Oliver declared, "than it is in the East. There is a greater confidence in the future of Canada in the minds of the people of Western Canada, and the people who have made Western Canada, than there is in the East. I don't find," declared Mr. Oliver, "the same robust Canadianism in this Eastern country as I do in the Prairie West to-day. Canada is Canada in the Prairie West, wherever else it may or may not be."

J. H. Woods thanked the speakers of the evening on behalf of the association. Hon. Frank Carrel then introduced E. H. Macklin as the newly elected president of the Canadian Daily Newspapers' Association. "No man or member of our association," he said, "is held in such high appreciation or esteem as Mr. Macklin." Mr. Carrel asked the new president to stand up, and he rose to the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Comparisons are not always odious. Canada having just acquired a new embassy in Washington, it is interesting to see what other countries can boast in this connection. To the left is the present British embassy at Washington, which is being abandoned for a new $700,000 establishment. The new British building will be some distance from the centre of the diplomatic area, whereas Canada's new legation building is in the midst of it. In the centre is the Japanese embassy and to the right is the Italian.

MUCH BUSINESS

At the afternoon session a deputation from the Queen Street United Church, Lindsay, appeared relative to the building of a new parsonage and asked Conference support for a grant. The matter was referred to the property committee of the Presbytery.

The report of the W.M.S. of the United Church of Lindsay Presbyterial was presented by Mrs. H. Morrison. Rev. Mr. Holling of Lindsay, paid a tribute to the great work performed by this organization.

Rev. Gordon Holmes of Lindsay Baptist Church addressed the Presbytery relative to the boys' and girls' camp at Balsam Lake, explaining the plans for this year's camp.

Rev. C. D. McLellan of Bracerton reported relative to certain property transfers. The congregation in that town intended building a new manse. It also asked for permission to sell Knex Church shed.

A call to the Rev. Mr. Dudgeon of Port Credit to St. James' Church, Peterborough, was dealt with and approved and passed on to the settlement committee. Rev. J. D. Richardson, of St. James' Church, will take pastoral charge at Port Credit.

The transfer of Rev. Mr. Harston of Woodville, to Campbellford, was approved and release granted.

The exchange of pulpits by Rev. Mr. Pope of Coboconk with Rev. Mr. Price, at present at Minesing Church, Simcoe Presbytery, came up for consideration.

Rev. F. L. Brown, B.A., Superintendent of Missions, addressed the Presbytery, and referred to the transfer of Revs. Popes and Price. Action was deferred until an official call was sent out by the official board of Coboconk Church.

Rev. R. T. Richards has received a call to Port Perry, and his release was approved. Rev. Mr. Archer, in introducing a resolution, expressed the appreciation of the Presbytery for the work done by Rev. Mr. Richards. Rev. Mr. Robeson of Wilfrid has been extended an invitation to take pastoral charge at Sharbot Lake, Kingston Presbytery. His release was granted.

Rev. Mr. Archibald of Keene tendered his resignation of the Keene charge. After some consideration he decided to withdraw same and place his name in the hands of the settlement committee.

A request from Rev. D. D. McDonald of Wick that his name be placed in the hands of the settlement committee was granted.

Rev. Mr. Dyer of Greenbank was appointed Interim Moderator to handle the situation that will arise at Wick.

The matter of an appendix to the roll to take in none-resident members was discussed, but no action was taken.

A communication from the Sebright Quarterly Official Board relative to the sale of Dartmoor Church property was read, asking the approval of Presbytery re the appointment of trustees to deal with the deeds. Request was granted.

A communication from the secretary of Cobourg Presbytery relative to proposed divisions of Lindsay Presbytery was received and filed.

Rev. Mr. Stillman, Norwood, and Rev. Mr. Todd, Peterborough, and Messrs. Denike, Havelock, and Sutcliffe, Lindsay, were appointed to the settlement committee.

Milton Redvers Brown of Cordova Mines was recommended for ordination and full reception into the church at the coming Conference at Oshawa, as was also Bruce Harrison of Victoria College.

The report of the committee on maintenance and extension was submitted through Rev. James Gordon of Peterborough. He expressed his gratitude for the fine spirit of co-operation in the alloting of allocations to the pastorates. He explained the difficulties experienced in raising the amounts.

Rev. C. Williams of Formosa, representative of the General Conference, assured the members of his co-operation and outlined the future of the maintenance and extension work. The Lindsay Presbytery, with a nine-months period, will accept three-fourths of its last year's allocation.

Evening Session

At the evening session Rev. Mr. Pope of Coboconk, reported for the Historical Committee and suggested certain lines of procedure in the preservation of records of the Presbytery.

The Treasurer's report was presented by Rev. Mr. Richards of Peterboro, showing that the balance on hand from last year, plus receipts, amounted to $1423.43. After deducting for certain expenses, a balance was left of $750.58, with certain sums outstanding. The Presbytery's share of the Conference fund, however, amounts to $824.40, so that with all money in, the finances are in a healthy condition. The report, which is really an account of the Presbytery and Conference expense fund, was adopted.

The Committee on Rolls, which had had its afternoon report referred back for consideration, again reported recommending that in view of the fact that there are four more laymen than ministers, the following be appointed as alternates—J. O. Fife, J. E. Adams, H. Fisk, Peterboro; Dr. W. H. Clarke, Lindsay.

The report of the Committee on Missions was presented by Rev. Dyer, of Greenbank, and contained a fund of information on missionary activities.

Rev. J. E. Glover of Cambray contributed a comprehensive report dealing with properties within the Presbytery.

A set of rules of procedure in connection with examination of congregational records, as suggested by Rev. David, was the subject of discussion. It was decided to take no action until such time as the book of government of the United Church of Canada has been prepared and approved.

Rev. Mr. Hie of Bobcaygeon, reporting for superannuated ministers, recommended certain continuances of superannuated relations.

Rev. Dr. Brown, from the London Conference, is a new name on the superannuated list this year, while Rev. P. H. Neville of Peterboro and Rev. Rufus Garrett of Hiawtha were superannuated for one year. Mr. Hie also reported on Religious Education.

Rev. Mr. Herrington of Warsaw presented a statistical report of the Presbytery as follows: Total number full membership, March 31, 1926, 13,744; received by profession of faith, 467; by certificate, 343; otherwise, 331; removed by death, 201; by certificate, 401; otherwise, 264. Total number full membership, March 31, 1927, resident, 13,115; non-resident, 904; an increase of 375 for the year.

Rev. Holling, Lindsay, brought in the report of the committee on conference committees.

The Presbytery adjourned to meet at the call of the executive at Oshawa during Conference. At this meeting the time and place of the next regular meeting will be settled.

The following clergymen and laymen were present from the county of Peterboro—Clergymen: R. F. Stillman, Norwood; R. Garrett, Hiawatha; Wesley, Lakefield; J. D. Richardson, Peterboro; H. B. Herrington, Warsaw; D. Wren, Peterboro; S. H. Moyer, Westwood; A. H. Maconachie, Springville; S. A. Kemp, Lakefield; M. B. Brown, Cordova Mines; A. J. Brown and R. T. Richards, Peterboro; W. R. Archer, Havelock; J. W. Ogden, Apsley; W. McDonald and J. W. Gordon, Peterboro. Laymen: A. C. Denike, Havelock; John Hope, Westwood; Thos. McIndoo, Springville; S. Harrison, Lakefield; H. H. Thistlewaite, Norwood; George Paudash, Hiawatha; James Walton, Lakefield; R. J. Kidd, C. F. Kelly, Peterboro; E. Hawthorne, Warsaw; J. E. Adams, Peterboro; F. F. Bell, Bridgenorth; George Evans, W. G. Morrow, R. F. Downey, E. Benson, Peterboro; J. S. Moore, Lakefield.

GENERAL THACKER GETS A NEW TITLE

OTTAWA, May 6.—The retirement of Major-General MacBrien from the position he held in the national defence department has given rise to a readjustment of the duties.

General MacBrien was chief of staff of the department, and, as it embraces the naval service, a question of seniority arose as between him and the head of that service. General Thacker, who has been appointed to succeed Gen. MacBrien, is designated as chief of staff of the Canadian militia at a salary of $8,000 per year and allowances. The position of chief of staff of the department of defence is abolished, and Gen. MacBrien has been given 13 months' leave of absence from June first, at a salary of $9,000 and allowances. At the end of that period he will be eligible for pension.

The leave to Gen. MacBrien and the appointment of General Thacker were announced yesterday.

NEWSPAPER TRIAL COUNSEL ASSERTS

Dr. Withrow's Lawyer Stresses Ordeal of Publicity in His Arguments.

TORONTO, May 6. — (Canadian Press.)—"These two men have had to submit to that most unenviable thing—a newspaper trial," said A. W. Roebuck, counsel for Dr. O. C. J. Withrow, in opening his address to the jury to-day in the Assizes.

Dr. Withrow, with Bartlett J. Brooks, is charged with manslaughter and with procuring an illegal operation on the late Ruth Dembner.

Mr. Roebuck stressed the ordeal of publicity through which the two accused have passed. "They have been pilloried in the press and talked about all over the province," he said.

Reviewing the facts of the case, counsel said that the mother and sister of Miss Dembner had shown no antagonism to Dr. Withrow, but certainly no friendliness. But their evidence, he argued, was not unfavorable to him. They had testified to facts which indicated that the girl had not been in the condition of approaching motherhood and she evidently had not deemed herself in that condition.

He stressed the fact that no expert had been able to testify at what time the fatal wound had been inflicted. Other experts had said they could not say how long it was. Dr. Withrow could not see the wound when he made his examination. It might have been spreading of the infection from this wound due to the stirring up of the parts.

R. H. Greer, K.C., counsel for Brooks, then took up his argument. He referred to the fact that Brooks had not entered the witness box. "What would you think of a man who went into the box and besmirched the memory of the girl who was to be his bride?" he asked. "Would you do it? No, I am sure you would go to the uttermost depths of hell before you would do that."

He said that Miss Dembner, in ill health, knowing that unless she mended her health, might not be able to marry Brooks, had resorted to the expedient of having this di[illegible] operation.

"They were not married—no doubt of that—we can dismiss that point," he said.

Young Brooks had been persuaded by the girl, he argued, to aid her by giving her his name while she went to a hospital and underwent the operation which resulted in her death.

BORDER CITIES MAKE PROTEST

Delegation To Washington Asks Continuation of Present Laws.

GOVERNING WORKERS.

WASHINGTON, May 6. Canadian Press. — Protesting against the recent immigration rulings affecting Canadian residents, a delegation from the Border Cities of Ontario, came to Washington to-day and presented to the Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian Minister, a brief asking for a continuation of the present arrangement.

Workers recognized as of Canadian citizenship now may cross and recross the border daily, but the new regulations would restrict these privileges.

The delegation included E. G. O'Dette, Liberal member of Parliament for East Essex; Mayor Jackson of Windsor; Mayor Daniels of Walkerville and others.

REDS GIVE UP ANTI-FOREIGN PROPAGANDA

Radical Wing of Cantonese Has Posters Torn Down at Hankow.

FOREIGNERS ENJOY LIFE.

Chinese Nationalists Clash With Dutch Police in Borneo.

LONDON, May 6.—(United Press.)—British and American citizens remaining in Hankow, China, are golfing, dancing and attending concerts within the sound of gun fire, a dispatch to the Daily Express said today. The dispatch reported that conditions in the capital of the radical wing of the Nationalists were returning to normal, and said the government's anti-foreign policy had been completely reversed. Soldiers tore down posters seeking to inflame the populace against foreigners and coolies were warned that natives who attack foreigners will be executed, the dispatch added.

Trouble In Borneo.

THE HAGUE, May 6. — (United Press.)—Soldiers and police at Samarinda, Borneo, clashed with a mob of Chinese who resisted efforts to arrest two of their leaders, it was reported here to-day.

Twelve Chinese were killed and twenty-five wounded. The Chinese were adherents of the Kuomintang, or Nationalist faction, the report said.

JUSTICE GRANT DISMISSES SUIT

$5,000 CLAIMED.

TORONTO, May 6 (Canadian Press). — Mr. Justice Grant today gave judgment dismissing the suit against the North American Life Insurance Company to recover $5,000 under a policy on her husband's life entered by Mrs. J. L. O'Donnell.

L. J. O'Donnell, an employee of the Lands and Forests Department at Hearst, left the camp where he and a companion had rested for the night and rushed into the bush. The companion heard his voice calling "Noreen," his wife's name, but owing to the darkness was unable to follow him. O'Donnell was not seen again. In the absence of any trace of O'Donnel having been found by numerous search parties, the judge holds that he is not justified in presuming O'Donnell to be dead.

MEXICO CITY, May 6 (Canadian Press) — Special despatches from Guadalajara say Military Commandant Ferreira of the State of Jalisco has reported to the governor that about 200 rebels were killed in an encounter with federal troops.

LOCKOUTS PUT ON EVEN TERMS WITH STRIKES

Illegal Except To Further Trade Dispute in One Industry.

STRIKE BILL CHANGED.

Moves By Employers Or Employees To Coerce Government Are Forbidden.

LONDON, May 6 (Canadian Press). —The Government's announced intention to amplify the Trade Union Bill so as to make general lockouts as well as general strikes and strikes of a coercive nature illegal was made good to-day when the official amendments were made public.

The amendment referring to a lockout says any such movement by employers is illegal. "If it has any object besides the furtherance of a trade dispute within the trade or industry in which the employers locking out are engaged, and is a lockout designed or calculated to coerce the Government either directly or indirectly or by inflicting hardship on the community, and it is further declared that it is illegal to commence, or continue, or apply any sums in furtherance of support of such illegal lockout."

The clause banning general strikes was amended so as to read the same as the lockout clause, with the terms twitched around, of coutse.

CANADIAN FLIERS ATTEND EXHIBITION

Will Demonstrate New Planes at Great Meet at Washington.

WASHINGTON, May 6. — Canadian Press. — Canadians will take part in an all-American flying exhibition to-day, when Group Captain J. S. Scott, director of the Canadian Air Force, will fly over Bolling field in a new tri-motor plane loaned to him by the United States Air Force for trial. Captain Scott is here to view the new model planes at the Aeronautical Show and to discuss flying problems informally.

Flight Lieut. A. A. Leitch, who brought Canada's new patrol plane from Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., last Tuesday, will make flights with United States officers during the day, later taking off for the return trip to Hasbrouck Heights, where the new plane was construtced, along with five others. The six planes will be used on the Canadian Government's Hudson Strait exploration expedition this summer.

AVIATORS HEARD.

LIQUOR EXPORT BUSINESS IS BIG

About Seventeen Million Dollars' Worth Shipped in Year.

THROUGH WINDSOR.

WINDSOR, Ont., May 6 (Canadian Press).—The extent of the liquor export business done from the Customs port of Windsor and outports was indicated this morning before the Royal Customs Commission. Through the Mexico Export Co., an organization which has ceased its activities for the time being, liquor to the value of approximately $9,092,000, was exported in eight and a half months, A. E. Nash, Commission auditor, stated on the stand. The Williams interests, doing an export business at La Salle, exported liquor to the value of approximately $5,388,000 over one year, and the Bermuda Export Co. exported beer over the same period worth $3,045,539. This makes a total export value of approximately seventeen millions, of which about fifteen millions went to the United States.

A. F. Healy, former Liberal member for North Essex in the House of Commons, who was referred to yesterday, was sent a copy of the evidence. This action had been taken to give Mr. Healy a chance to appear if he so desired in answer to statements made.

The Commission was refused written authorization this morning to examine the income tax returns of a witness. O. Paquett, liquor exporter at La Salle, was asked by Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., Commission counsel, for a letter which would permit the auditors to go into his income tax returns. He declined to give the letter.

"All right," said Mr. Rowell briefly.

There was some inquiry into the income tax returns of S. V. Beck, former Canadian National freight agent at Walkerville, who admitted taking money for signing liquor bills of lading which were not genuine. He said yesterday that he was paid at the rate of about $1,000 a carload. To-day, he told Mr. Rowell that he had included the payments in his income tax returns a few weeks ago. The payments, according to the evidence, were made in 1923 and 1924, but he had not returned them at the time made. The cash which he received and which Mr. Rowell, on the basis of twenty-two carloads, estimated at $22,000, he had kept in safe deposit box, he said. The Commission expects to conclude the Windsor sittings to-day. The sittings in Hamilton will open on Monday.

The oldest settlement in the new world is Vera Cruz, Mex. It antedates St. Augustine, Fla., by 46 years.

GRAY'S STORY IS UNCHANGED

Lawyer Fails To Shake His Testimony—Admits Part in Attack.

FEW STATE QUESTIONS.

NEW YORK, May 6 (Canadian Press).—Cross-examination of Henry Judd Gray by counsel for his co-defendant, Mrs. Ruth Snyder, was concluded today without materially shaking his story of the murder of Albert Snyder.

He was dry-eyed and calm throughout, although he had wept freely during his examination by his own lawyer.

The State's cross-examination of Gray was very brief. In answer to all District Attorney Newcombe's questions, Gray said he and Mrs. Snyder had joined in an attack that resulted in Mrs. Snyder's husband's death.

"You have told the happenings of that night in detail, Gray. Do you understand the consequences of your words?" "I do, and what I said is the truth."

"That is all."

Gray left the stand after replying to several questions put by his counsel in redirect examination.

In his cross-examination of Gray, Dana Wallace, counsel for Mrs. Snyder, brought out that it was at Gray's own suggestion that he got the chloroform, wire, and sash weight with which Snyder was killed.

"There was no domination there?" "No."

"She suggested the rope, and you got her wire, didn't you?" "Yes."

"You broke the domination there?" "Yes."

"She didn't suggest the waste you picked up in Rochester, or the guaze?" "She suggested cotton and I got guaze."

"Oh, so again you overrode this strange magnetic domination?" "I suppose so."

Earlier in the cross-examination Gray had stated that Mrs. Snyder's "magnetic" domination made him take part in the crime.

Wheat and Corn Drop When Regulation Passes

CHICAGO, May 6. — (Canadian Press.)—Wheat and corn underwent a decided early setback to-day. The breaks in values were ascribed to the Illinois Senate's adoption of a bill to place under special commission the control of the Board of Trade here. Opening 3-8 cent off to 3-8 cent, up, wheat dropped to about one cent a bushel under yesterday's finish. Corn, oats and provisions likewise turned weak, corn starting at 1-8 cent. to 5-8 cent decline and subsequently showing further loss.

Opening prices were: Wheat, May 141 7-8, July 134 7-8. Corn, May 78 7-8, July 83 7-8. Oats, May 47 3-4, July 48.

Wall Street Remains Strong Auto Sales Reach Peak

NEW YORK, May 6 (Canadian Press)—Having succeeded in trapping large short interest in many issues, speculators for the advance continued to press their advantage in to-day's stock market. With dividend action on General Motors, common, less than a week away and April sales of cars by several of the leading companies reported at new monthly peak for the year, little difficulty was experienced in attracting following in the motor shares. Mack Trucks and Hudson each reached new high ground and strong support developed for some of the accessory issues. Several strong spots developed in the Rails, Chesapeake and Ohio and Baltimore and Ohio being among the first to break into new high ground.

Public utilities were bid up in anticipation of announcemeint of several new super power projects within the next few months and on reports of large current earnings.

MERGER TALK IS EXPLAINED

Probably Based On Reported Sale of Canadian Packing Plants.

BY CHICAGO OWNERS.

TORONTO, May 6.—Foundation of rumors that a consolidation of several Eastern Canada packing concerns would soon be effected probably rested on the recent report that the Allied Packers Incorporated of Chicago intended to dispose of their Canadian plants — the Canadian Packing Company—according to one of the officials of a local packing house.

Consolidation Discussed.

It has been rumored that the Harris Abattoir Company, Gunns Limited, the Canadian Packing Company, and the William Davies Company, Limited, would be included in the merger, but it was explained by this official that such a consolidation had been discussed at various times during the past two years in an effort to relieve the unsatisfactory condition in the packing industry.

However, he said that he did not believe that negotiations were any nearer to conclusion, or even that there had been any negotiations with in the past few weeks.

C. S. Blackwell, of the former Matthews-Blackwell Company, who was reported to be associated with financial interests promoting the consolidation, said last night that he had heard only rumors on the street, and that he had no reliable information.

No Definite Information.

Officials of other packing companies, said to have been interested in the merger, also disclaimed possession of any authoritative information. Most of them were of the opinion that any negotiations which might have been taking place, had not reached any definite conclusion.

Leafs Gain Second Place in International League

LEAFS DEFEAT NEWARK BEARS

Fisher Held Losers Scoreless Until Ninth—Wins 6-2 Victory.

HOMER FOR HEATH.

MAPLE LEAF STADIUM, May 6.—The Leafs increased their winning streak to six games when they defeated the Newark Bears here by 6 to 2. Fisher pitched masterly ball for the Leafs and was never in danger, shutting out the Bears until the ninth, when they scored two runs on four hits. Mamaux started for the Bears, but he was hit freely and relieved at the end of the fourth, when Warhoop replaced him. The Leafs secured 12 hits and Heath and Spencer had homers. Spencer, Lamotte, Webb, Harrington and Heath garnered two each. Lamotte, Heath and Webb featured the fielding for the winners. Carlyle, with three hits, was the batting hero for the losers.

The victory sent the Leafs into second place, Baltimore dropping to third, when they were defeated by Buffalo, 11 to 5.

The Orioles were held in check by Mangum, who allowed them but eight hits. He looked bad in the third, when Baltimore managed to shove across three of their runs, but he tightened while his team mates opened up to pound four Oriole twirlers.

At Rochester the Colts scored five runs in the last inning to nose out the hapless Reading, 11 to 10. During most of the game it looked as if the Keyes were going to win a ball game, but the last minute rush of the Rochester batsmen changed the whole complexion of the game.

The Stars opened their series with Jersey City at Syracuse by making 21 hits for a total of 37 bases and a 15 to 5 victory. Every player on the Syracuse line-up made at least one hit, Layne leading with four in as many times at bat.

CARD TWIRLER HOLDS PIRATES

Grover Alexander Makes It Two Out of Three in Series.

RALLY IN EIGHTH.

NEW YORK, May 6 (Canadian Press).—That "evergreen" twirler, Grover Cleveland Alexander, held the Pittsburgh Pirates to seven scattered hits yesterday, and the St. Louis Cards made it two out of three games with a 4 to 2 victory.

The veteran mound artist was complete master of the Pirate batsmen, while his own sluggers got to Aldridge in the sixth to break a one-all with two runs and drive the Pirate pitcher to the showers. They got another in the seventh. Pittsburgh staged a rally in the eighth, when Hafey muffed Wright's fly and managed to push one run across, but Alexander tightened and put an end to their aspirations.

The second place Giants kept on the heels of the League leading Cards with a 4 to 1 victory over the Brooklyn Robins at the Polo Grounds. Rogers Hornsby's seventh inning homer with two on base broke up a pitching duel between Grimes and Jess Petty. Grimes, a former Brooklyn star, held his former team-mates to six hits to score his first victory of the season.

Only two games were played in the National League yesterday. Rain forced cancellation of the Phillies-Braves game at Boston, while Chicago and Cincinnati were not scheduled.

OLD COUNTRY SOCCER RESULTS

LONDON, May 6 (Canadian Press Cable).—Results of yesterday's soccer matches were:

English League—First Division.

Sheffield United 2, Bury 0.

Third Division—Southern Section.

Queen's Park Rangers 1, Brentford 1.

In continental Europe football has gained so in popularity during the past few years that an attendance of 35,000 to 40,000 is nothing unusual at games in Paris, Amsterdam, Madrid and various other cities.

Jose Torres', 24-year-old Tarahumara Indian, from the wilds of Mexico, finishing his 51-mile run from Kansas City to Lawrence, Kansas, with a world record of 6 hours, 46 minutes and 41 seconds, the old record by J. C. Davies of New York being 7 hours, 49 minutes and 39 seconds.

DERBY FIELD AT LOUISVILLE

Larger Number of Entries Than Usual in Running Field.

EAST LEADING.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 6.—The probable Derby field today, ten days before running of the fifty-third Kentucky Derby, appears to exceed twenty-five, an unusually large number.

Not all of these, however, will start in the race at Churchill Downs on May 14, and it is probable that some not included in this list will go to the post. The average field for the past decade has been fifteen. Last year only thirteen accepted the issue, against 20 the year before.

Zev won in competition with the largest number that ever raced, 21. The East, with fifteen candidates, leads the West, with ten The Preakness, at Pimlico next Monday, in which several of the eastern and a few western Derby eligibles are entered, probably will serve to reduce the eastern contingent somewhat. The Derby trial or the Clark Handicap, at Churchill Downs will have a similar bearing on the western band.

The eastern probable starters are: Black Panther, Bostonian, Jock, Jolagan, Kiev, Night Mail, Osmand, Rip Rap, Sankari, Saxon, Scapa Flow, Sweepster, Valorous, War Eagle and Whiskery. The westerners are: Be With Us, Boo, Budds Bauer, Candy Queen, Fred Jr., Hydromel, Justice F., Mr. Kirkwood, Nor'easter, Rolled Stocking and Royal Julian.

Mary Helen, Wood Lore, Scotland, Fair Star, Bonaire and other have not yet been declared out.

YANKEES LOSE TO SENATORS

Athletics Drop Chance For First By Losing To Boston.

HOMER FOR SOX.

NEW YORK, May 6 (Canadian Press).—The Philadelphia Athletics lost a chance to go into first place in the American League yesterday by losing to Boston, 3 to 2, while the leading Yankees were dropping another game to the Senators at Washington, 6 to 1.

The lowly Red Sox accomplished their victory when Ira Flagstead, batting as a pinch hitter in the eighth inning, hit a home run with one on. Groves twirled good ball for the Athletics, holding the Sox to six hits, while his mates were getting eight off Wiltse and one off Walzer. The Athletics, however, failed to bunch their singles to gain the edge. Ty Cobb, versatile veteran outfielder with the Athletics, hit a drive over the right field foul line in the eighth inning, and when the umpire called it foul, Ty was ejected from the game.

Evens Series.

The Senators' victory over the Yankees evened the series at two apiece. Lisenbee, a recruit obtained from Memphis, held "murderers' row" to six scattered hits and struck out eight. It was the rookie's third win of the season. West, in right field for the Senators, led their eighth hit attack with a triple, double and single in four trips to the plate.

The Detroit Tigers went into undisputed possession of fifth place by scoring a 3 to 2 win over the Chicago White Sox at Detroit. The deciding run was made in the ninth inning at the expense of Cole, former Tiger pitcher.

The Cleveland-St. Louis game was postponed owing to rain.

SOCCER GAME LEAGUE FIXTURE

Masseys and Thistle Play at King Edward Park—Kick-off at 3.

The second soccer league game is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon at King Edward Park, when the Thistle will play the Masseys. Kick-off at three o'clock prompt. Referee, W. Rickard.

In the opening game of last week, the Masseys won by two goals to nil against the Quakers, but their opposition for to-morrow's tussle is an entirely new aggregation from the previous season. The "Jags" executive have chosen the following players: Griffin, goal; McLeod and Miller, backs; Cameron, Scott and Bromley, halves; Lang, T. McPhate, Forest, Dawson and Burgess, forwards. Reserves, R. McPhate and Waddell.

This encounter will be a real issue because the Masseys intend holding the league position.

All players are requested to be at the pavilion no later than 2.45. The referee has been instructed to start on time.

WINS ON POINTS

LONDON, May 6 (Canadian Press). — Teddy Baldock, British bantam, last night defeated Archie Bell of New York in a 15-round bout, for what was looked upon as a sort of semi-final for the world's bantamweight championship. Baldock won on points.

WIND UP PLAY ON SATURDAY

Games Decide Clubs Going From Second To First Division.

SCHEDULE GIVEN.

LONDON, May 6 (Canadian Press Cable).—The Old Country soccer season winds up on Saturday with the only question yet to be decided, that of the identity of the club which will accompany Middlesborough from the Second to the First Division. Manchester City are tied in points with Portsmouth, with Chelsea one point behind, and it is the last game of the season which will be the deciding factor in determining the successful team. Both Portsmouth and Manchester City are playing on their home ground, the former engaging Preston North End the latter the divisional tail-enders, Bradford City. Manchester have the easier proposition. It is not unlikely that the problem will have to be solved by goal average, for should both teams win, it is the proportion of goals for and against that will establish the victor. Chelsea had a wonderful opportunity of getting out of their present company several weeks ago, but their indifferent game in the past month totally spoiled their chances, and it is highly unlikely that the Pensioners will manage to do better than secure fourth place. Of course, should Portsmouth and Manchester lose and Chelsea win, then the matter is settled, but the situation is not quite so simple as that.

In the First Division, Newcastle United are the champions, and the relegated teams are Leeds United and West Bromwich. Saturday's games are purely routine affairs and nothing is at stake. Nine contests will be played, that between Sunderland and Bolton Wanderers, scheduled for tomorrow, having been run off some time ago. Four clubs have already finished the season: Sunderland, Bolton, Everton and Burnley.

Schedule.

Sheffield United at Birmingham, Cardiff City at Blackburn, Derby County at Bury, Aston Villa at Huddersfield, Leeds United at The Wednesday, Arsenal at Tottenham, Manchester United at West Bromwich, and Liverpool at West Ham.

In the Third Division the past weeks have seen valiant efforts on the part of Plymouth Argyle to overtake Bristol City for the honor of advancement into the Second Division. Plymouth are running two points in rear of Bristol, and in midweek they overcame the divisional leaders by four goals to two. It is unlikely, however, that they can close the gap, and Bristol City may be considered the champions of the Southern Section. On Saturday they play Merthyr Town at home, and the Argyle entertain Luton Town.

Stoke City move up into the Second Division from the Northern section, while the teams dismissed from the Third Division are Barrow and Aberdare.

WILSON'S BACHELOR

QUALITY CLOTHING at POPULAR PRICES

Following our policy of selling the better class of Men's Wear at popular prices, we feature the following lines for Saturday buyers. Garments that we feel sure will give the utmost of satisfaction and service.

$35.00

Men's and Young Men's Two-Trouser Tweed Suits in the smartest summer patterns. The majority of these Suits are made in the "Bisley" double-breasted model so popular with the younger men this season. Some are half-lined and are patented with our "No-Bind" shoulder yoke. This is a seamless yoke, which will absolutely not bind across the shoulders or pull the coat off the neck, and being seamless and very thin on the edges, it does not show through back of coat.

Men's Pure Wool Sweater Coats $2.95

The popular "O.V." Cheviot Knitted Coat is made with V neck, 2 pockets and five buttons. "O.V." cheviot fabric is a soft medium-weight knitted cloth made from cheviot wools, selected for great comfort and long wear. "O.V." fabric is closely knitted, yet gives the utmost freedom and warmth without bulk. Six popular shades—fawn, oxford, light grey, brown mix, green heather and green lovat. Saturday, $2.95.

APPRECIATION

We wish to convey our thanks and appreciation to the many visitors to our Store during the past week, who have commented on and praised the appearance and general lay-out of our Store. We have tried in every way possible to arrange our place of business so that we may better serve the buyers of Men's Wear in Peterborough, and will from time to time add any new features which promise to better conditions in any way. We would like to bring to your attention once more the modern merchandising policy we have adopted—"BETTER CLOTHES AT POPULAR PRICES."

FIGHT TO FINISH BETWEEN CHAPLINS

Comedian's Lawyers Reject Proposal For Cash Settlement.

LOS ANGELES, May 6.— (Canadian Press.)—A fight to a finish between Charles Chaplin and his estranged wife, with the comedian's millions pitted against Mrs. Chaplin's sensational divorce charges, was presaged to-day after it had been made known that negotiations for a settlement involving $1,250,000 in cash had failed.

The settlement offer was made by Mrs. Chaplin's attorneys, but it was learned yesterday that it had been rejected by the scene actor's lawyers as "unjust and unreasonable."

PRODUCERS MUST KEEP QUALITY UP

Government Officials Say That Money For Advertising Wasted Otherwise.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 6.— Hon. James Malcolm, Minister of Trade and Commerce, who leaves shortly for Europe, will enquire into the manner in which Canada's products are being received in European markets, and into the means by which those products can be more effectively marketed.

A vote was passed at the last session of $100,000 to enable Canada to take better advantage of the Empire marketing scheme, but government officials are persuaded that any expenditure will be of little value unless Canadian producers and exporters can be induced to standardize their product and keep the quality of their exported farm and orchard products at the highest possible level.

Defective Shipment.

A British business representative this week informed the government of this need, recalled that Canada's exports of canned salmon to France were severely affected for some time because of one defective shipment. Fortunately these exports have since won their high place. British Columbia salmon now holding first place in France.

As to Canadian apples it is urged that there should be more standardization. It is complained that apples are shipped to Britain, with the Annapolis Valley the Ontario or the Okanagan label on them, when it is urged that it would be more advantageous simply to have a "produced in Canada" label, and bring them all up to a given standard.

Next session of parliament will probably see some government legislation to promote standardization of Canadian products for the export to various European countries.

FIRST SECTION OF THE CIRCUS IS ON THE WAY

Animals Are To Be Unloaded at C. N. R. Station To-morrow.

ELEPHANTS, TOO.

And Other Queer Beasts To Delight Hearts of the Juveniles.

"Hold your horses! The elephants are coming!"

Remember the thrill when the man seated alongside the driver of one of the biggest wagons in the circus parade used to grab his megaphone and broadcast the information that the mammoth beasts were on their way?

Well, they're really coming to Peterborough tomorrow.

Not only elephants, but a lot of other strange animals which are to be featured at the Boys' Week Circus next Tuesday and Wednesday.

They are due to be unloaded at the Canadian National Station at 3.30 tomorrow, and will be paraded to the Y.M.C.A., where they will be quartered until next Tuesday.

Every youngster in town will doubtless be out to get his first look at the Boy's Week menagerie and watch the first section of the Circus unload.

DAY AND NIGHT TO LOOK ALIKE

Lecturer Says Streets Will Be Brilliant At All Hours.

24 HOUR BUSINESS.

NEW YORK, May 6—A visitor to New York fifty years from now won't see much difference between noon and midnight, Harvey Wiley Corbett said yesterday in a talk on "The new architecture" in the Art-In-Trade Exposition at Macy's. His audience filled the big lecture hall at the show and laughed at his picture of future city life, while warmly applauding it.

Day and night will look alike because of improved means of lighting, in Mr. Corbett's opinion. Experiments already point to the generation of light from below in such luminous volume that streets and buildings will seem as bright when the sky is dark as when the sun shines. One effect of the new lighting, he thinks, will be to convert business into a twenty-four hour affair of six hour shifts, which will ease the present eight-hour strain and increase the sum of business efficiency.

Streets at that time will be given over wholly to vehicle traffic and there will be elevated walks for pedestrians. This will necessitate ground floor and upstairs entrances to all shops. People won't have to go to market for table supplies, for advances in radiography and television will enable the housewife to see what she is buying while remaining at home and deliveries of food will be almost automatic. Mr. Corbett said his forecast was not nearly as fantastic as the picture of actual present conditions would have seemed fifty years ago.

AGED MAN SUICIDES.

Family Difficulties Reason For Act of Edward Sayeau, Cardinal.

OBITUARY

MARY JANE EDMUNDS.
The death occurred on Thursday, May 5th, of Mary Jane Edmunds, daughter of the late Alexander Edmunds, 367 Rogers street.

The funeral will be held from Comstock's Funeral Home on Friday, May 6th. Interment will be made at the Little Lake cemetery with the Rev. Mr. Bousfield officiating.

LEWIS PARKER
One of the oldest residents of the Township of Harvey, County of Peterboro, in the person of Lewis Parker, passed peacefully to his eternal rest on Sunday, May 1st, at the ripe age of 83 years and 7 months.

The late Mr. Parker was born at Plymouth, County of Devonshire, England. He was educated in the boarding schools of England and emigrated to Canada with his parents in 1863 at the age of 19. He settled on lot 19 con. 15 Harvey, then largely in bush and with few roads. He married Miss Annie Tessie, and raised a family of eight sons and four daughters, all of whom survive him except his son, Alfred, who died in 1913. His wife died in 1915.

Mr. Parker was a staunch Conservative, and belonged to the Catholic Apostolic Church. He was reeve of Harvey in 1882 and a Justice of the Peace for the County of Peterboro for many years. As a Justice Mr. Parker always used his influence with intending suitors to settle their disputes out of Court, and generally he succeeded.

Left mourn his loss are seven sons, Lewis, Herbert, Charles, Barclay, and Edward of Candros, Sask., Stanley of New York City, and Henry B., reeve of Harvey, on the homestead, and four daughters, Mrs. Garber Hunter of Emily, Gertrude, graduate nurse of Montreal, Florence of Whitby and Ellen at home. One sister, living in England, also survives.

The funeral was held from his late residence Tuesday afternoon, May 3, to Verulam cemetery, the pall bearers being the Township Council and Township clerk of Harvey, Reeve H. B. Parker, Frederick Bennett, Hugh Given, Darius Hall, James Irwin and James McL. Oliver.

WATERS COVER LAND CHOSEN BY RESCUERS

Refugees Driven From Concentration Camps By Floods.

RIVER STILL RAGING.

Dozens of New Villages Are Engulfed as Floods Spread.

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 6.—(Canadian Press.)—The muddy torrents of the Mississippi still raced uncurbed over the Northern Louisiana lowlands to-day after having overrun more than five million acres of farm and swamp lands on their mad rush for the Gulf of Mexico. The spread over eleven Louisiana parishes continued.

Rayville had disappeared and an urgent appeal was made for boats to remove the residents from tree tops and the roofs of houses. Tallulah and Newelton were being invaded. Delta Point stood on the fringe of the tawny sheet. Dozens of smaller villages already had disappeared.

More than three hundred square miles had been covered by the Mississippi and its tributaries in Louisiana as the giant stream gathered its forces after their rampage over six other States.

Red Cross concentration camps were being cut off from their sources and the expanding muddy pool threatened to envelop them. Rescued persons became refugees again and gradually they were removed from Delhi to Monroe. Seventeen thousand refugees had been assembled at Delhi from the flooded area between Macon Ridge, Sicily Island and Oak Ridge. The town of St. Joseph was slowly disappearing. Motor boats and skiffs replaced expensive limousines in the aristocratic old river town.

AROUND THE CITY

At 2.17 p.m. yesterday the Fire Department received a call to 167 Charlotte street, where defective wiring in the building had caused a small blaze.

There will be a practise of the senior baseball team at Riverside Park to-morrow afternoon at 2.00 o'clock sharp. All members are requested to be present.

Kiwanis Juniors and Juveniles will practice tonight at King Edward School Grounds. Full turn out of players is requested.

IN MEMORIAM
DARCY. — In loving memory of Raymond Darcy, who died three years ago.
You are not forgotten, Raymond, dear.
Nor will you ever be
As long as life and memory,
We will remember thee.
—Inserted by his loving parents.

IN MEMORIAM.
NEWELL. — In loving memory of Margaret Newell, who died May 6, 1926:
The month of May again is here,
The saddest month of the year;
It is just one year ago to-day
Our dear one passed away.
In life we loved her dearly,
In death we do the same;
We oftentimes do think of her,
And wish her here again.
We think of her in silence,
No eyes may see us weep,
But many silent tears are shed
When others are asleep.
Happy were the hours we spent together,
Lonely are our hearts to-day,
For the one we loved so dearly
Has forever passed away.
In thought we see her dear sweet face,
And kiss her tender brow,
But in our aching heart we know
We have no Margaret now.
We loved her, yes, no tongue can tell
How deep, how dearly and how well,
Christ loved her too, and thought it best
To take her home with him to rest.

Couple Jump To Death From Speeding Motor Car

KALAMAZOO, Mich., May 6.—A suicide pact is blamed by police here for the death of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jacobs, of Kalamazoo, who jumped from their speeding automobile, one mile west of here last night. Mrs. Jacobs died a few seconds after she jumped, and her husband expired 15 minutes later in a local hospital.

The couple was estranged and Jacobs arranged a meeting with his wife to effect a reconciliation, friends say.

AMEISITE FOR RESURFACING IS PROPOSED

Aldermen Debate Virtues of This Material and Asphalt.

BOARD OF WORKS MEETS.

Decides on Chairman's Casting Vote To Recommend Asphalt.

Whether George street will be resurfaced with ameisite pavement or with asphalt was the subject of a heated discussion at the meeting of the Board of Works last night. Four aldermen voted for the ameisite and four for the asphalt, leaving it to Alderman Fife to give the deciding vote for the asphalt.

The tenders for the resurfacing of George street from the C.P.R. railway to Charlotte street; Aylmer street from Charlotte to Hunter, and Water street from Hunter to Brock, were opened at the meeting. The Warren Bituminous Paving company's price was $1.65 per square yard for asphalt and $1.85 for warrenite bitulithic, the Dufferin Construction Company $1.75 for asphalt and the Ontario Ameisite Limited, $163 for ameisite pavement.

Alderman Macdonald moved, seconded by Alderman McIntyre, that the contract be given to the Ontario Ameisite Limited, and Alderman Denne moved an amendment, seconded by Alderman Ackerman, that the contract be awarded to the Warren Company at its lower price.

Success Other Places.

The discussion was not so much on the difference in price but the aldermen who wanted the ameisite pavement thought that George street would be a good place to try it out in this city. Alderman Macdonald pointed out that it had been a success in Woodstock, Montreal and Gananoque and had been used for years in the United States. It is a cheaper pavement to put down and something that the city can lay itself, he said.

Alderman McIntyre was of the opinion that the city ought to get into the paving business and that this was a good opportunity to try out ameisite.

Alderman Denne was against the putting of ameisite on the main street as it might be a costly experiment, especially as the street was being resurfaced.

Alderman Macdonald asked the chairman why the Warrenite bitulithic was not being considered as that was the kind of pavement which the city has been recently laying.

Alderman Phelan: "For my part I am willing to support the Warrenite bitulithic; anything is better than ameisite."

Alderman Fife: "There is no motion to that effect."

Mayor Holloway said he would like to see some ameisite pavement laid in Peterborough, but he thought George street was not the place to try it out.

R. H. Parsons, City Engineer, on being asked what he suggested, said he would not consider ameisite.

A petition was presented, signed by many of the ratepayers on the part of George street which is to be resurfaced, and they asked for ameisite, but some of the alderman were of the opinion that the idea of the petition was that they wanted something done.

The vote was taken—

For the amendment—Aldermen Ackerman, Denne, and Phelan, and Mayor Holloway. Against the amendment—Macdonald, Stocker, McIntyre and Hancock. The vote for the motion was ust reversed. Aldermen Cotton and Greene were not present.

Alderman Fife, in voting for the amendment said he did so for several reasons. He would like to try ameisite out in this city on a street that was not being resurfaced, but that was being paved for the first time so it would get a fair test. He thought it might be a rather expensive trial on George street and that the engineer who ought to be an authority on the matter, was against ameisite for this street.

The council decided to attend the parade for the opening of Boys' Week on Tuesday night at 6.30.

Too Cold For Oil.

Residents of Monaghan Road petitioned the Board to have that street oiled. Alderman McIntyre wanted to know why oiling had not been started, even if it did cost a little more to do at this time of year.

Mr. Parsons said that even if it were possible to get the oil on the streets in this weather it would only lie on the top and be picked up by the tires of cars. The Board has one car of oil in the tank and another one on order, and the oiling will start as soon as the weather permits.

Mr. Parsons was given instructions to commence work immediately on the new sewer on the Provincial Highway, at the end of Charlotte street. The Dufferin Construction Company is ready to commence work on resurfacing the Highway, and is anxious to start at Charlotte street, so it is important that the city get this sewer laid at once.

Floods In Manitoba Are Moving Eastward

WINNIPEG, May 7 (Canadian Press).—Flood waters of the Assiniboine are moving eastward from Brandon, Man., according to reports received here early Friday morning.

Districts east of Portage La Prairie, which is 60 miles west of Winnipeg, report the Assiniboine over its banks, and steadily rising.

The districts of Elie, Marquette and Poplar Point all report inundation of lowlands, while at Headingly, 12 miles west of here, a higher level was reported.

UNITED ACTION IS DEMANDED

LODGE PROTEST.

WASHINGTON, May 7 (Canadian Press.—"Strong, courageous and united action" to secure a continuation of the present border immigration arrangement pending an international conference, was demanded by a delegation from the Border Cities of Ontario, which presented a brief to Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian Minister here yesterday.

The delegation recommended reprisals by the Canadian government against foreign-born citizens of the United States employed in Canada in the event that no agreement is reached.

E. G. Odette, Liberal member of parliament for East Essex; Mayor Jackson of Windsor; Mayor Daniels of Walkerville, and others comprised the delegation, which lodged a protest against the recent ruling of the United States immigration authorities which would restrict all but native born Canadians from crossing and recrossing the border daily to and from their work.

Urge Rights Under Treaties

The delegation urged that the "rights of His Majesty's subjects under the Jay Treaty or other treaties" be settled once and for all. If Canadian citizens born in the British Isles or foreign countries have no right, the delegation emphasized the need of an international reciprocal agreement placing both born and naturalized Canadians in a favored position.

Should no reciprocal arrangement be reached by international negotiations or other means and the new United States ruling goes into effect within the next six months, the delegation favored the passing of similar restrictions by the Dominion which would deny the right of all but American-born citizens from entering Canada. American-born citizens would be treated the same as Canadian-born citizens working in the United States; they would have to secure a visa and pay a head tax. All employes possible of United States branches would be deported. The delegation recommended this action under the alien contract labor clause.

Affect Large Number

The delegation submitted that the ruling will debar at least five thousand Canadian residents from working on their present positions in the United States side of the border; that all except 500 are British born, recognized as Canadians; that with their dependents they represent 14,000 people who will be deprived of a means of livelihood; and that about five thousand Canadian-born will become subject to the inconvenience and expense of obtaining an immigration visa and paying head tax.

Justus Miller, head of the Border Chambers of Commerce, told The Canadian Press: "It is all a question of interpretation of the law. If the rights of Canadian residents who happen to be born elsewhere are not debatable, why have they been permitted to cross the border daily since July 1, 1924, when the United States law went into effect? There is therefore, no excuse for abitrary application of these regulations without reference to the views of Canada. The Detroit Federation of Labor makes no secret that they demanded these restrictions; the rest of the United States cares little one way or another. If the regulations are arbitrarily enforced, it will undoubtedly lead to ill feeling and perhaps a regrettable diminution of the good relations between the communities on both sides of the Detroit River."

EXPLOSION CAUSE STILL UNKNOWN

Efforts Made To Probe Accident Which Killed Seven People.

NEW YORK, May 7. — (Canadian Press.)—Efforts were being made today to discover the cause of the explosion that wrecked the Yellow Taxi Cab Company's two storey concrete building in East 23rd street yesterday, killing seven persons and injuring eighteen, some seriously.

Seven persons, two girl stenographers and five men, were crushed to death or drowned in the basement, which had filled with water from a main that burst under the weight of the debris.

SNYDER MURDER CASE WILL GO TO THE JURY ON MONDAY NEXT

Hundreds Throng Court Room To Hear Finish of Case.

GRAY IS OUTSPOKEN.

Lawyers Fail To Shake Story of Part in the Attack.

NEW YORK, May 7. — Canadian Press. — Henry Judd Gray the little corset salesman who contends he participated in a murder under the dominance of his paramour's mind, staggered from the witness chair in the Snyder-Gray murder trial yesterday with "I've told you the truth," as the final sentence of 17 hours of testimony.

He surrendered the chair to the first of six character witnesses who vouched for his truth and veracity. There followed 15 minutes of rebuttal and the testimony of the case was complete.

"The defendants will retire," commanded Justice Townsend Scudder. Tears in his eyes, but his head erect, Gray reeled back to his cell under guard. Mrs. Ruth Snyder, the Queen's Village housewife, who testified that Gray killed her husband against her wishes and then tried to fasten the crime on her, marched stoically out behind him, pale but haughty, beside a police matron. Gray's mother and sister, both crying, were escorted to Gray's cell.

Counsel for the state and for the severed defence, conferred with Judge Scudder, and court was adjourned until Monday. Summations will begin then. Counsel for both agreed that the jury be given the case late Monday.

The crowd yesterday filed out reluctantly, expressing sympathy for Gray., whose demeanor and testimony, which included a demonstration and dramatic recital of the attack on Snyder, seemed to have caught the rays of limelight that usually fall upon "the woman in the case."

17 Hours on Stand.

Of the 17 hours Gray was on the stand, seven were spent under the lash of a dual cross-examination. When Dana Wallace, of Mrs. Snyder's counsel, ended his six hours of cross examination yesterday District Attorney Richard Newcombe took over the witness. His half hour of questioning, like that of Wallace, did not cause Gray materially to change his story.

He had testified directly for ten hours that Mrs. Snyder planned to kill her husband, insinuated the idea into his head when he was stupified by drink, and debilitated by satiation, and then, when her mind gained ascendency over him in an occult manner he could not explain, led him by the hand to the side of her sleeping husband where he began the attack that ended in Albert Snyder's death.

Stuck to Story.

Under cross examination he admitted that he might be mistaken "within a week" about some dates of lesser importance, and he altered his testimony here and there where, he said, he believed his memory had lapsed, but in the main he stuck to his story, through sarcasm, belittlement and the charge that he "left the Snyder home after the murder and deserted the woman you say you loved in her hour of need."

To that sentence, Gray replied: "I left the house, Mr. Wallace, if that's what you mean."

Gray had testified that he was an automaton, strangely moving in a world of whiskey, intrigue and bedroom murder plots, a tender-hearted fellow with no grudge to acquit, and no venomous thoughts, lured into an act he reprehended while he contemplated it, solely by the magnetism" of Mrs. Snyder.

"So after telling us all that," Wallace shouted "you went, on March 7, the day for which the murder was first set, to your office and bought five of your firm's shares?"

Gray replied that he had done that and he denied that he had counted on the murder to provide him with money to "buy deeper into his firm."

"If you didn't attack Albert Snyder for his insurance, why did you agree to help kill him?"

"That," Gray answered, 'is what I would like to know."

FRENCH FLIERS READY FOR HOP

Will Leave Paris For New York To-morrow if Weather Right.

PLANE PREPARED.

PARIS, May 7. Canadian Press.—Captains Nungesser and Coli are ready to take the air to-morrow before dawn on their Paris to New York flight, if the expected improvement in the weather conditions over the Atlantic is confirmed by the final assemblage of meteorological data at midnight.

Their plane ,the "White Bird," is in readiness at the Le Bourget flying field with the last gallon of gasoline in the tanks.

Italy Cuts Salaries Of All State Employees As Cost Of Living Falls With Rise of Lira

ROME, May 7—A general downward revision in the wages of all civil, military and State employes, including railwaymen and the clergy, who in Italy are paid by the State, was decreed by a Cabinet council held to-day, in order to keep pace with the gradually falling cost of living as a consequence of the revaluation of the lira. The reductions decreed, which are to be applied according to a sliding scale, range from 100 per cent. of the increase granted in April, 1925, in the case of the highest paid employe, to 30 per cent. of that same increase in the case of the most poorly paid ones.

At the same time, the Cabinet decided to decrease freight charges on State railroads by 15 per cent. for all goods destined for export, and voted other substantial reductions ranging from 12 to 25 per cent. in freight rates for certain specified classes of goods. Finally, the Cabinet approved a slight reduction in some postal rates and a reduction of 20 per cent. on "urgent" telephone rates.

These latter reductions, an official communique points out, represent a considerable loss for the State. They should act, it is indicated, as an example to manufacturers, merchants, agriculturists and retailers in spurring them to lower their production costs and their retail prices to keep pace with increased purchasing power of the lira. In view of the revaluation of the lira, also, the Cabinet decided to introduce legislation to check speculation in dwellings.

Aocording to official figures read during the Cabinet council wholesale prices have fallen in Italy from a maximum in August last year of seven times the pre-war level to only five and one-half times the pre-war average in April this year. Retail prices have not fallen so rapidly, but substantial decreases have been effected, especially in certain commodities. Thus, the price of eggs has decreased 550 per cent.; of rozen meat, 30 per cent.; bread, 27 per cent.; butter, 20 per cent., and meat 15 per cent.

FUTURE OF DOMINION RESTS WITH PEOPLE SAYS BISHOP

His Lordship Bishop O'Brien Addresses Underwriters and Kiwanians.

"WE BUILD" GOOD MOTTO.

History of Canada Discussed and Glorious Future Prophesied.

Adoption of the Kiwanis motto, "We Build," as the policy to be pursued by the people of Canada, was advised by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, when he addressed a joint meeting of the Underwriters' Association and the Kiwanis Club at the Empress Hotel last night.

His Lordship dealt first with the events leading up to Confederation. In 1759 the British captured Canada, and received it by the treaty of 1763. At that time there was no Ontario and many English were unconcerned with their new possession, but the clever men saw the possibilities of the Dominion. In 1774 the Quebec Act was passed, guaranteeing to the inhabitants their religion and laws.

Canada's next great advance was made after the American Revolution. Before that time the Canadians had neither representative government or taxation. Twenty-eight thousand Loyalists came from the United States and settled in many parts of the country. As a result the Canada Act was passed, dividing Canada into two provinces.

In these provinces the people had a voice in choosing the assembly, but not in selecting the executives. The clergy reserves, lands left for the support of the church, gave trouble, as there were disputes as to what denominations were entitled to a share in it. Attempts to form an aristocracy or nobility in Canada also failed.

War Brings Unity..

The war of 1812-14 served to unite the two races in the colony and began the development of a national feeling. The United States declared war on Britain, which was occupied with war with France and invaded Canada. One country had a population of 7,250,000, the other had 560,000, but the Canadians, though badly outnumbered, repulsed the invaders.

At this point the speaker made a plea for more study of Canadian History, saying the people do not know the battles of the early days of the country.

The settlers still had their grievances. There were despites over the Shatters Window in Train Bearing Yorks To Canberra.

NO PERSON INJURED.

ALBURY, New South Wales, May 7 (Canadian Press) — A window in the train bearing the Duke and Duchess of York to Canberra for the opening of the new Australian capital was shattered by a stone to-day. The coach struck was the third one behind that in which royal party was seated. No one was injured. The authorities are investigating.

MAN GETS ALIMONY

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 7—Years ago, Judge Thomas Graham announced that $50 a blow would be the assessment for wife beating. Now he has decided the rule works both ways. When J. M. Mulready received a divorce from his wife Judge Graham awarded him alimony of $450 and $750 for beatings she gave him.

If Husbands Had To Help Do Washing, Says Speaker Home Washing Machine Would Become Relic Of Past

DES MOINES, Iowa, May 7 (United Press)—The American housewife is burdened with millions of tons of dirty clothing every Monday and must hang the cleaned clothes on 500,000 miles of clothes lines, Mrs. Phoebe K. Warner, Educational Director of the Texas Wheat Growers' Association, told the Four States Laundrymen's Association.

Men should be enlisted ot aid in disposing of the collection of dirty clothing, she said.

Once husbands are forced to help with the washing the home washing machine will become a thing of the past, a relic of torture of bygone days, she said.

In addition to the prodigious amount of work, Mrs. Warner said that home laundry work was the greatest pneumonia breeder in the world.

COST OF SENDING BEER TO U. S. TOO HIGH, SAYS CARLING HEAD

Movement Not Profitable Vice-President of Brewery Tells Commission.

CONCLUDE SESSION.

Will Reconvene in Hamilton Court House on Monday Morning.

WINDSOR, Ont., May 7 (By Canadian Press).—Sittings of the Royal Customs Commission in Windsor concluded yesterday afternoon. While Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., Commission counsel, did not ask the Commission to make any findings and recommendations based on the evidence taken, he stated that he would have some submissions to make later. Owing to the pressure of the sittings here, he had not been able to formulate them as yet, he said. He announced that the border cities Chamber of Commerce had informed him that it had no knowledge of commercial smuggling here. The commission moves to Hamilton where sittings will open in the court house on Monday morning.

Examination of Harry Lowe, vice-president of the Carling Brewing and Malting Company, with respect to the alleged "camouflaging" and "switching" of beer laden cars so that they can make their way into the United States, occupied a large part of the final afternoon sitting. Mr. Lowe admitted that he had consulted two railway yard officials with a view to finding out how cars of beer could be moved into the United States, but he insisted that he had never moved any cars. He had come to the conclusion that the process of bribery which, he claimed, had been outlined to him by one of these officials, was too expensive to make the movement profitable. He said that if he had discovered that the move had been accomplished legally and without too much cost, he might have gone into it.

Did Not Appear.

A. F. Healy, former member (Federal) for North Essex, who figured in evidence given Thursday by James Cooper, Walkerville liquor exporter, did not appear before the Commission yesterday. At the close of the afternoon sitting, Hon. N. W. Rowell informed the Commission that he had notified Mr. Healy that this was the last day of sitting in Windsor, and that any evidence which he wished to give would be heard. Mr. Rowell also said that he had sent Mr. Healy a copy of the evidence given by Mr. Cooper.

"You are aware that cars laden with beer were 'switched' and sent through as milk, canned goods, scrap paper and sugar," Mr. Rowell said to Harry Lowe when this witness took the stand.

"How did tha happen."

"I can't tell you," replied Mr. Lowe. Mr. Rowell produced bills of lading covering certain of these cars.

The Carling Brewery, he said, had shipped a car of beer care of the team track at Walkerville. "I find that car went to Detroit or some point west. Can you tell me anything about it?" asked counsel.

"No," was the reply.

"Well, here's another. Is that your signature?" asked Mr. Rowell, showing the witness a document.

"Yes."

"That was a car of beer shipped by the Carling Brewing and Malting Company and receipted for by you?"

"Yes."

"Now that car of beer went out on the same day as it came in, as a car of sugar. It was sealed with both Canadian and American seals. How do you explain that?"

"I can't explain it at all. If the car came in here, it was unloaded here."

"Who sent it out as sugar?"

"I can't tell you at all."

Has No Records.

Mr. Rowell endeavored to find out if Mr. Lowe had some office records which would permit him to trace that car of beer. The witness said he had not.

"Did you ever hear any complaints that your cars were being switched?" asked counsel.

"Yes, one car of paper."

"That was seized," interjected Commissioner Wright.

"Did you make claim against the C.P.R. in connection with that car?"

"No."

"Why?"

"Because we didn't own the beer" was the reply.

Mr. Lowe said that the car in question had been sold to a Detroit purchaser called C. P. Grandy. Grandy, he believed, had consulted W. M. Egan, former Windsor lawyer, with a view to having the car released.

Consulted Railwayman.

Mr. Rowell asked the witness whether or not he had interviewed certain railway officials with a view to "establishing a connection along the New York Central."

Mr. Lowe told of consulting former C.P.R. yardmaster Hawker, of Windsor, on this point. He had read in the newspapers that cars of beer were getting into the United States, and he wanted to find out how it was done.

Plan To "Rejuvenate" Houses Of Parliament

LONDON, May 7 (United Press) — More than $15,000,000 will be spent in rejuvenating the House of Parliament if the plan of all crafts of the building trades presented to the government here recently is adopted.

A deputation representing the building trades recently, called upon Lord Peel, first commissioner of public works, and presented the plan which calls for refacing the entire fabric of the parliament building. Under the plan the stonework, now seriously decaying, would be entirely restored.

LOCAL BATTERY IN THIRD PLACE

Wins Prize For Condition of Equipment—140 Points Secured.

NO SHORTAGE FOUND.

Honor has come to the 4th (Peterborough) Battery, Canadian Field Artillery through the award of third place in the Dominion for accountantship and equipment. The Battery is commanded by Major D. J. Lawrie, and the equipment is kept by Corporal J. E. Nixon of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps.

The award is in the Canadian Artillery Association Competition, and so high a placing reflects great credit on those responsible for the Battery and equipment. Pull marks were given here for condition of harness, and absence of shortages, and a total was obtained of 140 out of a possible 150.

There were 26 Batteries in the Kingston Armament Area with lower marks than Major Lawrie's unit.

FIRE DESTROYS BIG WAREHOUSES

Paper Firms Sustain Severe Loss To-day at Kipawa.

KIPAWA, Que., May 7 (Canadian Press).—Fire early to-day destroyed the warehouses, with all contents, of the Riordon and J. R. Booth Companies at this town. The steamer "Silverland," which was docked nearby, was also burned. Three members of the steamer's crew had a narrow escape from burning, being forced to leap to safety. Damage to the "Silverland" is estimated at $40,000, with about $35,000 damage to the warehouses.

LENGLEN BANDS ABANDONED

Women tennis players of Europe are discarding the Lenglen bandeau, which has been so popular. Berets of dark blue that appeared on the courts of Nice during the winter seasons are becoming the vogue, for women say they are much more comfortable than the tight Lenglen band, and as they may be worn slightly on the side they are much more becoming.

GAUGES SHOW RISE AS WATER GATHERS AGAIN

Streams and Pools All Emptying Into Main Channel Once More.

CREST PASSES SOUTH.

Still 400 Miles in Which To Do Damage, Says Hoover.

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 7 (Canadian Press).—With 330,000 persons north of the Red and Old Rivers already either driven from their homes or compelled to seek refuge on the upper floors or tops of buildings the beginning of the end of the greatest flood in the history of the Mississippi Valley was felt below the mouths of those rivers today.

Climbing gauges as the muddy current moved relentlessly toward the levee tops brought renewed efforts from thousands of levee workers who have been laboring for three weeks to rear the embankments to a sufficient height to withstand the predicted crest.

Rise Along River

The gauge at New Orleans remained stationary but between the Crescent City and the mouth of the Red River consistent rises were shown indicating that the waters which have been running free over the lowlands were returning to the main stream.

The water was rising rapidly at the head of the Atchafalaya Basin and engineers directed the activities of workmen to the levee line along that stretch. The dikes along the south bank of the Bayou des Glaises and along the south side of the Old River will be seriously threatened as the inland sea, freed by crevasses in the main stream above, moves upon them to pass down the Mississippi.

Four Sources of Torrents

Four different sources were sending torrents into this basin. The Red River, from the west, was assaulting the protecting embankments with the greatest flood in its history, the crest of which was approaching Alexendria. The Ouachita from the north attacked with another huge volume of water. Overland, pools were coming from the Arkansas River, with still others streaming from the crevasses in the Mississippi.

Ten thousand, nine hundred square miles of teritory already have been flooded, driving 180,000 persons from their homes and 150,000 more to refuge in the upper floors. Secretary Hoover estimated in a statement issued at Vicksburg as he returned to the water devastated district.

The crest of the flood was just passing Vicksburg and had 400 miles to go before exhausting its power of destruction, Secretary Hoover said.

GREAT TIE-UP TO BROADCAST JUBILEE BILLS

Sound Will Be Sent Round the World on Dominion Day.

KING'S MESSAGE, TOO.

Beam System To Connect the Broadcasting Stations in Various Countries.

OTTAWA, May 7. — The greatest radio "tie-up" ever attempted and the longest remote broadcasting yet undertaken will be two epoch-marking features of the celebration next July of the Diamond Jubilee of Canada's Confederation.

A committee of experts is now working out plans whereby practically the whole world will be able to hear, by radio, the ringing of the new carilon bells in the Peace Tower of the Canadian Parliament Buildings here, and the message of his Majesty the King spoken in London in reply to the playing of the National Anthem.

The sound of the bells will be relayed by telephone to Drummondville, Quebec, thence across the Atlantic by Marconi beam, to be picked up at the English receiving station, and sent on by telephone to London for distribution by radio throughoouut Great Britain and Europe. The King's message to Canada will follow the same route reversed.

From London to Vancouver is one-third round the world, yet from the time his Majsety speaks until his voice is heard on the Pacific Coast only 3-100ths of a second will elapse. If the Australian Marconi beam is completed in time the King's message received at Yamaska and relayed to Drummondville will be heard at Canberra at practically the same moment as it is uttered in London.

ROOSTER ATTACKS CHILD

ORANGE, N.J., May 7 — While little Eulale Prell was gathering eggs in a chicken house a large rooster attacked her viciously. A spur of the bird was driven into her face and an operation was necessary for its removal.

MANY TRAPPED IN HOMES BY FLOOD WATERS

Rescue Parties Concentrating Efforts To Searching Out Remote Places.

TOWNS THREATENED.

Engineers Adopt Policy of Watchful Waiting Along River Levees.

NEW ORLEANS, May 7 (Canadian Press).—While a thrilling drama of life-saving was unfolding across inundated northeastern Louisiana yesterday, engineers directing the forces combatting the Mississippi flood adopted a policy of watchful waiting along wide fronts where danger is likely to developed as the crest moves on to the Gulf.

Serious situation were reported in some of the flooded sections of the huge funnel between the Mississippi and the Ouachita Rivers, but the relief machine was straining every nerve to prevent any serious loss of life.

Reports received here from many sections of the flood area were that hundreds of persons in remote places were trapped in their homes. The task of searching them out and taking them to safety was the one upon which the rescue squadron concentrated. Several thousands are reported on Macon Ridge, which probably soon will be swallowed up by the rushing flood waters, but officials expressed confidence that all of them could be removed before their refuge could be inundated.

With nearly a score of towns already flooded, others were threatened with serious damage. Water in Tallulah was three feet deep and rising rapidly, while there were two or three feet in Rayfield.

Conscript Men for Work

South of Alexandria, where a threatening situation is being developed by the rising tide in the Red River, more than 100 idle men literally have been conscripted by the courts for levee work and plantation owners have been sending large forces from their fields to the danger points.

There were no reports of any additional crevasses along the Mississippi nor were any danger points detected by the workers and guards who are on watch over long stretches of the embankment.

An increasing feeling of security was noticeable in New Orleans as a result of the forecast by Dr. I. M. Cline, weather bureau meteorologist, that the river would not rise above 21 feet even if all levees between here and Baton Rouge hold. This is several feet below flood stage.

BYRD TO FOREGO OCEAN TRIP

Is Unable To Replace Injured Floyd Bennett, His Pilot.

NEW YORK, May 7.— (Canadian Press.)—Unable to find a satisfactory pilot to replace the injured Floyd Bennett, Commander Richard E. Byrd probably will forgo his planned non-stop flight from New York to Paris this spring, the New York Herald-Tribune said yesterday.

Bennett has been in a Hackensack, N.J., hospital, since he was hurt April 16, when the Fokker monoplane America, in which he and Commander Byrd hoped to cross the Atlantic, upset in landing at Hasbrouck heights, N.J.

It is believed he will be unable to fly for several months.

Commander Byrd is said to be consequently giving his attention to plans for a South Pole flight next September. Captain Roald Amundsen has urged such a flight and given him data from the Amunsden land explorations in the south polar region.

Berlin Critics Applaud English Cellist's Solo

BERLIN, May 7 (Associated Press).—Beatrice Harrison, an English cellist, brought a new note into the traditional concert program of Berlin by rendering, for the first time in Germany, Edward Elgar's cello concerto to the accompaniment of the Philharmonic orchestra.

Elgar is comparatively little known in Germany, and Miss Harrison's number attracted all the leading critics to the concert, where the work as well as the soloist were warmly applauded.

FIVE KILLED IN EXPLOSION

Mysterious Explosion Wrecks Two-Storey Building in New York.

FORTY ARE INJURED.

NEW YORK, May 7.— (Canadian Press.)— Five men were killed and forty persons injured yesterday in a mysterious explosion that blew out the walls of a two-storey building on East Twenty Third Street near the East River.

The explosion broke a water main that flooded the basement of the building.

The bodies of the victims were dug out of the wreckage and water in the basement, where the men had been precipitated when the first floor caved in.

Of the injured, 17 were so badly hurt that they required hospital attention. Six were discharged after receiving first aid.

MAN'S WOUNDING GREAT MYSTERY

Mount Forest Man Found With Bullet in His Skull.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., May 7.—An element of mystery surrounds the shooting of John Lambert, of Mount Forest, who is lyingg unconscious in the hospital here with a bullet lodged in his skull. Lambert was seen yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock staggering into the yard of James Foster, a resident in the north end of the city, where he collapsed. The police were at once notified, and he was removed to the hospital, but up till late Thursday night no weapon had been located, nor had anyone come forward with any information as to the shooting itself.

Lambert, who is well known in the Mount Forest district, arrived in Owen Sound by train Thursday morning carrying no personal effects with only a few dollars cash in his pocket. About four o'clock in the afternoon he was seen by Mrs. J. Malloy walking unsteadily from the lake front, his clothes wet and clinging to his body, and evidently in need of assistance. Before she could reach him, however, he had entered the yard of her next door neighbor, James Foster, where he fell unconscious to the ground. He was bleeding from a wound in the head, and on examination at the hospital, it was found that a bullet was lodged in the skull in such a way as to prevent the possibility of removal without still further endangering his life. His condition is critical.

After a preliminary investigation the police authorities refused to vouchsafe any theory to account for the shooting, and unless Lambert recovers consciousness it is thought possible that the circumstances surrounding it may never be known. Lambert was an Englishman, who had been adopted and brought up by Mr. and Mrs. William Brown, Mount Forest. He was about thirty-five years of age, and for some time has been working in the district as a farm laborer.

Revolver Found

Police officers early today found the revolver from which was discharged the bullet which lodged in the centre of John Lambert's skull ... ing. The police are of the opinion that Lambert's wound was self inflicted and that he stood in the water of the bay and fired the shot into his head, then dropped the revolver where it was found.

Lambert, who came here from ... yesterday, is in the General and Marine Hospital, and has not sufficiently recovered to make a statement.

An Ex-Buck Private Goes Back to France

We see Again the "40 Hommes-8 Chevaux"—Eu' from the Outside.

Dear Mac:

I am Paris-bound—WE are Paris-bound, for I'm going to take you right along with me!

The click of the wheels of these first-class compartment coaches is little short of musical. On the sidings you see the French box-cars—"Chevaux 8; Hommes 40"—and smile. Maybe you fought for breath with about sixty other sweating or freezing soldiers in one of those self-same story-book freight cars. Perhaps you came down from Salisbury Plain through England and landed at St. Nazaire. Or perhaps you came from around Folkestone and hiked up that cliff at Le Havre, with the perspiration trickling down the back of your ears. Regardless, you knew the "40 hommes and 8 chevaux," and intimately, too. They haven't changed a bit. As fit to contain two score men as the Black Hole was to entertain its unwilling guests. There were always half a dozen more to be piled in at the last minute, with the Plimsoll mark lost to view. We lay on and under each other, snarled and snapped and sometimes fought, throughout the long nights of shunting and bumping. Periodically the lower stratum would revolt and the whole mass of miserable humanity unheave, thrusting underfoot, among muddy equipment, fragments of rations, coal dust, and what was once straw, those who had too long been top-dog. Happier he who marched a score of miles than the traveller of half that number in a box-car on the chemin de fer.

How comfy it is to see them from the outside, as we roll along in our upholstered seat!

No uniforms greet the eye. The "Aussies" with their independent swagger air have left the scene. The blue of the Poilu is gone. It is no longer necessary to guard the bridges and track. Here and there you spot a villager with an army tunic. There are no gangs of "P.G.'s" (Prisonier de Guerre, if you've forgotten). But all along the road the scenes are strikingly familiar. The stone houses, the fields, the peasants working, the high-wheeled carts. Surely things haven't changed very much. There's a youngster clattering along a cobbled street of a town in his wooden shoes and his smock, carrying a pail; probably on his way to the epicerie to get some fromage. There's a white-bonneted old lady gossiping at the village well with a neighbor. It hardly seems possible that a few years ago this land was the scene of the world's most sanguinary conflict.

The train clicks on. It's like a dream—a dream that's coming true. You kick yourself to see if you're awake—if it's all real. Then you look out the window at the flitting landscape. And two signs meet your eyes:

THE LAST SHALL BE FIRST

...e American memorial, designed for a huge rock jutting 60 feet out of the water at St. Nazaire. The doughboys first saw France here on June 26, 1917—Canada landed at St. Nazaire in February, 1915.

"Toot-Toot" of of Little Horns Still Sounds Chemin de Fer

"CHOCOLAT MENIER"
"HEINZ—57 VARIETIES"

Ah! There's the evidence. Now you know you're in France.

The conductor comes through for the tickets, his satchel bouncing at his hip. These conductors used to have a very difficult time trying to collect fares from Canadian soldats who were simply riding on a pass and not going anywhere in particular, so long as it was away from the line.

On the ledge of the car window is a sign, "Il est dangereux de se pencher en dehors," which is the French way of saying, "Pull in your neck." And on the window of the compartment another, "Non fumeurs." You can't smoke, but you do.

And now, Mac, I'm back to eats again. Dinner on the swaying diner is excellent, served by black-frocked waitresses. And not expensive—25 francs. Now a franc is—let's see—it used to be 5.20 for a dollar—now it's 25 for a dollar—that means that a hundred-franc note is only worth four dollars when it used to be worth almost $20.

Darkness has fallen. Lights gleam. The train slows down. A shout, "Par-ee! Par-ee!"

The cars clank and groan. Brakes grind. The station is brilliantly lighted (once upon a time it wasn't). Blue-clad porters rush you. Baggage is passed out of the windows. The fishhorns of the taxicab drivers — and you begin to try to recall the French words you knew during the war . . . "Combien . . . Promenade" . . . Oh! It's a thrill.

And on my first night back in Paris you can't expect me to write much of a letter. Pootate tomorrow, apres cafe with a strong lacing of cognac. Bon soir!

Profiteering Grocers Advertised In France

PARIS, May 7. — Profiteering grocers are being punished in a new way by the Paris police who forbid them to make their usual sidewalk display of goods for varying periods.

Excessive profits on staples, running up to 70 per cent., have been proved in many cases by a special cost-of-living commission over which the Prefect of Police himself presides. When sentencing offenders to withdraw their wares from the sidewalk, the Prefect tells them: "Your customers will know why you have no display and they will know they will do well not to patronize you."

TITLE CHANGE FOR GOVERNOR

King May Make Him Viceroy in Dominion Day Message.

FOLLOWS CONFERENCE.

OTTAWA, May 6. — Announcement may be made on the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation of a change in the ... and status of Viscount Willingdon. After July 1st His Excellency may assume the title of Viceroy, or the King's representative in Canada. Since the recent Imperial Conference the title of the Sovereign has been changed by the British parliament so that His Majesty is now King of Canada. It was as King of Canada that he gave Hon Vincent Massey his credentials as Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Washington. Premier Hertzog announced in South Africa this week that henceforth the Governor General of that country would be known as the King's representative.

It is anticipated in Ottawa that the change to Lord Willingdon's title may possibly be announced in a message from His Majesty on July 1.

The United Kingdom is expected to send a High Commisioner to Canada in the near future and some definite word regarding this may be looked for soon.

SPORT QUESTION BRINGS DIVISION

Prince of Wales and Prince Henry at Odds Over Question.

LONDON, May 7 (Canadian Press). —George Bernard Shaw stands revealed as a stirrer of trouble in the British royal family, unveiling what he alleges to be different conceptions of sportsmanship, as between two royal princes.

Prince Henry, whose favorite sport is the chase, had, in an address at the Royal Academy banquet Saturday evening, extolled the prowess of the early hunters, to which ancient pictorial examples testified, and regretted that "the paths of the artist and the hunters had since so far diverged."

Princes at Odds.

G. B. S. writes to the papers: "There is dissension in the royal family. Prince Henry's proclamation that every artist should be a sportsman was promptly countered by the Prince of Wales' public refusal to attend a great bull fight in Spain. I think Prince Henry must have meant that every sportsman should be an artist. He was probably nervous, and put the boot on the wrong foot.

"Certainly an artist who paints a bird in its living colors or stalks a living elephant or rhinoceros in his lair with a deadly camera, is a thousand times a better sportsman than the malignant idiot who shoots them and gets photographed sitting on the corpse."

Unmarried Parents Act Applies When Child Is Stillborn.

TORONTO, May 6.—In dismissing the appeal of Claude Moroughan from the decision of the County Court Judge of Frontenac, requiring him to pay $1,117.55 under the Unmarried Parents' Act, the Second Divisional Court determines a point for which there is no precedent and holds that the Act applies even where the child is still born.

FRENCH FLIER STILL MISSING ON OCEAN HOP

Anxiety Felt Over Silence From Captain Saint Roman's Plane.

CARRIED NO PONTOONS.

Possibility Advanced May Have Made Forced Landing on Coast.

RIO JANEIRO, Brazil, May 7 (Associateh Press).—As the hours wore on, anxiety increased here yesterday over the safety of Capt. Saint Roman, French aviator who has not been heard from since one o'clock yesterday morning when he reported his position by radio as 120 miles off the Brazilian coast on his attempted trans-Atlantic hop from the African mainland. Apprehension was increased by report that the plane left Africa without pontoons for alighting on the water.

The possibility was advanced, however, of a forced landing at some isolated spot on the coast. In such a case the wireless apparatus on the plane might be put out of commission, accounting for the inability of radio men here to communicate further with the aviator.

FRANCE TO CUT ARMY ON RHINE

Reduction of French Force of Occupation Is Likely.

EXPECTING REQUEST.

PARIS, May 7.—(Canadian Press.) —A reduction in the French force of occupation in the Rhineland is likely to be made soon, it was indicated in Paris diplomatic circles yesterday.

The French government is expecting a request for a reduction from Berlin any day and is understood to be ready to comply in consideration of compensation in the way of further guarantees concerning the security of France and her allies.

The understanding in Paris is that Berlin, realizing the impossibility of obtaining complete evacuation, will be satisfied with an important reduction in the occupation forces.

OBITUARY

REV. J. W. TOTTE...

TOTTENHAM, Ont., May 7.— In the death of Rev. John Willoughby Totten on Tuesday, this community has lost one of its oldest residents. Deceased was born here in 1844. He spent three years at Victoria College, Cobourg. In 1869 he was ordained to the Methodist minstry, and soon after married Charlotte Rebecca Burke of Cobourg. Mr. Totten's ministry was spent in the Toronto and Bay of Quinte conferences, on the following circuits, Edwardsburg, Angus, Rosemont, Bond Head, Stroud, Thornhill Markham, Oshawa, Cannington Lindsay (Queen Street), Warkworth Tweed, Claremont, Scugog and Prince Albert. He is survived by his widow, one son, Dr. E. A. Totten, of Port Hope, and three daughters.

OLD MASTERS

Much have I traveled in the realms of gold,
And many goodly states and kingdoms seen;
Round many western islands have I been
Which bards in fealty to Apollo hold
Oft of one wide expanse had I been told
That deep-browed Homer ruled as his demesne:
Yet did I never breathe its pure serene
Till I heard Chapman speak out loud and bold:
Then felt I like some watcher of the skies
When a new planet swims into his ken;
Or like stout Cortez, when with eagle eyes
He stared at the Pacific—and all his men
Looked at each other with a wild surmise—
Silent, upon a peak in Darien.

NICARAGUAN WAR COMES TO AN END

Liberal and Conservative Factions Have Reached Agreement For Peace.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, May 7 (by United Press) — A general amnesty has been declared by President Diaz, substantiating authoritative reports that leaders of the warring Liberal and Conservative factions have reached an agreement for peace.

Managua greeted reports that the civil war was over with great rejoicing.

Terms of the agreement reported to have been reached under the guidance of Henry L. Stimson, President Coolidge's personal representative, included:

1. Troops of Juan B. Sacasa, Liberal claimant to the presidency, to lay down their arms. Organization of a native constabulary officered by Americans.

2. Diaz to remain in office until end of term in 1928, when elections will be held under United States supervision.

3. Liberals to be given places in Diaz's cabinet.

4. Full liberty of the press to be granted as soon as conditions permit.

Although guerilla skirmishes may continue in isolated parts of the country, no more important fighting was expected.

HOUSE REJECTS LABOR MEASURE

Provides £10,000,000 Set Aside Annually For "Prevention of Unemployment."

FOR THIRD SESSION.

LONDON, May 7. — (Canadian Press.) — For the third consecutive session the House of Commons yesterday rejected the labor bill for "prevention of unemployment." The vote was 177 to 112 against the measure.

The bill provided that £10,000,000 be set aside annually for state enterprises such as reforestation and drainage, on which the unemployed could get work. The government maintained that the bill served no practical purpose which was not already being carried out.

Not since the time of Peter the Great has there been technically a Czar of Russia. Peter abolished the title and proclaimed himself emperor of all the Russians.

NO MEDICINE LIKE BABY'S OWN TABLETS

For Either the Newborn Babe or the Growing Child.

There is no other medicine to equal Baby's Own Tablets for little ones—whether it be for the newborn babe on the growing child the Tablets always do good. They are absolutely free from opiates or other harmful drugs and the mother can always feel safe in using them.

Concerning the Tablets, Mrs. John Armour, R.R. 1, South Monaghan, Ont., says:—"We have three fine, healthy children, to whom, when a medicine is needed, we have given only Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are the best medicine you can keep in any home where there are young children."

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the stomach and bowels; banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fever and make teething easy. They are sold by medicine dealers or direct by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MARMORA MEN OWN TOWNSHIP

Making Longford Game Preserve and Camping Ground.

TAKE IN MUSKRATS.

MARMORA, May 7. — W. F. Bowen, with some of his associates, is in Lingford township this week. This township and part of an adjoining one was purchased some time ago by these gentlemen for its conversion into a big game preserve and a hunting and camping site.

Robert and Harold Naylor took a number of muskrats from this district to the preserve the early part of this week, the distribution being superintended by Mr. Bowen, who is also enjoying the fine trout fishing there.

BRINGING UP FATHER — By Geo. McManus

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

By Douglas Malloch

Fishing First

When men with money need a rest,
To git back in condition,
They take a journey north or west
And do a job of fishin'.
Yes, after men have made their pile
By bein' smart and thrifty,
They take a layoff for awhile,
But not till after fifty.

And that's the way it is with me
The same, or very nearly;
I go upon a fishin' spree,
But weekly and not yearly.

Of course, their method I've reversed;
The method I am takin'
Is just to do the fishin' first,
And not the money-makin'.

Because I've noticed fish will bite
In any stream you foller,
While some men labor day and night
And never make a dollar.
And so I'll do my fishin' now,
Instead of always wishin'
For money that—well, anyhow,
At least I've had the fishin'.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

WHO can adequately estimate the wealth of meaning wrapped up in the words, "Mother" and "Home"? If these two words were taken from our language with all that they represent, their subtraction would constitute the greatest possible loss on this side of death. Home is never quite the same when mother goes. Who, or what, can take her place? The loss of a mother is always keenly felt, even if her health be such as to incapacitate her from taking an active part in the care of the family. He surely knew what he was saying who said, "She is the sweet rallying-point for affection, obedience, and a thousand tenderernesses. Dreary the blank when she is withdrawn." The vacant chair reminds us of a presence plus something else undefinable by any other name than "Mother." So long as she is in the home matters speed well.

BETTER THAN A WIFE.

Leopold Schefer says, "But one on earth is better than the wife; that is the mother." A man does not love his wife any less because he loves his mother well. The love a man has for the one ought not to take anything from the love he should have for the other. It should be a matter of addition, and not one of subtraction! Emil Reich, who, judged by his name, ought to be something of an authority on anything that has to do with the Jews, says: "The Jews, although infinitely less successful than people generally think them to be, owe very much of their success to their mothers. The Jewish woman is, if one may so say, a passionate mother. In fact, amongst orthodox Jews, what we commonly call love is restricted to love maternal. The orthodox Jewess is seldom, if ever, in love with her husband; but she loves her son with remarkable devotion. She is at once his mother, his friend, his adviser, his principal mainstay."

A HISTORY NOT YET WRITTEN.

Many histories, some of them fearfully and wonderfully made, have been written, but a history of mothers has not yet been written. Without a doubt it is one of the most important chapters of history. Perhaps this is why it has not yet been written up.

I don't think any human being has ever been or will ever be capable of measuring the influence of a mother. A father may turn his back on his child, brothers and sisters may become inveterate enemies, husbands may desert their wives, wives their husbands. But a mother's love endures through all; in good repute, in bad repute, in the face of the world's condemnation, a mother still loves on, and still hopes that her child may turn from his evil ways, and repent; still she remembers the infant smiles that once filled her bosom with rapture, the merry laugh, the joyful shout of his childhood, the opening promise of his youth; and she can never be brought to think him all unworthy. This was the opinion of Washington Irving. Henry Ward Beecher used to say, "At first babes feed on the mother's bosom, but always on her heart." You have no difficulty in getting me to believe that if there be aught surpassing human deed or word or thought it is a mother's love. It has been well said that no language can express the power and beauty and heroism of a mother's love.

NO SELF-MADE MEN.

None of us is self-made. There never has been a self-made man, or woman either, for that part of it. Of all engaged in the making of us no one has played a more important part than our mother. To try to make up for the influence of the mother by any mere society is like giving a hungry man a menu nicely printed on vellum, instead of a square meal. It is a sham and leads only to failure and disappointment. It cannot be denied that the influence of the mother, from the first day to the ninth or tenth year of one's life, is immense. It should be a matter of common knowledge that the Greeks paid every attention to this critical period. In many a Greek State they had an elaborate system of legislation on how to bring up children, under the mother's influence, from the first year to the tenth. Nowadays we pay much more attention to education from ten to twenty than from one to ten. Are we really wiser than the ancient Greeks? Think of what Moses owed to those early years under his mother's care. If she had not had the training of him how different his story might have been!

HOME WHEN TIRED.

Tired out with the burdens of the day, the toiling masses of mankind at the close of day "turn again home" with a sense of satisfaction and gratitude and the feeling that heaven and home are not so far separated after all. To most of them it is the one spot on earth that steadies them in the conflict of life, and provides them with a place of healing of the world's wounds. Next to the word "mother" no word is more precious in meaning, and more closely knit with thoughts of love and peace and strength, than the word "home."

When the prodigal said, "I will arise and go to my father," he was yielding to the call of the homing instinct. The reason why he never mentions his mother is perhaps because he has never had any doubt about the welcome he would get from her, prodigal though he is. He has sinned against his mother as well as against his father! But, well does he remember how she always forgave him, without any confession on his part; and he knows her well enough to know that she has not changed. A mother's love has in it the virtue of being able to sanctify the most worthless offspring.

A BEAUTIFUL STORY.

Robert Buchannan tells the story of a brother poet, David Gray. Gray was a Scotsman who felt he must make for the gleam of "the lights of London town." In that great city fortune refused to look his way. Having little money, he thought to save what little he had by sleeping in Hyde Park. As a result he caught cold but paid little heed to it. Try as he would, he could not attain success. His cold grew worse. He sought various remedies, but to no purpose. At last weary and worn he wanted to go home, and so he wrote to his parents: "I am coming home, home-sick. I have no money. I want to get home, home, home. What shall I do, Oh God? I have come through things that would make your heart ache for me. Get my little room ready; I wish to die there, and nobody shall nurse me except my own dear mother. Oh, home, home, home!" And so he came, but rapidly grew worse. He had dreamed of being numbered with the great. His eyes had been dazzled by his vision beautiful, but now in that little Scottish home:

"Oh, cottage fire that burnest bright,
What pictures sees he in thy light?
A city's smoke, a white, white face,
Phantoms that fade and die;
And last the lonely burial-place
On the windy hill hard by."

MORE THAN A DWELLING-PLACE.

There is a Psalm which I have read again and again as I have ministered to the living and the sorrowing in the presence of the dead, "Lord, Thou hast been our dwelling-place in all generations." To our more modern ears Moffat's translation seems to convey a larger meaning when he says, "Age after age, Lord, Thou hast been our home." We came from Him at the break of day, and it is to Him that we will "turn again home" at its close. There may be as much difference between a dwelling-place and a home as there is between the average hotel and a home.

Someone has said that it is a woman, and only a woman—a woman all by herself, if she likes, and without any man to help her—who can turn a house into a home. The sweetest type of heaven is home—nay, heaven is the home for whose acquisition we are to strive the most strongly. Home, in one form and another, is the great object of life. It stands at the end of every day's labor, and beckons us to its bosom; and life would be cheerless and meaningless, did we not discern across the river that divides us from the life beyond, glimpses of the pleasant mansions prepared for us.

GOIN' HOME.

Jesus once said: "I go to prepare a place for you, and if I go away I will come again and receive you unto myself, that where I am there ye may be also." And on His way, via the cross, to that place, even in the midst of His sufferings, He did not forget His mother. It will always be true that a mother's love is indeed the golden link that binds youth to age; and he is still a child, however time may have furrowed his cheek, or silvered his brow, who can yet recall, with a softened heart, the fond devotion or the gentle chidings of the best friend that God ever gives us.

When at last the shades of death gather about us it will be well if we have something in common within our hearts with the thought expressed in that haunting negro spiritual:

"Goin' home, goin' home,
I'm a-goin' home;
Quiet-like, some still day,
I'm jes' goin' home.
It's not far, jes' close by,
Gwine to fear no more.
Mother's there 'spectin' me,
Father's waitin' too.
Lots of folk gathered there,
All the friends I knew.
Nothin' lost, all's gain,
No more fret nor pain.
No more stumblin' on the way,
Shadows gone, break o' day,
Gwine to roam no more—
Mornin' star lights the way,
Res'less dream all done—
Shadows gone, break o'day,
Real life jes' begun.
Dere's no break, ain't no end,
Jes' a livin' on.
Wide awake with a smile
Goin' on and on.

Goin' home, goin' home,
I'm jes' goin' home—
It's not far, jes' close by
Through an open door."

A Mother's Pride

A story has been told about the late Dr. Theodore L. Cuyler, of Brooklyn, which illustrates how a son is to his mother the most important thing in the world. When he was in England he and his mother corresponded regularly and at great length. One day a letter came in which he described his presentation to Queen Victoria. His mother read it with eagerness, hardly able to wait till she had finished before telling someone what had happened. When she at last got through the letter, she hastened to a neighbor's house, and announced: "I've got a letter from England, and do you know the Queen has seen Theodore!"

Our Debt To Good Mothers

IAN MACLAREN said that it would bankrupt a man to attempt to repay the love of a good mother. "Success" calculates that the Presidents of the United States owe more to their mothers than to their fathers. Only eleven of the Presidents were in easy circumstances, and of the remainder who struggled with adverse circumstances, Jackson and Lincoln had mothers to whom it was well worth the labour of this great country to erect monuments.

A Pen Picture

A party of men in the distance, and a group near at hand. The actions of those who are far off seem to excite the feelings of those who are near us, and apparently these change their plan or do not quite carry it out.

The remarkable thing is that the not carrying out of their original design, and the adopting of what appears a make-shift, fills them with the most profound astonishment, and to one of their number it means a complete alteration of his career.

This is the 14th in this series of pen pictures of Bible history. The key to last week's picture is Matt. 27:52, 62-66.

Let us be of good cheer, remembering that the misfortunes hardest to bear are those which never come. —Lowell.

CHURCHES AND CHURCHMEN

By I. SEEWELL

The Age of Jazz.

RECENTLY there passed away a highly talented writer of several volumes of verse, in the person of Florence Earle Coates, regarding whose death the Philadelphia Public Ledger makes the following editorial comment:

"The death of Mrs. Coates at the age of seventy-seven should remind us again of the swiftness and violence of recent changes in literary aims and purposes. The work of this gifted gentlewoman was widely esteemed here and abroad for its genuine poetic feeling and its classic patterns. Studied now in contrast with the noisy and erratic effusions of newer and younger writers, it seems too filled with tranquility and grace to be attractive to a generation of readers hardened to the literature of the age of jazz. Chiefly because of its quality of gentle and profound feeling, it seems to belong definitely to a far past."

Great Congregationalists.

A recent vote placed Dr. Dale, of Birmingham, as chief among the great in Congregational leadership. Then comes John Owen, of whom many of us know less, and following him comes Dr. Parker, of City Temple, London, who is much better known today. Livingstone, Moffat, Binney and Isaac Watts are grouped in a fine quartette. Dr. J. H. Jowett is not forgotten, and John Howard, of prison fame, is also placed in the list.

The Salvation Army Abroad.

FORTY years ago or more, the eldest daughter of General Booth began her continental work in Paris, and a little later she unfurled the flag of the Salvation Army in the Swiss Republic. Then follows a fascinating chapter of her life, as fascinating as any to be found in religious history, where she is given her title of La Marechale, a name by which she is known to multitudes in all parts of the world. While in free Switzerland she was imprisoned for holding an open-air meeting in a field. Instead of daunting her and sounding the death-knell of her work, it but added interest to her remarkable campaigns.

In a series of meetings, forty years later at Geneva, she took the Hall of the Reformation for her services. The Geneva Journal declares that "never during the sittings of the sittings of the League of Nations has the hall been so full." All classes have been among the remarkable group of converts. Jews, Catholics, students, merchants, socialists, humble people and aristocrats have boldly confessed Christ. From Geneva to La Chaux de Fonds, high up in the mountains, the same impressive scenes have followed. Then to Neuchatel, where her long imprisonment had occurred, when hundreds who had given up religion in any form came to Christ in open confession. Pastor de Rougemont writes:

"Her royal simplicity and perfect naturalness, her astounding knowledge of the human heart, her experience and, more than all else, her overwhelming love, give her an authority and power that are unique."

Sabbath Schools or Jails?

SURELY it is better to build Sabbath schools than jails. The average of burglars and murderers in the United States is from seventeen to twenty-two years. Very few boys who have attended Sabbath schools ever join the ranks of criminals. Ten billions were spent on crime in America last year. Mr. Practical Man, don't you think it would be a good investment to spend more on Sabbath schools than jails?

The Church and the Spirit of the Age.

WE are sometimes told, says The Presbyterian, that the church should adapt herself to the spirit of the age; that times have changed and that she should change with them; that old methods are too stiff and old doctrines too uncompromising. This is by no means a new demand. Christianity never has been in harmony with the spirit of the age. It was not in Christ's day nor in that of the apostles, and will not be until the millennium. The church is to be peculiar. Christians are to be "not conformed" to this world. The preaching of the cross was and is foolishness to unbelievers. That these should see with their own eyes and should say to Christians, as Festus did to Paul, "Thou art beside thyself," is neither surprising nor alarming. The things which worldly people regard as folly are the church's strength. Conformity to the world is her weakness. Her mission is to conform the world to herself and to Christ. The plea that the church would gain in numbers by lowering her standard either of conduct or orthodoxy or benevolence, is a mistaken one. Any apparent gain would be more than balanced by a real loss.

Palestine and Orange Groves.

THOSE who are interested in the land that has yet to flow with milk and honey may be glad to learn that two great seaports are now outlets to Palestine and will mean much in foreign trade. These are Joffa or Jaffa and the more northern port of Haifa. Since the war there has been a steady development in the growth and enlargement of orange groves, four thousand acres now being under cultivation, which at the time that the fruit is ripe, requires about eighteen thousand men. The problem of making the hills and valleys of Palestine productive is receiving expert attention. Olive groves are numerous, and productive of fine crops, but it is discovered by all who share the aspirations of Zionists that the land must be made to yield her increase if a permanent state is created. Otherwise her imports will exceed her exports.

An English Canon on the Lord's Day.

CANON ELLIOTT, of Leeds, presents a new approach to the question of the Sabbath when he asks his readers not to inquire what is necessary to abstain from, in order to retain the sanctity of the Lord's day, but rather, "What is the highest and worthiest way of spending the Sabbath? How can I best make use of the precious hours for my own mental, moral and spiritual development and the equipment of myself for further service in the world?" It's just possible that if this view were once studied, vast changes would be effected in spiritual uplift for the day. "The Sabbath was made for man."

The Theatre Today.

IT would be hard to find a more scathing indictment of the stage today than the one uttered by Dr. Thomas Gaffney, professor of literature and English at City College, New York, when speaking before the Forum of the Catholic Alumni at St. Joseph's College, New York. He is quoted in the newspapers as having said that the stage is filled with all the filth the human imagination is capable of conceiving, and lamented the fact that virtually the whole of the theatrical world in this country is in the hands of a few men. In speaking of the plays that were raided in New York recently, he declared, "No further depth of degradation could be sounded." In several plays that he mentions he goes on to say that the limit of theatrical degradation was reached. Laying the blame at the door of the producers, he said: "Reviews and musical shows have been taking one step after the other to see how far they could go in nakedness and openness of speech. . . . The most decent plays of today would have been driven off thirty years ago. The early plays had a tendency toward education. They were decent and moral. A new influence entered the theatrical world about 1896. At that time the production of plays became a commercial game."

Associate reverently, and as much as you can, with your loftiest thought. —Henry D. Thoreau.

What's The Use

AS to criticising little stories and poems, what is the good? If they are not accepted for publication, that is a criticism. I confess I have written hundreds of letters of criticism, but I never knew any of them do any good. I am afraid in some cases they have simply irritated the recipients. What is the use of saying a string of verses are doggerel? It may be quite true, but it is not pleasant. Yet it is all that can really be said about nine-tenths of the poems that are forwarded to editors. They are written by people who do not know what poetry means.

STOP TAKING CHANCES.

You can scarcely read a paper today, within our wide Dominion, without finding an account of a fatality or lesser motor accident. Many of these are at level railroad crossings—some one was careless—maybe a motorist or pedestrian "took a chance." No one should fail to see a railroad crossing even if he has missed seeing the big sign. "Railroad Crossing," some three hundred feet before approaching the said railroad.

Then, what about the locomotive whistle and bell? To stop, look and listen may save a life, or the lives perhaps of passengers in either the automobile or train. Why dare death?

Though your journey is important, the few seconds saved are not worth while. Be sure it is safe before you start to cross. If at night, stop the motor and turn off your lights for a few seconds.

The automobile will never put the railroads out of business by meeting their trains on level crossings.

THE OFFICIAL OPENING.

Boys' Week will be officially opened on Monday evening by Taylor Statten, one of Canada's most distinguished leaders in boys' work, who will address a mass meeting in the Grand Opera House.

This will be one occasion when mother, who, incidentally has her day tomorrow, will be out of the picture, for Monday night's meeting is exclusively for sons and their fathers.

It promises to be a meeting full of interest.

The programme will include community singing, led by the Male Voice Choir, while music will also be supplied by the Boys' Band.

Mr. Statten's address cannot fail to convey an important measure to all his hearers.

No one in Canada has any greater success in winning the liking and respect of all boys with whom he comes into contact.

His personality and his eloquence make him indeed an ideal speaker for such an occasion as the official opening of Boys' Week, and the committee regards itself as fortunate in being able to secure his services.

The Grand should be crowded with sons and fathers on Monday evening.

KEEPING UP THE QUALITY.

The warning from Government officials that Canadian producers and exporters must use every effort to standardize their product and keep the quality of their exported farm and orchard products at the highest level, is both timely and important.

Parliament during the recent session voted $100,000 to be expended in enabling Canada to take better advantage of the Empire marketing scheme, but the success of the whole enterprise depends upon the quality of the product.

A cardinal principle of successful advertising is that behind the advertisement must be the goods.

It is possible to create through publicity a temporary demand for almost any article, but if the quality is not there the demand soon ceases.

That is exactly the situation in regard to Canadian products in the British markets.

If they are kept up to a high standard the Government's advertising efforts will bring rich returns; if, on the other hand, there is a variation of quality, efforts to stimulate their marketing abroad cannot possibly succeed.

It is up to the Canadian producer and exporter.

They must make the label, "Produced in Canada," stand for uniform excellence.

A GREAT CANADIAN INSTITUTION.

The speech delivered by President E. W. Beatty at the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Canadian Pacific Railway this week served to remind the people of this country of the great part in the development of Canada that has been taken by this huge transportation system.

The figures he gave are illuminating.

The C.P.R. has paid $80,000,000 in taxes.

In the last eight years it has expended $2,403,000,000 in wages and for supplies and materials, while $32,000,000 was spent in branch-line construction, and more than $71,000,000 for rolling stock improvements and replacements.

In its colonization efforts the C.P.R. has done much to upbuild this country.

Up to the end of 1924 it had brought 55,000 families to Canada, and settled them on 30,000,000 acres of land.

In 1926 it placed about 50,000 immigrants on farms.

In colonization, land settlement, irrigation and similar works, the company has spent $75,000,000.

Its 78 colonization offices maintained abroad are only one means by which Canada is advertised, for this country receives publicity throughout the world by reason of the C.P.R.'s steamships and telegraph and express services.

As a Canadian institution that is known in all quarters of the globe the Canadian Pacific Railway is a splendid testimony to Canadian enterprise, vision and ability, and a company in whose success Canadians generally have every reason to be interested.

GASOLINE TAXES AND ROADS.

In view of the tax on gasoline in Ontario, helping to build our good roads, it may interest motorists to note the immense sums of money raised in some of the States of the neighboring Republic out of their gas tax. The idea of getting a great part of the road money from the actual users of the roads was exploited only a few years ago, and with the motor car users rather cheerfully paying the tax, added to the cost of the fuel, the States took it up and a tax is now levied, varying from one to five cents a gallon. The plan is providing a very considerable part of the road-building funds for the country.

In 1926 the amount of money collected on the sale of gasoline in the United States amounted to $187,603,231.

Florida's gasoline tax is four cents on the gallon and the total collections last year—$11,481,460—were greater than received in forty other States. California led all the rest with collections of $16,502,123 on a two cents tax. Ohio, where the tax is also two cents, collected $13,257,256, and Pennsylvania, third in the list, gathered in $11,781,782. The area and population figures of the States leading Florida in gasoline sales are much greater, and the showing made is most interesting. California has been very heavily bonded to build good roads and Florida is absolutely free from such obligations.

Southern States imposing the gasoline tax have collected millions on rates varying from one cent, in Texas, to five cents in South Carolina. But Florida's collections are more than double those of Virginia, Missouri, Georgia, South Carolina, Texas, Mississippi, and four times as great as collected in Tennessee, Arkansas and Louisiana. Oklahoma on a three cents tax collected $6,212,109 and North Carolina, getting four cents on a gallon, collected $7,786,473. Michigan, the headquarters of great automobile factories, collected something over ten millions and Indiana came up with $8,871,741.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

THE BACKGROUND OF CONFEDERATION.

A correspondent of a Toronto journal says that 430 years ago John and Sebastian Cabot sailed from Bristol England, and on June 24, 1497, discovered Canada; and he asks, "Are there no intellectuals on this side of the Atlantic to celebrate this important event?" It would be difficult to arrange a distinct celebration of this event at the same time as that of Confederation. But there is no reason why it should not be included in the celebration. Confederation was not an isolated achievement. It was part of the constitutional development of Canada; and that development is part of the general progress of the country. Self-government in the political sense was the natural accompaniment of self-government in other respects. The Canadian pioneer was to a large extent a law unto himself; his life in the wilderness required far more initiative and self-reliance than that of the dweller in a settled country, with all the advantages of an old civilization. It was not so much oppression as a mere absurdity to suppose that this daring and self-reliant person was incapable of political self-government.

Cabot's discovery is of special interest because it was a discovery of the Maritime Provinces, which were not part of Canada until sixty years ago, which entered Confederation unwillingly, and which have from time to time shown discontent with that relation. It is a remarkable and happy coincidence that in the same year that we are celebrating Confederation, legislation has been enacted by the Dominion Parliament aiming at the removal of the grievances of the people of the region discovered by the Cabots—a very practical and satisfactory celebration.

When the question of the celebration was first brought up in Parliament, in the Senate, Confederation was treated not as an isolated event but as part of the history of Canada. Reference was made to the French regime, to the work of the pioneers of both races, and to the winning of responsible government for Canada. The last named event itself is worthy of celebration. It is eighty years since Lord Elgin arrived in Canada, and accepted the principles long advocated by the Canadian Reformers. "My course," he said, "is I think clear and plain. It may be somewhat difficult to follow occasionally, but I feel no doubt as to the direction in which it lies. I give to my ministers all constitutional support, frankly and without reserve, and the benefit of the best advice that I can afford them in their difficulties. . . . I have never concealed from them that I intended to do nothing which may prevent me from working cordially with their opponents if they are forced upon me." Again, he declared that while certain ministers were his advisers they should enjoy his unreserved confidence, and at the same time be held to full responsibility. The old Tory Government held office in a precarious way during 1847, and was overwhelmingly defeated at the polls. Robert Baldwin's election address said, in substance:

> "We shall have no more representatives of the Sovereign making the doctrines of the Charleses and the Jameses the standard by which to govern British subjects in the nineteenth century. Henceforth their vice-regal governments will be distinguished by adherence to the constitutional principles acknowledged by all parties in England—principles which will relieve Her Majesty's representative from the invidious position of the head of a party, and will render him a living spirit, and the connecting link which binds this great colony to the parent State in affectionate and prosperous union."

The history of Canada did not begin in 1867, nor is it confined to what was called Canada before that time, namely the territory now covered by Ontario and Quebec. Nova Scotia had its own struggle for responsible government, with Joseph Howe as leader. There is a wealth of historical material in British Columbia before Confederation, and of the prairie country during the same period. In each part of Canada as now constituted, it is fitting that emphasis should be laid upon that part of history which is of local interest. Confederation united these streams into one mighty river. It was not a process by which old Canada annexed the Maritime Provinces and the West, though at the time it may have seemed to take on that appearance. It was a union intended to confer equal rights and opportunities upon all. Our celebration should be as broad as Canada and should exclude no part of the history of Canada, though naturally the chief emphasis will be laid upon Confederation as part of our political development, and as illustrating in a remarkable way the Canadian genius for self-government. In competitions for prizes it is necessary to set some limits to the scope of the discussion, in order that there may be some common standard; though even in that case the historical background of Confederation may be properly considered. But in discussing the celebration in public speeches or in the press, no such restriction is called for. The broad aim of the celebration is to stimulate interest in the people, the resources and the history of Canada.—London Advertiser.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, May 7.—Prices for the best types of domestic butcher battle have continued their upward climb this week. Some dealers are of opinion that the top has not yet been reached.

Fancy quality heavy beef steers have sold this week in individual cases as high as $9.25 and $9.50 and in one case a straight load at $9.10. There is in fact a scarcity of finished heavy steers. Domestic demand for all types of butcher cattle has of late been keen enough to take in the usual run of heavy steers of export type at prices that have put the regular export buyers out of the market.

Daily runs have been practically cleaned up each market day, except for late arrivals. It has been stated on high authority that few western cattle will come east next fall. Altogether it looks as though high prices will prevail for some time.

Choice handyweight butcher steers and heifers steady at $8.25 to $9.00; fair to good butcher, $7.25 to $8.25.

Cows, good to choice, $6.25 to $7.00; medium, $5.50 to $6.00.

Calves a shade firmer at $11 to $12 tops.

Sheep and yearling lambs steady. Spring lambs firmer at $14 to $15 per head.

Hogs steadied for the week-end at $9.25 f.o.b.

The new government regulations regarding the grading of hogs come into effect Monday, May 9, 1927.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, May 7 (Canadian Press).—There was no improvement in the demand from the United Kingdom and the Continent for grain in the Montreal market yesterday and business in all positions was quiet.

Owing to the pronounced strength that developed in the future market for oats at Winnipeg yesterday, the local spot situation for the cash grain was strong and prices were marked up 1-2c to 2c per bushel.

The trade in Spring and Winter wheat grades of flour was quiet, but prices were unchanged.

The millfeed market was moderately active and firm. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was quiet and prices were steady.

A fairly active business was done in all grades of eggs and values were well maintained. The receipts were 1,343 cases.

The feature of the potato trade was the increased inquiry from Ontario, but as the supplies available were limited the volume of business was small and prices were firm. Car lots of Quebec white stock were quoted at $2.00 per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, ex-track.

The butter market opened up weaker and prices dropped another 1-2c per pound. But on the prospects of the United States embargo on sweet cream and fresh milk being removed from all districts with the exception of Montreal on Monday and the expectations of an increased demand next week for butter, a firmer feeling developed in the market later and holders were asking an advance of 1-2c per pound. The receipts were 1,378 packages.

A feature of the cheese trade yesterday was the demand that developed from English importers for Canadian fodder-made cheese and sales of some small lots were made. There was also some demand from local buyers and the tone of the market was steady. The receipts were 1,935 boxes.

MONTREAL, May 7 (Canadian Press).—Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

Demand $4.84 15-16.
Cables $4.85 7-16.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 7 (Canadian Press).—Illinois legislation seeking to add States supervision to present Federal measures governing grain exchange business had a bearish effect on grain values yesterday, especially wheat. Corn, however, rallied sharply in the late trading. Wheat closed unsettled, 1-4 to 5-8c net lower; corn unchanged to 5-8c higher; oats 1-8 and 1-4c off to 1-4c up, and provisions showing 10 to 40 cents decline.

Much selling pressure and but little buying was the rule in the wheat market early owing to the Illinois Senate's adoption of a bill to place under a special commission the control of the Board of Trade here. A prevalent view was that the bill if made a law would kill the Chicago grain market. Later, however, opinion gained ground that the Illinois House would disapprove the bill. Strength which developed toward the last in the corn market helped also to bring about something of a recovery in wheat, but the undertone remained heavy nevertheless.

Oats sympathized with corn, weakening early and afterward tending up grade. Provisions were weak.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, May 7 (Canadian Press).—Cattle 2,000; best fed steers $12.50; bulk $9.75 to $11.25; sprinkling plain offerings downward to $9.00; feeder dealers supply well cleaned up at $8.00 to $9.00 mostly; weighty medium bulls up to $7.00; vealers mostly $9.75 to $10.50, for light kinds; outsiders and shippers $11.00 to $12.00.

Hogs 17,000; top $10.50; bulk better grade 160 to 200 pounds $10.25 to $10.45; 210 to 250 pounds $10.00 to $10.25; 260 to 300 pounds $9.75 to $10.00; pigs upward to $10.25; best sows $9.10.

Sheep 5,000; good California springers scaling 65 pounds $18.00; deck of medium to good 76 pound clipped lambs $14.75; few clipped culls $12.50; few good around 130 pound clipped ewes at $8.00.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

CURFEW NEEDED.

The Editor of The Examiner

Dear sir:

The curfew bell is an old institution which was brought into use centuries ago. It was rung at nine o'clock each night as a signal for all children to leave the streets and go to their homes as a protection against evil influences. It gradually fell into disuse as it was considered that it had outlived its usefulness. But in many towns the people have wisely decided to restore it. This is an age in which parental authority has almost entirely disappeared, and children, in many cases, have been allowed to run wild. There are some parents in the village who may see the day when they will wish that the curfew bell had been a regular institution in the village during the early years of their children. It is no uncommon thing to see children from six years upwards playing on the streets as late as ten and eleven o'clock at night when they should be in bed. And these parents would be shocked to hear the language indulged in. It is a case in which the poet says, "They first pity, then endure, then embrace." Parents should be able at all time to know where their children are and in whose company they may be found.

A STUDY OF ABDOMINAL PAINS.

Distress in the abdomen is either caused by congestion or irritation due to mechanical pressure or toxic poisoning. The most common disturbance is that produced from excessive intestinal gas, as this gas forms in pockets in the small intestines or in the colon, which pressure against sensitive nerves will produce a distress which will come and go as the gas moves out. The pressure of gas in the intestines also may interfere with the normal functions of the live and gall bladder, and thus produce congestion in these organs.

When gas is present in the lower bowels it may irritate or congest the ovaries and womb in the female, and prostrate glad in the male.

Stomach gas produces an uncomfortable feeling of fullness, but usually does not create any painful symptoms.

Pains around the navel may be caused by gastritis or stomach ulcers.

When inflammation of the gall bladder exists, the pain will be felt just under the ribs on the right side at the nearest point from the navel and the left side of the abdomen.

A congested spleen may cause a steady ache. This trouble is very hard to diagnose as it is often associated with excessive gas in the splenic flexture of the colon, for where the large intestine makes a turn downward it comes in close contact with the spleen, and usually the distress felt in this section is due to gas pressure.

The pains associated with appendicitis first start in the pit of the stomach and then shoot down to the lower right side, just above the pubic bone. The pain often felt a lightle higher up on the right side is due to gas in the colon and not to an inflamed appendix.

With women, any pain in the lowest part in the abdomen, just back of the pubes, may be due to ovarian or womb trouble, or may be caused by inflammation of the bladder. Pains in any of these organs may come from a chronic congestion or inflammation, but are always increased if the abdominal organs are prolapsed, or if excessive gas is present.

A safe plan to use in getting rid of any kind of abdominal distress is to diet carefully, so as to avoid the flatulence produced from fermenting food and intestinal food-battles because of incompatible mixtures.

Frequent enemas will always relieve abdominal pains, but you must search to find the cause, which can always be ascertained through a correct physical diagnosis.

Beauty that Reflects Spirited Performance

THE low, graceful lines of the new Fisher-built bodies give promise of dashing performance which the smooth, powerful Chevrolet engine is quick to fulfil.

The refinements which distinguish the design, finish and appointments of the Most Beautiful Chevrolet have their counterpart in the many striking advances in engineering. Refinements which you would expect only in cars at hundreds of dollars above Chevrolet price are incorporated in the Most Beautiful Chevrolet — AC oil-filter, AC air-cleaner, new, improved transmission, smooth dry-disc clutch, sturdy rear axle and scores of other features—giving to Chevrolet a unique combination of power, smoothness and rugged endurance.

Your first ride in the Most Beautiful Chevrolet will amaze and delight you just as greatly as does your first glimpse of its striking beauty. And you will find succeeding miles open up new sources of admiration and wonder that a car so low in price as Chevrolet could provide such spirited performance, such unfailing power, such entrancing smoothness, such gratifying economy.

STONE-NILSSON DUET WIN NEW FILM LAURELS

Never take a bride on an aerial honeymoon!

This admonition to prospective bridegrooms comes as a result of the lessons taught to Lewis Stone in his role as a major of the Royal Flying Corps in "Midnight Lovers", the First National production, which will be given its first showing at the Capitol theatre next Monday.

Anna Q. Nilsson plays the role of the frightened bride, who goes gloft on her honeymoon with an air-mad husband. He shows her all the tricks of his trade in order to impress her with his importance as a flying man, and only succeeds in making her deathly sick, and very antagonistic towards aviators.

Love Flew Away.

That is only the beginning of the trouble in "Midnight Lovers" for after Stone has gone to war, the girl realizes that she can't love an aviator, so takes up with a gentleman flapper, played adequately by John Roche.

The husband comes back from the war only to find his domestic affairs in a worse state. In straightening them out, Stone does some of the best pantomine of his career, and Miss Nilsson is more charming than ever.

Good Cast.

The completed cast included Chester Conklin, as a funny butler; Harvey Clark, as a blustering divorce lawyer; Dale Fuller, as an overbearing maid, and Purnell Pratt as a nonsensical Englishman.

"Midnight Lovers" was directed by John Francis Dillon from a scenario by Carey Wilson. The First National production was made under the management of John McCormick.

AT THE REGENT.

VARIETY ACTING NO CINCH, SAYS THIS REPORTER

It sounds great to be a vaudeville actress—with a handsome dancing partner, gay clothes and the spotlight, applauding crowds, and all that.

But girls—better let Norma Shearer tell you all about it before you dash to the nearest booking office and declare yourselves embryo Anna Helds or even Trixie Friganzas! There's too much work about this vaudeville thing to be romantic!

Norma demonstrates this in "Upstage" at the Regent Theatre. It's a play every flapper will love—and perhaps get a lesson out of, between laughs and thrills, gasps and sighs. Norma plays a litle stenographer who gets on the vaudevile stage—as the feminine half of a dancing act, wearing beautiful clothes, leading Russian wolf hounds through the settings—romantic indeed.

And handsome Oscar Shaw of the Music Box Revue is her patrner. Romantic again.

But it's not romantic to get mixed up with a trained bear, a peevish monkey—and have to double for the girl who furnishes the target for the knife throwing act. Not at all!

It's a play no girl should miss—it may teach a lesson, and, anyway—to see it is having a good time.

AT THE GRAND

In two acts and thirty-one massive scenes, the new George White's Scandals, coming to the Grand next Friday, for the first time, sets, according to reports, a high-water mark for distinguished beauty, originality and sartorial investiture. Grace, beauty and vivacity are said to be conspicuously noticeable throughout the entire performance; while substance, sophistication and reason dignify the comedy scenes. In fact, no previous edition of the Scandals has apparently approached this new Seventh series, in point of humor and brilliance, for William K. Wells and George White, the lyricists, are said to have outdone themselves this time. Sammy Howard, the famous comedian, and featured in many musical revues of past seasons, has, in the new Scandals, perhaps the greatest opportunities for his special talents that have so far come his way, and his distinctively original style of humor seemingly finds the fullest play in this new eidtion. Beauteous girls, magnificently costumed; girls draped more or less in the manner of the true Parisian studio, adorn the Scandals, it is said; while dancing of all descriptions is supplied by the well known Albertina Rasch girls and the George White Beauty Chorus, all of whom are reported as being individually decorative. The new edition of the Scandals seems to have caught the spirit of glamorous youth and combined it with sparkling music, pungent comedy and adroit situations, set in a background of enchanting beauty.

THOSE WRETCHED BILIOUS ATTACKS

"Fruit-atives" Always Stops Them.

MR. LEO. GODIN

"I was always bilious and never seemed to digest my food properly," writes Mr. Leo. Godin, 2371 Clark St., Montreal. "This kept me very weak. A friend, who had been completely relieved of these troubles by 'Fruit-a-tives', advised me to try this fruit medicine. I did so ,and now I am so well that I want to congratulate 'Fruit-a-tives' on its unfailing effectiveness."

If you suffer with poor digestion, upset stomach, bilious attacks or chronic constipation, take Mr. Godin's advice and try "Fruit-a-tives". This natural remedy, made from intensified fruit juices combined with tonics, will surely correct these troubles and bring you back to health. Don't put it off—buy a box today, take the tablets regularly, and see how quickly you will improve. 25c and 50c—everywhere.

HOW COOL SHOULD A THEATER BE?

Under the direction of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers, women students of the University of Pittsburgh, are being weighed and observed in novel tests to find out how a cooling system for a theater should be designed. The girls, says Popular Science Monthly, are weighed on special balances that record a change in weight of one-thousandth of a pound. From these weight changes, temperature standards will be established.

Marsh Land Bought For Muskrat Farm

BELLEVILLE, May 7.—The steady demand and good prices offered for muskrat skins have led to a movement toward establishing muskrat farms, and Publicity Commissioner W. H. Nugent of the County of Hastings has received several inquiries as to the possibility of purchasing tracts of land suitable for this purpose. Low, marshy land with a creek flowing through is preferred, and one deal has already been made for several hundred acres in the Township of Limerick, a Detroit man being the purchaser. This will be converted into a muskrat farm, stocked with the animals and developed scientifically for profit.

PEKIN TO FALL TO CANTONESE IN SHORT TIME

Possible Within Three Months, Michael Borodin Asserts in Interview.

DERIDES BLOCKADE.

Hankow Forces Can Get Supplies From Nations Seeking Trade.

LONDON, May 7 (United Press).—The fall of Pekin to the Nationalist forces of Hankow is quite possible within three months time, Michael Borodin, Russian adviser to the Hankow group, declared yesterday in a special interview granted the Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Express.

Borodin derided the suggestion of a blockade of the Yangtse River by the powers in an attempt to shut off Hankow from its source of supply. Hankow, he said, was assured that it could get foodstuffs even if such a blockade were begun, which now is declared as unlikely due to unwillingness of the United States and Japan to take part in it.

"Also there are powers in need of trade who would break such a blockade," said Borodin. "They are already negotiating and will bring us rifles, bombs, machine guns, artillery and other materials of war for which we are ready to pay."

Dutch Withdraw Cruiser.

THE HAGUE, May 7 (United Press)—The Dutch cruiser Sumatra has been ordered to leave Shanghai for the East Indies. The transfer of the cruiser Sumatra was taken to mean that danger to foreigners in China was believed by the Dutch Government to have diminished materially. Other governments have made no moves to reduce their naval forces, however.

Victory For United States.

LONDON, May 7 (United Press)—The United States has won a complete victory in the dispute of the powers over the Chinese situation, the Daily Express intimated to-day when it announced Great Britain had definitely abandoned its intention of sending another remonstrance to the Hankow Government in China over the Nanking riots.

The United States refused to join in a proposed strong demand for apology and reparation and Japan supported the American position.

England to Take No Action.

LONDON, May 7 (United Press).—There is much pressure from British interests in China for the Government to take action in connection with the Nanking outrages, but owing to the complicated character of the Chinese internal situation and the possibility of the disappearance of Eugene Chen, Foreign Minister of the Hankow administration, Downing Street is in a quandry. It is hinted that the Government will be forced to do nothing in spite of all inclinations to the contrary.

LEAGUE ENDS SLAVERY.

GENEVA, May 7.—Until recently, Kalat, in Baluchistan, was a stronghold of slavery. Men and women slaves not only were the personal property of the Kalat tribesmen, but the owners were not obliged to feed or clothe them. Interference of the League of Nations has brought an official decree from the tribal chiefs freeing all slaves, even the selling of women through marriage.

Sixty Miles Plus—Hydraulic Four-Wheel Brakes

Chrysler "60" prices:—Touring Car, $1520; Roadster, $1620; Coach $1685; Coupe (with rumble seat) $1820; Sedan, $1820.

Prices for delivery in Peterboro, all taxes fully paid, and include front and rear bumpers, spare tire and cover, and tank full of gasoline.

OF course, Chrysler "60" has a seven-bearing crankshaft.

For every six-cylinder Chrysler, since the first Chrysler three years ago, has a seven-bearing crankshaft, which means so much in smoother performance and longer life.

Besides, Chrysler "60" has other admitted superiorities whose combination is found in no other car at its price.

60 miles plus, 5 to 25 miles in 7¾ seconds, 26 miles to the gallon;

Impulse neutralizer, full pressure lubrication, oil-filter, air-cleaner;

Hydraulic four-wheel brakes, road levelizers, smartness of line, luxury of mohair upholstering, striking colors.

Here are reasons aplenty for Chrysler "60's" sensational sales success, reflected in Chrysler's dramatic rise from 27th to 4th place.

WITHROW AND BROOKS GUILTY ON ONE CHARGE

Jury Acquits Both Prisoners on the Indictment For Manslaughter.

SENTENCE DEFERRED.

Finding Involves Attempt To Perform Illegal Operation on Ruth Dembner.

TORONTO, May 7.—Dr. Oswald C. J. Withrow and Bartlett J. Brooks have been found guilty of a serious charge under section 303 of the Criminal Code, involving an illegal operation.

The verdict, which terminated one of the most sensational trials in the history of Toronto's law courts, was returned by the Assize jury at 10.48 last night, after a deliberation of more than seven hours.

The charges set out in the indictment, and upon which the prisoners were tried, were:

First Count:—That they did unlawfully kill and slay one Ruth E. Dembner, contrary to section 268 of the code. Not guilty.

Second Count:—That they did unlawfully use on her an instrument or other unknown means contrary to section 303 of the Criminal Code, with intent to procure a miscarriage. Guilty.

At the request of defence counsel, sentence was deferred by Mr. Justice Logie, who will hear further representations on behalf of the prisoners at a date to be fixed later. Meanwhile they were remanded in custody until May 16th.

With dramatic swiftness the Brooks-Withrow trial came to a close. At 9.30 o'clock the jurors filed into the court-room at the suggestion of Mr. Justice Logie, who read over the sections of the Code under which the prisoners were indicted and impressed upon the jury the importance of arriving at a verdict if possible. They were again re-called a few moments later when His Lordship added a few further explanations to clear up some objections raised by counsel for the prisoners. On this occasion the jury were advised that the maximum punishment provided by law, was life imprisonment for each of the two offences. His Lordship was careful to say, however, that this sentence would not necessarily be imposed, and that the matter of punishment was not to be considered by the jury in any event.

On each of these occasions the prisoners were brought up from the cells and anxiously awaited the verdict.

Another hour passed. Then at 10.48 the jurors filed into their places, and a hush fell on the court room with its handful of spectators.

"Gentlemen," said the clerk, "have you agreed upon a verdict." The foreman of the jury produced a folded paper which was handed up to the Judge. Dr. Withrow and Bartlett Brooks stood erect in the dock, their heads held high.

Justice Logie began to read: "We the jury find the accused Dr. Withrow upon the first count not guilty; upon the second count guilty. B. J. Brooks, upon the first count, not guilty; upon the second count, guilty. So say you all."

The verdict was then duly entered by the court who re-read it to the jurors. The prisoners sat down in the dock and Dr. Withrow shaded his eyes with his hand. His fellow prisoner exhibited little emotion.

"Well, gentlemen," said Justice Logie, addressing the jury, "you have had a very trying session, as I have already said. I have only to tell you that the thanks of the country are due you for the very patent consideration you have given this case."

Then facing the prisoners: "Have you any motions, Mr. Middlebro?" Crown counsel moved for sentence, but A. W. Roebuck, for Dr. Withrow, rose, and asked that sentence be deferred. "I have representations to make on behalf of the client I represent," he said.

A similar application was made by R. H. Greer, K.C., on behalf of Brooks, and after some discussion His Lordship consented.

The prisoners were then taken to the cells.

MOTHER AND BABE ARE ASPHYXIATED

Gas From Heater Kills Them at Home in London.

LONDON, Ont., May 7—Carbon Monoxide poisoning from a gas water heater, used in preparing water for her baby's bath, resulted in the tragic death yesterday of Mrs. Albert Marshall and her two months old daughter Shirley.

Mr. Marshall returning to the family apartment at 481 York street at noon found Mrs. Marshall dead beside a couch on the floor and the unclothed baby on the couch also lifeless. Mrs. Marshall had completed the baby's bath and was dressing the infant when overcome. A talcum powder box and pin cushion were on a table near at hand.

Dr. W. J. Stevenson was summoned, but both mother and child had been dead for some time. Coroner Dr. C. C. Ross conducted an inquiry and concluded that no inquest is necessary. Mrs. Marshall, daughter of Arthur Sadlier, former hotel proprietor and realtor, was married a few years ago, and was well-known to younger Londoners.

KILLER WHALE BREAKS CABLE

Twenty-ton Monster Becomes Entangled and Cuts Communications.

BITES THROUGH CORE.

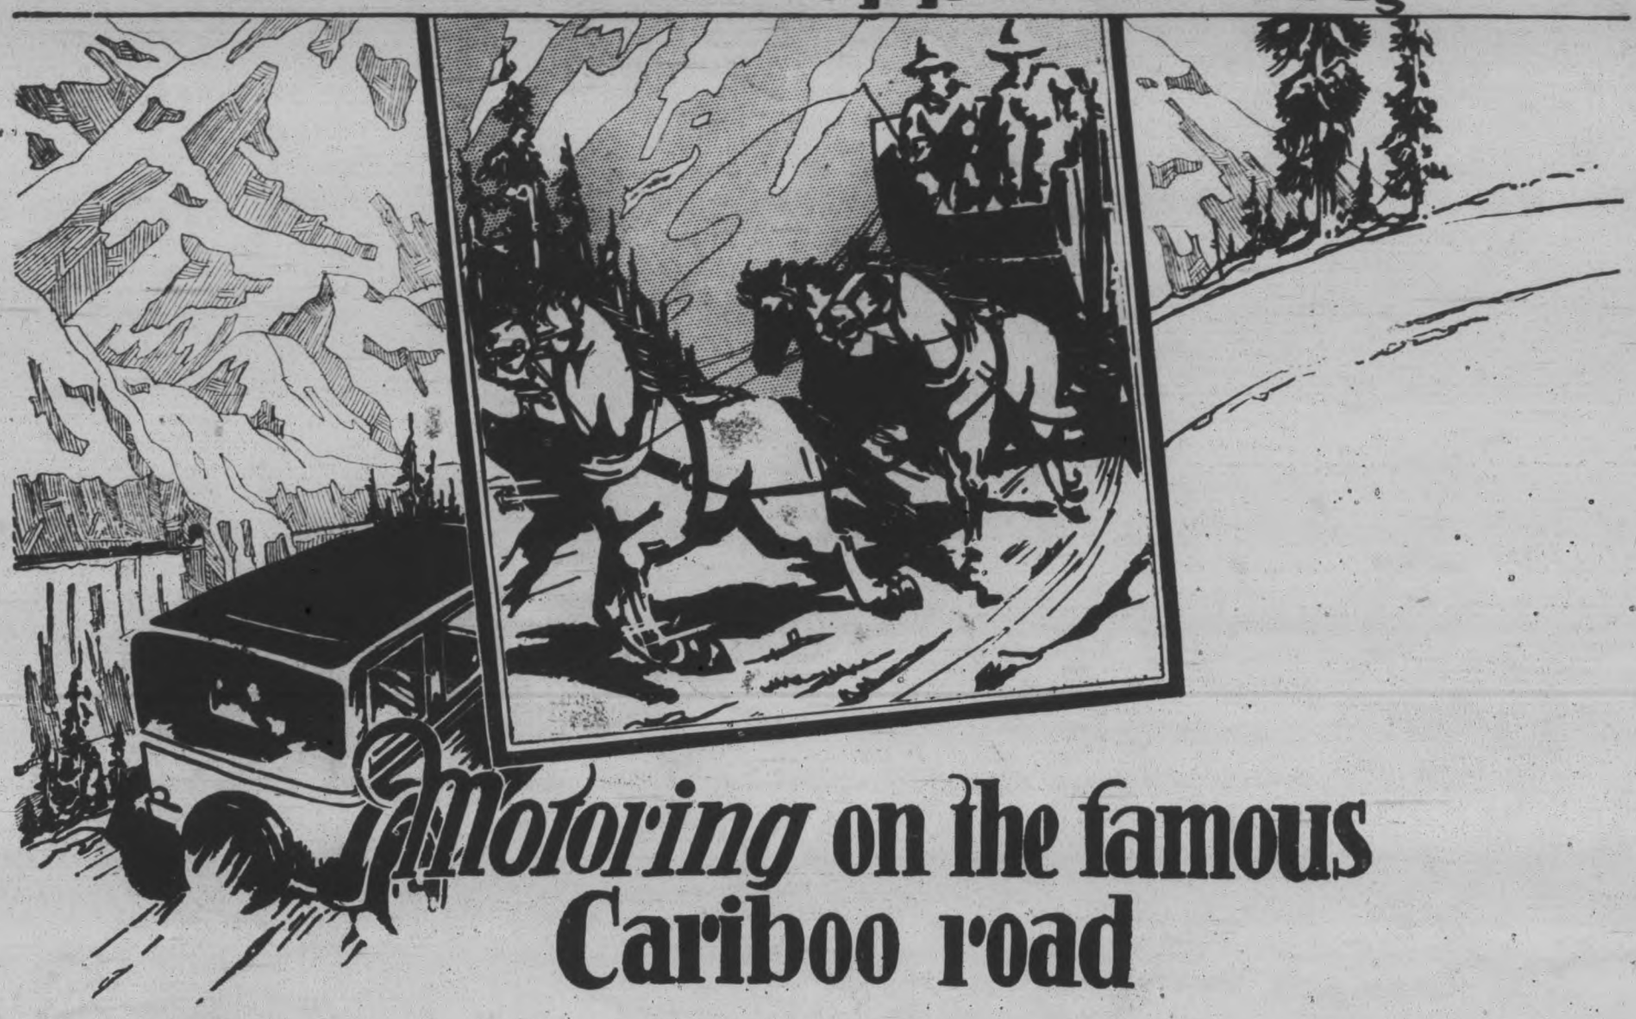
WASHINGTON, May 7—The War Department related yesterday how a strong-jawed whale interrupted communication between Seattle and Alaska last month by becoming entangled in the cable and lacerating 16 feet of it with his teeth.

The army cable ship Dellwood went out to repair the break and found the 20-ton monster with the cable wrapped about his lower jaw and around his body, three feet above the tail. The core of the cable had been severed by the whale's teeth in eight different places.

"Inasmuch as the cable core is covered both by gutta percha and heavy iron armor, and is very difficult to sever even with machinery, some idea of the whale's biting strength may be obtained," the War Department commented.

The whale was of the type known as killer and was about 28 feet long, having a maximum girth of about 19 feet.

BRITISH COLUMBIA
the land of opportunity



Motoring on the famous Cariboo road

GLOBE-TROTTERS say: "There are forty Switzerlands in British Columbia." The scenery is as varied as it is magnificent. One can spend weeks, and even months, touring a veritable wonderland. Through untamed splendors of the Canadian Coast Range, wanders the grand old Cariboo Road, along the majestic Fraser Canyon and then far into the northland. In 1861, when gold was discovered in the Cariboo, there followed a great influx to the "real Eldorado of British Columbia;" a wonderful road was hewn through this land of swirling rivers and yawning chasms, dazzling waterfalls, glistening glaciers and rugged ranges pointing their frozen fingers into the cloudless blue. Gold-crazed prospectors "cleaned up" anywhere from $20 to $300 a day; 50 million dollars in glittering gold was washed out of the bars along the rivers and creeks.

CANADA'S MOST WONDERFUL ROAD

Today, automobiles speed over the splendid road where once the miners toiled, and the weary miles of the gold rush are traveled in a few days. So rugged and inspiring is the scenery, that, as you round some curving promontory, you can almost hear the ring of hoofs and grinding of wheels, the clink of pick and shovel, and the oaths of eager-eyed men—haunting phantoms of a romantic past. The motorist likes to linger at Boston Bar, at Soda Creek, 70-Mile, 100-Mile and 150-Mile House, and other old roadhouses where those "he men" of bygone days foregathered. The road terminates at Barkerville—still an active producing camp. Alternate routes branch off at Quesnel, to Prince George, Vanderhoof and the great Bulkley Valley.

ENDLESS MILES OF HIGHWAYS

You'll want to motor down through the marvelous lake districts, the Kootenay, the Arrows and Okanagan, where a semi-tropic summer climate has clothed the fertile slopes in wondrous peach and apricot bloom, and British Columbia's famous, prize-winning apple, cherry, plum and pear orchards. Then there is the lovely Fraser Valley and the famous Harrison Hot Springs, where you will stop and imbibe new vigor from nature's health-giving waters. You'll love motoring up Grouse Mountain, at Vancouver; an unusual, scenic highway winding to a mountain top 4,000 feet high, where you're rewarded with a superb view of over 15,000 square miles of mountains, valleys, rivers and sea. You must include, too, a jaunt over the Malahat Mountain, up Vancouver Island Highway—truly "A Thousand miles of wonderland." Inexpensive motor transportation is available—private cars or de luxe public motor coaches.

THE LAND OF OPPORTUNITY

As in those days when men followed the promise of virgin gold, British Columbia holds out opportunity to all who come, and scatters nature's largesse with lavish hand. This rich province is larger than three United Kingdoms, and greater in productive area than the states of Washington, Oregon and California combined. Thousands of miles of land remain as yet undeveloped, fertile of soil, rich in minerals. Nowhere can the manufacturer find such a wealth of natural resource and industrial facility. The products of forest and mine, field and sea. Untold horsepower in mountain streams and finest quality steam coal. Service of three transcontinental railways and numerous branch lines, splendid highways and 50 or 60 steamship lines that ply from seaports now established as Canada's Western Gateway to world markets.

THE REVENUE OF 1926

Here are some of the figures that show the present prosperity and potential wealth of the westernmost province. A total of 1,500 busy manufacturing plants, in 1926, produced a revenue of $430,000,000—an increase of over 300 per cent. in three years! Agriculture produces $70,000,000, made up principally of dairy products, fruit, beef cattle, sheep, swine, poultry, fur and field crops. In 1926 the mines yielded $67,000,000 wealth, an increase of 11 per cent. over 1925. For the fourteenth time, British Columbia has produced more fisheries revenue than any other province, $25,000,000. But the greatest asset is timber, estimated as more than half of Canada's standing timber, the cut last year amounting to $82,000,000.

VACATION IN AN EVERGREEN PLAYGROUND

COST OF SENDING BEER TO U. S.

"Hawker told me it was impossible for him to do it because the C.P.R. did not run into the United States," said Mr. Lowe. However, he said, Hawker had volunteered to take the matter up with yardmaster McGowan of the Michigan Central and see what he thought about the matter. Later, said Mr. Lowe, he accompanied Mr. Hawker to see McGowan, and the letter "suggested a number of ways" that the cars might be moved into the United States. Mr. McGowan's first suggestions involved camouflaging the beer under the name of "laths," or some other commodity, and Mr. Lowe said he told him that it couldn't be done that way. Then, he said, McGowan suggested that the beer might be shipped in empty United States cars which were in transit through Canada to another point in the United States. The price suggested for McGowan was $200 a car, and the movement would have required the paying of many other railway employees.

Mr. Lowe said that when he found out how expensive the process would be he decided not to go into it. He denied that he had agreed to supply seals so that the cars could be properly sealed up after the beer had been placed in them. "McGowan told me I would have to get seals," he said. "I didn't say I had them."

Mr. Rowell asked him how it was that Carling's beer had got across into Detroit if it had not been sent there.

"They are manufacturing our beer in Detroit," retorted Mr. Lowe. "That's the biggest opposition we have today."

Questioned On Letter.

Mr. Lowe was questioned closely about a letter which has already been the subject of inquiry at the Windsor sittings. It is a letter bearing Harry Lowe's signature and written to the Ontario Superintendent of the Canadian Pacific Railway asking for the reinstatement of Hawker who was discharged some years ago, subsequent to his negotiations with Lowe. Sam Lowe, brother of Harry Lowe, has already admitted writing the latter, which, he said, his brother signed. This statement was supported by Harry Lowe today, who stated that the letter was "false" and that it was very "foolish."

"Mr. Lowe, who is your stenographer?" asked Mr. Rowell suddenly.

"I don't know" replied the witness.

"Do you mean to ask the commission to believe that?"

"Yes, I mean to ask the commission to believe that," Mr. Lowe said the dictated no letters, and that he did not know the stenographer.

"Mr. Rowell pointed out that the letter bore the initials "H.L.-I.H."

"What's the use of asking us to believe that nonsense?" remarked Chief Commissioner Brown, when Mr. Lowe claimed not to know who his stenographer was.

Sam Lowe was called to the stand to explain how the initials got on the letter. He said that he had put them there when he wrote the letter. They had no stenographer when the letter was signed, he said.

The commission adjourned to Hamilton.

WORE ALL HIS LOOT.

ALBANY, N.Y., May 7.—There was something incongruous in the appearance of the thin-faced but heavy-bodied negro Patrolman Waldo Church found lurking in the doorway of a clothing shop. He investigated, discovered that the suspect was wearing three pairs of trousers, one top coat, three raincoats, twenty caps and nineteen belts. The perambulating haberdashery was charged with grand larceny.

CADETS PRAISED BY INSPECTOR

Campbellford High and Public School Boys Make Good Showing.

SHORT ADDRESSES.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 7. — Favored with ideal weather, inspection of the Public and High School Cadets on the High School Grounds on Friday afternoon brought out a large number of citizens to watch the Cadets go through their drill.

Sixty-seven boys took part in the Public School inspection under Company Commander Captain Nadoo Reynolds. The platoon commanders were Owen Hendry, No. 1; E. Grills, No. 2; M. Labrash, No. 3; and Quartermaster - Sergeant Roland Richardson.

The High School Cadet officers were: Captain, Jack McAvoy, 1st Lieutenant Kenneth Godden; 2nd Lieutenant Alex Little; 3rd Lieutenant Stuart Carr. Sergeants: Maynord Watson, Roy Barnum, and Staunton Archer. Corporals Grant Thain, Gerald Bailey and Gerald Coveney. Drummer: Thornton Ibey.

Captain Trudeau of Kingston was the officer inspecting, and the programme took in the march past, followed by column platoon drill; close column platoon drill, company drill under 1st Lieutensant Kenenth Godden; extended order under 2nd Lieutenant Alex. Little, and physical training under 3rd Lieutenant Stuart Carr.

Captain Trudeau, in addressing the Cadets, complimented them on their splendid showing. He said he was glad to note a steady improvement year by year. The training received as a Cadet is good for both mind and body. Military training is not carried on in expectance of war; Canada is neither expecting war or looking for it; but, the speaker said, war might be thrust upon her, and it is better to be prepared. In conclusion the captain complimented the instructors for the very efficient training they had given the Cadets.

Mayor Bygott followed the Captain with a brief speech. The inspection concluded with three rousing cheers for Captain Trudeau.

HOW DANCES BURN US UP

Scientists at the University of Helsingfors, Finland, have just completed interesting measurements of the energy consumed in dancing, in terms of heat units. The fast mazurka, reports Popular Science Monthly, consumed the most fuel—10.87 calories an hour for each kilogram of body weight, or almost twice the energy consumed by a stonecutter plying his trade. The polka required 7.56 calories; fox trot, 4.73; scottische, 4.76, while the waltz used up the least energy, 3.99.

DOCTORS ADVICE TO THE SICK

To feel your best day in and day out, no more headaches, indigestion, gas on stomach, bilious attacks, rheumatism, kidney pains, bad breath, you must bathe your self inside. Start today by taking one Tanol Calomel tablet before meals or two at bedtime, then next morning drink a glass or two of hot water to wash from the stomach, liver, kidney and bowels all the previous day's waste, poison and toxins before more food is taken in. Get a few Tanol tablets from F. C. Weber, Charlotte street, Peterborough. They are harmless to take, do not nauseate, no bad after effects, no salts or seidlitz next morning, like ordinary calomel. Then you can eat better, sleep better, work better, think better and look better.

Nerves on Edge

When the nerves go wrong everything is wrong.

The whole human body including each and every organ is dependent on the nervous system for energy and direction.

When nerve force becomes exhausted the organs fail in their functions and the result is discomfort and pain.

Headache, neuritis, sciatic-rheumatism are often developed. But there is also restlessness, nervousness, irritability, sleeplessness and depression and discouragement.

To regain health and vigor the nervous system must be restored by such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

The use of narcotics and opiates only relieve pain at terrible expense to the nervous system. Lasting relief can only come by feeding the nerves. Your system has failed to do this and it is therefore necessary to employ Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to bring the nervous system back to normal.

MILLBROOK PLANS TO HAVE FIRE AREA

To Prevent Erection of Inflammable Buildings Near Stores —Council Meets.

MILLBROOK, May 7. — The regular meeting of the Millbrook council was held this week, and was attended by all the members, Reeve W. T. Wood presiding.

Communication from Chief Gimblett of Peterborough, regarding sale of fire engine, read by the clerk.

Councillors Lang and Eakins will inspect same in the near future.

Deputation from local fire company waited on council regarding new clothing equipment.

Stinson-Eakins: That fire hall committee be authorized to purchase 100 to 150 feet three-ply fire hose at best quotation.

Sayles-Eakins: That tenders for supply of clothing for fire company be received up to May 16 ,the following being specified:

Nine pairs rubber boots; 8 coats; 8 hats; 9 pairs gloves.

Reeve Wood informed Mr. John Hatherly that his request to have shade trees cut down in front of his property on Main street would receive the consideration of the council.

J. Stevenson also waited on council requesting that the road leading to his residence be repaired and a light installed. Council decided to make such repairs as it is considered necessary this season.

Scoutmaster E. H. Barnes addressed council on behalf of the 'teen age boys of the municipality, desiring information in regard to fitting local celebration of Canada's Diamond Jubilee. On patriotic grounds, Mr. Barnes urged the council to have the occasion marked in some manner appropriate to the importance of the national event.

Stinson-Lang: That a public meeting be called for Monday, May 9th in the town hall, giving the citizens opportunity to discuss the matter of holding a celebration locally on July 1st or 2nd.—Carried.

The report of the Fire Underwriters' Association was again read by the reeve, and after discussion the council instructed the clerk to reply that the request would be complied with as far as possible.

Councillor Sayles gave notice that he would introduce a bylaw at the next regular meeting of the council defining the fire limit area of business section of the village.

The erection of buildings of an inflammable nature in close proximity to stores and other business premises, will be prevented by the by-law in view.

A communication from the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, Toronto, was read, stating that the estimate on cost of local plant is being prepared and will be submitted as soon as details have been thoroughly canvassed.

Sayles and Eakins: That Council give orders for the taking up of sidewalk on Cavan street, and also from Union street to Tupper street.—Carried.

Necessary repairs to bridge near Mrs. Archer's residence, King street east, will be made, and in other sections as Council found necessary after its recent tour of the municipality.

Assessor J. J. Clarke presented the Assesment Roll for municipality for 1927.

Lang and Sayles: That Assessment Roll be received and that Council sit as a Court of Revision on Monday, June 6, at 7 p.m.—Carried.

Eakins and Lang: That the following accounts, read by Clerk, be ordered paid:

W. G. Russell & Sons	$11.30
Hydro-Electric	71.99
Millbrook Rural Tel. Co.	3.70
Municipal World	1.50
H. White	4.00
J. J. Clarke	90.00
H. Nattress	22.80
Attwooll & Sheppard	7.28
W. Budd	5.00
S. Donnelly	21.00

Council adjourned to meet again at the call of the Reeve.

Bienvenue à Québec

FOR THE

Canadian Handicraft and Folk Song Festival

MAY 20--21--22

DO YOU know the charm of the handwork of Old Quebec? The homespuns, coloured like hill and sky, that wear forever . . . the catalognes, vivid, modern looking things, just right as country house rugs . . . the delicate beadwork and moose hair embroideries . . . the bottes sauvages and ceintures fléchées (sashes) . . . the furniture, made from the traditional patterns of Normandy and the Loire?

You can see them, and many others, at the three-day Canadian Handicrafts and Folk Song Festival at the Chateau Frontenac, Quebec, May 20-22.

Looms will be at work. Embroiderers, basketmakers, ship model builders, snowshoe fashioners will ply their crafts. Many of the workers are accomplished singers themselves, and accompany their work with the traditional airs. Others will be accompanied by the most famous of the village chansonniers, some of them coming even from far Gaspé and Baie Saint Paul.

Besides the village singers, a group of celebrated Canadian artists, noted for their study of folk-music, will render concert programmes. Notable among them are Rodolphe Plamondon, tenor, late of the Paris Opera; J. Campbell McInnes, baritone, soloist with the Philadelphia Symphony; Mme. Jeanne Dusseau, soprano of the Chicago Opera Association; Mlle. Juliette Gaultier de la Verendrye, mezzo-soprano, well-known as a chanteuse of folk-music; Madame Cedia Brault, soprano; Germaine Le Bel and Charles Marchand, of Montreal. The Hart House Quartet will interpret harmonizations of melodies and arrangements for strings made by Ernest MacMillan, Healey Willan, Oscar O'Brien, Alfred La Liberté, Victor Brault and others. Also "rondes enfantines", organized by Madame Duquet, of Quebec; a choir from Indian Lorette; the Chanteurs de St. Dominique. There will be French Madrigals of the early Seventeenth Century. The Basilica will hold a service with traditional Gregorian music.

SAFEGUARDING MILK BY PASTEURIZATION

(Report of M.H.O., Toronto, Continued from Thursday)

The first depots were established by Mr. Straus in New York City in 1893, for the distribution of pasteurized milk to infants in the poorer districts of that city. He states that in the months of July and August alone in 1890, 1891 and 1892, there died 13,201 children under five years of age, of which 6,122 died from infant cholera or diarrhoeal diseases. Wherever Straus' milk depots were established, the infant mortality was greatly reduced. Mr. Straus continued these depots at his own expense until 1919.

The example set by Mr. Straus in turning to practical account the scientific knowledge and advice which he had received from Jacobi and Freeman has unquestionably been a great force throughout the civilized world, and is, in itself, enough to immortalize his name.

The New York Milk Committee also gave a great impulse to the work of reduction of infant mortality in New York City. This committee was established in 1907, by the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor. The average infant mortality for the previous ten years in New York City was 153 per thousand births. The committee announced as its chief object the reduction of infant mortality, and as its second object the organization of the milk supplies of New York City. It was composed of a number of prominent philanthropic men and women who freely gave of their time to the good work. During the first year of its existence this committee established four infant stations, which it operated at its own expense. These stations dispensed milk in quart bottles and sent nurses into the homes to instruct the mothers how to prepare the feeding for infants and how to care for them. During the following years these infant milk depots were increased, until 1911, when they were operating, in all, 31 depots. Their opening was followed by a wonderful reduction in the infant mortality. During the period of the Committee's Milk Depot Work extending over four years, the infant mortality of the city was reduced from 153 per thousand to 111.

YOUTH SUCCUMBS AFTER TWO WEEKS

ROANOKE, Va., May 7 (Canadian Press).—Walter Boothe, farmer lad who had been kept alive more than two weeks by artificial respiration, died early today.

The youth had been kept alive by his friends raising and lowering his arms to force air into the lungs which collapsed on April 21, when he was about to undergo an operation for dislocated vertebrae.

As death stalked before him the eighteen-year-old lad smiled and encouraged his companions who stood tirelessly beside his bed as human pulmotors. Now and then he spoke to his family of the mysteries of life after death which he felt were drawing their curtains about him.

ORDER OF THE EASTERN STAR "ACROSS CANADA" TOUR MEETING WITH EXCELLENT RESPONSE.

The personally conducted all-expense tour across Canada organized by the Order of the Eastern Star of the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec is being well received by members of the Order.

The party will travel by Canadian National Railways special train leaving Toronto, Thursday, July 21st and the itinerary calls for stopovers in the principal cities of Western Canada, and also in the wonderful and magnificent scenery of the Canadian Rockies, including that gem of the Rockies, Jasper National Park. Certainly no better occasion could be chosen in which to make such a trip as this Diamond Jubilee Year, the sixtieth anniversary of Confederation particularly by the members of the Order of the Eastern Star, who have the welfare of the Dominion so much at heart. The trip will be long remembered by those fortunate enough to enjoy it, not only on account of the wonderful story of Canada which will be unfolded before their eyes, but also because of the pleasant and congenial company which will add much to the pleasures of the trip.

Descriptive booklet and reservations may be secured from the Passenger Traffic Department of the Canadian National Railways at Toronto ,or from any Agent of the Company. 2d-7-19

A.Y.P.A. HOLDS PLAY CONTEST

Three of District Branches Compete in Lindsay— Others Act Here.

ONE ACT PRODUCTIONS.

An innovation in the way of contests was staged last evening when the Anglican Young People's Association of the Peterborough district presented three one-act plays in the new parish hall of St. Paul's Anglican church in Lindsay. This unique contest will be finished on Wednesday night next, when three other one-act plays will be given by the young people, in St. John's parish hall, the best offering of the six plays to be then decided by the judges, Mr. F. E. Kerr, of the teaching staff of the Prince of Wales School, Mr. A. D. Clark, of the Canadian Pacific Railway staff, and Miss Cathleen McCarthy, of the staff of The Examiner.

About two hundred people, including between thirty and forty from Omemee, and about twenty from Peterborough, were present in St. Paul's hall in Lindsay last evening, for the first three plays of the series, presented by the A. Y. P. A. societies of St. Paul's church, Lindsay, St. Thomas' church, Omemee, and St. Luke's church, Peterborough. Rev. F. O. Gallagher, M.A., B.D., assistant at St. Paul's church, acted as chairman. During intermissions, piano numbers were played by Mrs. W. McClintock, and after the performance refreshments were served to the various casts and visitors, in the downstair rooms.

Applause was general for the three entertaining little plays, which were required to be of the comedy type, to be not more than thirty-five minutes in duration, and to contain not more than eight characters. They were effectively presented, with attention in every instance to characterization and snappy action, the young actors excelling themselves in presentations of various types.

"Thirty Minutes for Refreshments" was the offering of St. Paul's church A. Y. P. A. of Lindsay, and depicted the adventure of a "dyed in the wool" bachelor who is pursued by importunate females. He pauses at a railway refreshment counter to order a meal, and, through a mix-up in the delivery of two notes by a colored servant, has unexpected visitors in the persons of a young bride and a sentimental maiden lady of uncertain age. His dinner grows cold and he grows hot over the resultant complications. Parts in this play were taken as follows: Eddie Nesbitt, as John Downley, the bachelor; Goldwyn Gamble, as Clarence Fitts, the colored servant; Percy Shuttleworth, as John Foxton, a young married gentleman; Jack Cailey, as Major Pepper, brother to the maiden lady aforesaid; Josephine Maddison, as Mrs. Foxton; Stella Graham, as Arabella Pepper, a maiden lady, and Ruby Graham, as Polly, a waiting maid at the Blackwater Junction restaurant. Mrs. E. R. Lounsbury directed the play.

"Converting Bruce" was the play presented by the young people from Christ church, in Omemee, and dealt with the efforts of a pretty girl and her chum to convert a young college boy who detested women in general. He pretends to be deaf, falling in with a plan of his boy friend, and the young lady has difficulty in vamping him, finally succeeding, however, to the satisfaction of all concerned. Those taking part were: H. W. Hill, as Jack Webster; and Jack Bent, as Bruce Harrington, both college boys; Marion Dickson, as Peggy Lee, and Ethel Stephenson, as Beth Stuart, fair co-eds. The directress was Mrs. Stephenson.

The play presented by the A. Y. P. A. of St. Luke's church, Peterborough, and entitled, "The New Reporter," outlined the trials of a young man who fell in love with an editor's daughter and then took the place of a new reporter in her father's office. He has various difficulties with people who come in to get "pieces in the paper," and becomes involved in difficulties with Mrs. Brannigan of Fish Lane and Otto Hansler, who has just "thrown a real party" at his home, with all the trimmings. The new reporter is more truthful than diplomatic in his newspaper writeups of affairs, and calls down the wrath of subscribers on his head, while the real reporter stands by and stutters in an effort to reveal his identity.

Those taking part in this play were Mrs. W. Hepburn, as Mrs. Brannigan; Gertrude Doupe, as Nancy, the editor's daughter; Roland Krant, as the editor; Morgan Perry, as the hero, Jack Lewis; Douglas Bethune, as Reginald Tupper, the real "new reporter," Herbert Lee, as Freddy, the office boy; Victor Sedgewick, as Otto Hansler, and Howard Pammett as Officer Flynn. Miss Flossie Pammett acted as directress.

Mr. Cecil Hope, convenor of the Dramatic Committee, which has charge of this contest, appeared during an intermission to thank the Lindsay A. Y. P. A. for the use of their hall, and to announce the finish of the contest next Wednesday evening at St. John's parish hall, Peterborough.

INVISIBLE RAYS SOLVE CRIME.

Criminals who alter documents with any ink that contains iron can be detected by ultra-violet rays, according to Professor Bruning, Berlin scientist, in Popular Science Monthly. Postal thieves who open letters and reseal them also are branded guilty by the rays; one kind of mucilage, for instance, glows with a fluorescent light under the rays, while another does not.

Artificial pearls, however, skilfully made, are revealed as false, as are imitation diamonds. The finest genuine diamonds shine with a magnificent purple light under rays of the ultra-violet lamp.

NEW PLANE STOPS LIKE A MOTOR CAR

Remarkable "Sea Hawk" Rivals Birds in Speed Range and Control.

Only six feet of air separate the plane from the ground. Motor roaring, it flirts with the earth. Gracefully, lazily, it skims closer, throttled so low that a fast motor car could outdistance it. It touches—rises again, wheels spinning from the contact—and airily circles the field. Now it lands. Rather, it "sits down." Instead of bumping for many yards allong the ground, it glides to earth and stops within a few feet!

Such was the first public test recently at Mitchel Field, N.Y., of a remarkable new fighting airplane, the Sea Hawk, built for the U.S. Navy. The plane's ease of maneuvering at slow speed, and its hydraulic wheel brakes indicated, says Popular Science Monthly, that it could land directly upon the deck of an airplane carrier. Yet, when its 425-horsepower motor is opened up, the plane achieves a speed of 170 miles an hour. The Sea Hawk is called the fastest plane in the world equipped with an air-cooled motor.

Embodied in its construction are a thrust-back lower wing, enabling the pilot to see his landing gear; shock absorbers; staggered wing construction, and curved upper wing, to avert danger of the deadly tail-spin. It can be converted in a few minutes into a seaplane by the addition of pontoons. Under the cowling are two machine guns, which fire through the propeller.

Novels afety devices—features usually sacrificed to speed and maneuverability in fighting planes—are provided. A button in the cockpit, in case of fire, squirts extinguisher fluid on the engine. A valve empties the gasoline tanks into the sea in an instant. And a rubber lifeboat is within reach of the pilot, provided with bottles of liquefied carbon dioxide gas that inflate it in six seconds, and small oars for paddling, if the plane should fall into the ocean!

WHEAT POOL HIGHLY PRAISED

U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Says It Has Solid Foundation.

CREDIT TO CANADIANS

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 7.—(By Canadian Press)—Glowing tribute to the achievement of the Canadian farmer in establishing on a solid foundation a co-operative grain marketing system, was paid by W. M. Jardine, United States secretary of agriculture, in an address here before the International Wheat Pool Conference. The success of the Canadian wheat pool, Mr. Jardine said, bore splendid testimony to the resourcefulness and ability of the Canadian farmers and agricultural leaders. Their successes, he suggested, should serve as an example to producers in other countries.

The gathering of delegates from all quarters of the globe to discuss the problems of grain marketing, the speaker emphasized as striking proof that co-operation could bridge international boundaries.

"I believe strongly in the possibilities of co-operation, not only as an efficient method of marketing farm produce, but as a means of co-ordinating production and marketing, and of bringing the farmer into contact with the requirements of the consumer of his product," Mr. Jardine declared. "In the United States," he added, "we have many problems to contend with. The co-operation of all groups is necessary to solve them, and we can work most effectively with the grain growers of other countries when we complete unity within the co-operative grain movement of our own country."

Advocates of the pooling plan in the United States often wondered why it had not met with more general favor among wheat producers here, in view of the success in Canada. The explanation, the speaker asserted, was to be found in the fact that although conditions of production and marketing problems were similar in the two countries, they were by no means identical.

The Canadian crop, consisting almost exclusively of one variety of hard spring wheat, was grown in one region, in which production and marketing practices were standardized. In contrast the marketing of grain of the United States presented many complexities. The location of various producing areas with respect to market outlets, presented one kind of difficulty; climate and topography were responsible for other differences between producing areas. These conditions, Mr. Jardine said, had resulted in the production of many varieties of grain, which found their way to different markets. The problem was further complicated by differences in facilities for handling at country points and in method of selling at terminal markets.

Appreciable strides had been made toward the solution of these problem, the secretary of agriculture said. The existing grain marketing system of the United States had been developed gradually. Those interested in improving the prevailing structure, must essentially have regard to conditions and differences which are peculiar to the country.

"Because they handle commodities, the price of which is influenced by complex, world-wide conditions, co-operative organizations must have complete information regarding the supply of grain in all important producing countries. They must also possess knowledge of conditions influencing demand. They must have an historical basis for the use of this information in order that they may interpret, with reasonable accuracy, the inter-play of intricate forces which determines the basic price of the product they handle. In other words," Mr. Jardine said, "the co-operatives must know the probable base price in advance of the marketing season. Once the season is under way they must know whether price quotations accurately reflect market conditions, or whether, because of temporary influences, the price is lower or higher than the probable average for the season. Furthermore, the co-operatives must have sufficient volume to enable them to stabilize the situation and to check unwarranted price recessions.

"Some of these factors are controllable, but their control presupposes a large, efficient co-operative organization, or at least a degree of co-ordination among co-operative agencies which does not exist at the present time.

"It is not my purpose to offer the co-operative associations a ready-made plan. In my opinion, it is the task of the associations to develop such a plan on the basis of their knowledge and experience. Co-operative marketing can not be handed down to the producers by the government, or even by friendly organizations. It must come from the farmers. It must express their needs. It must serve their interests.

"In the development of sound plans to aid the grain producers, research and service agencies should give every assistance that is within their power. I can pledge on behalf of the United States department of agriculture, our earnest desire to assist in the development of a constructive marketing program. Furthermore, I believe it is the duty of the administration and of Congress to assist through the enactment of such legislation as may be necessary to extend and strengthen the co-operative marketing of wheat and other grain."

The system of mass production was originated 200 years ago among the ikon painters of Kholuy, a Russian village. By passing each ikon through 100 hands, the village was able to turn out 2,000,000 each year.

AVIATOR PLANS TO MEET FLIERS

Head of League Will Guide Them From Mid-Ocean To Paris.

FRENCHMAN MISSING.

PARIS, May 6 (Canadian Press).—Clifford B. Harmon of New York, president of the International League of Aviators, is planning to meet the American Bellanca plane in mid-ocean when it attempts to fly across the Atlantic from New York to Paris, to guide the flyers to Paris, the New York Herald Tribune's Paris edition says.

Captain Charles Nungesser and Major Coli are ready to start from this side as soon as the weather is favorable.

Commander Richard Byrd may not start from the American side this spring because he cannot secure a satisfactory pilot to replace Floyd Bennett, injured in the last start.

SEEK FOR AVIATOR.

DAKAR, West Africa, May 6 (Canadian Press).—Great anxiety is felt for the safety of the French aviator, Captain St. Roman, who left St. Louis, Senegal, early yesterday for an attempted Transatlantic flight to Pernambuco, Brazil. Vessels in the South Atlantic are being asked to search for the plane. The distance should have been covered in twenty hours.

EAT BIG BERRY; GROW THIN

By eating a giant strawberry which recently was brought to this country, one may reduce weight and become more beautiful, according to those who found the berry in China. The beautifier thrives along the Pacific Coast south of the Yangtze river. It grows on trees, bears about six crops a year and has beautiful flowers. Efforts will be made to cultivate it in this country.

INCREASING LEAD

Concrete Provincial Highway, Goderich South, Ont.

Ending Costly Maintenance Means
MORE NEW MILEAGE

You cannot spend large sums maintaining non-permanent roads and at the same time build the new mileage modern traffic demands.

The solution is, to end costly maintenance by embarking on a programme of permanent concrete highway building. Many communities took time by the forelock and built with concrete at the outset. Today, they are reaping such benefit from their foresight that other communities are hastening to fall in line to disentangle economically the snarl caused by inadequate roads and swiftly-growing traffic.

Concrete roads emphatically end costly upkeep. They withstand the heaviest traffic under all conditions, providing a safe, even driving surface for all types of vehicles.

They cut gas, tire and car repair bills twenty-five per cent and more, invite tourist traffic, aid industry and add to the joy of living. By all means advocate them.

"It's the little they cost to maintain that makes Concrete Highways economical."

ICE CREAM CAUSES MILK LACK.

So zealous did ice cream factories of Melbourne, Australia, become during a recent hot spell that they caused a shortage of milk in the city. The three factories used in one week 20,800 gallons of milk, as compared with 7,000 gallons in a normal summer week. This did not leave a sufficient quantity of milk for housewives, who registered protests.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

"Mr. Robert Hathaway asked me to check up on the force and give him the information about the size of shoes they wear." Chief of Police Morehouse answered the district attorney's question defiantly.

"The Mr. Hathaway who is engaged to be married to the sister of this defendant?" Banning snapped.

"Guess so. He's the only Robert Hathaway I know," Morehouse retorted.

"That is all, Chief," Banning dismissed him, his voice more cordial.

In rapid succession Banning examined two detectives, a number of the Cluny servants, the sheriff of Marlboro County to whom Cherry and Chris had given themselves up the morning after the murder, and, finally, two surprise witnesses.

The first was Clarence J. Purdy, a prosperous middle-aged business man, a neighbor of the murdered man.

"Where do you live, Mr. Purdy?" Banning asked.

"At 518 Crescent Drive," Mr. Purdy answered gravely, his broad, fair face a little flushed with embarrassment.

"Now, Mr. Purdy, you remember the evening of Thanksgiving Day November 25, last?"

"I do."

"Go ahead, Mr. Purdy, and tell your story your own way," Banning suggested, settling back in his chair, his pince nez twirling on a black ribbon.

"My wife and I were invited to the Cluny wedding and at about twenty minutes to nine, the hour set for the ceremony, we got the car out of the garage and drove it down the driveway toward the street. Just as the car was rolling out into the street a coupe, driven very rapidly, almost collided with my car."

"Go on, Mr. Purdy."

"The driver of the coupe wrenched the wheel, to swerve it out of the way of my car, which was going very slowly, was almost stopped, in fact. My headlights shone directly into the coupe for an instant so that I could see its occupants clearly—"

"And did you recognize them, Mr. Purdy?" Banning asked loudly.

"I recognized the man as Mr. Christopher Wiley. I know him very well, was a friend of his father's."

"Was someone with him, Mr. Purdy?"

"Yes, sir, a young lady. She screamed and grabbed the wheel of the coupe."

"Have you since learned who the young lady was, Mr. Purdy?"

"It was Miss Cherry Lane, later Mrs. Wiley," Purdy answered.

"You mean this defendant? Please stand up, Mrs. Wiley," Banning directed curtly.

Cherry rose, her handbag slipping to the floor. In her short black crepe dress, with its wide round white organdy collar and deep white cuffs, her little face as white as the petals of a magnolia blossom, the copper-and-gold curls shining against her brow and cheeks, she looked like a frightened child, embarrassed in the presence of company.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

FOR SATURDAY, MAY 7, 1927

Benefic aspects dominate today, according to astrology. Venus is strongly adverse, however.

There is an especially good sign for educators and the forecast of new public recognition of their importance.

Schools and universities are subject to a direction of the stars that presages for students high attainments.

The seers foretell for graduates of '27 fame and success. Among them is a future president of the United States.

This is not a lucky wedding day, it is foretold, because there may be slight sympathy and understanding between those married under this direction of the stars.

Aviation is now subject to a planetary government making for more intense general interest than formerly and it will be employed more widely for commercial purposes than formerly.

Real estate is now subject to conditions that are most favorable and in all parts of the United States. Ownership of ground will be profitable the seers foretell and they add that there will be a flood of population from foreign lands, notwithstanding our present-day immigration laws.

England is under the adverse rule of the stars, it is declared, and may expect a summer of many tribulations.

Fevers are to be imported into Great Britain, it is forecast, and tourists may encounter certain dangers.

The gay London season may be overshadowed by grave portents, the seers announce, but it will be marked by many brilliant events in which Americans are to participate.

This is said to be a good day to select land, but final decision should be delayed.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be cautious about signing papers in the coming year.

Children born on this day are likely to have great gifts and to succeed in science.

For Sunday, May 8, 1927.

Forbidding stars frown on the planet Earth to-day, according to astrology, which finds many aspects adverse.

It is a day in which there may be a sense of being thwarted and for this reason it is wise to assume a negative attitude of mind.

For leaders the aspects are sinister, indicating that the people will be easily prejudiced against those who wield power or influence.

The sway is not favorable for the clergy, who may find that congregations are critical and difficult to reach with the spoken word.

Despite what appear disappointing conditions where religion is concerned there is to be great interest in spiritual things.

Teachers of philosophy will multiply in the lands and will establish new schools of thought in various parts of the country.

For the lake region and the Pacific coast extraordinary intellectual interests are to develop, it is foretold and education is to be encouraged by princely bequests.

This day is not favorable to the aged, who may be affected physically as well as mentally by the planetary influences.

Youth is establishing the new order of things, the seers point out, and for that reason the older generation must accept change cheerfully. There is to be a period of supreme attainment, according to the prophets who read the stars, but it will not come until after another great clash of arms.

There is a good sign to-day for outdoor recreations and especially for motoring or for aviation.

Inventors will reap large rewards within the year, but they must be wise in guarding their brain secrets, for there will be much robbery of ideas.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a year of much test, but it should be finally successful.

Children born on this day probably will be large-minded and generous. They should have all the qualities that command success.

For Monday, May 9, 1927.

according to astrology, which finds that benefic aspects are dominant.

It is a lucky day for seeking employment or for attempting to improve one's position in life.

Employers and all who hold power in their grasp are supposed to be more approachable under this sway than they are to ordinary times.

There is a first-rate sign for promoters for capital is less wary than usual, while this configuration prevails.

This is an auspicious time for giving presents of any sort since they establish between those who give and those who receive a pleasant bond.

Women are subject to the best influence of the stars to-day, which should stimulate them to successful effort of every sort.

The summer is to be a time for rest, reflection and preparation for women, the seers prophesy, for they are to render important public service before the end of the year.

This should be a lucky wedding day, since it presages many benefits from older persons, employers and new friends.

Quarrels betweenn women may be easily precipitated under this rule and for this reason it is well tp practise diplomacy.

This is a fortunate sway for theatres and places of amusement which are to benefit greatly in the next few weeks.

Play of a higher standard are to be produced and new stars are to be recognized.

Astrologers prophesy a new beauty aid which is to benefit women by preserving youth indefinitely.

Persons whose birthdate it is should cultivate their friends in the coming year which should be fairly prosperous.

Children born to-day have the augury of success through science. Many chemists are born under this sign.

Became So Weak Could Hardly Stand

Mrs. Wm. Palmer, Tomahawk, Alta., writes:—"Last spring I had a long spell of sickness and became so weak I could hardly stand. I could not sleep at night as the least little noise would wake me up. I tried blood tonics and other nerve pills, but they did me no good, and I was getting worse.

I wrote my mother about my condition, and she sent me three boxes of

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

This mauve georgette frock is worn over a pale pink slip which can be seen through the openwork of the embroidery and drawnwork.

What a lot of old-time fashions have been revived this spring! The interesting thing—and the unusual thing—is that the dressmakers and designers have not turned back far enough in the book of fashion to get fashions that we really consider quaint or historic or picturesque or romantic. They have gone back to the 60's and the 70's and the 80's and the 90's and discovered all sorts of tricks that seem hardly far enough out of date to be interesting.

Ostrich-feather boas elbow sleeves bishop sleeves tuck-in "shirtwaists" leather belts have been brought to light—and now here comes the peek-a-boo frock! Only it is the peek-a-boo frock with a difference. In this day when clothes are supposed to be quite shameless the peek-a-boo has been robbed of all its old-time naughtiness and is worn over a perfectly adequate underslip.

It is the effect of the underslip in fact that makes the peek-a-boo frock seem especially attractive at present. Fine openwork embroidery and hemstitching can be best displayed if shown over a contrasting color. Even the delicate tracery of fine lace can be shown to better advantage if it is posed over another color. So it is that we see black lace and openwork worn over pink, pink may be worn over mauve mauve over blue and green over yellow.

A season or so ago you may have had a feeling that the underslip of frocks that were at all transparent should be chosen to match. Now when the transparent frock shows fine embroidery or drawnwork that would in truth be like hiding your candle under a bushel.

KNOX W. M. S.

Regular Monthly Meeting Held —Delegates Appointed.

The regular monthly meeting of the W. M. S of Knox United Church was held on Thursday May 5th. The meeting opened with the usual devotional exercises.

Miss H. Huffman was appointed to take charge of the Watch Tower. Delegates were appointed to the Presbyterial to be held here next week, as follows: Miss Huffman and Mrs. Long with Mrs. R. Laing, for C. G. I. T. work, and Mrs. H. Clegg for Mission Band work.

Mrs. Gerard was appointed representative on the Grenfell Dorcas Committee.

Mrs. Watt the president then welcomed Miss Keith back to Knox Church and Miss Keith gave a very interesting paper on the work in India and expressed her pleasure on being in Peterborough again.

Mrs. Wood gave a very pleasing solo and the meeting closed with prayer by Miss Keith.

BEAUTY HINTS

By HEDDA HOYT
(United Press Fashion Editor)

NEW YORK, May 7 United Press).—There are no longer certain styles for the stout woman. Perhaps it's because there are no longer stout women. At any rate, the over-developed figure now wears exactly the same type of frocks that her spindle-legged sister wears. The only difference being the size and the leaving off of certain trimming details.

Now that rounded neck lines are ousted in favor of square necks and V-shaped necks, the stout woman can wear almost any of the modern dresses. Rounded neck lines were positively a bugbear for her while she's at her best in V-shapes or square necklines. In mentioning necklines, its advisable for the person with a short neck to avoid the popular shoulder corsage. Where the huge-petaled flower is becoming on the slender person it is decidedly unornamental on a larger person.

Unless the hips are exceedingly out of proportion, the stout figure looks better in gowns with a low-placed waist line for these break the figure. If the hips are over-large the lines of the bodice should be cut a little full so that the upper portion of the gown will balance with the skirt portion. A softly bloused waist line will often soften the curves at the back of the body. Where the bust is broad, the bodice should always be broken in outline. Thus rever jabots, deep V-shaped front closings, vestees, etc., make one appear smaller. The average plump figure can stand a snug hip line, providing the bodice is cut full enough and the skirt graduating in width toward the hem by means of panels, drapery, flounces or insets.

Sleeves for the plump arm should neither be conspicuously snug nor full. The happy medium sleeve is suggested. Long sleeves, you know, do much toward adding an appearance of slenderness. Skirt lengths for the plump person should never be conspicuously short. On the other hand, they should be short enough to conform with fashion without shouting antiquity.

I would suggest touthful lines for stout women rather than matronly lines. The more matronly we dress, it seems, the larger we look. While dresses are youthful to-day they're seldom ridiculously childish. Any figure can wear them.

Causing a near-panic, a bear that escaped from its keeper during a performance at the Alexandra Palace, London, recently, ignored the frightened audience but raided the confectionery stand and ate all the sweets before consenting to be captured.

BOOK RACKS MADE FOR UNITED CHURCH

Hiawatha Residents Hold Bee and Make 41—Hiawatha News.

HIAWATHA, May 7.—On Monday evening, May 2, in the Memorial Hall, a very busy time was spent by a number of residents of the community. Forty-one book racks were made and forty were varnished for the United Church.

Each rack is made of five pieces of wood. Brackets are five and one half inches in length and cross pieces are nineteen inches long. The racks were nailed together, and two screw nail holes were bored in each side to attach them to the church pews.

Only forty of the racks were stained as the supply of liquid was used too thickly.

These will make a great improvement to the local church.

Have you a good memory for faces? Can you recognize a person whose face you have seen in the movies dozens of times—whose picture you have seen printed in the magazines and newspapers hundreds of times—whose name is on everyone's lips?

The above pictures are excellent likenesses of seven world famous movie stars. Can you identify them? You should be able to name every one at a glance. If you can't name them by sight the number on each picture gives you a clue. Instructions on clues are printed to the right. Send the right name for each star's picture for first prize. If you are entirely correct we will write you at once and you will be awarded 175 points (see rules). Be neat and careful. Comply with the rules. Be sure of a prize.

CLUES

The names of the 7 world-famous Movie Stars shown above are—

Bebe Daniels, Florence Vidor, Lillian Gish, Madge Bellamy, Pola Negri, Gloria Swanson, Lois Wilson.

BUT WHICH IS WHICH?

Their pictures are numbered. These numbers give you clues to who they are. Write down the alphabet A to Z. Number it, A 1, B 2, C 3, and so on. Change the letters of the name of each star into numbers by finding their number position in the alphabet. Add up the figures of each name. After you have each total, reduce each total to a single number by adding up the figures of each total once or twice. For instance, No. 7 is Pola Negri. P O L A N E G R I 16+15+12+1+14+5+7+18+9 totals 97. Then 97, 9+7=16 and 16, 1+6=7. Therefore Pola Negri is 7 or 7 is Pola Negri. Work out each name like that until you find the number that corresponds with the number on each picture, and you will know which is which.

PONTIAC SIX

Youthful, Rakish, Colorful

EVER since the Pontiac Six flashed into the market, folks have been wondering, "When will General Motors build a sport roadster on the Pontiac Six chassis? How soon will Pontiac Six power, speed, beauty and endurance be offered in a dashing, low-swung two to four passenger type?"

Now . . . here it is! As lithe as a thoroughbred, as happy as a lark, as smart as a debutante just back from Paris.

Lucerne Blue is the prevailing color — Lucerne Blue Duco brightened by striping in Faerie Red. And just as far from the commonplace is everything else about the car—grey shark grain leather upholstery, nickel-plated windshield side arms, a completely removable top of double texture grey—and a swanky, flaring rear deck with a spacious disappearing rumble seat!

You never saw a sport roadster quite like this—quite as alert, as intimate, as refreshing to the eye. And if there's youth in your blood—or youth in years—you'll be wanting it some day soon—because it's a splendid quality car, through and through.

Matinee Ladies

BY William B. Courtney

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"MATINEE LADIES," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Bob Ward, poor college student, working as a dancing partner for rich women, falls in love with Sally Smith, a cigarette girl. She warns him against the mysterious and beautiful Mrs. Hammond, habitue of the roadhouse, who finds her "thrill" in "hunting" Bob, who, however, trusts her. She offers him free use of her secret apartment. Bob quarrels with Sally, breaks up a wild party she attends, and goes to Mrs. Hammond. Sally and her friend Mazie Revere learn that Mrs. Hammond is the wife of Aldrich, a great financier—

CHAPTER XVI—Continued

Sally, who had been listening eagerly, clutched at a chance to save Bob yet from the clutches of the designing vampire.

"Some wives are cheaters, too!" she cried, "and I could tell you something about your wife!"

Aldrich's guilty conscience grabbed at this straw in the wind. Manlike, he became at once the injured party, covering up his own shortcomings by a quick and terrible rage. The double standard of morality was not for his household. Croesus' wife, like Caesar's, must be above reproach. He thundered over Sally;

"What are you hinting at, girl? Tell me at once!"

Sally, frightened by his outburst, looked to Mazie helplessly, while Aldrich reiterated his furious demands. Mazie shrugged and nodded as much as to say,

"The cat's out of the bag."

Sally blurted a fragmentary and tearful story of how Mrs. Hammond had won Bob from her, from his college, from his honor. By the time she had finished, Aldrich's temper was real. It was not his wife's transgression that infuriated him so much as the realization that he, the world's richest man, had been cheated.

He cried out for the address of the "lovenest."

Mazie, who for all her sophistication was as frightened as Sally by the stark melodrama that was unfolding in their hands, gave it to him, moved by animus for Mrs. Hammond.

Aldrich stepped back; whipped a pistol from his pocket, and declaimed:

"Both of them will suffer for this. Both!"

Then he was gone, raving.

Raw fear paralyzed Sally. Oh, what had she done, in her spitefulness? Not alone Mrs. Hammond, but Bob, too, would suffer. She fell on her knees before Mazie.

"Mazie, Mazie, take me there, to Mrs. Hammond's apartment, quick! Please, for God's sake. We must beat Aldrich there, or he'll kill Bob!"

"Serves him right!" declared Mazie.

But Sally's frantic pleas moved her, despite herself. Swiftly she threw on a cloak, and raced downstairs to a taxi with Sally.

Meanwhile, in the cozy studio of the lovenest apartment, Bob Ward sat in a deep chair before the fireplace. There was everything to make him comfortable—and beautiful Mrs. Hammond was curled up on a fluffy bearskin rug at his feet, her gorgeous head pillowed on his knee. But Bob was far from comfortable. Youth goes to extremes in all things, and then tries to take the first train back. But here was a ravishingly beautiful woman to keep Bob to the cynical and immoral tangent on which he had flown off when disillusionment gripped him. In sheer bitterness of heart, malice of soul, Bob had forsworn all the things that up to now he had held dear in life, and had flung himself hotly to Mrs. Hammond—

Already her eyes were misted, her voice low and vibrant with passion, as she anticipated the Sicilian hours with her young Adonis in this luxurious temple of love.

"Everything is lovely, Bob, except a homey atmosphere. I'll run into the bedroom and put on my negligee. My lovely negligee that I have been saving especially for this precious hour with—the most precious boy in the world!"

Bob forced himself to smile; and when, in getting to her feet with the aid of his outstretched hand, she suddenly flung herself into his lap, melted into the strength and youth of his splendid body, Bob felt himself forced, through a sense of obligation if not of reciprocal passion, to display interest.

There came a furious ringing of the bell.

"Don't go! It's nothing—nobody! Don't go!" pleaded Mrs. Hammond, in a tense, thickened voice, fighting frantically to prevent this imminent moment of consummate thrill from fleeting. Bob hesitated; but when the clamor continued, he put Mrs. Hammond from him, and strode to the door.

When he opened it, Sally stepped in, and cried, "Thank God we're in time!"

She sent a hateful look toward Mrs. Hammond. In that woman's hard breathing and rumpled condition, Sally read that her prayerful ejaculation of relief applied as significantly to Bob's virtue as to his life. She looked bravely up into Bob's face, and said: "Her husband is coming here now to kill you!"

Bob merely shrugged. He was not one to run away from threatened danger. Somehow, though, he couldn't feel so brave under the frank gaze of little Sally Smith. Somehow, the miasmic odor of the flesh trap that had been intoxicating him in this room, alone with Mrs. Hammond, had cleared with the bright advent of Sally's combed-honey hair.

He felt the sweetness of that first day, a week since, rushing back into his consciousness—

"Oh, Bob, I can explain everything!" pleaded Sally.

Mazie broke in. "Say, Big Boy, you won't be showing no white feather, but just common sense, if you mosey along with us right now. You needn't have no squeams about leaving that Fanny in there because she's a snake in the grass. She put Mannion up to buying those clothes, and me up to inviting him and Sally so she could have a clear field with you. I'll furnish you with the whole details, only not now. There's a nut coming here with a gun! He'd have been here by now, only I slipped the doorman, the telephone operator, and the elevator boy twenty bucks each to give him a bum steer and take him to the roof and lose him, until we had time to clear out—"

Mazie was chuckling: "Where's them ideals you was so particular about? Come on, Big Boy, let's go!"

Beautiful Mrs. Hammond was curled up on a fluffy bearskin at his feet.

CHAPTER XVII

Scarcely three weeks after the exciting events of that Sunday afternoon, the purple shadows of a perfect June afternoon were darkling the Hudson, far below the Hall of Fame, while the last rays of the sun, as it slid like a great flaming wafer down behind the black rim of the Palisades across the river, gilded the domes and roofs of the University buildings.

The Commencement crowd, at once quiet with the sadness of passing things and gladsome with the promise of signal futures, was dispersing. One name was on many tongues—Bob Ward, to whose eternal enshrinement in N. Y. U.'s football history had been added the lustre of graduation at the head of his class in the School of Engineering with honors.

A group of classmates stood on the steps of Gould Memorial Library and raised their young voices in "The Palisades." Hats in hand, faces earnest, eyes dim, they sang.

Bob was there, in the center; Freddy holding one of his arms, Arch the other. Their voices dropped to a reverent whisper for the third stanza of the classic song:

"But college friendships all must sever,
And fade as does the dying day,
And closest kinship all be broken
As out in life we wend our way."

Now they had finished. Now they were shaking hands all around, each looking sheepish because of the tears he felt in his eyes; each promising to write, to attend reunions, and all that. Now they had parted. This was the end!

The end? No, the Beginning!

Bob walked briskly, proudly, to the campus gate, where little Sally Smith, whose starry eyes had feasted on his glories through all this livelong afternoon, waited unobtrusively until he shou'd have finished with his chums the last rites of college friendship.

Then, arm in arm, they walked happily away. And the path that stretched ahead of them through the years was as bright as the burnish of the setting sun on Sally's combed-honey hair.

(The End.)

Brazilian Authorities Instruct Forces To Comb Land and Sea.

RUMOR OF PASSAGE.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, May 7.—Canadian Press. — Brazilian authorities have ordered a combined land and sea search for Captain Saint Roman and Commander Mouneyres on the strength of a rumour that the French aviators passed over Fernando do Noronho Island, 125 miles off the Brazilian coast, at 11 o'clock on Thursday night, flying in the direction of the mainland.

ARCHITECTS SEEK TO RESTRICT TITLE

Introduce Bill to Stop Work of Inexperienced Men.

LONDON, May 7. — (Canadian Press).—Designed to do away with "quack jerry-builders," the bill sponsored by the Royal Institute of British Architects is now before a select committee of the British House of Commons. With the expressed intention of stemming the flood of "intolerable and unutterable ugliness" poured out upon British streets by "men of untutored mind an inadequate professional education," the bill provides for imposition of a fine of £100 on any man describing himself as an architect, or even an expert in architecture, unless he has been registered by the R.I.B.A. and has passed a stiff examination.

During the debate in the House when the bill came up for second reading, Sir Alfred Hopkins, member for the English Universities, pointed out that some of England's most horrible buildings were erected under the aegis of some of the most distinguished architects. Freedom, he pleaded, was essential to the life of art and some of the greatest artists might have difficulty in passing an examination. The Home Secretary, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, strongly favored the idea advanced by Sir Alfred.

WEAK AND NERVOUS.

The Condition of a P. E. I. Lady Who Again Rejoices in Good Health.

"I can most heartily recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to all weak people," says Mrs. Augustin Arsenault, Wellington Station, P. E. I. "Before I began their use I was very weak and nervous. I had always worked hard, with no thought of my health until suddenly my strength left me. I began to feel tired and depressed, and did not sleep well at night, feeling just as tired in the morning as when I went to bed at night. I began to feel discouraged when I would think of the work necessary for me to do. I got some medicine from the doctor whom I consulted, but it did not appear to meet my case as I showed no improvement while taking it. Then a neighbor advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I got a supply of this medicine. I very soon found they were helping me, and I continued their use until I was well again, and I have been strong and well ever since."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do one thing—and do it well. They build up, purify and enrich the blood, and as the blood supplies the whole body, new life is given to the entire system. Better sleep, steady nerves, improved appetite, increased vigor—all these can be yours by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Begin today. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

King Follows Father In Crease Of Trousers

LONDON, May 7.—(Canadian Press).—Some respectful curiosity has been aroused at the fact that King George, when appearing at ceremonial civic functions, maintains the custom which King Edward initiated of wearing the crease in his trousers at the side. This is really a defiance of sartorial convention but His Majesty has never attempted to lead the fashion in men's apparel, unlike King Edward, especially when the latter was Prince of Wales. The present Prince of Wales has never attempted to give the lead to the dandies of London.

Her Majesty the Queen too, is obviously unwilling for her own style of wear to be followed to any general extent. Her dress is never more than three inches from the ground, while any woman attempting to follow her Majesty's style of hat—for years it has been a toque—would be considered hopelessly out of fashion.

ALCOHOL, RATS AND HEREDITY.

Just because a person is descended from hard-drinking ancestors is no sign that he can "hold his liquor" better than others; nor does it mean he is more likely to turn into a drunkard. Such are the conclusions of Prof. Frank B. Hanson and Miss Florence Hays of Washington University, St. Louis, Mo., after staking a series of drinking bouts among rats.

In a tight box, says Popular Science Monthly, they placed ten rats, five of which were descended from ten generations of drunken ancestors and five from sober forbears. After saturating the air in the box with alcohol fumes the experimenters observed the time it took the animals to keel over. Repeated tests showed virtually no difference in their resistance to the drug.

FOLKSONG AND HANDICRAFT FESTIVAL, QUEBEC, MAY 20-22, 1927.

A rare opportunity is afforded of participating in the first of Confederation Celebrations at Quebec, May 20th to 22nd, when the Folksong and Handicraft Festival, under the auspices of the National Museum of Canada will be in progress. The ancient method of making the colored sashes, or cointures flechees, as practised at L'Assemption will be demonstrated as well as the complete process of making flax into thread and spinning or weaving homespun clothes, catologues, hookrugs, etc. All the work is done to the accompaniment of folksong and music, by the worker or by famous singers and musicians. The Hart House String Quartet of Toronto will have a prominent part in the Festival.

The reputation of Ontario and Toronto as the musical centre of Canada must be upheld and with that in view, an All Expense Tour has been arranged to leave Toronto, May 19th next for Quebec and stay in the Ancient Capital during the entire period of the Festival. The cost of the trip from Toronto will be $64.00 and will include all necessary expenses, admission to Folksong Concerts, etc.

Handsomely illustrated booklets will be forwarded on request by Mr. Henry Button, Aldine House, 224 Bloor street West, Toronto, or full information can be obtained from J. Skinner, City Passenger Agent, 343 George street, Peterboro.

DO YOUR OWN DIVING.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 7. — After a purse was dropped into a catch basin here, sewer men were told that a large sum of money had been lost. Contents of the sewer were hauled out, taken to the outskirts of the city and raked over all day by a squad of men. At sundown the purse was found. It contained 26 cents and three street car tickets. Next time a purse is lost, the owner may do his own diving, officials say.

The Picture Described

As you can see, in the picture shown Mary and Fred are holding hands, as Marys and Freds have always done.
Fred has been whispering sweet nothings to Mary, which prompts Mary to remark: "Beauty is only skin deep."
Fred replies—Well, just what does Fred reply that makes Mary smile?
There are six words in the reply. Each group of numbers represents a word.
Number the Alphabet from A to Z. A is No. 1, B-2, C-3, and so on. The first word is "That"; it is properly spelt. The first letter of the other words is in its proper place but the remaining letters are misplaced. Can you solve Fred's reply?

FUTURE OF DOMINION

spending of the tax money and demands for responsible government. In Ontario the executive powers were held by a family compact; in other words, all the leaders were connected by blood and class spirit. A similar condition prevailed in Quebec. Rebellions broke out but were quickly quelled. The speaker condemned the policy of seeking redress by force of arms, advising a policy of peaceful negotiations.

Lord Durham's Report

Lord Durham's famous report was made after the rebellions of 1837 and advised the union of the two provinces and the construction of the intercolonial Railway. In 1854 John A. MacDonald united members of seven parties to form the Liberal Conservative party. In 1864 the Reciprocity treaty with the United States came to an end. MacDonald saw the advantage of Confederation, with a central parliament.

In 1866 the Charlottetown conference passed a constitution and in 1867 the Dominion of Canada came into being. The existence of such a nation is due to the foresight of the Fathers of Confederation.

The future of the Dominion rests with the people themselves. If they follow the motto, "We Build," this will be a wonderful country, said His Lordship in conclusion, strongly urging that religion be taken as the basis of all building to make Canada one of the greatest and best countries.

The thanks of the two clubs was moved by Joseph Wearing and seconded by William Boulton.

Musical Numbers

A programme in keeping with the address was given by Mr. Steer's choir, from the Central School, which sang three numbers, and one of the members, Miss Clare Parnell, told about Canada's emblem, the maple leaf.

One of the most pleasant musical evenings ever enjoyed by the club was given by St. Peter's Orchestra, which rendered a splendid selection of varied numbers. A quartet of members of the Life Underwriters' Association added its quota to the enjoyment of the evening.

The booster was Herb. Gilgour, and prizes were won by Jack Burke, Roy Taylor, and Cole Blewett. A. J. Reynolds expressed the thanks of the Kiwanis Club to the Underwriters for joining in the meeting, while Neil Tobin conveyed the thanks of the Underwriters to the Kiwanians for their part in making the joint meeting a success. President I. P. McNabb of the Kiwanis Club presided.

CARRIED 50 MILES BY TORNADO

Picked up and carried away by a tornado recently, a sheet of heavy iron roofing was found fifty miles away from the scene of the wreckage, reports the U. S. Weather Bureau in Popular Science Monthly. The tornado tore to pieces a schoolhouse at Laplata, Md., and was later traced along the ground for only fifteen miles. It is believed a whirling vortex in the upper air sustained the piece of iron roof on its long journey.

Prince of Wales Dragoons Dance

Lieut.-Col. T. D. Johnston and officers of headquarters and "C" Squadron, 3rd Prince of Wales Canadian Dragoons, were at home to their friends last evening at a Military Ball, held in the hall of the Canadian Legion, attended by about two hundred people. Arrangements were carried out in excellent fashion by the committee in charge, and decoration of the hall were of flags and bunting. Fine music was supplied by George Logan's "Merry-makers." At midnight, an interlude was held in memory of the members of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons who lost their lives in the Great War, when a vocal solo was given by Mrs. J. D. Fletcher. Capt. D. G. Melton also sang later, and several dancing numbers, including a Spanish dance and toe dancing to jazz music, also a trio Charleston number, were given by dancers from Toronto, the Misses Evelyn Moore and Evelyn Geary and little Jeanette Garrette.

Patronesses for the occasion were Mesdames F. Hills, C. H. Stuart, J. Abraham, W. T. Rogers, E. H. Wood, D. A. Loomis, Officers Headquarters: Lt.-Col. T. D. Johnston, Capt. M. R. Mine Share Prices Firm; Few Important Changes

TORONTO, May 7 (Canadian Press).—Prices held firm on the Standard Mining Exchange today and there was little of interest recorded. Argonaut Consolidated gained out at 55, Barry Hollinger was 2½ higher at 36½. Chaput Hughes was down ½ at 11½, Columbus Kirk down ¼ at 4½, and Consolidated West Dome Lake down ½ at 9½. Kirkland Hunton and Kirkland Lake were both higher, the former gaining 1¼ at 23¼, and the latter two at 147. Laval Quebec was up ½ at 26, while Macassa gained 4½ at 30. Teck Hughes gained 21 cents at 7.81, and Vipond Consolidated declining one at 1½. Of the unlisted, the only notable change was that of Central Manitoba Mines, this issue gaining 6 at 176.

Wheat Prices Rally After Opening Weakness

CHICAGO, May 7 (Canadian Press).—Influenced by an unexpected sharp drop in Liverpool quotations, wheat underwent a pronounced early setback here today. Most of the loss, however, was soon regained, news coming of storms northwest and of unfavorable crop developments in Oklahoma. Starting at 7-8 to 2 3-8 down, wheat rallied to within ½ cent of yesterday's finish. Corn and oats reflected the changes in wheat, corn opening ¼ cent to 1 3-8 cent lower and recovering nearly in full.

Toronto Dealings Light With Unlisted Leading

TORONTO, May 7 (Canadian Press).— Business was considerably lighter on the Toronto Stock Exchange today than it has been for several days past. Interest was confined almost wholly to the unlisted side of the market, and with the exception of International Nickel, up 1 1-8 at 59 1-8, little business was transacted among the listed issues. Teck Hughes at 780, showed a gain of 25 cents for the day's dealing. Kirkland Lake declined three at 147. Noranda, following its gains of this week, was ten cents lower today at 22.70. McColl Bros. was up one at 37½, and British American Oil declined ¼ at 23¾.

Speculators For Rise Resume Operations To-day

NEW YORK, May 7 (Canadian Press). — Speculative operations for the rise were resumed in to-day's brief session of the Stock Market under the leadership of the Investment Rails and Public Utilities. Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio, and Union Pacific all reached new 1927 highs.

Laclede Gas soared over fourteen points to a new peak. Dodge Brothers Preferred and Foundation Company, which were heavy earlier in the week, rallied briskly. Selling chopped up, however, in U.S. Rubber, Mack Trucks, and Internatonal Combustion, but offerings were fairly well absorbed. The closing was strong. Total sales approximated 1,100,000 shares.

POTATOES $2.

Usual Produce and General Prices at Market To-day.

The usual offerings at general prices featured the farmers' market this morning with plenty of patrons. Vegetables and meat were offered at the usual prices, and potatoes were $2 a bag and 40 cents a peck. Asparagus in half pound boxes was 25 cents. Fresh blooming pansies were 20 cents a box. Little pigs were $13 a pair.

In the basket section, butter was priced generally at 45 cents a pound, eggs at 28 cents a dozen and chicken from 25 to 30 cents a pound.

SOVIET WANTS PEACEFUL TRADE

No Reason Why There Should Not Be Pacific Competition, Says Delegate.

GENEVA, May 7 (Canadian Press). —Soviet Russia today officially offered the olive branch of peaceful economic collaboration to the capitalistic countries.

Addressing the International Economic Conference, Gregoire Sokolnikoff said the Soviet Union would welcome an industrial agreement with foreign countries and capitalists and that there was no reason why the world could not have pacific competition between the two economic systems represented by the Soviet

Dodge Brothers' Immense New Building Is Now Completed

Will Provide Facilities For Manufacturing New and Higher Priced Line of Cars—Machinery Installation Being Rushed.

Dodge Brothers immense new factory in which the company's new line of higher priced motor cars will be built is now completed and the work of installing machinery is being rushed as rapidly as possible. The factory has been built expressely to provide facilities for the manufacture of the new cars. It will be one of the most modern in the automotive industry and is said to be the longest building in the world used for motor car production.

The building is a one story structure planned in accordance with the latest principles of factory construction. The machinery will be layed out to provide for maximum efficiency in manufacturing and assembling operations.

Work on the new structure was started last year and has been pushed at top speed throughout the winter that the building might be completed and machinery installed early this spring. The giant building is located on Lynch Road, between Mt. Elliott and the Van Dyke, adjacent to the Graham Brothers factory.

Over 500,000 square feet of floor space will be added to Dodge Brothers already immense manufacturing facilities when the new factory becomes one of the companys producing units.

An important feature of the new plant is the provision for handling incoming and outbound freight. Two lines of rialroad track enter the factory at one end and extend almost its entire length accommodating 70 standard freight cars at one time. Wide concrete loading platforms at the level of the car floors facilitate quick unloading of materials and loading of the new motor cars as soon as they have passed final test.

Along the side of the building is a one-mile concrete test track. The roadway is eighteen feet wide on the two straight-aways and slightly wider at the turns which are banked. The banks are parabolic, designed for a safe speed of forty miles per hour at the outer edge.

This test track will add greatly to the companys facilities for road testing which has always been a part of the final inspection of Dodge Brothers cars.

Every known provision has been made for furnishing the best possible light and ventilation inside of the building. The windows contain over 200,000 square feet of glass. Eight per cent. of the entire window surface can be opened to afford ventilation. There are 120 main motor-operated sash units, each five feet high and 190 feet long. The engineers' specifications show that for each square foot of floor space there are 57 square inches of glass assuring ample illumination for accurate work.

A forced circulation hot water heating system is used instead of steam to heat the building. The heat for the water will be derived principally from the exhaust of the steam hammers in the nearby forge shop. The exhaust from these hammers would otherwise be wasted.

O.B.A.A. GIVES PETES CHANCE IN SENIOR BALL

Will Try To Get Them in the Lakeshore or Give Them Bye.

EXHIBITION GAME.

Ontario Officials Promise Their Help in Arranging a Series.

Manager Max Swanston represented the Peterborough Ball Club at a meeting of the O.B.A.A. executive last night, and as a result the Petes are assured of participating in the Senior series this summer.

The O.B.A.A. officials, realizing that Peterborough has always been a source of strength to baseball in Eastern Ontario, were most sympathetic with the Petes' desire to remain in organized baseball and a committee was named to take up with the Lakeshore League the question of Peterborough's admission to that organization.

LEMONADE SHORTAGE ACUTE

Because it could not get lemons, the government railway of Australia recently had a shortage of lemonade for its passengers. During the intense heat the station stands at Melbourne that are run by the government ran out of the circus champagne. Efforts to get lemons from other cities failed and the Railroad Commissioners advertised for the fruit, but without success.

3 Knives and 2 Forks Used In One Suicide

INNSBRUCK, Austria, May 7. —(United Press).—Three knives and two forks figured in the death of Cecilie Markl, 54, of this city, when she committed suicide here recently.

For a time murder was suspected but letters written by the woman on the day before her death convinced the coroner that she killed herself. She was found lying in bed with a number of wounds on her face, neck and breast.

60,000 Tests

Prove Power Superiority

of-

HAVOLINE

- the power oil

Does not only increase power in any specially built racing car or aeroplane but increases power in YOUR car

60,000 car owners had actual, visible evidence of Havoline power in motor car tests on the Wasson Motor Check.

You, too, can have this extra power from your car with Havoline. Have your crankcase drained and filled with Havoline Oil to-day. Then try a familiar hill and feel that extra power. The average car gains 10% to 30% in power when the right grade of Havoline goes into the crankcase.

Havoline Oil gives power—saves gasoline—lasts longer—keeps the motor cooler—gives increased speed and once tried will prove its own superiority right in your own car. It has no substitute.

Would not be Without Zutoo Tablets At Any Cost

Mr. A. O. Norton, the millionaire Jack Manufacturer, of Boston, who recently died, was a great "booster" for Zutoo Tablets.

He suffered from headaches from childhood and when he found Zutoo Tablets stopped these headaches in a few minutes and left no bad effect, he began recommending them to his family and friends. In an unsolicited letter, Mr. Norton says in closing:

"My family use them when ever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from Headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I always carry Zutoo Tablets in my grip on the road and WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM AT ANY COST."

EMPIRE ARTISTS EXHIBIT AT LONDON

Work of Overseas Painters Lacks Definite Aim.

LONDON, May 7 (Canadian Press).—The Daily News' art critic declares that the exhibition of paintings by artists of Great Britain and the Dominions is very successful, although it fails in one purpose. "It teaches us hardly anything about Dominion artists, whose contributions are few in number and not important in kind," he says. The exhibition, which is being held at the Imperial Institute, is largely due to the initiative of Sir John Duveen, famous British art dealer.

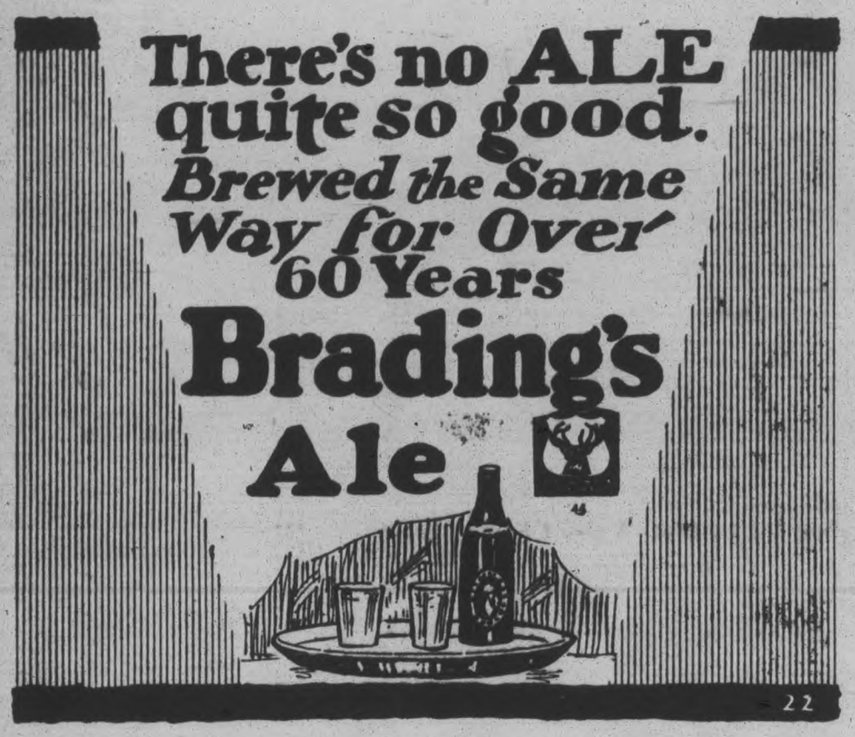
The News critic, however, says that some of the work of the overseas painters has conspicuous qualities. "Lifelong familiarity with effects of atmosphere unknown to European eyes leaves its mark on technique," he says. The coloring of "Afterglow, Winter," by Percy F. Woodcock (Canada), is very attractive from this point of view, as is "A Cape Landscape—Aloe in Bloom," by J. E. A. Volschenk (South Africa), with its transparent atmosphere, and "Looking Towards Swaziland," by Bertha Everard has a fine sense of vast spaces.

"York Mills," by Fred N. Loveroff (Canada), is an excellent picture of half-melting snows. "Sunset on Indhlakomo," by the South African artist, John Williams, is a strong study of light and shade, and Paul Nash's water-color, "Rock-garden," and C. R. W. Nevinson's realistically drab "Any London Street," deserve special attention, as does the work of several artists from the Irish Free State—Paul Henry's "Potato-Diggers," John Keating's "Brethren of the Coast," and Patrick Tuohy's Pencil Portrait of Sean O'Casey.

British pictures are declared to be an unusually interesting collection, representative of most of the leading tendencies of painting in Britain. W. Rothenstein's forthright portrait of Col. Lawrence attracted attention, as did a characteristic landscape by John Nash and a strongly painted "Russian Peasant Girl" by Mark Gertler; "Penelope," by Glyn Philpot, "Misty Morning on the Severn," and "Knowledge and Life" by Vivian Forbes, and a landscape by Stanley Spencer. Sir W. Orpen's "Night" is a fascinating study in practically black and white.

HORSE TAKES A RIDE

SAN MATEO, Cal., May 7 — Becoming frightened in his stable, a horse owned by a dairy ran away up the state highway into the path of an oncoming sedan. The animal leaped into the air and crashed through the roof of the car, injuring all five occupants. The horse was shot to death.



Hereafter airplanes must be tagged and licensed like automobiles, according to a Department of Commerce ruling.

Women Fitting Dresses To Wear Sanitary Covering

MADISON, Wis., May 7 (United Press).—Prospective purchasers of women's gaments would have to wear a specially disinfected covering before trying on dresses if a bill introduced in the Wisconsin Assembly Friday becomes a law.

The law would apply to all dresses or other apparel having contact with the shoulders of the one trying on the garment. Violation of the bill's provisions would result in a fine of from $25 to $100 per offence.

LADIES DEFEAT MEN IN CONTEST

Lakefield A.Y.P.A. Banquet will Accordingly Be Furnished By Men.

LAKEFIELD, May 7.—The programme at the A. Y. P. A. on Monday evening took the form of a dramatic contest and provided an evening's entertainment which was unique, not only in the history of the society but also in the village. Two short plays were put on, one by the ladies and the other by the gentlemen of the society, the loser in the contest being obligated to furnish the banquet scheduled for May 16. The judges were Mrs. O. A. Langley, Dr. F. H. Lingwood and Mr. Charles Thomson.

The ladies put on their play first, the plot centering round the visit of an old woman from the country to her city relatives and the misunderstandings resulting from her supposed deafness. The sketch was entitled "Aunt Susan Jones." The cast of characters was: (Mrs. Mackley), Mrs. Braden Blewett; (Arabella), her daughter, Miss W. Payne; (Anna) the niece, Miss O. Watson; (Augustus Salderfroe) Arabella's beau, Miss G. Watson; (Aunt Susan Jones), Miss Graham.

The men's play was "A Scene in a Bowery Cafe," and was exceedingly funny and included several songs, one being the composition of Mr. E. Robertshaw. The cards, announcing the specials on the menu, were cleverly arranged, and a great deal of trouble was taken with the stage setting, which was very effective and won a hearty round of applause. The parts were well taken, and while the ladies' play was judged to be the best, the men gave the most clever performance, as their acting was in the main the best. The ladies had the advantage of a more definite plot, but both were worth while, and later will probably be put on again with a small admission charge.

The judges were given a hearty vote of thanks and were extended a unanimous invitation to be guests at the banquet. Refreshmen s were served at the close of the evening.

A concert will be given in Bethel United church, Dummer, on the evening of Wednesday, May 11. The programme wil be put on by the C. G. I. T. group of Regent street church, Lakefield, consisting of a play, solos, recitations, musical selections by the Regent street orchestra and a drill.

The C. G. I. T. entertainment was given in the school-room of the Regent s reet church on March 29, and was a great success.

HUDSON MAXIM, INVENTOR, DIES

Discoverer of Many High Explosives Active Till Near End.

LOOKED FOR NEW WAR.

NEW YORK, May 7.—Hudson Maxim, inventor of more deadly explosives than any other man of his time, died yesterday at his home, at Lake Hopatcong, N.J., at the age of sixty-four. He has suffered from anemia and stomach trouble two months.

Mr. Maxim's death ended his experiments to make naval torpedoes more destructive. Believing another great war was approaching, he was eager to develop primary experiments in the substitution of nitroglycerine for superheated steam as a motive power and was confident this would more than double the range and effectiveness of the so-called automobile torpedo.

A foe of the pacifist to the end, he contended that the country was poorly equipped for the impending test of battles, in which he believed it would be involved.

He became ill of anemia in January, while on a vacation on the Pacific coast with Mrs. Maxim. He returned to New Jersey in February, and for a time was thought recovering. Recently ulcers of the stomach developed. Nevertheless, it was only with difficulty that he was kept from his laboratory.

He was born in Orneville, Piscataqua County, Maine, on February 3, 1853.

LAWS TO STAND UNTIL MEETING

General Belief U. S. Border Rules Won't Be Enforced For a Time.

TO ALLOW DISCUSSION.

WASHINGTON, May 7 (Canadian Press).—Although no official announcement has been made there is a strong belief here that the new border immigration ruling affecting Canadian citizens employed in the United States, who cross and recross the border daily, will not be enforced until representatives of the Canadian and United States governments have conferred on the whole immigration question.

Should the conference materialize the Canadian authorities are expected to insist that the United States immigration authorities define a Canadian citizen for the purposes of immigration. The need for definition by an international conference of Canadian citizens, particularly those of British birth, was emphasized by the delegation from the Border Cities of Ontario which visited the Hon. Vincent Massey at the Canadian Legation yesterday.

An announcement from the State Department is expected when James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, returns to Washington next week. Meantime Frank B. Kellogg, Secretary of State, is reviewing the question.

Gas on Stomach Caused Severe Pains

Mrs. C. F. Wheeler, R.R. No. 1, Glen Ewen, Sask., writes:—"For years my eldest son suffered from severe pains and agony from imperfect digestion. He dieted and used artificial digestants, but all to no avail. At last I got him a bottle of

MEN CHARGED WITH ASSAULT

Said To Have Attacked Young Girl and Beaten Her Escort.

IN SARNIA SUBURB.

SARNIA, Ont., May 7. — Five men are under arrest charged with asault on a young girl, and the police expect to have a sixth under arrest very soon. The assault occurred about 11 o'clock on Thursday evening on the Meadowlea subdivision, a mile or two outside the city, the girl's male escort being also viciously attacked. The men arrested are: Philip Robinson, Fred Wales, John McRae, Harold Worseley and Arthur Archer, the last named being 49 years of age.

The young couple were returning to Sarnia from a visit with relatives in the township in the young man's automobile. They came in on the fourth line and decided to take a short cut across the Meadowlea subdivision to the London Road as the girl was living at the north part of the city. While proceeding up London Road the horn of the car started to blow, and unable to stop it by pressure on the button, the young man stopped the car and got out to disconnect the wire. After doing so he stepped back into the car and was about to start the car again when six men rushed up from the roadside, beat up the young man, took the girl out of the car, and committed the alleged assault.

The police were notified and later effected the arrests.

WORLD WHEAT POOL HOPE OF FARMERS

Still Far From Realization, Says Manager of Canadian Pool.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 7.—(The Canadian Press).—Formation of a world's wheat pool, while probably the fervent hope of farmers in many countries, is still far from realization, according to D. L. Smith, sales manager of the Canadian Co-Operative Wheat Producers.

In addressing the delegates to the International Wheat Pool conference here this morning, Mr. Smith expressed regret that the impression had been broadcast that the conference had been primarily called for the purpose of formulating plans to gain control of the world's exportable grain surplus.

"If we are convinced that the formation of a world's wheat pool is in the distant future, would it be wise to allow a feeling of antagonism to grow up in the hearts of consumers by NOT coming out with a very definite statement for the present at least, that the idea of these conferences is only to provide free discussion on marketing problems and to endeavor to iron out common difficulties," Mr. Smith asked.

"Our chief aim should be to market our commodities scientifically and judiciously so that the consuming market is NOT asked to absorb more wheat than it needs. It is quite possible to get a good price for the farmers' grain and still not make the consumer suffer."

Without the Pool, the speaker stated, the Canadian farmer would have been placed in the hands of a huge monopoly which determined values to a very large extent on the volume of wheat delivered and sold by the farmer. While the physical handling machinery built up by the competitive grain trade on the American continent was well nigh perfect, the system, Mr. Smith said, from a farmers' viewpoint was only fit for the middle ages.

The secret of the Canadian Wheat Pool's success lay in the fact that instead of the old system of buyers naming the price, the farmer had changed things so that the price is fixed to a large extent by the owner. The price of Canadian wheat, Mr. Smith pointed out, had only fluctuated about five cents during the past four months, proving, he said, that if the pool were given full control little difficulty would be met in stabilizing prices.

"The possibilities of the wheat pool," Mr. Smith asserted, "is unlimited. We have little doubt that in a few years every bushel of wheat entrusted to the pool will be marketed direct to Europe, excepting the quantity of grain that must necessarily be supplied to the Canadian mills. When this is accomplished we will have gone a long way towards attaining the object we have in view.

SAYS DANGEROUS VARICOSE VEINS CAN BE REDUCED AT HOME

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way.

If you or any relatives or friends are worried because of varicose veins, or bunches, the best advice that anyone in this world can give you is to ask your druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you will notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are of normal size. So penetrating and powerful is Emerald Oil that even Piles are quickly absorbed. Bond's Drug Store, McDermid Drug Co., Ltd., McDermid & Jury sell lots of it.

CONFIDENCE AND QUIET.

Among the common people whom we know it is not necessarily those who are busiest, not those who, meteor-like, are ever on the rush after some visible change and work; it is the lives like the stars, which simply pour down on us the calm light of their bright and faithful being, up to which we look, and out of which we gather the deepest calm and courage.—Phillips Brooks.

International Champions Defeat Newark Bears 6-5

LEAFS PLAY RAGGED GAME

Head, Kneisch and Faulkner Hold Newark To Six Hits.

MANY ERRORS.

By CHARLIE GOOD.

Maple Leaf Stadium, May 7.—Toronto made it two straight from Newark yesterday in a wild and woolly game, 6 to 5. The Leafs used three pitchers and the Bears two. Head started in the box for Toronto, being withdrawn when the visitors tied the count in the fifth. He pitched well enough, but his support failed him. Hargrave presenting Newark with a run when he muffed a pop-up with two out in the fifth inning.

By virtue of their victory the Leafs gained half a game on the leading Buffalo Bisons who were playing an exhibition game with the Philadelphia Americans.

During the Buffalo-Athletics contest the veteran star Ty Cobb, pulled a tendon in his left leg and will be out of the game several days.

Syracuse and Rochester were the other International winners, the Stars trouncing Jersey City 8 to 3 after getting away to a four-run lead in the first inning. Both teams made 10 hits apiece, but the Jerseyites were held in check at critical moments by Hallihan.

Reading outhit Rochester 12 to 10, but the Colts managed to bunch their bingles to good advantage and scored a 10 to 7 victory.

EIGHT CENTURIES WON IN CRICKET

Kent Defeats Worcester in One of Five Games Played.

LONDON, May 7 (Canadian Press Cable)—Eight centuries—a hundred or more runs—were scored in the five first-class cricket fixtures played or concluded to-day. Kent defeated Worcester; Lancashire defeated Oxford; Essex defeated Nottinghamshire; Marleybone defeated Surrey, and Yorkshire drew with Cambridge.

The centuries were chalked up by O'Connor (Essex), Chapman (Kent), Hallows (Lancashire), Oldroyd (Yorkshire), K. S. Duleepsinhji (Cambridge), Hearne and Hendren (Marleybone), and Sandham (Surrey).

The results:

Kent defeated Worcester by an innings and 89 runs. Kent had 504 in the first innings, to the combined first and second inning total of 415 for Worcester (236 and 179). Kent's best batsmen were Chapman, 156; Ames, 90; and Wright, 60.

Lancashire defeated Oxford by eight wickets. Oxford scored 244 in the first and 159 in the second inning, total of 403. Lancashire amassed 376 in the first innings, and secured the 28 runs necessary to win with loss of only two wickets in the second. Hallows (100) and Watson (92) were Lancashire's batting stars.

Essex defeated Notlingnamshire by 220 runs. Essex secured 253 in the first inning and 340 before declaring in the second with eight wickets down, a total of 593. Nottinghamshire scored 185 in the first and 188 for seven wickets in the second, total of 373, O'Connor of Essex ran up 124.

Marleybone defeated Surrey by an innings and seven runs. Marleybone secured 458 in the first innings. Surrey scored 326 and following on could get only 125, bringing them within seven points of Marleyobne's one-inning total. Hearne (112) and Hendren (136), were Marleybone's top scorers; Sandham (106) and Jack Hoggs (61) best for Surrey.

The drawn match between Cambridge and Yorkshire went to the third wickets of the second innings. Cambridge's scores were 372 in the first and 85 for three wickets in the second; Yorkshire's scores 382 in the first and 205 for three wickets in the second, totals of 587 for Yorkshire and 457 for Cambridge. Oldroyd (114) in the first inning and Sutcliffe (87) in the second, were top Yorkshire scorers. K. S. Duleepsinhji (101) was the Cambridge batting star.

SOFTBALL NOTES

Kelly Poles Homer For Cincinnati in First Inning.

LONE GAME PLAYED.

NEW YORK, May 7 (Canadian Press).—The start of the eastern invasion by the western clubs of the National League was set for yesterday, but only one game of four scheduled was played, rain interfering with the intersectional contests here and at Philadelphia and Brooklyn.

In the lone encounter, the Cincinnati Reds triumphed over the Braves at Boston by a 5 to 3 count. Carl Mays twirled for the invaders and chalked up his first victory of the year.

In the opening inning Kelly polled out a homer over the left field wall, a feat that had been accomplished only twice before. Ethan Allan led the Cincinnati attack with a homer and two singles in four times at bat.

SPEED CLASS AT PREAKNESS

Between Twenty and Thirty Probable Entries in Race Monday.

TWO FAVORITES.

PIMLICO RACETRACK, Md., May 7 (UP)—The speed and class of the three-year-olds of 1927 will be tested Monday, when the $50,000 added Preakness Stakes will be run, five days before the Kentucky Derby. A splendid field is almost sure to start, it appeared to-day from a survey of the eligibles and their recent activities. Between 20 and 25 probably will be entered, some 18 of whom may be expected to start.

Public interest centred chiefly around Harry Payne Whitney's Whiskery and W. M. Jeffords's Man o' War colt, Scapa Flow, both of them Derby candidates and among the most promising colts of the season. Osmand and War Eagle, vieing with them for public favor, are in Louisville for the Derby, and will not start in the Preakness.

Inside Sporting Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, since my last the Petes has been give the air by the Lakeshore League. Somehow the management got its signals crossed and they wasn't no 1 at the meeting last Sat. to represent the Petes, but it woulda made no difference anyway. The 2 Toronto teams wouldn't hear of making trips to Peterborough, and when the O.B.A.A. moguls threw the hooks into Mister Tyson and Mister Dainty, leaving the Oshawa Red Sox with no battery, and Port Hope couldn't scrape up enough material for a sr. outfit, there was no place for the Petes except out. And so, although the local lads had their entrance fee in, the Lakeshore bosses tossed them into the discard. Well, they'll be running up against the Petes likely in the O.B.A.A. play-offs, and the boys'll sure try hard to take a fall outa the L. S. winners.

So far as sr. ball anyway is concerned hardball is in a bad way in Eastern Ont. with only a coupla sr. teams east of Toronto. In fact, the territory is in the same shape as it was before Mister Jake Solomon put the East on the baseball map. They has been a lotta good ball played down this way since Mister Solomon stepped on the starter, and they is plenty of folks all over the district what will miss the Central Ontario League clashes. However, the Petes is going to keep the old flag flying, and the boys hope to show their stuff when the play-downs come. Meanwhile they should have the backing of the fans in their exhibition set-toos. They deserve a lotta credit for sticking together in the face of difficulties.

Well, Mac, they ain't a great deal of sporting dope to discuss with the customers this week. It's been a kind of died all week, and something what was said by a bird named Mister Hanna didn't make some of the boys feel any more cheerful. They ain't going to open until the 3rd week in May, according to Mister Hanna.

I hear the pickerel fishing is good, but I don't know nothing 1st hand—none of the customers has sent me a mess yet. If they come hinting round as to where they ken find me, tip them off, Mac, like a good scout?

I ain't got a idea, Mister Sporting Editor, so hoping you're the same, I'll ring off.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

P.S.—Gosh, Mac, I'm like the Swede that wrote the hot letter to the stove manufacturers giving them hell because he couldn't find the shaker, and then added a P.S. saying, "Excuse me, please, I just found the shaker 'in the oven.' Since I wrote the above I hear the Petes may get into the Lakeshore League after all, so if I said anything harsh about the L.S. moguls I'll take it all back, if she lads get in, but if they don't, well it all rides.—A.W.C.

BRITWELL LIBRARY BRINGS RICH PRICES

Total Sum Realized for Books More Than Three Millions.

LONDON, May 7. — (Canadian Press).—The sale of the final portion of the great Britwell Library brought to an end the greatest book sale in history. The Britwell Library has been in process of disintegration nearly every season since 1916, and the 18 or 19 portions, including two sold by private treaty, brought a vast total of $3,022,500 — a total never approached at a book auction in this or any other country. Its sale has been a continuous story of high prices and large profits. The original expenditure was not more than $250,000. This was the amount spent by William Henry Miller (1789-1848) a native of Edinburgh, who founded the library.

To English collectors and English libraries the Britwell sales have been an almost continuous series of disasters. The Times' correspondent says. When George D. Smith of New York burst into the English sale room, he carried everything before him, with his utter disregard for prices; and he was followed by his compatriot Dr. Rosenbach. Between them therefore they have enriched American Libraries, public and private, to an extent and within a brief period without parellel in the last 100 years. The American claim for its share in the literary heritage of Great Britain is undeniable and unanswerable; and it is perhaps better for rare books to be in American libraries where they may be seen and examined than to remain almost unknown and quite inaccessible in private libraries in England. During the past quarter of a century or so American bibliographers have done a vast amount of most valuable spade work in English bibliography, and the acquisition of the greater portion of the unexpected treasures of the Britwell Library will greatly tend to increase this activity.

BEST AMATEURS WILL SEEK TITLE

Dominion Golf Championship to be Decided at Ancaster Course, Hamilton.

TORONTO, Ont., May 7 (CP).—While the entries for the Canadian Amateur golf championship tournament are not available so early in the season, indications are that the 29th annual contest will be from the stand point of competition one o the best in the long series. Ross Sommerville, of London, Ont., will defend his title which he won last year from C. C. Fraser of Kanawaki, Montreal. The latter is a former title-holder, and will again compete, while M. Scott, runner-up to Fraser in 1922, is another prominent contender.

The Ancaster club course near Hamilton, on which the tournament will be played, from July 4 to 9, is one of the best in America. J. H. Evans, golf editor, writes in the Globe that the course is well, but not severely bunkered, and is exceptionally clean. It is 6,370 yards in length, evenly divided. The par 3 of the course is 66.

The final will be thrilling if it is anything like the last amateur title decided at Ancaster. That was in 1922, when Fraser went to the 37th hole to defeat Scott. Fraser was one down at the 33rd. The 34th was awarded to Scott because Fraser moved a piece of paper from a bunker. Scott, however, lost the next two holes and the championship at the 37th.

An interprovincial team contest will probably be held before the amateur tournament, and this would bring together the best amateur golfers of Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan.

The amateur title of Canada has been won on seven occasions by George S. Lyon, who, as he approaches three-score and ten, has an undisputed position among members of the Canadian Seniors' Association. Mr. Lyon won his first championship in 1898 at Toronto Golf and his last in 1914 at Lambton. Frank Thompson won the championship in 1924 at Rosedale after his brother, W. J. Thompson, had dropped the title early in match play. Sommerville was runner-up twice before he won the honor coveted by amateur golfers.

The history of the amateur championship is as follows: the first-named in each instance being the winner and the second the runner-up:

1895.—T. H. Harley, A. Simpson.
1896.—Stewart Gillespie, W. A. Griffith.
1897.—W. A. H. Kerr, R. T. Henderson.

GASOLINE FROM LIGNITE.

Two French chemists, Prudhomme and Houdry, announce that they have made gasoline from lignite in commercial quantities. Their process of distillation, reports Popular Science Monthly, is expected eventually to yield a quarter of a billion gallons of gasoline a year — half the gasoline consumption of France—from twenty million tons of lignite.

Enough lignite, sometimes called brown coal, exists in France, experts estimate, to supply that country with oil and fuel for at least a century and a half. Abundant deposits, now unused, occur in the south and west of the United States.

Between 825 and 925 million dollars will be spent during 1927 for new railroad equipment, new construction and improvement of the properties of railroads of the United States.

WATCH THE KIDNEYS
Fatigue and that tired feeling is the result of poison in the blood. When the kidneys fail to remove this poison from the system it leads to backache, rheumatic pains and sometimes to that fatal ailment known as Bright's disease. When this condition exists, don't delay, go to your druggist and get a box of Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills and they will quickly correct the cause of your trouble.
Mr. Arthur Pinch of Smith Township states that Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills give him more speedy relief than any other preparation that he had tried.

UPHEAVAL LIFTS ATLANTIC CABLE
Can you picture a folding of the earth's crust strong enough to lift, in the space of twenty-five years, an area the size of Greater New York to a height of 11,000 feet? Such an enormous upheaval took place recently in the Atlantic, according to Popular Science Monthly, and was discovered by mere accident.
Twenty-five years ago a submarine cable was laid across the Atlantic Ocean, passing near the British island of St. Helena. When laid, the cable rested on the bottom of the sea, about 14,760 feet below the surface. Recently when it became necessary to repair the cable, it was discovered that part of the sea bottom had been lifted more than 11,000 feet, which brought the cable within 3,600 feet of the sea level.

WHAT OFFICE CLATTER DOES
A noisy office makes a slow typist, according to Dr. Donald A. Laird, of Colgate University. This he proved in recent tests reported in Popular Science Monthly. Amid honking horns, jangling telephone bells and miscellaneous squawks produced by a noise machine five feet from her desk, Miss Elsie Keller, expert typist, tapped out endless letters while Dr. Laird held a stop watch.

Her 528 strokes a minute in a quiet room dropped to 488 while the din was going on. Absolute quiet, however, was not essential, the test showed. Miss Keller lost 2.7 ounces of weight in two hours of typing when the room was quiet, and twice as much under the strain of the artificial racket.

Eating animal fat, in the form of butter, cream or meat, is now stated to be of great assistance in warding off tuberculosis.

BOY SCOUT TROOP RECEIVES CHARTER

At Concert Given in St. Alphonsus Lyceum Last Night.

The Sixth Peterborough Boy Scout Troop was officially welcomed into the fold when they received their charter at a musical concert held in St. Alphonsus Lyceum last night. Following several selections by Immaculate Conception orchestra, several solos were rendered by Miss Greta Lebarr, Ted Barclay and Earl Spellman. Mrs. Gerald McClelland gave two recitations while Messrs. Pat Cullen and Earl Spellman rendered a humorous dialogue, Mr. Cullen encoring with the Charleston dance.

In presenting the charter J. J. Turner, high commissioner for Peterborough district, gave a short address on scout movement in this city. Owing to the lack of capable leaders, Mr. Turner said Boy Scouts had become almost extinct, but of late years the movement was becoming more popular, several new troops having been formed. He congratulated the committee composed of Messrs. J. F. Mackenzie, chairman, J. A. Sullivan, D. McKinnon and L. J. Lebarr for work done in organizing the 6th troop and wished them every success. J. F. Mackenzie in reply thanked Mr. Turner for the interest he had taken in aiding the troop and gave interesting account of detailed work of Boy Scouts.

Peterborough Boy Scout Association was represented by Rev. Father P. G. Costello, J. J. Johns and W. R. Morris.

OBITUARY.

WANT "TRENCH OF DEATH" SAVED.

Efforts are being made to save the "Trench of Death", famous during the world war and familiar to later visitors to the battlefields. It is in the path of a proposed road from Caeskerie to Dixmude, and a campaign has been launched to have the road diverted and to preserve the tragic spot as a memorial of the war.

A club has been formed in Paraguay to boost the building of automobile roads in that country where most of the highways are so bad that only high wheeled carts drawn by several oxen can get through.

BRITAIN FINDS TIME NOT RIGHT FOR NEW NOTE

Chamberlain Tells House of Commons Demand is Inexpedient.

POWERS INFORMED.

Full Liberty of Action in Case of Further Outrages is Reserved.

LONDON, May 9 (Canadian Press) Sir Austen Chamberlain, the Foreign Secretary, told the House of Commons today the British Government had decided that the present application of penalties for the anti-foreign outrages at anking and the failure of the Chinese Nationalists to observe the conditions of the Hankow agreement was inexpedient, however fully justified.

Sir Austen said that he believed similar reasons had led other interested governments to like conclusions. Under those circumstances the British Government did not propose to address any further note to Eugene Chen, the Cantonese Foreign Minister at Hankow.

Great Britain, the Foreign Minister said, has informed the other Powers of its decision, but has reserved full liberty of action concerning the future and particularly concerning further outrages which might be perpetrated.

Cantonese Power Gone.

Sir Austen said that the Nationalist (Cantonese) Government at Hankow had lost its dominating position in South China and was nothing more than the shadow of a name.

Great Britain, he said, had ample justification for the re-occupation of the British concession and for regarding the agreement of the concession cancelled by the acts of the Nationalist government there. The foreign minister in addressing the House declared that the Third International at Moscow was responsible for the Nanking disorders.

Action Demanded.

LONDON, May 9 (British United Press).—While the British Government has definitely decided that no further steps can be taken with regard to the Chinese situation until it clarifies further, British interests in the Far East are strenuously demanding strong action and are sending daily messages to the Government demandingg to know that some steps are to be taken toward securing reparations for the Nanking outrages. The matter, however, is now complicated by the internal situation in China, particularly by the split in the Nationalist ranks, that the Government is reluctantly compelled to admit that the only practicable policy at present is to mark time.

SHOOTING CASE GREAT MYSTERY

Doctor Who Shot Fellow Practitioner Not Abnormal, Companions Say.

VICTIM RECOVERS.

MONTREAL, May 9 (Canadian Press). — Coroner McMahon this morning began the work of unravelling the mysterious case of Dr. Frank Brown, the former Vancouver man who shot and wounded Dr. J. F. Puddicombe and committed suicide in the Royal Victoria Hospital. Dr. Puddicombe, who was operated on for the removal of a bullet from the muscles of his neck, was reported to be recovering this morning.

Dr. Brown, who originally came from Carmen, Manitoba, was given a good character by his employer, W. I. Bishop. At the Royal Victoria Hospital, where Dr. Brown was at one time an interne, it was said he was an excellent student, bearing a good reputation, holding strange ideas on some subjects, but having nothing that would justify his being classed as abnormal while an interne. It is thought he subsequently went insane.

Girl Cause of Shooting

The shooting of Dr. Puddicombe, Ottawa, by Dr. Frank Brown, Vancouver, and the subsequent suicide of the latter in the private room of Dr. Puddicombe at the Royal Victoria Hospital last night, was a result of a quarrel over a girl, according to a statement by the wounded doctor after the affair, told to Coroner McMahon by Dr. W. G. Webster, hospital admitting doctor, at the inquest here today.

REDCROSS APPEAL.

OTTAWA, May 9 (Canadian Press) —A proclamation by the Governor-in-Council here invites the people of Canada to "contribute generously" to the Dominion wide campaign for funds to be carried on behalf of the Canadian Red Cross between May 24 and July 1.

Father Halts Wedding So He Wouldn't Miss It

CHICAGO, May 9 (Associated Press).—Maurice Wilbur, 19 years old, and Eva Knight Perry, 17, who eloped from Flint, Mich., and were taken into custody here on complaint of Charles Perry, of Flint, father of the girl, received the consent of the parent to the marriage Saturday.

Perry, on his arrival here, said: "Now that I am here, the wedding can go on. I just didn't want to miss it."

They decided, however, to go back to Flint for the ceremony.

CANADA COUNTS U. S. WORKMEN

Wants Information Ready For Negotiations About Rules at Border.

NO REPRISAL TALK.

OTTAWA, May 9 (Canadian Press) The Department of Immigration is conducting investigations at industrial points along the international border to ascertain the number of American citizens who enter Canada daily to earn their living. The investigation has been undertaken as the result of the new United States regulations which will, upon coming into effect, make it difficult for Canadians born outside Canada to work in the United States while residing in the Dominion.

While there is no talk yet of reprisals for any ruling of the United States which would effect several thousand Canadians, it is said here that Canada wishes to be in possession of all the facts of workers crossing the international boundary while negotiations are pending in Washington. There has been no change in the situation during the past few days, it is said, but Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian Minister in Washington, will resume conferences with the United States Government this week.

CONFERENCE LIKELY.

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 9. Canadian Press. — A conference in Washington before the end of the week now is likely between representatives of the Canadian and United States governments to work out the status of Canadian residents born outside of the Dominion and working on the United States side of the International border.

NO OFFICIAL STATEMENT

Frank B. Kellogg, secretary of state, has not issued an official statement pending the return of James C. Davis, Secretary of Labor, from the west to-day or to-morrow, but the Hon. Vincent Massey, the Canadian Minister, has cancelled a western speaking tour fixed for this week, and A. L. Jolliffe, Commissioner of Immigration for Canada, is expected down from Ottawa immediately, to advise the Canadian Legation on technicalities.

The Canadian Legation hopes to secure postponement of the effective date of the United States border regulations, now fixed for June 1. The enforcement date may be put ahead considerably while the adjustment is being made gradually of the whole border crossing situation.

The international conference probably will be a long one requiring continual cooperation between the Canadian legation and the United States Immigration Department with separate consideration for almost every case.

LABOR LEADER MAY QUIT POST

Retirement of Ramsay MacDonald Rumored Following Illness.

SUCCESSOR CONSIDERED.

LONDON, May 9. Canadian Press Cable. — Ramsay MacDonald's illness which has confined him to an hospital bed in Philadelphia, has caused some rumours that he might be compelled to retire from the leadership of the parliamentary leader party.

Speculation along this line has brought to the front a number of persons who would be considered if it was necessary to find a successor. Probably the choice would fall between Philip Snowden and Arthur Henderson, both of whom were members of Ramsay MacDonald's labor cabinet.

BOY INJURED WHEN THROWN FROM BICYCLE

Hartman Deline Knocked Down By Car Driven By W. Carter.

STORIES DIFFER.

Two Others Hurt By Cars Over Week End—Collision Reported.

Hartman Deline, 309 Townsend Street, was knocked down by a car driven by W. Carter, at noon today, at the corner of Stewart and Simcoe Streets. Deline was going west on Simcoe Street on a bicycle when Carter came north on Stewart, and struck the boy at the intersection.

The boy was thrown off his bicycle on to the pavement, breaking his glasses and receiving a cut on the forehead that required medical aid. The bicycle was smashed, and a wheel of the car broken, when Carter lost control and ran into the curb.

Deline says that the automobile was exceeding the speed limit, but Carter claims that he was going only about twelve miles an hour at the time of the accident.

Hazel Lafave, aged 12, of 298 Brock Street, was knocked down by a car on Saturday night, but was seriously hurt. With her younger brother, she was crossing the intersection of Aylmer and Hunter Streets when a car driven by Joseph Astels knocked her down. The boy noticed the car coming and stopped. His sister did not see the car or see her brother stop until part way across the street. She then turned to go back to her brother, but was knocked down by Astels' car. Astels picked the girl up and took her into Dr. O'Brien's office and 'phoned for Dr. McNulty as Dr. O'Brien was not at home. The doctor found the girl to be shocked and to have a bruise above the left eye.

Ted Pilling, of 172 Lock Street, was knocked down by a car driven by J. J. Lillico on Sunday night at the corner of Hunter and Mark Sts. Mr. Lillico was going east on Hunter Street when he ran into the boy. He took him to Dr. Wood, where it was found that he was not hurt seriously.

When G. N. Cowan went to get his car, which was on the Market, on Saturday night, he found that some one had backed into it, damaging the left rear fender.

Last night two cars collided head on on Haggart Street, near the C.N.R. crossing, damaging the front of both cars. L. M. Richardson of 645 Aylmer Street was driving his car north on Haggart Street when, at a point north of the C.N.R. crossing, he met a car driven by Lorne Weaver of 367 Bethune Street.

SON-AND-FATHER LUNCHEON IS GOOD START TO BOYS' WEEK

Brigadier-General Hughes Tells Rotary Gathering of Canada's Penitentiaries.

SPLENDID PICTURES.

Superintendent Makes Plea That Administration Be Removed From Political Influence.

As a fitting opening to Boys' Week this was son-and-father day at the Rotary Club luncheon and the members had as their guests their sons or a boy borrowed for the occasion, the attendance being large enough to necessitate the use of the main dining room.

The speaker of the day was Brigadier-General Hughes, Superintendent of Penitentiaries in Canada, while Rotarian Taylor Statten of Toronto, who is to deliver the address at tonight's mass meeting in the Grand Opera House, was introduced and spoke briefly.

General Hughes, whose remarks were illustrated by many splendid stereopticon views of different Canadian penitentiaries, impressed his hearers with his very deep interest in this subject, and his very evident desire to improve Canada's penitentiaries. A feature of his address was his earnest plea that the administration of these institutions should be removed as far as possible from political influence, that those who were to be entrusted as officials in penitentiaries should be trained for their important duties, and that the Canadian penitentiaries should be given a larger share of the work to be done for the Dominion Government, so that the inmates could be given proper training. These reforms would, the speaker was confident, make the institutions self-sustaining.

Contrasting the condition in Canadian penitentiaries now with those of a few years ago, General Hughes pointed out that whereas the chief labor provided when he first became connected with penitentiary work was breaking stone, there is not a prisoner now who is given that form of labor. The pictures shown of Dorchester Penitentiary, St. Vincent de Paul, Portsmouth and other institutions illustrated very effectively. Now the convicts of the present day are employed and the strides that have been made in the care of prisoners from the standpoint of health, sanitation, etc. Many fine views showing the work of the prisoners both in and out of the prison walls were given, and the whole address gave the listeners a new conception of these institutions.

In conclusion General Hughes pleaded for the support of the Rotarians in making Canada's penitentiaries still better institutions.

Rotarian Taylor Statten, who was introduced by Rotarian Tom Dutton, chairman of the Boys' Week Committee, emphasized the value of Boys' Week, referring to the success of such an effort in Toronto. Although the Toronto campaign was held some five years ago, the results were being felt, and Mr. Statten was sure that the emphasis placed on the boy by such a week was well worth while.

It was one of the most interesting meetings in the history of the Rotary Club and the enthusiasm shown augurs well for the success of Boys' Week.

Cat Which Saved Owner Fails in Second Attempt

HAVERHILL, Mass., May 9. — (United Press).—When Irving Flanders was overcome by gas a year ago his pet cat saved his life by mowing and scratching until aid came. The accident was duplicated Sunday, but the same cat mewed and scratched in vain. Flanders was dead when found in his room.

The cat was unconscious but was revived.

Russian Mechanic, Member Of Freak Club, Plans Trip; Moon Is His Destination and Journey Will Take 15 Hours

MOSCOW, May 9—Ivan Fedorof, a mechanic from Kiel, who belongs to the freak "All-Inventors' Vegetarian Club of Interplanetary Cosmopolitans," with several thousand members using a new language based on five vowels and five mathematical signs, says that he will fly to the moon in September in an apparatus called a "rocket," thirty meters long, half airplane and half giant projectile. He will be accompanied, he states by the German "moon fan," Max Vallier, and the three who prove most fit of seventy-five Moscow volunteers.

The inventor expects that landing on the moon, which he thinks should be reached after fifteen hours, will be difficult, but believes it feasible if the gas explosions are used as breaks.

The first expedition, for which the members will be provided with novel respirators, will only stay on the moon two days. But on a second trip, gases obtained from the bottom of the lunar craters would be rendered breathable by a special plant and a house built as a terminus of a future line of aerobuses.

After flying as an airplane to a height of fifteen kilometres, the "moon machine" will fold in its wings, simultaneously exploding a terrific mixture of three secret gases in lateral cylinders opening toward the tail, thus acquiring a velocity of eleven kilometers a second, according to the plans. This velocity being kept up by regular eplosions, will at 5,000 kilometres suffice to defeat the pull of the earth, and thereafter only occasional explosions will be required "to keep her steady."

ROYAL BOARD OPENS SESSION AT HAMILTON

Hear More Evidence Regarding "Switching" of Beer-Laden Cars.

SILK SMUGGLING.

Expected Mr. and Mrs. Rocco Perri Will Take Witness Stand.

HAMILTON, Ont., May 9 (Canadian Press).—More evidence in regard to the 'switching" of beer-laden cars will be placed before the royal customs commission during sittings which open here today. On the last day of the Windsor sitting, Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., commission counsel, intimated that he had a number of additional cases of camouflaging and switching to investigate here. Records show that beer has been camouflaged as milk, sugar, waste paper, and other commodities in order to get it into the United States. Evidence at Windsor also established the fact that other methods for evading the United States laws in the matter of beer shipments were discussed, if not actually utilized by those engaged in the traffic.

The sitting today will probably open with the examination of the customs officials at this port. This is the usual practice observed at the opening of sittings of the commission in any port. When the port officials are disposed of, any specific cases of smuggling or any suspicious matters which have been dug up by the auditors will be looked into. There are three breweries here which will, of course, come under review. Also, it is understood, there are certain cases of silk smuggling to be investigated. The sittings here should not last more than a week.

Will Examine Perri

It was expected that the commission would seize this opportunity to examine Mr. and Mrs. Rocco Perri, who were on the stand during the Toronto sittings. It is stated, however, that neither Mr. or Mrs. Perri are in Hamilton at present. Mrs. Perri is wanted to tell the Commission about some of her banking transactions which were discovered after her examination was concluded at Toronto. It is probable that they will both be called here.

The Windsor sittings disclosed the fact that many Americans who purchase liquor in large quantities in Canada for consumption in the United States, do not make income tax returns in this country. This is a phase of the liquor export business which has a direct bearing on the revenues of this country. Whether or not these buyers of Canadian liquor are liable to income tax is an important question in view of the fact that the value of exports of Canadian liquor from just a part of the docks at Windsor was estimated by commission auditors at seventeen millions a year.

At the conclusion of the Hamilton sittings the commission will move to Niagara Falls, the latter will probably be the final sittings of the commission in Ontario.

MANY AVIATORS ON BIG FLIGHTS

Two Planes Over Ocean Somewhere, One Over Land and One Waiting on Weather.

ONE PARTY MISSING.

NEW YORK, May 9 (United Press). —Here's where and who's who with respect to aviators whose stories today are attracting the attention of four continents.

Captain Charles Nungesser and Captain Francois Coli are somewhere between Paris and New York. They left Paris at 5.19 a.m. yesterday and were due here at 12.19 p.m. to-day.

Captain Saint Roman, Pilot Mouneyers, and Mechanic Petit, who left West Africa en route to Brazil on Thursday, still were missing to-day.

Francesco De Pinedo, Italian four-continent flier, left Quincy, Mass., to-day for Philadelphia.

Clarence Chamberlain and Lloyd Bertaud waited on Long Island for conditions favorable for a flight in the Bellanca Columbia monoplane from New York to Paris.

Chinese Who Slew Girl and Wounded Others Goes To Asylum.

TORONTO, May 9 (Canadian Press).—Pong Wong, local Chinese who fatally stabbed an eleven-year-old girl on March 30 after wounding several bystanders with a butcher knife, was found to be insane by a jury before Mr. Justice Masten in the Assizes to-day. Wong will be sent to the Ontario Hospital for the Insane.

House Afire, She Writes Firemen a Note About It

SOMERVILLE, Mass., May 9.—(Associated Press).—Mrs. A. M. Smith noticed smoke issuing from the basement door Saturday. She sat down anid wrote a letter to the fire department. The note gave her name and address, and voiced her suspicions that the house was on fire. A messenger was summoned and eventually the lieutenant in charge at the nearest fire station learned of the situation. When the department reached the premises, the overheated furnace had cooled considerably.

TWO KILLED IN CAR CRASH

Children's Lives Snuffed Out in Automobile Accident at London.

OUT WITH PARENTS.

LONDON, Ont., May 9 (Canadian Press).—Two lives were snuffed out with tragic suddenness about 3.45 on Sunday afternoon when the sedan in which they were riding with their parents was turned completely over in a collision with a car driven by Alfred Benbow of Tambling's Corners, at the intersection of Dundas and Waterloo Streets of this city. The dead are Keith Buckel, age 3 years, and George Buckle, aged 12 years, sons of George Buckle, a brakeman on the C.N.R., who resides at 275 Gray Street, who was driving the car when the fatality occurred. Others in the car were Mrs. Annie Buckle, Rose Buckle, aged 6, and Miss Sarah Dunbar of St. Mary's. Four were taken to Victoria Hospital, Mr. Buckle, suffering from head injuries and the others from shock. They were able to proceed to their home after receiving attention. The two lads were instantly killed.

Alfred Benbow was accompanied by his wife. He is being held by the police pending an investigation. The Benbow car was badly damaged but neither of the occupants hurt. Sunday's accident was the second fatality to occur there within a few months. Lieutenant Stanley of the R.C.R. meeting death there in a very similar manner. There have been a number of other collisions as well in which several people have been injured.

LIBERALS HAVE 85 CANDIDATES

Conservatives Have Only 61 Selected For Nomination To-day.

IN QUEBEC ELECTION.

MONTREAL, Quebec, May 9. Canadian Press. — Nominations in the Quebec Provincial elections were scheduled to take place in the various constituencies this afternoon, from one to three daylight saving time. The Liberals were ready with a candidate in every one of the 85 seats.

The Conservatives, whose leaders have announced that the party would have a man in every riding, had selected 1 standard bearers, but this morning were short 24 candidates if this promise was to be carried out.

Nine Independents were expected to file their papers with the returning officers.

The inisters who may be elected by acclamation if opposition does not materialize are Hon. J. E. Perrault, Miniser of Colonization, Mines and Fisheries; Hon. Galipeault, Minister of Public Works and Labor; Hon. E. Moreau, Minister without portfolio, and Hon. J. E. Caron, Minister of Agriculture. Hon. J. J. Francoeur, Speaker in the last legislature, likewise might get a walk over.

Toronto Girl May Lose Eye As Result Of Motor Crash

HAMILTON, May 9. — Canadian Press. — Dorothy Edwards, 33 Mulock Avenue Toronto may lose the sight of one eye as a result of injuries she received yesterday when an automobile driven by her father collided with an auto driven by Chas. Sheppard 68 Bay street south at King and Dundurn streets. Miss Ruth Edwards and Mrs. Shaw also suffered minor injuries and all three were removed to the general hospital. Miss Dorothy Edwards received the injury to her eye when the wind shield of her father's car was shattered in the collision. She was operated on shortly after being admitted to the hospital but it was not known last night whether the sight of the injured eye could be saved.

LATE REPORTS SHOW FLIERS ACROSS OCEAN

Captains Nungesser and Coli Are Reported as Passing Portland.

MINUS WIRELESS

Expect to Make New York Harbor Sometime This Afternoon.

BOSTON, May 9 (Canadian Press). —A radio message received at the navy yard to-day from the naval radio station at Portland said that a large plane passed over Portland flying west at 2.35 p.m. It was thought that it might possibly be the Nungesser plane. It had passed over Rockland an hour and a half previously at a high rate of speed.

PARIS, May 9.—(Canadian Press.) —Somewhere along the east coast of the United States a French airplane is winging its way from Paris to New York to-day. In the pilot's seat is one of the greatest heroes aviation gave to the war, Captain Charles Nungesser. Next to him is a veteran navigator both of the sea and the air, Captain Francois Coli.

Aside from their skill Captain Nungesser and Coli are staking success entirely on their plane, its single 450 horse power motor and enough gasoline to keep it going until this evening. To reduce weight and wind resistance and thus increase their speed, they decided to cut themselves off from the world by doing without wireless.

With the same end in view, they dropped their landing gear ten minutes after they got into the air at Le Bourget, and if all goes well the two Frenchmen expect to glide down upon the waters of New York Bay not far from the State of Liberty this afternoon.

The White Bird took the air gracefully at 5:18, as the sun sent its first beams across the flying field. At 6:48 it passed out over the Channel north of Havre. The four planes which escorted Nungesser and Coli from Le Bourget left them a short distance from the coast and turned back to land.

Take Northerly Course.

A little aften ten o'clock the fliers were taking a more northerly course than had been expected. They were over the Channel between Cherbourg and Southampton. None of the ships, lighthouses or aeroplanes that had been put on the alert for them got a glimpse of their plane, for the morning haze still hung over the water separating England and France.

Since then there has been no word of them except a private wireless message saying they had been seen off the Irish coast.

Saturday night was an unforgettable one of agonizing tenseness at Le Bourget, but the actual beginning of the adventure was brief and business like. The fliers shook hands with a few friends and got into the cockpit, and within four minutes after taking their seats they were in the air. Their plane ran 900 meters before the wheels on the third bound left the earth not far from where the course was crossed by a stream, so that had they ran much farther they might have met the fate which befell Captain Fonck's plane at Mitchell field a few months ago. This bit of luck may be attributed in part to the fact that at the last minute, knowing they would have a following wind for at least the first half of the journey they decided to take only 3,800 litres of gasoline instead of 4,000 as originally contemplated.

Having been informed that weather conditions were propitious— that they would have the wind at their back for 1,500 miles although conditions off Newfoundland were not so good, Nungesser and Coli decided that now was the appointed time. Without hesitation Captain Coli with his one good eye gazing directly at M. Delcambre, head of the government weather bureau, who had apprised him of conditions, said: "Very well, I will take the responsibility. We will go."

When Captain Nungesser approached, Coli said sharply: "We start. Is everything ready?"

"Yes," replied war ace. "All right, then, we're off."

Instinctively the men who were to trust one another with their lives on the Atlantic grasped each other's hand, they went home—Nungesser to sleep; Coli merely to lie down and relax.

Watch Get Off.

Somehow, word of their decision spread quickly and by midnight automobiles began to arrive at Le Bourget in droves. Before dawn there was a procession of them. Women in silks, satins and furs and men in dinner jackets came to top off an evening at the club with a fresh experience at dawn. Mechanics labored at the plane with deft touch, and at 3 o'clock in the morning the ship was ready. The aviators had already arrived. They were soon in their leather flying suits and awaited the final word.

Only a few friends were allowed in the hangar with them. These cleared out from the waiting room when the doctor who had saved Nungesser's life in the war came to examine him. The doctor gave him a small injection of caffeine to keep

GREAT BRITAIN IS FORCED TO REMAIN SILENT

Chance of Reprisal in China Is Rapidly Waning.

MODERN WEAPONS.

Report Shows Important Victories Gained By Both Sides.

LONDON, May 9.—There is much pressure from British interests in China for the government to take action in connection with the Nanking outrages, but owing to the complicated character of the Chinese internal situation and the possibility of the disappearance of Eugene Chen, foreign minister of the Hankow administration, Downing street is in a quandary. It is hinted that the government will be forced to do nothing, in spite of all inclinations to the contrary.

Anking Captured

LONDON, May 9.—Shanghai advices reaching the Exchange Telegraph company yesterday by way of Hong Kong reported that the Northern Chinese troops have captured Anking. Anhwei province, about 100 miles up the Yangtse from Nanking, while Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, the moderate Nationalist (southern) commander has captured Cangchow, on the north bank of the Yangtse, east of Nanking.

It is also reported in these advices that in anticipation of its occupation by troops of the northern commander, Gen. Sun Chuan-Fang, Chinkiang has been evacuated. Twenty thousand southerners are said to be concentrated on Golden Island and as far west as a point opposite Shikherwei.

Modern Weapons

TORONTO, May 9.—The Chinese are becoming quite modern in their mode of warfare, a letter to the foreign missions office of the United Church of Canada from Dr. Gordon Struthers, a missionary, says. Motor cars, aeroplanes and wireless apparatus are being used by both sides in the conflict.

Blockade Useless

LONDON, May 9.—Michael Borodin, adviser to the Chinese Nationalist government at Hankow, in an interview with the correspondent of the Daily Express, declared that a blockade of Hankow, as has been rumored, could have no effect whatever.

The correspondent says that, despite statements to the contrary, Borodin, who is a Russian, "is virtual dictator of Southern China."

He is quoted as making a sharp attack on General Chiang Kai-Shek, leader of the moderate nationalists with headquarters at Nanking, denouncing him as a 'renegade and rebel who, before the lapse of many months, will go the way of all traitors to just and trimumphant causes."

"Chiang must go," he added. "He is setting up a government under false pretenses, and while he persists in trying to usurp the authority of this government (Hankow) there will be no end of strikes, no end of terror in the country.

Concentrate on Pekin

"The Hankow Government will not attempt to attack Chiang militarily, for the task of its advancing armies now is to concentrate on Pekin, which we shall have no difficulty in reaching within the next three months. The feudalist government of the north (Pekin) is dead; we will bury it very soon."

Borodin proposed that the Powers should assist in stabilizing the Hankow government, asserting that if they believe they have a new hope in Chiang's Nanking outfit, they are doomed to bitter disappointment.

Has Not Fled

Explaining his relations with the Hankow government, Borodin declared:

"You have heard, of course, that I fled to India or Russia, or that I took refuge in a hospital, or was dismissed by the Nationalist authorities, but I am still here and, as far as I can see, I will be here for some time to come. It depends entirely on the government. My position is that of adviser. If they like my advice, they take it; if they don't, they ignore it."

He insisted he was not in the employ of Russia and that he did not receive one penny from Moscow.

Brantford Woman Killed Week Before Her Wedding

BRANTFORD, May 9. — Miss Mary M. Ortan, young Hungarian, who was to have been married this week on Saturday walked in front of the Ontario Limited near the Elgin street subway and was instantly killed, the body being badly mangled. She had resided with Mrs. John Nemuth, 18 Duke street, and the body was not identified for some time after the accident, as she was supposed to be at work.

FACTIONS FIGHTING NORTH OF HANKOW

Both Sides Have Heavy Casualties When Forces Clash.

PEKING, May 9 (Associated Press). —Serious fighting, with heavy casualties on both sides, is reported 125 miles north-west of Hankow, between Marshal Chang Tso Lin's northern forces and those of the Hankow (southern) government. Feng Sen Chi, civil governor of Honan, is at the front personally directing the operations.

The Nationalist plan that Feng Yu Hsiang should at this stage threaten Chang Tso Lin's flank, miscarried, owing to the fact that northern troops intercepted huge supplies of munitions intended for Feng.

Wine Drinking Cat Dies; Of Old Age, Not Drink

LONDON, May 9 (United Press)—Peter, 12 year old winebibbling cat of London, is dead but it was old age, aided by a cold, and not the sparkling Burgundy which he drank that brought his end. Years ago an attendant in the wine cellar of the Savoy hotel, where Peter long had lived, corrupted him and soon the feline fancier of wine disregarded the few attempts made to win him back to a milk diet. Every evening thereafter he was given a bowl of fine Burgundy before he made his nightly rounds of the cellar, in search of mice.

Peter was well known to the employes of the Savoy and his passing was mourned, not only in the cellar but in other parts of the building as well.

Australia To Open New Capital Today

LONDON, May 9. — Canadian Press Cable. — Premier Stanley Baldwin has cabled Premier Stanley Bruce of Australia expressing confidence that the ceremony opening the new Australian capital at Canberra today will be a prelude to yet greater development of the resources and well being of the commonwealth.

Lt.-Colonel L. C. Amery, secretary of state for dominion affairs, has also sent a message to the Australian Prime Minister, saying:

"The whole Empire will watch with proud interest the progressive fulfillment of the immense and inspiring task to which the Australian people have set their hands."

TWISTER HITS KANSAS STATE

Four Killed When Tornado Sweeps Central Section of Kansas.

SCORES INJURED.

HUTCHINSON, Kansas, May 9.—(Associated Press).—A tornado which swept through the south central section of Kansas late Saturday night left four dead and scores of injured, a tentative check-up showed last night. One man was killed at Medicine Lodge, one at Inman, one at Hutchinson, and one at Medora.

The tornado which struck Hutchinson just before midnight Saturday cut a swath three miles long and two miles wide to a point four miles north-west of Inman, where it swept upward and disappeared.

Hundreds of frame houses in the towns affected were demolished or damaged, and the wind took everything in its path along the three-mile swath toward Inman.

Property damage in the south-western corner of the McPherson County is expected to run close to $250,000.

Damage Heavy.

WICHITA, Kansas, May 9 (Canadian Press).—With one death a certainty and unverified rumors that several persons had lost their lives in heavy winds covering a large area of Kansas between Hutchinson and McPherson Saturday night, crippled wires last night carried bits of news concerning the storm. Wire service to the affected area was disrupted early last night.

The only known death was that of Frank Kaufman, 20, farm youth, who was buried in the ruins of his brick home near Medicine Lodge. A number of persons were injured in the storm, area, and many houses destroyed or damaged, early reports indicated.

SCOUT NEWS

AT MARMORA.

MARMORA, May 9.—Thursday May 5th was an auspicious day for the 1st Deloro Boy Scout Troop, it being the date of the visit of Travelling Field Secretary Jones of the Ontario Provincial headquarters. Accompanied by Scoutmaster S. B. Cheeseman Mr. Jones arrived at the Troops Heaquarters at 7 p.m., the Troop falling in and engaging in two-minutes silent prayer. Following inspection of general and special character, the announcements for the week were given out. A communication was read from Mr. F. A. Bapty concerning the protection of new trees planted in the village. The Field Secretary then addressed the boys, presenting the Troop charter at the close of his remarks. First aid demonstrations by first air group of each patrol were then given showing methods of dealing with broken arm, upper and fore, and rescuing from burning building. Succeeding events were Kim's game contest, Knot contest (blindfold), four-cornered tug-of-war, relay passing game and running the gauntlet. A game of knot baseball was won by the Ram Patrol. Assembler around the council fire, songs and a chapter from "Boy of the Otter Patrol" proved very entertaining. Further remarks were forthcoming from Mr. Jones on first aid trophies open to competition by scouts. After dismissal, the Field Secretary and Scoutmaster held discussion of the coming summer camp.

Duke And Duchess Of York Arrive At New Capital

CANBERRA, Australia, May 9 (Associated Press). — The Duke and Duchess of York arrived here yesterday and were met by Premier Bruce, who escorted them to the Government House.

Details have been perfected for the Duke's ceremonial opening of the Parliament Buildings today, thus inaugurating Canberra as the new capital of the Australian Commonwealth. The new city is thronged with visitors for the ceremony and thousands of persons unable to find accommodations are camping out.

HEMPEL ACTION STILL MYSTERY

"Valuable Consideration" Not Yet Explained at Conference Held Saturday.

NEW YORK, May 9.— The valuable "consideration" for which Frieda Hempel, noted diva, asserts 79-year-old August Heckscher, promised her $48,000 a year for the rest of her life, was still a mystery to day, despite a conference at which Mme. Hempel and her attorney received newspapermen last Saturday night.

Mme. Hempel has sued Teckscher for a sum believed to total close to a million dollars.

Only one certainty came out of the conference—Mme. Hempel does not want the public to get the notion that she is a gold digger. Her attorney said so and the singer chimed in with practically her only contribution to the conversation.

"No but I am not a gold digger."

Mme. Hempel gave up her concert career because of a contract with Heckscher ,the attorney said, but whether this was the 'consideration' he would not definitely say. He further declined to say whether any romantic attachment was involved, either in the agreement to give up singing for pecuniary gain or in the valuable consideration.

Attorneys for Heckscher declined to comment.

Brother of Judge Huycke Sustains Broken Shoulder When Team Bolts.

NORHAM, May 9 — Sawyer H. Huycke, brother of His Honor Judge E. C. S. Huycke of Peterborough sustained a broken shoulder and a bad shaking up on Saturday when a team with which he was plowing became frightened and attempted to run away.

Modern radio devices were used by two young Englishmen and an American in their search for gold ornaments and chains, emeralds, rubies, diamonds and sapphires, hastily buried by the priests of San Jose church when the Pirate Morgan sacked the old city of Panama in 1671. George Williams, Fred Kelley and Wallace Bain obtained a special concession for treasure hunting from President Chiari, and using a special ground radio apparatus set to work on five excavations in the old city ruins. In a subterranean tunnel beneath the crumbling San Jose church they claim to have located considerable treasure. The ruined tower of the old church and George Williams in the tunnel are shown above.

LYRICS OF LIFE

ANOTHER DAY

Another dawn, another day,
Another chance another way—
To finish something you began,
Or else to try another plan.

Another sky, another sun,
Another and a better one,
Another day you never had,
Another reason to be glad.

Another day, another start
A firmer hold, a braver heart,
A stronger arm, a wiser mind,
A mortal of another kind.

Another dawn, another day,
Another chance another way
To take a task and see it through—
Another world, another you!

SILENCE SHROUDS FATE OF AVIATOR

Captain Saint Roman Has Been Missing Since Early Thursday.

RIO JANEIRO, May 9 (Associated Press).—Alarm increases over the fate of Captain Saint Roman and his comrade, Commander Mouneyres, who early Thursday morning hopped off from St. Louis., Senegal, on the 1,875 mile air flight to Pernambuco, and who since have not been heard from.

All the radio stations of Brazil have been in action, seeking to get into communication with the aviators, and ships have searched the coast and outlying points in vain. Anxiety is indicated in the newspaper comment, whereby the probability of a fatal accident appears generally accepted.

There are several places yet where the aviators might have landed, either one of the barren islands or some point along the coast where there are few inhabitants. No trace of wreckage has been found, and as it is thought the plane would have remained afloat for a considerable time, this gives hope to those who are optimistic enough to think that the French aviators have made a landing somewhere.

The only reigning monarch under the American flag is the Sultan of Sulu, in the Philippine Islands.

"Sir Hugh John Macdonald of Winnipeg, a son of Sir John, and a son of the late Hon. George Brown, living now in England, should be brought to Ottawa to celebrate the anniversary of the birth of this great nation and to clasp hands in a covenant of confederation," was the proposal put forward by Premier Ferguson last week. Sir Hugh, shown above, has expressed his willingness to participate.

Ex-Premier MacDonald Is Recovering Rapidly

PHILADELPHIA, May 9. Canadian Press. — J. Ramsay Macdonald, former premier of Great Britain who entered Jefferson Hospital here two weeks ago, suffering from a severe sore throat, is sitting up in bed and is permitted to read. He has so far recovered that he is expected to leave the hospital some day this week.

Mr. MacDougall's attack of Pharyngitis was described by Dr. S. Solis-Cohen as quite severe. The fluctuating fever which accompanied the attack, sapped Mr.MacDonald's strength and it was deemed wise to keep him in bed to gather his strength and prevent a relapse.

It is said Mr. MacDonald has not definitely set a date for his departure for England. He may spend a few days at Atlantic City or New York before sailing.

OLD MASTERS

Creep into thy narrow bed,
Creep, and let no more be said!
Vain thy onset! All stands fast.
Thou thyself must break at last.

Let the long contention cease!
Geese are swans, and swans are geese,
Let them have it how they will!
Thou art tired; best be still.

They out-talked thee, hissed thee, tore thee?
Better men fared thus before thee;
Fired their ringing shot and passed,
Hotly charged—and sank at last.

Charge once more, then, and be dumb!
Let the victors, when they come,
When the forts of folly fall,
Find thy body by the wall!

HOPE WANING FOR SAFETY OF AVIATOR

French Flier and Companions On Atlantic Flight Long Overdue.

SEARCH ORDERED.

De Barros, Famous Brazilian Airman, May Join in Hunt.

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 9 (United Press).—Only slim hopes were held out yesterday for the safety of Captain Saint Roman, French aviator, and two companions on a trans-Atlantic flight, who were more than 30 hours overdue at Pernambuco.

The flyers left Africa for Pernambuco Thursday morning and kept in constant wireless communication with ships and shore stations until late in the day, when their half hour report suddenly stopped coming in. They were due at Pernambuco at midnight Friday.

The Club Bandeirantes Brasil yesterday suggested that the Brazilian aviator De Barros set out by plane in search of the missing Saint Roman.

It would be a "brave and patriotic action" as a manifestation of solidarity between France and Brazil, the club said in a messageg to De Barros.

Search Ordered.

Brazilian authorities have ordered a combined land and sea search for Captain Saint Roman and Commander Mouneyres, on the strength of a rumor that the French aviators passed over Fernando do Noronha Island, 125 miles off the Brazilian coast, at 11 o'clock Thursday night, flying in the direction of the mainland.

Still Retain Hope.

PARIS, May 9. — Although more than 48 hours have elapsed since Captain Saint Roman left West Africa in an attempt to fly to the Brazilian coast without definite word as to his whereabouts, French circles were not without hope today.

The possibility of their having alighted on St. Paul's rock, in mid-ocean, or the island of Fernando do Noronha, off the Brazilian coast, is not seriously considered, for the rock affords no likely landing place and the Fernando do Noronha ground is so broken that a machine lacking pontoons, as is the case with the Saint Roman plane, could not land without being wrecked.

FORECAST CONFIRMED.

Linnell To Succeed Foster as U. S. Consul-General at Ottawa.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—(Canadian Press).—Confirmation of a Canadian Press forecast that Irving E. Linnell, of Boston, now in charge of Canadian Affairs in the State Department, will succeed Col. John G. Foster when the latter retires as Consul General at Ottawa on July 1, was contained in a state department statement today.

THE WEATHER

Meteorological Office, Toronto, May 8.—8 p.m.— Pressure is high on the Atlantic coast and over the Western Provinces, while a deep depression is centred over Nebraska. The weather has been fair and comparatively mild from Ontario eastward, and cool in the west, with snow and rain in Manitoba.

Forecasts.

Lower Lakes and Georgian Bay — Fresh to strong east to southeast winds; partly fair, with local showers or thunder storms.

Recluse Leaves Money For Luxuries For Poor

ST. THOMAS, May 9.—James Precoor lived for many years in one room of his large house, and subsisted chiefly on bread and salt, it was brought out Saturday during an enquiry into a claim of $,515 against his estate. Nevertheless, the 91-year-old recluse, who died last January, bequeathed $5,000 to the Thomas Williams Home in this city for the purpose of maintaining at that institutions at least ten old people, and supplying them with small luxuries which they would not get under ordinary circumstances.

Equal amounts are left the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, and the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, while the United Church at Corinth will receive $700, and is also named as one of the residuary legatees. A Mrs. Charity Silverthorne who saved Precoor's home from burning when she was a young woman, is heir to the sum of $100 because, deceased states in the will, he did not think she was suitably rewarded at the time. To an old neighbor named Rickwood, who recently went blind, Precoor left $200.

The second clause in the will is also unusual. It directs the executors to use their own discretion in suitably rewarding or paying neighbors who were kind to the old man during his lifetime. Two of the executors, William Culp and William Scott, of Bayham, have resigned, leaving Barrister W. C. Brown of Tilsonburg sole executor. Only one near relative benefits by the will, James R. Peacock of Bayham, who is left $5,000 and the homestead, and also named a residue legatee.

The crest of the great Mississippi flood now roaring past the bluffs at Vicksburg will in a day or two be approaching the southern metropolis of New Orleans and then the real test of the precaution taken to protect that city from inundation will be at hand. Dissatisfied with the result of the first dynamiting operations at Poydras, further blasts have been carried out, the third explosion which tore down another large section of the dykes being illustrated at the right. So far the gap blown in the levees has allowed sufficient water to pour off to relieve New Orleans from immediate peril. Five parishes adjacent to the city, however, have been submerged and great loss has been entailed by the drastic steps taken to avoid disaster to the chief city of the south. The photograph on the left shows the waters of the swollen Mississippi pour through one of the gaps caused by the dynamiting.

Lumber Camp Cook favors Magic

When sturdy men leave their cosy homes for the woods, they often find that the camp cook is just as firm a believer in Magic Baking Powder as are their wives.

Mrs. Ed. Marsh, Everard P.O., writes:—

"I have been using Magic Baking Powder for many years, also my husband has lumbering camps and he always uses it. He would not have any other kind."

You can always rely on Magic Baking Powder. Its quality is always uniform. There is no other "just the same".

WOMEN VOTERS HAVE MAJORITY

Will Outnumber Men in Great Britain By Two Million.

WHEN LAW IS CHANGED

LONDON, May 7 (Canadian Press).—The Government's promised bill giving women the vote at 21 years of age will give women a majority of more than 2,000,000 in the next General Election. At present, men have a majority of three million, because women under 30 years of age are not enfranchised. The voting strength computed last winter was: Men, 12,697,790; women, 9,592,222. The reduction in voting age will give the vote to an additional 5,126,000 women. In addition, simplification of the voting qualifications for women voters will result in enfranchisement of a large number of women at present ineligible to vote, although they are oever 30 years of age.

It is believed that in 70 per cent of the constituencies the women electors will outnumber the men. At present, this is the case in five constituencies only, South Kensington, Cheltenham, Hastings, Glasgow Hillhead and South Edinburgh, though in a few other constituencies the women equal the men.

The Labor Party will submit for second reading on Friday, May 20, a private member's bill proposing to carry out the reform which the Government announced. The Government will certainly be pressed to accept the bill in view of their decision, but it is understood that they are not likely to agree to any further action being taken before next session. It is not likely that such a delay would prevent the younger women from voting in the next General Election, even if it is held next October.

A point which is said to have impressed the Cabinet in arriving at its decision was that Andrew Bonar Law, Canadian, who for a brief time was premier, was known to favor an alteration. Towards the end of 1922 he declared: "I have been a consistent supporter of woman's suffrage, and, even at the time the Franchise Bill of 1918 was passed, I felt that the discrimination in age between men and women could not be permanent. I think so still."

No question of redistribution arises. The Act of Representation of 1918 provided for redistribution on the basis of one member for each 70,000 population and naturally this position is unchanged by the government's bill. The Labor party agree with the decision that redistribution is not necessary on the ground that the vote is not given to a new class of electors, as was the case when women were enfranchised for the first time in 1918.

There are considerable differences of opinion as to the effect which the proposal will have upon the political fortunes of the parties. The Times remarks, although it is agreed that to some extent the change must be a leap in the dark. One result will be to produce abnormal majorities in a few constituencies held by each party. Labor will be particularly consoled by the accession of strength in the mil districts of say Lancashire where the number of women workers under 30 is extremely large. The increased cost of a General Election is one undisputable result of the bill. This is not merely in electoral machinery but in expenses of candidates.

BAILIEBORO NEWS

BAILIEBORO, May 9.— Geddes Harper of Peterboro spent Wednesday evening at his home.

Cleveland Byers motored to Toronto on Tuesday.

Mr. B. Perrin is getting his new house bricked this week.

Mr. W. Barnard is spending a few days the guest of friends in Peterboro.

Vincent Jewison left for Oshawa on Monday to accept a position there.

The high school boys were busily engaged in rolling the base ball diamond on Thursday during the noon hour.

M. Perrin, who has been attending the Peterboro Business College has accepted a position with a Toronto firm.

Owing to the fact that trawling for pickerel has been prohibited until July 1 there are fewer tourists around Rice Lake district this spring.

The farmers have almost completed their spring seeding and some have already begun to rush the season by turning their stock out to pasture.

BAILIEBORO, May 9.—The young people of the Y.P.S. of the United church motored to Elizabethville on Wednesday evening and presented their play entitled "The Path Across the Hill" in the Elizabethville United church.

There was a splendid crowd present and the excellent order that prevailed throughout the entire programme inspired the artists to act their various parts in a most efficient manner.

The numbers between acts were ably rendered by Mr. Wilfred Johnston and Miss Birdie Wilson of Elizabethville.

At the conclusion of the program the members of the Elizabethville Y.P.S. served a delightful supper to the members of the cast before they started upon their return trip.

The door receipts amounted to about sixty dollars.

The cast of characters were:

Grandpa Crawford—Fred Barnard.
Robert Post—Will Lang.
Walter Conrod, Ruth's brother—Geddes Harper.
Dr. Jimmie Reid, with ambition—Karl Lang.
Salamander Alexander John Henry Jones, Zuzu's choice—Charles Barnard.
Ruth Conrod—Miss E. Wallace.
Lutie, a neighbor—Miss K. Bateman.
Grandma Davis—Miss L. Earl.
Flo Grey—Miss D. Falls.
Zuzu, the cook—Miss M. Earl,
Norman Earl acted as stage manager, while those taking cars were Messrs. W. Lang, N. Earl and F. Barnard. Miss I. Dawson acted as instructress.

The young people are planning to present their play to the Gore's Landing people sometime in the near future.

LATE REPORTS

him awake the thirty or forty hours he must pilot the plane if he is to succeed, for Coli is not a pilot—he is a navigator. From the moment of departure until he lands, Captain Nungeseer cannot leave his seat in the cockpit for a second.

Small Rations

Coli and Nungesser then had a few words together. They decided to cut out the emergency food rations and take with them only a few bananas, some caviar and coffee in a thermos bottle.

General Girod, who gave Nungesser his first aeroplane in the war, grasped the blonde Frenchman by the arm.

"My little one," he said, "We are putting all our confidence in your prudence; your courage; your will. You will carry with you some of the soul of France. You will make it greater if it has need to be made greater. You will succeed."

"Yes," said Nungesser, "We will succeed."

Marching on to the field, the two fliers were greeted with "Vive Nungesser, Vive Coli. Bravo."

The crowds gathered behind the soldiers who held them back with fixed bayonets. The aviators stepped into a car and were driven to the corner of the field where their "White Bird" was in readiness. The business of adjusting straps, goggles and instruments was quickly accomplished. The engine had already been warmed. It began to roar again, fast, then slow, then a full roar. In a moment the wheels began to roll faster and faster. Forty terribly long seconds passed as the plane raced down the field—and then a bound—another bound—everyone wondered—then a third bound and gracefully and gradually the White Bird took the air for the long, long trackless trail to New York.

On Lookout

MONTREAL, May 9 (Canadian Press).—Shipping companies here informed The Canadian Press last night that the masters of those vessels now in mid-ocean had been requested to watch out for Nungesser and Coli, now en route to the American continent by air. There are several Canadian Pacific, White Star and Cunard liners at present along the northern navigation route. The ships' commanders will wireless the movements of the fliers to this side of the Atlantic should any of them observe the Frenchmen.

NEW YORK, May 9. Canadian Press. — A report received here this morning by the French Cable Company that the Nungesser plane had

Canadian Press received a despatch from Halifax, N. S., which stated "Cape ace, Newfoundland, wireless station, operated by the Canadian Government, advised at ten o'clock, this morning that no word had been received of the French airmen up to that hour."

MARMORA, May 9.—Miss Marjorie Colster is entering a Toronto hospital as nurse-in-training.

Confirmation classes are being held at St. Paul's church.

Mr. C. A. Lummiss was called to Belleville on Thursday owing to the illness of his brother.

Mr. James Shannon was home from Belleville on Wednesday.

Mr. Howard Bleecher, who has been transferred from the Montreal office of the Bell Telephone Company to the Toronto office, visited at his home here last week end.

Mrs. M. S. Pitcher of Regina, Sask. renewed acquaintances locally this week.

Mr. Michael Moloney paid a visit to Maynooth this week.

CUSTOMS FORCE IS STRENGTHENED

Re-organization of Preventive Service Started—Used Cars and Patrol Boats.

OTTAWA, May 9.—Parliament last session appropriated a million dollars for the Customs preventive service, particularly with the idea of strengthening it, and action to that end is now being taken.

F. W. Cowan, chief of the service, is organizing the new protective service and has just returned from the Maritime provinces, where he went in connection with the new force. It will be spread along the international border and both the coasts. The men are being selected with a view to their fitness for the positions rather than on political lines.

Next week contracts are to be awarded for a fleet of smaller patrol boats and a number of high speed motor cars while tenders are being called for two good-sized, speedy cruisers. These will re place the inadequate equipment now used.

It is not yet known how many men will be recruited for the special force, but whatever number is necessary will be enlisted in a determined attempt to stamp out smuggling.

NO TRACE FOUND OF LOST AVIATORS

Extensive Wireless Search For French Flying Men Fails.

PERNANMBUCO, Brazil, May 9.—(Canadian Press).—No trace of the French aviators, Captain Saint Roman and Commander Mouneyres, who left St. Louis, Senegal, early Thursday morning for Pernambuco, Brazil, had been found by noon Saturday despite an intensive wireless search conducted by M. Devalle, French consul here, with the cooperation of the Brazilian authorities.

M. Devalle said that the wireless station in Port Natal, Brazil, also swept all northward ships along the Brazilian coast without result.

Firemen Pump Air 50 Hours To Save Man

CHICAGO, May 9 (Associated Press).—Firemen fought pneumonia to-day in another effort of science to keep lagging lungs functioning after hope through accepted medical methods has all but been abandoned.

Harry Thompson, 52 years old, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia since Tuesday, is being kept alive, according to Dr. John J. Hessert, his physician, by the administration of oxygen. Pulmotor squad of the Chicago fire department has been working in relays for more than 50 hours.

Dr. Hessert said Thompson would have died Tuesday but for the action of the firemen. Now he is hopeful that life may be prolonged until the lungs heal sufficiently to take up their work again.

OBITUARY.

MRS. GEORGE CLARKE

NORHAM, May 9—Mary Carnrike, wife of George Munroe Clarke, and a widely known resident of Brighton township who retired in her usual health on Saturday night and when called by her husband on Sunday morning was found to have passed away during the night. She was in her 88th year.

CHARLES NELSON.

BURNBRAE, May 9.—There was laid to rest in Burnbrae cemetery on Wednesday afternoon a highly respected citizen of West Seymour, and one who was equally esteemed at Burnbrae, in the person of the late Charles Nelson, who passed away on Tuesday at the age of eighty-one years. The late Mr. Nelson settled in the Burnbrae district on his arrival from Scotland fifty-nine years ago. He later married Janet Watson, daughter of another old Burnbrae family, who, with two sons, Blythe and James, survives. Until sixteen years ago the Nelson family lived at Burnbrae where they won for themselves a wide circle of friends. James married and started farming on the 6th Concession, where he still resides. Charles Nelson disposed of his farm to Mr. George Bennett and with his younger song, Blythe, moved to West Seymour, purchasing the farm which became well-known as the home of the "Morningside" Holsteins.

The late Mr. Nelson, always a hard-working and highly-efficient farmer, retained an active grasp of conditions up to the last and during his long illness one of his favorite themes of conversation was the progress of farm crops and dairy work.

The services was held at the house with Revs. Elliott and D. A. McKenzie. The pall-bearers were all nephews of the deceased, Messrs. Herbert, George, Allan and Lindsay Watson, George and Stewart Nelson.

WEDDING BELLS.

BUTLER—VINETTE

NEW YORK, May 9 (Specil to The Examiner) — A former Peterborough woman, Miss Olive A. Vinette, 35, an actress, now living at 722 South 60th Street, Philadelphia, Pa., and George Butler, 30, an actor, of Brooklyn, N. Y., were married in this city on Friday. The ceermony took place in the Chapel of the Municipal Building with Deputy City Clerk John J. McCormick officiating.

The bride was born in Pejerborough, the daughter of Gabriel and Anna ViVnette. Mr. Butler was born in this city, the son of Joseph and Theresa Butler.

Mr. E. F. Jones is a native of Toronto, residing at 212 Rose Park Drive. In his business he has had a wide experience with different types of motors and brands of oils.

His complete satisfaction with Marvelube, in face of the tremendous task to which he put it, is a strong recommendation for the "finest of all motor oils."

8½ Days- Saskatoon to Toronto Cool Motor all the Way

OF the many interesting and remarkable records made by motorists using Marvelube Motor Oil during 1926, the 2300 mile trip of Mr. E. F. Jones of Toronto, who drove from Saskatoon to Toronto in eight and a half days, offers substantial proof of the unusual lubricating qualities of this oil.

Mr. Jones left Saskatoon in his Chevrolet Coach at 8 a.m. July 1st, and arrived in Toronto at 11.30 a.m., July 9th. During this trip, he drove in two Provinces and seven States — Saskatchewan, North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ontario. Throughout the drive he maintained an average speed of 35 miles an hour to keep up to his schedule.

Before starting from Saskatoon, the crankcase of the car was flushed and filled with Marvelube and a supply of Marvelube was carried for use on the trip.

"Throughout the entire trip the motor ran cool and smooth," reported Mr. Jones. "Indicating that Marvelube was performing its task of lubricating a high speed motor of the Chevrolet type perfectly."

"Upon my arrival in Toronto, the car was sent to a garage for a 'once over' and the bearings were found to be uninjured from the long grind, and practically no carbon was found in the engine."

Few motorists ever call on an oil to "make good" against such odds as those encountered on this 2300-mile high speed grind, but Marvelube's sterling performance under the conditions is a true indication of its inherent quality.

Any motorist, regardless of the make or model of the car he drives, can be sure of satisfactory, care-free lubrication if he uses Marvelube in the right grade and changes oil regularly every 500 miles.

The impressive record made by Marvelube in this case, as well as in hundreds of others reported, is your guarantee that the oil which gave such phenomenal results under extraordinay conditions can be depended on to give full satisfaction in normal use.

Yes—"Off-Color" Teeth can now be lightened

Gums Firmed to Healthy Coral Tint

Accept full 10-day tube of this special Film-removing method that leading dental authorities urge. Your teeth are not naturally dull . . . simply clouded by a dingy film.

Dental science has discovered that one's teeth are seldom naturally "off color." Hence you can now restore them to dazzling clearness; can firm tender gums to healthy coral color.

Run your tongue across your teeth. You will feel a slippery sort of film, coating them, that absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. A film ordinary dentifrices won't clear off successfully.

Film breeds germs, invites tooth decay, gum troubles and pyorrhea. Beneath it are the gleaming teeth you envy. Thus leading dental authorities now widely urge a new-type, film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent, different from all others.

Put old ways aside. Get Pepsodent at any drug store. Ten-day tube sent free to start you.

"THE WORLD DO MOVE."

One of the most striking features in connection with Canada's celebration of her sixtieth birthday is the plan under consideration by which the carillon chimes in the Victory Tower at Ottawa and the jubilee message of His Majesty King George will be heard not only throughout Canada and the United States, but in Great Britain and in various parts of Europe, and possibly in Australia.

A linking up of the telephone, the Marconi beam and powerful broadcasting stations is expected to make this experiment completely successful, and establish a new record in long distance broadcasting.

If we were not so accustomed to modern marvels of science and invention, there would be something almost uncanny about the statement, made in a most matter-of-fact manner, that the King's voice will be heard in a fraction of a second after His Majesty has begun to deliver his message.

As it is, the announcement has been accepted as merely an interesting feature of the jubilee programme.

SUPPORT THE CIRCUS.

An outstanding contribution to the success of Boys' Week is that made by the physical department of the Y.M.C.A., which tomorrow and Wednesday nights will present the Boys' Week circus in Brock Street Rink.

The Y.M.C.A. circus has been a successful annual event for some years, but the big performance has never been given under such favourable auspices as the present occasion with the arena offering more room for the various acts than has hitherto been available.

The result should be a memorable performance, one that will give the public some idea of what the gymnasium training of the Y.M.C.A. can accomplish, and at the same time will provide the audience with abundant opportunities to laugh.

The support of the public on behalf of the circus is urged.

The proceeds from the event are being devoted to meeting the expenses of Boys' Week, and on that account, and also on its own merit, the Y.M.C.A. circus should enjoy liberal patronage on Tuesday and Wednesday.

THE PREMIER'S ADVICE.

Premier Ferguson, in a semi-jocular speech at London the other day, advised supporters of the principle of Government control not to form long queues outside the Government stores when these are opened, warning them that opposition newspapers would take advantage of the oppoprtunity to turn their camera men loose on the line-up of the thirsty.

It was not bad advice.

If those who rejoice in what they regard as the restoration of a long-lost liberty want to get the new system of dealing with the liquor question off to the worst possible start, all they have to do is to act as if the stores were to be open only a day or two and it is necessary therefore for them to get as big a supply as possible.

Many people who personally have no desire to indulge in liquor supported Government control because they believed it to be the most effective way of curbing an evil.

The confidence of such people in the plan is likely to be rudely shaken if the opening of the Government stores is accompanied by a general "spree" on the part of thirsty Canadians.

BOYS' WEEK.

During the present week the boys of Peterborough are to constantly occupy the centre of the stage.

Fostered by the Rotary Club, who are being given every assistance by other local organizations, the first Boys' Week in the history of this city is being launched today, and the activities in connection with the movement will culminate on Sunday with special services for boys and their fathers in all the churches of the city.

The programme has been designed not only to create more adult interest in the new generation of boys who will in a short time be administering the affairs of Peterborough and of the country, but at the same time to give the boys an insight into how local institutions are managed and into the realm of industry.

Nothing in which the boy participates or is interested has been omitted, and starting with the son-and-father mass meeting at the Grand tonight, there will be a series of features that should prove of great interest to young Peterborough.

Civic officials, manufacturers and other citizens are co-operating cordially with the committee, and there is no reason to expect other than a very successful and unique campaign on behalf of the city's boys.

Tonight's mass meeting should provide an initial impetus that will be sustained throughout the week.

WHY MEN BECOME CROOKS.

Warden Ponsford, of Portsmouth Penitentiary, undoubtedly has the right idea when he declares that his charges owe a debt to society and the state and ought to earn enough to pay their share of the running expenses of the institution and an amount over and above, and can be turned over for the support of their dependents. This is also the view of Mr. William McAdoo, for sixteen years chief magistrate of New York City and before that City Police Commissioner. In an article in the May number of Scientific Monthly he expresses his belief that the time is coming when the state will create a great custodial institution. This he describes as "neither state's prison, jail nor reformatory," but a self-supporting community with farms, shops, churches, schools and the like, where men of the criminal type may be detained until doubt that they have reformed is completely removed.

In his opinion neither disease nor any other serious social handicap is responsible for young men adopting crime as a career. The chief cause, as he sees it, is nothing more nor less than a desire to escape honest work, and he depreciates the widely-held theory that economic disadvantages drive youth into crime. He observes that this is quite untenable in the United States, where wages are higher than in any other country and where no energetic young man need long go idle. Moreover, he adds, for every boy who does turn out to be a crook, numerous other boys, some of them perhaps his brothers, brought up in exactly the same environment, become and stay decent citizens.

The plain, blunt English of it is, according to Mr. McAdoo, that these young criminals are "lazy loafers and will continue to be so once they have started on a criminal career." Living in the richest country in the world, "in which the sum of a million dollars is talked about as ten thousand dollars would have been some years ago, their idea is to get what they call 'easy money' by criminal methods so that they may not have to work and have it to spend on their appetites, lusts, passions and vanities, for they are immensely vain and proud of their criminal records."

"It is my firm belief," he says, after reciting the special opportunities he has had of studying criminals at first hand, "that the main trouble with these fellows is that they will never do, as I have said before, any honest, continuous labor." Pistols, which he described as being as "common as lead pencils in this country," help them in their work. Moreover, the magistrate believes that, in the main, they are not reformable. Putting them in prison simply serves to protect society from them while they are there. He estimates that not more than 10 per cent. can be reclaimed. Hence, the reason for the great custodial institution he outlined where they can be compelled to perform useful work of some value to the community.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

MR. PREMIER, SPARE THAT BALL!

Today we come, burying our pride, to appeal to Mr. King. We run the risk of being jeered at as an apostate, of being sneered at as a Scrooge, and of being quoted against ourselves ever afterwards—but we've got to do it. After all, there's a limit to what a patriot may endure for his country—or his party. And the limit, we think, is reached when a firm up in Toronto—Toronto, of all places—proposes to tax our golf balls. For years and years we've talked and written (larger cheques and large editorials) for the old N.P. But when somebody comes along, as this Toronto firm has come along, and asks the Tariff Board to raise the duty on golf balls, so that we'll have to pay more for them—well, that's too deep a bunker for us.

So we turn hopefully—if humbly—toward Kingsmere. We want to assure Mr. King that everything that his ewes and lambs and Wyandottes up there must mean to him, this golf ball issue means to us. It's vital. And it's not going to be a party issue either. This application, we predict, will rend the Tory party on the tariff issue; we wouldn't be surprised to see Sir Robert Borden issue a manifesto against it right from historic Oxford. And Meighen! Well, if Meighen's record for tariff consistency isn't wrecked on this matter, then all we've got to say is that he isn't the Meighen that we have played with when he lost balls on the Royal Ottawa.

We regret now that Premier King isn't a golfer. Which reminds us that we forgot to charge that against him last fall, when it might have done him more harm than the customs scandal, seeing there are 100,000 golfers in Canada. But we're not talking politics today. We feel too deeply. This is a time when none must be for a party and all for the golf ball.

The press, fortunately, is aroused. Thus the Manitoba Free Press, keenly alive to the situation, sensibly puts this threat from Toronto ahead of the menace from Downing Street, and says:

"This is an issue where there can be no compromise and it behooves the golfers of Canada—100,000 strong both in numbers and language—to arise and say that the game is enough trouble to them already without having to take on the job of paying off part of the national debt. Here is a matter that strikes at the very heart of the country. It is time for action."

Good old Macklin and McCrae! We knew that they'd be with us in this. And that they're going to be no mean comrades-in-arms is evident from this unanswerable and penetrating logic with which they demolish the Toronto company's brief:

"The company points out that the making of golf balls is a complex business and that the only countries making them are Great Britain, the United States and Canada. The making of a golf ball appears to have all the mystery about it of the making of haggis. For instance, the core of the ball, according to the company's statement, goes through 14 distinct operations before it is ready to be covered. The cover goes through five different processes before it is ready to be placed on the ball. And when all this is done, what have you? You have a golf ball that hasn't enough sense to stay on the finest fairway in the Dominion of Canada, but persists in sneaking off and hiding itself in the briars or crawling down a gopher hole to seek more genial companionship with another set of nuts."

We assure Mr. King that all this is true—and it isn't half the story. If he doesn't credit us—for which we shouldn't blame him—let him just ask George P. Graham or Chas. Stewart. George knows, and so does Charlie.

In any case our prayer ascends to Kingsmere. We tell the Premier that in this case Protection can be what Disraeli said it was in England—and then some. On this issue we're a Cobden and an Adam Smith and Henry Wise Wood all rolled into one.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

There is no truth in the rumour that Belleville is depending upon the Wienecke comet to supply the Diamond Jubilee illuminations.

Prominent Conservatives are denying that they have any aspirations to become Federal leader, but they might possibly be persuaded to change their mind.

While the stop signs are being well obeyed by the majority of motorists, there are just enough exceptions to constitute a frequent element of danger. They and the other drivers who speed over the intersections should be given an official opportunity to explain.

The interest shown in Saturday's friendly race indicates that long distance running has lost none of its popular appeal. With an Olympic cup as a reward, Canada's marathoners should have a busy season.

Jubilee celebration committees evidently did not read Miss MacPhail's hope that the programmes will not include any "crazy military parades."

When Mayor Thompson, of Chicago, declared that he was going to drive out all the criminals in 90 days, it is too much to hope that he included in his list those responsible for the water steal.

STERLING EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Que., May 9 (Canadian Press) — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here Saturday as follows:

Demand—$4.84 15-16.
Cables—$4.85 7-16.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 9 (Canadian Press)—Wheat scored a fast upturn of as much as 3 3-8c a bushel yesterday after a sudden break at the start. An unexpected setback in Liverpool quotations caused the initial drop here, but unfavorable crop advices from the southwest and adverse weather northwest led to a quick right-about face.

Wheat closed firm, 5-8c to 1 1-2c net higher, corn 1-8c to 5-8c off, oats 5-8c to 1c up, and provisions varying from 55c decline to 30c advance.

Reports of wet weather northwest with predictions of general rains over the entire winter and spring wheat belt gave a decided further impetus to the upward swing of the market.

The advance in wheat was all the more striking because of apparent slowness today of European demand for shipments from North America. On the other hand, declines at Liverpool to-day were ascribed here to week-end adjustment of accounts, and it was stated that supply and demand conditions abroad were essentially unchanged.

Corn was relatively weak while oats proved readily responsive to the influence of wheat rallies.

In the provisions market, lard was easy, sympathizing with hog values. Meats, however, were firmer, especially ribs.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., May 9 (Canadian Press) — The export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market Saturday was again of a limited character owing to the fact that foreign buyers failed to respond to the higher prices asked by local exporters. There was no further change in prices for coarse grains in the domestic market, but they were firmly maintained at the late advance noted with a small trade passing.

The local and export trade in spring and winter wheat grades of flour was moderately active, and prices were well maintained.

A fair volume of business was done in all lines of millfeed and values were unchanged. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was quiet and prices were steady.

An active business was done in all grades of eggs and the undertone to the market was firm. The receipts were 2,185 cases.

The undertone to the potato market continued firm and indications are that prices will be advanced in the near future. This is attributed to the marked increase in the demand and the light supplies available. Quebec white potatoes in car lots were quoted at $2.00 per bag of ninety pounds in bulk, ex-track.

The butter market was quiet but prices were firm. The receipts were 1,200 packages.

The tone of the cheese market was steady, but the trade was inactive. The receipts were 633 boxes.

CAVAN PERSONALS

CAVAN, May 9.—Miss A. Stark is visiting friends in Peterborough, going in on Thursday evening.

Miss Kelly spent a few days of this week in Peterboro.

On Wednesday Mr. H. Syer motored with his mother, Mrs. E. Syer, Mrs. M. Syer, Mr. G. Coulter, Millbrook, to visit their brother, Mr. William Coulter, Port Perry.

Mr. Coulter has been in ill-health for some time.

Messrs. John and William Stark have purchased a tractor.

Mrs. C. Winslow, Ida, was in Toronto, as delegate from the W. A. of St. John's church, to the Diocesan annual meeting of the W.A. which was held in that city last week.

Mrs. William Gray, Millbrook, is ill at Mrs. A. Tinney's home, Cavan.

Mr. Gray is in Peterboro and their furniture was moved there on Thursday. Mrs. Gray is improving.

There are a great number of new cars being purchased this year. Mr. A. Tinney sold nine in three days.

Hay is quite scarce, a number of farmers having to buy.

Warm weather is hoped for soon to help the pasture.

There seems to be more than the usual acreage of alsike seeded this year, influenced, no doubt, by the high price prevailing last year for alsike.

S.S. No. 7 observed Arbour Day on Friday. When the work was completed they had their dinner in the woods, and enjoyed a short time out of doors, gathering flowers and playing.

On Thursday afternoon a joint meeting of the Cavan Ladies' Aid and W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Ida Keegan.

Both the Aid and W.M.S. were interesting meetings conducted by their respective presidents, Mrs. Staples and Mrs. Kennedy.

During the missionary meetings Mrs. Snyder and Mrs. Syer gave interesting readings bearing on the topic.

The usual lunch and social hour was enjoyed.

Relieves Pains in the Back and Headaches

Mr. M. Dudar Now Recommends Dodd's Kidney Pills

"Dodd's Kidney Pills are good for all kidney troubles," writes Mr. M. Dudar, who resides at Garland, Man. "I had a severe pain in my back and suffered with terrible headaches. I read in Dodd's Almanac that Dodd's Kidney Pills are helpful for pains in the back, headaches, sleeplessness, etc., so I got a few boxes. They have made me very healthy."

The reason Dodd's Kidney Pills are so popular all over Canada is that people have tried them and benefitted. Dodd's Kidney Pills have been in use in Canada for more than a third of a century.

SEA AND CAR SICKNESS

It is interesting to listen to the different theories about the causes of sea-sickness. Fellow passengers along with me on a boat have just been airing their opinions, so after giving them a lecture on the subject I decided to return to my cabin, and give you a synopsis of what I have been telling them. Sea sickness, and in fact, car-sickness, also may be caused by any one or all of the following:

Eye strain.
Biliousness.
Overeating.
The presence of tumors or pregnancy.
Disturbance of the balancing fluid in the inner ear;
Or from holding the thought and expecting sea-sickness.

If eye strain is responsible for sea sickness it can be easily cured with properly fitted glasses. Your optometrist can tell you if glasses or change of lenses will help you in overcoming this trouble. If the cause comes from your eyes, there is nothing you can do to prevent sea-sickness except to wear the right kind of glasses and avoid eye strain.

So many people are bilious all the time and auto-intoxication is so common that this is in many cases the sole cause of seasickness.

Overeating both before or going on the trip and while comparatively inactive on the boat or train is often the real cause. Passenger boats usually adopt the "American plan" of serving food and so the passengers generally eat all they can, and as often as possible.

A pregnant woman or one who is suffering from ovarian or uterine tumors will more easily become sick due to nausea from the sensitive nerve plexes, which are being constantly pressed upon.

A cause almost impossible to overcome is that which comes from an improper supply of the balancing fluid which is contained in the semi-circular canal in the ear. Many persons find that any steady movement of the body, such as the movement in a rocking-chair or in a swing will be enough to bring on the same feeling as that produced by the rolling motion of a boat. The only relief for the people so afflicted is to lie on their backs in their berths.

Any or all of the causes which I have cited above may be further magnified by the one who has developed the fear of becoming sick. It is bad enough to be affected by the physical motion, but the one whose mind is in a constant expectancy also suffers from a kind of rythmic, mental feeling which often continues long after they get off the boat. This mental cause can be eliminated by the one who will use the proper auto-suggestion. The secret of this is mostly to think strongly about other things and develop concentration upon something to be desired, rather than upon the swaying of the vessel.

In every case before starting a train trip or ocean voyage it is a good plan to eat sparingly, and detoxicate the system through taking enemas and living on a careful diet.

VAST CROWDS WATCH OPENING

Temporary Capitol of Australia Formally Opened To-day.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

CANBERRA, Australia, May 9 (Canadian Press) — The Duke and Duchess of York, and 500 other subjects of his royal father toasted King George in orangeade and lemonade at the official luncheon held in connection with the formal dedication of Australia's new capital here today. The absence of vinous liquids was due to the law making the federal district strictly dry.

The temporary capital building erected at a cost of $2,500,000 to serve until a permanent capital can be built was formally opened by the Duke in the presence of the Duchess, Governor General Lord Stonehaven, Premier Stanley Bruce, and a vast assemblage representing all parts of the commonwealth. The programme was marred by a fatal aeroplane accident when a plane taking part in the aerial review as the royal party arrived crashed from 400 feet. The pilot was instantly killed.

Theatres

AT THE GRAND

The new George White Scandals, 7th Edition, which comes to the Grand on Friday, abounds in comedy. Fearing, no doubt, that the present weighty political questions, and the ever-present European debt problem might depress the spirits of the public more than usual this year, the young producer commissioned his lyric writers and his music composers to write gay and giddy songs and dances, sketches and comic scenes. He went to Europe and there bought the most frivolous and frothy costumes he could find in Paris and on the continent. He came back and forthwith engaged a cast of comedians with a weather eye on their abilities for producing loud and lusty laughter. Then he produced the current Scandals and made the public extremely happy. He packed his stage with beautiful girls—girls who could sing and dance as well as fill the eye, so that the resultant keynote of the entire performance is lightness, brightness, rapidity of action, blithesome humor, and over all the glamour of delectable youth. The girls in the George White Beauty Chorus of sixty are really ravishingly lovely in every sense of the word, and they can dance, for George White himself taught them how.

AT THE REGENT.

BACKSTAGE LIFE AS IT REALLY IS

If James J. Morton, the Great Lester, Will M. Creassy, or any others of the famous vaudeville stars could have stepped into the sets at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios where Monta Bell directed Norma Shearer in "Upstage," they'd have exclaimed —"Home again."

A complete replica of the "Backstage" regions of one of America's largest vaudeville houses, with every detail from trapdoors for magicians to "flies" and "rigging" for acrobats was constructed for the new production, a drama of life behind the scenes in a vaudeville show.

Regular vaudeville actors joined the screen players in the cast, and, in the rehearsal scenes, staged a typical vaudeville rehearsal, just as is done whenever a new bill arrives in a city. The detail was elaborate, and shows every phase of life on the road with the varieties.

Norma Shearer is the star of the new picture, a lilting comedy romance by Walter De Leon, well-known fictionist of the theatre. She plays the feminine half of a song and dance team, with Oscaw Shaw, himself a well-known vaudeville dancer, as leading man. The cast includes Dorothy Phillips, Gwen Lee, Ward Crane, T. Holtz, J. Frank Glendon and others of note.

Uproarious comedy attends Miss Shearer's adventure in learning the vaudeville business — her encounter with the educated bear and the trained monkeys and a dozen other laughable incidents of life on the road. A charming romance runs throughout the comedy.

POLICE SEEK DRIVER OF CAR

Automobile Bearing Georgia Plates Injures Toronto Man.

MANY ACCIDENTS.

TORONTO, May 9.—Police are trying to locate the driver of a motor car bearing Georgia license plates that ran down and injured Walter Shervington, aged 52, of 294 Jarvis Street, at King Street and Spadina Avenue yesterday. Shervington was crossing the street when he was knocked down. He was only bruised about the body, and went on home. Witnesses of the accident furnished police with the license number of the car, and police throughout the city were warned to be on the lookout.

Last night the car was sighted travelling east on King Street, and a number of police cars sped as far east as the city limits on the Kingston Road, but could find no trace of it.

Two Men Injured.

Two men were injured Saturday night when an automobile in which they were driving collided with another car at Annette Street and High Park Avenue. Charles Barber, aged 22, of 183 Gilmore Avenue, driver of one of the cars, sustained injuries to his back. His brother George, aged 27, same address, was cut on the head. Both were taken to the Western Hospital.

The car in which they were driving was struck by a car driven east on Annette Street by Frank Follett, 25 St. Andrew's Gardens. Mr. Follett's car stopped as soon as it collided with the other car. The one in which the two men injured were driving travelled several feet, then overturned.

Mrs. Mary Smith, aged about 40, of 229 Bathurst Street, had a narrow escape from serious injury at noon Saturday when a trailer of a Dundas car jumped the track at the south-east corner of Dundas Street at Bathurst.

Trailer Crushes Newsstand.

Mrs. Smith was sitting in a frame newsstand when the trailer swept over the sidewalk and crushed the newsstand against the iron fence around Alexandra Park. The stand was reduced to kindling, but Mrs. Smith escaped with injuries to her hands.

Playing on Saturday morning at Rosethorn and Rowntree Avenues, William Ware, aged 4, of 148 Rosethorn Avenue, was knocked down and bruised about the body by a truck driven by Gordon Russell, 545 Lauder Avenue. The injured child was taken to his home.

IN POLICE COURT

A. Mills pleaded not guilty this morning to a charge of failing to give a sign when starting his car from the curb, thus resulting in a motor accident. Roland Penrose said he was driving his car south on Water Street on Monday, April 25, when Mr. Mills, without making any sign with his hand that he was going to start, drove into the traffic and struck his car. In the evidence that was produced it was shown that Mills had the left front door of his car open. The Crown on this evidence withdrew the charge. Magistrate Langley said that he was aware that opening the door of a car was being considered a sign to-day but under the clauses of the by-law he did not think that it was enough. Mr. Mills agreed to pay the cost, which amounted to fifty cents.

A young girl pleaded guilty to stealing clothes and a sum of money and was sent to the Mercer Reformatory for a period of not less than three months.

LEARN DESIGNING

Dress designers make big money, either as an employee, or in business for themselves.

One graduate says: "My dreams have really come true. I am in New York looking for styles. Thanks to your faithful instructions."

It costs nothing to try. A small deposit, a desire to learn and some artistic taste: with these requirements I can make you a successful designer. I give a written guarantee that your money will be returned if you do not like the work or method.

Other girls have been successful. Why not you?

Letters from graduates upon request.

FIVE CLUBS IN TENNIS LEAGUE

Campbellford and Bowmanville Join Central Ontario Association.

G. C. SCOTT PRESIDENT.

The annual meeting of the C.O.L.T. Association was held in Port Hope on Thursday evening, May 5. This meeting was the best and most enthusiastic meeting since the organization of the Association.

Representatives were present from Campbellford, Bowmanville, Port Hope, Cobourg and Peterborough, and the League will have five entries this season.

This meeting opened with Mr. Archibald in the chair, Mr. Annis of Oshawa, last year's president, having resigned.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were adopted as read, including the financial report.

On a motion by Mr. Ryan of Port Hope, seconded by Mr. Parker of Cobourg, Bowmanville and Campbellford were admitted to the Association.

The election of officers was next:

President—G. C. Scott, Peterborough; Secretary-Treasurer, H. A. Cranfield; Executive Committee—Mr. Ryan, Port Hope; Mr. Bell, Campbellford; Mr. Ross Strike, Bowmanville, and Mr. Parker, Cobourg.

There was quite a discussion regarding changing the number of events per match, but it was finally decided to use the same rules, number of events, etc., as used last season.

The events per match to be: Two men's singles, one ladies' singles, one men's doubles, one ladies' doubles, two mixed doubles.

Best two out of three sets to count one point.

The meeting was then adjourned and the representatives were invited to the home of Miss M. Leslie Ward, where a very enjoyable time was spent renewing old acquaintances and getting better acquainted with the newcomers into the Association.

The Executive Committee also met at Miss Ward's home to arrange the schedule. It was decided to start earlier this season than in the past, and June 4th was selected as the opening date for the League.

The following schedule was drawn up, subject to approval by the several clubs. It was decided that Campbellford and Bowmanville should play their home and home games on Port Hope's and Cobourg's courts on account of the distance to travel. Both the Cobourg and Port Hope clubs kindly offered their courts for these matches.

The Schedule.

June 4—Peterboro at Campbellford. Cobourg at Port Hope.

June 11—Bowmanville at Campbellford, played at Port Hope. Port Hope at Peterboro.

June 18—Bowmanville at Cobourg.

June 25—Port Hope at Bowmanville. Campbellford at Peterboro.

July 9—Bowmanville at Peterboro. Campbellford at Cobourg.

July 16—Port Hope at Campbellford. Cobourg at Peterboro.

July 23—Port Hope at Cobourg. Campbellford at Bowmanville, played at Cobourg.

July 30—Peterboro at Port Hope. Cobourg at Bowmanville.

August 6—Bowmanville at Port Hope. Peterboro at Cobourg.

August 13—Cobourg at Campbellford. Peterboro at Bowmanville.

August 20—Campbellford at Port Hope.

The H. A. Morrow trophy is now held by the Oshawa Tennis Club, who will not be with the C.O.L.T.A. this season. Cobourg won the trophy in 1924, Peterboro in 1925, and Oshawa in 1926.

The Executive Committee take this opportunity to thank the Port Hope Club for providing a place of meeting and the social hour spent after the meeting.

People of the lower classes of England are the most regular church attendants. Clerks and their families make up the bulk of the congregations.

HOW TO ESTIMATE COST OF A HOUSE

Expert Gives Handy Methods of Figuring on Various Types of Dwelling.

There are two common methods of estimating the cost of building a house. One is based on surface area, or square feet; the other on volume, or cubic feet. Both are rough but useful.

In estimating by the volume method, explains John R. McMahon in the June Popular Science Monthly, you multiply length, width and total height of building from cellar floor to roof. Add roof contents in cubic feet; for the ordinary peak, the roof contents would be half the roof height at ridge multiplied by length and width. Dormers can be treated as small peaks, figured separately. Finally, multiply the total volume by the cost per cubic foot of the type of dwelling you plan to build. Some idea of the cost per cubic foot of different types of dwellings may be had from the following figures, covering an eastern metropolitan area last year (they do not include contractor's profit, which may amount to ten per cent more):

Bungalow of three or four rooms without basement, 32 cents per cubic foot frame dwellings built by a speculator, 40 cents; a stucco residence, 43 cents; brick house termed semi-fireproof, 44 cents; rather high class masonry dwelling, 40 cents.

It may be interesting to compare with these figures, 28 cents for a garage, 54 cents for an apartment house, 63 cents for an office building, and 92 cents for a first-class Hotel.

In estimating the house cost by the area method, outside walls are considered. Using this method, one expert offers 61 cents as the square foot cost (minus contractor's profit) of an outside wall in wood frame, with sheathing, paper, siding, lath and plaster inside and three coats of paint outside. A similar wall with shingles instead of siding costs two cents a square foot more. If the outside covering of the wood frame wall is stucco on metal lath, the price jumps to 86 cents a square foot. Some of the extra expense is due to the high grade waterproof paper under stucco, also furring labor and material. Frame with face brick veneer amounts to 97 cents, while a solid eight-inch wall of common brick, furred and plastered inside, is only 86 cents. Hollow tile, eight inches thick, stucco outside and plastered directly inside, is 93 cents. Concrete block cost something less than hollow tile.

A typical example of estimating cost by the cubic foot method is the following:

Roof, 28x36x4 (½ height) equals 4,032 cubic feet;

Total of 28,224 cubic feet.

Total cost in frame, 28,224x$0.40—$11,289.60.

Total cost in stucco, 28,224x$0.43—$12,136.32.

Total cost in brick, 28,224x$0.44—$12,418.56.

(These cost-per-cubic foot figures, 40, 43 and 44 cents, are accepted costs in an eastern metropolitan area.)

HOW MANY COLORS CAN YOU DETECT?

There Are at Least a Million Tints—Science Finds New Uses For Them.

In a certain New England factory production was too low in one department and employees were inefficient and dissatisfied. No one, least of all the manager, could discover what was wrong. Finally the trouble was revealed. It was a wrong color in the working light.

Employees in this factory had the duty of inserting small yellowish parts into the larger device, also somewhat yellowish in color. The working light, ample in quantity, was also of yellowish tint, as nearly all artificial light is. Under it the larger device and the small parts looked much alike. A lighting engineer installed bright blue lights. These made the device and the parts, really of slightly different shades of yellow, look gray and brown respectively. They were easy to see and easy to fit together. All trouble disappeared.

This example is significant of the way in which color is now being studied by lighting experts and scientists, not primarily with the idea of making it ornamental, but to make it useful. It is not unreasonable to expect, writes L. G. Pope in the February "Popular Science Monthly," that within a few years each workbench of a factory and each counter of a salesroom will be painted its own proper color and illuminated with its own particular bank of lamps, both paint and color being designed to suit just the kind of work that is to go on at that spot.

The magnitude of the possibilities of using colors to produce better vision are indicated by the enormous number of distinct colors which the human eye can see.

Ask your friends how many distinct colors they can recognize. Most of them will guess that they can see fifty or a hundred different hues. Very few will be willing to promise to distinguish between as many as a thousand different tints. All these estimates are ridiculously too low. Recent scientific tests have shown that even persons with eyes not trained to be especially color-sensitive can distinguish upwards of 60,000 separate colors, taking into account, of course, difference in light or dark shades as well as differences in hue. Artists can probably distinguish twice or three times as many colors as this. New gages recently developed by the U. S. Bureau of Standards are able to distinguish a million different possible color shades.

That different colors may have important effects on the mental state of people has been believed for many years. Some psychologists have gone so far as to prepare charts of the mental effects of different colors, red being stimulating and exciting, blue depressing, and so on. In a long series of tests made on children of a western city several months ago, it was found that most of the children preferred red and orange colors to blue and violet ones. Red, for most people, is a cheerful, inspiring color. Probably that accounts for the optimists who wear red neckties.

Read the advertisements and then ask grandmother to tell you what people wore and used in her day. The comparison will often show you what a force in modern progress advertising has come to be.

VEGETABLE FIBERS FILL MANY NEEDS

Paper Finds Amazing New Uses; Rayon Revolutionizes Textile Industry.

Paper is the elder brother of all the products of vegetable fiber. It is the venerable member of the family, and an age-long companion of man's progress. It has been said with some justification that, in the United States, the history of paper is the history of the country. During the Revolutionary War there was practically no paper, not enough, we know, to wad the guns for the soldiers, or to write the orders for the officers.

By 1810 we were using paper at the rate of one pound a year for every person in the country. In 1923 this rate had increased to one hundred and fifty pounds apiece—15,000 per cent in a little over a century. Assuming that the average weight of an individual is 150 pounds, we now consume yearly as much paper as we weigh.

As to the new uses for paper, they are amazing. Here is a partial list, drawn up by John Matthews, the paper expert of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce:

Drinking cups, towels, bandages, milk bottles, oyster cans, receptacles for a whole array of commercial products, grease-proof paper, filter paper, insulation covering, fiber board for trunks and bags, leather board, backing for linoleum, sheathing and roofing paper, shingles, twine, rope, cord, furniture (to replace rattan and bamboo), clothing, such as shirts, shoes and stockings; handkerchiefs, napkins, collars, papier mache, matting, sausage skins, plates, carbon paper and many others.

Another product of vegetable fibers—rayon, the new silk—opens up a vista of wonderful possibilities, writes Louis E. Van Norman, in the February "Popular Science Monthly." This fiber—the only one completely controlled by man—is only artificial silk; that is, silk produced without the assistance of the worm. It is built up out of purely vegetable fiber.

Most extraordinary is the list of things being made from rayon. The modern chemist can take the old kitchen table, the square piano, or the discarded house dress, and turn it into a pair of beautiful, lustrous stockings. He can do many more wonderful stunts.

"The genie of Aladdin's lamp," says Edward T. Pickard, textile expert of the Department of Commerce, "can take the kitchen table and make out of it not only a pair of stockings, but the very best of paint for your automobile, motion-picture and camera films, imitation ivory and amber, various forms of celluloid, guncotton, transparent wrappinds for candy boxes, unbreakable glass and many other things equally astounding.

"The development of rayon has revolutionized the textile industry. Probably 210,000,000 pounds of rayon will represent the world's total for 1926, as against 185,000,000 pounds in 1925. Ten years ago the American people used only a couple of million pounds of rayon. Last year they consumed 60,000,000 pounds. We are now using about the same quantity of rayon as natural silk."

RAINS HELP GRASS

Warm Weather Needed for Rest of Crops Near Marmora.

MARMORA, May 9.—Rains of this week have given the grass quite a start. A lot of seeding has been done in the district, so that given warm weather, crops should be large and promising. Cheese factories have re-opened with the same prospects of a prosperous season.

AT COBOURG.

COBOURG, May 9.—Cobourg market on Saturday had few outstanding features. The price of butter has weakened, and good dairy butter was sold for 40c a pound. There were some vendors asking 45c, and one or two even a cent or two more. In the stores, dairy butter can be purchased from 42c to 43c, and creamery butter from 44c to 48c. The cheese factories in the district are either starting or about to do so, but no appreciable scarcity of butter is expected. Cheese is lower this spring than it was last season. The egg market was practically stationary. The woman who believes that an egg is an egg, no matter what the size could be accommodated at 24c and 25c a dozen, but if she wanted the large eggs, 28c was the price. One vendor had some quart cans of strained clover honey which he sold at 40c, including the condensed comb honey was 25c a section, and only a small quantity was offered. Potatoes sold for $1.25 and $1.50 a bag, and even at that price the demand was not keen. Pineapples are 30c and 35c. There were no chickens on the market Saturday and fowl was not plentiful, selling for 30c and 35c a pound.

AT KEENE.

KEENE, May 9.—Following are the week-end retail market prices:

Beef, sirloin, 25c; round, 24c; roast, 17c; stew, 15c. Breakfast bacon, 40c. Butter, creamery, 53c; dairy, 45c. Eggs, fresh, 30c. Chickens, 25c; stewing fowl, 14c. Potatoes, 25c a peck; $1 a bag.

Livestock and grain prices are:—Hogs, live, thick smooth, $10 cwt.; select graded, $11 cwt.; dressed, head on, $16 cwt.; head off, $18 cwt.

Oats, 50c a bushel; wheat, $1.20 a bushel; barley, 75c a bushel. Hay, $13 a ton.

AT MILLBROOK.

MILLBROOK, May 9.—Following are the week-end retail market prices:

Beef, sirloin, 25c; round, 22c; roast, 18-22c; stew, 12-15c. Veal, 15-22-25c. Pork, 25-28c. Lamb, 30-35c. Breakfast bacon, 45-50c. Butter, creamery, 45c; dairy, 43c. Eggs, fresh, 28c. Chickens, 30-35c. Potatoes, 35c a peck; $1.25 a bag.

Livestock and grain prices are:—Cattle, selects, 6-6½c a pound; common butchers, 5-5½c. Hogs, live, thick smooth, $10.75 cwt.; select graded, $11.75 cwt.; dressed, head on, $16 cwt.; head off, $17 cwt.

Oats, 55-60c a bushel; wheat, $1.20 a bushel; barley, 60-65c a bushel. Hay, $12-$14 a ton; peas, $1.25-$1.30; buckwheat, 70c; rye, 95c; spring wheat, $1.10.

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

Pain is so often unnecessary

SUFFERED WITH PAIN IN NECK AND SHOULDERS

After three days' home treatment got complete relief

Following a severe attack of rheumatic fever, a New York girl suffered for days with excruciating pain in her neck and shoulders.

"After trying everything else," she writes, "my mother persuaded me to let her apply Sloan's Liniment, and after three days I felt no further pain."

It is amazing what Sloan's will do to relieve pain. This is because it doesn't just deaden the nerves. It stirs up the body to throw off the cause of the trouble.

Apply gently without rubbing. Instantly it sends a healing tide of fresh, new blood to the place that hurts. In just a few minutes the pain stops. So pleasant and easy to use too. Get a bottle today. All druggists—35 cents.

SACRED HEART CHURCH.

"Son, behold thy mother," was the very appropriate text taken by Father Maloney for his sermon yesterday morning.

"On this Sunday in May, which we have set aside as 'Mothers' Day,' we wear flowers as a tribute of gratitude for the lawful gift of love which we owe to our mother. The good mother makes many sacrifices for the welfare of her children. Our mother can not always be with us, so our Lord, in His great mercy and love for us, has given us His own mother to help fill the vacant place in the home and the void in the heart when our own dear one is taken.

"While hanging upon the cross at Calvary, our Lord looked down at His Father and St. John, and to His mother He said, 'Mother, behold thy son,' and then to His beloved disciple he said, 'Son, behold thy mother.' And just as He gave his divine mother into the keeping of St. John, so He gave her to us all because His disciple represented the human race.

"The mother of God helps us corporally as well as spiritually as in the many miracles which she performs for those who seek her aid.

"When a man performs a brave deed, his mother receives some praise also. Why, then, should we not honor a thousand times more the mother of the God who died to save us.

"Many times we forget to respect her and pay the homage due her, but our Lord will not see His blessed mother neglected because if we do not honor her as our own mother as did St. John at the words of his divine Master, 'Son, behold thy mother'."

Father Maloney also spoke about "Boys' week," and asked all the boys to help make the coming week a success.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL

Taking his text from Jeremiah, 2nd chapter, 4th verse: "And thou shalt swear as the Lord liveth, in truth, in justice and in judgment," Rev. W. P. Meagher preached an eloquent sermon at the nine o'clock Mass at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday morning. Following up the series of discourses on the Ten Commandments, his address outlined the qualities necessary to the taking of a proper oath.

"Very few people," said the reverend speaker, "realize the great seriousness of taking an oath. The Council of Trent defines an oath as the calling down of God to witness the truth of what we say. In the early ages, there was no such thing as an oath, but owing to the disregard for truth manifested later, it became a necessity."

Rev. Father Meagher instanced examples from the Old and New Testaments with regard to oath-taking, and spoke of the rebuke given by Christ to the Jews, who had a habit of taking an oath on the slightest provocation.

"If you take a false oath, iniquity shall come into your house and a scourge shall not depart from it," say the sacred writers in Ecclesiastes. In taking an oath, one must swear by truth, by justice and by judgment. The Council of Trent compares oath taking to the taking of medicine. It is a good thing in itself, but should be taken in small quantities. We should only take an oath when the common good demands it.

"It is a terrible thing to commit perjury," said the reverend speaker. "We have known in the past how many times men and women, Catholics as well as non-Catholics, have perjured themselves in the civil courts by taking false oaths. It may have been because they believed the law they had broken was an unjust one(but nevertheless, the sin of perjury was committed."

Father Meagher also spoke in commendation of the efforts being undertaken in the city this week in connection with Boys' Work, and asked the co-operation of the parishioners in such endeavors.

Rev. J. A. McKenzie, B.A., B.D., of Guelph, and a former pastor of Knox United church was the special preacher there yesterday. At the morning sederunt of worship he made a special plea to a congregation which filled the body of the church to capacity, to listen to the Word of God, so they would live better lives, and would be more active in the Lord's work.

The speaker pointed out that in order to get an intelligent idea of things there must be both clear speaking and hearing. God speaks aright to His people, but it is their hearing that confuses things. He has a tremendous difficulty to get people to hear with any degree of accuracy that which He says to them. Hearing is the vital link between God and the believer, and people must listen, for there is vast danger lurking around for those who do not hear.

Rev. McKenzie gave as an example the danger which lurks at the railway crossings on highways to-day for people who do not listen; but to draw the attention of motorists, there have been erected bells and other safety devices. "The same is so with life—it is a great highway from one peril to another, but God has set his signals, and woe be unto the man who fails to heed them."

We read in the Bible—"Behold I stand at the door and knock, and if anyone hear my voice; everything depends on the word hear, for it is the thing on which everything else hangs. God is having a most difficult task today, talking to deaf people, for he speaks to everyone, calling them to His service. He has called in many ways but people still say He has never called them. The whole trouble is that they have allowed their minds to be so taken up with other things in life that they could not hear Him."

Why do people not hear. "It is the abuse we have subjected our physical bodies to and our souls are so dead that we cannot hear His passionate pleadings against corruption and things that are evil," said Mr. McKenzie. God has appealed to everyone to exalt the truth, and all they say is that they are not worthy, but it is their only hope, for they must be received into His arms.

In concluding, the speaker made an appeal to the large congregation to listen for a while each day to the speaking of the Lord.

Mrs. Walter Byers was the soloist for the day, and in the afternoon a special "Go-to-Sunday-School" Mothers' Day was held, when the parents, friends, teachers, scholars, and mothers with their children gathered in the church for a service.

In the evening another large congregation greeted the preacher.

PARK STREET BAPTIST

Mother's Day and anniversary services were combined at Park street Baptist Church, special sermons and music being given at both morning and evening services. The pastor, the Rev. J. L. Harton, B.Th., preached both sermons.

The morning sermon was for Mother's Day. The text was part of the twelfth verse of the second chapter of St. John's Gospel—"After this He went down to Capernaum, He and His Mother." This, said the preacher, was one of the few references to the Lord's mother. It followed immediately after the miracle at Cana, when He was starting out on His life's work. No doubt He was glad to have His mother along; most young men are proud of their mothers. Some men seem to be lonely on their life's journey, but they choose their companions, whether many or few. Jesus chose to take His mother along as He started out to do or dare, to win or lose.

It is the impulse of the mother's heart to keep close to her child. Mary stood at the foot of the cross. Men's mothers believe in them even when they go down into the depths of sin, or lose out in business. Jesus was probably glad to have His mother with Him because of the power of her personality. Mothers have made men by their influence and training. Jesus was the Son of a woman who played a great part in the making of His character. He doubtless spent a great deal of time at His mother's knee, and when He preached His first sermon it would probably contain a great deal of what He had learned from her.

The length of time a child spends with his mother has much to do with the type of man he becomes. The mother, too, learns greater love and sacrifice. The child increases in trust and humility, in sense of dependence, first on the mother and then on God, and in respect. God has given the mother the blessed privilege of making the characters of their children and the children are blessed with the opportunity to learn from their mothers.

A choir of mothers and fathers led the singing. The hymns were all suitable to the occasion, the anthem being "There's a Land That Is Fairer Than Day."

In the afternoon, a special Mother's Day program was given in the Sunday school.

The text at the evening service was 2nd Chronicles, 29.:5: "Who then is willing to consecrate his service this day unto the Lord." This was the anniversary sermon, and, dwelling on what had been accomplished in the past, the pastor urged loyalty and enthusiasm for the coming year.

He called at the close of his sermon for all members of the church to consecrate themselves to the service of the Lord in his church.

A feature of the evening service too was the singing of the hymns of William Cowper. The pastor gave a short history of Cowper's life, and circumstances under which the various hymns were written.

Two anthems were rendered by the choir, "The Lord is My Shepherd" and "Teach Me Thy Way."

Mrs. L. Schooley

London, Ont.—"Ever since I saw the great benefit my daughter received from Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription during her second expectant period, I have never neglected the opportunity to recommend it to every prospective mother. I was with my daughter when she was miserable and sick. Thru my advice she took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and from the very beginning she gained in health and strength, was able to be up, and attended to her household duties right up to the last. She had comparatively no suffering—the least I ever witnessed. My only regret has been that I did not know of this wonderful medicine while bringing up my own family."—Mrs. Louisa Schooley, 505 Hill St.

CHAPTER NAMES FLOAT COMMITTEE

Peter Robinson I.O.D.E. Accepts Responsibility For Part in Parade.

A well attended meeting of the Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E. was held in the green room of the Y.W.C.A. on Saturday afternoon, the regent, Mrs. J. A. McNabb presiding. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were given by Miss Maida Conner and Mrs. B. Moore, the former also referring to the loss by death sustained by the Chapter in the demise of Mrs. N. L. McNaught and Miss Gwen Hall.

Mrs. J. Wearing, who, with Miss Rose Mulholland, has charge of arrangements for the affair, spoke of the dance to be held under the auspices of the Chapter, at Rye's Pavilion, on June 2nd, with music by George Logan's "Merrymakers," and a programme including lucky number and lucky place dances.

The question of having a float in the 1st of July Celebration, to represent the Peter Robinson Chapter, was also discussed, and it was decided to take part in this way in the celebration. Mrs. J. L. Hughes, who represents the Chapter at the meeting with regard to this celebration, was appionted as convenor of arrangements for the float, and added the following names to her committee: Mrs. W. Belleghem, and the Misses M. Montgomery, G. Glover, H. Buller and R. Mulholland. On motion of Mrs. F. Hooper, the sum of $40 was apportioned towards the expense account of the float.

Mrs. MacNabb, who represented the Chapter at the recent Provincial I.O.D.E. meeting in Hamilton, gave a very comprehensive and interesting report of the proceedings, which was accorded a hearty vote of thanks from her audience. An item in the report, the consideration by the Provincial meeting of the singing of "O Canada" 'and its status as a Canadian National anthem, led to some discussion in the meeting. Miss Mayme Montgomery was of the opinion that some one of the three variations of the songs which are now in vogue should be adopted for general usage.

IN THE SPRING LET HUSKY BUILD UP YOUR HEALTH

This Pure Herb Preparation Eliminates Poisons and Strengthens the Entire System.

In the spring—after we have been eating heavy foods for months and taking little outdoor exercise—our systems are sluggish, we feel tired and numerous common ailments appear. Our bodies need help, our blood needs purifying and the organs of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels need strengthening in order that they may perform properly the work for which they were intended. Husky, the restructive tonic gives the body this help and thousand of persons in Ontario and other parts of Canada are praising Husky for the benefits they have received from its use.

Mr. Pullman Speaks.

One of the many cases that prove that Husky relieves run down conditions and builds real health is that of Mr. Robert Pullman, 19 Oak St., Toronto, who tells as follows of his experience with Husky: "My health was in a badly run down condition. Stomach trouble with all its misery, effected me. I suffered greatly from constipation. My kidneys were also in a very weak condition and I was affected by high blood pressure. My body was very sore and achy.

"I have taken three bottles of Husky so far, and, thanks to this splendid medicine, I am feeling like a new man. I am enjoying new health and have a feeling of renewed strength. Words do not express how remarkably different I feel in every way. My stomach and kidneys are in a normal and healthy condition and I enjoy regular bowel action. I have gotten relief from that high blood pressure and that sore and aching pain has left my body. I recommend this splendid health builder with real confidence."

At Good Drug Stores.

Every person in this city suffering in any way Husky is recommended to relieve, is urged to give the Husky treatment a trial. Husky can be obtained at good drug stores everywhere and when taken regularly and over a reasonable length of time it will help you just as it is helping thousands of others.

Hold-up Story Made Up To Cancel Carelessness

TORONTO, May 9.—Another hold-up story was exploded on Sunday by the police when, after grilling Thomas Irvin, aged 17, of 517 Brock Avenue, they claim he admitted that a story of his being robbed of $7.65 on Saturday night was a hoax. About 10.30 o'clock on Saturday night the police were informed that a man carrying a loaded revolver had stopped Irvin in a lane between Geoffrey Street and Westminster Avenue and made him hand over money in his pouch. Irvin was employed as a messenger for a West End butcher store. To Detective McIlrath the youth is alleged to have admitted the robbery did not occur but that he had made up the yarn when he lost the money from his pouch while riding a bicycle.

FARMERS KEEP BIG INCUBATOR FILLED TO TOP

Experimental Investment Made By Millbrook Man Pays Well.

PLANS INCREASE.

Mr. McDowell Has Had To Reject Many Batches of Eggs.

MILLBROOK, May 7.—An electric incubator on a 'mammoth' scale is decidedly an innovation in this district; hence a more than community-wide interest has been steadily developing in the one of 6,100 egg capacity, installed by M. McDowell at his poultry farm on the south corporation limits this season.

The particular design of incubator chosen by Mr. McDowell is said to be 'the last word' in this modern device, its superiority in labor-saving qualities, where a large number of chicks are to be hatched, over the oil-lamp variety, or hatching in Nature's way with the brooding hen, being a feature deserving of special emphasis.

According to official estimates, more chicks will be hatched in Ontario this season than ever before, and the demand for baby chicks also exceeds previous records. The fact that in the international laying contests, Canadian poultry has taken no second place, is advanced as the reason for the lessening of the market for imported chicks.

'Custom' hatching, and the purchase of day-old baby chicks, is apparently growing in favor in this vicinity judging by the farmers who have availed themselves of the facilities, in both these regards, which the electric incubator affords. Mr. McDowell's initiative in risking the investment of the high purchase price involved being evidently appreciated.

Gratifying Results.

As many as 800 eggs have been brought in by an individual owner at one time, lots of 600, 400 and down the scale to 100, with in some cases less than this number, being also received. Results have been most gratifying, the average hatch being from 70 to 75 per cent—in one case 82 chicks were realized from 100 eggs. The standard price, either in community hatcheries or those individually owned, is five cents per chick except in lots of 400 or over, when the charge is four cents.

The renewal of the flock is one of the uncertain problems with which the poultry breeder has to deal, the method of incubation, type of incubator, the room in which the latter is in use, with the skill of the operator all being important actors to consider. Buying baby chicks of good quality is officially recommended as the simplest, surest, and quickest way to start in poultry keeping, and a feature that has afforded particular satisfaction since the electric method of incubation on a large scale has been tried locally, is the healthine's and strength of the chiks so hatched.

Mr. McDowell has at present over 1,400 chicks in his colony houses and has never, in several previous years of practical experience, had such strong, robust, well-formed fowl to raise. Practically no crippled chicks, have been hatched, and as these should be disposed of at once, because such defects are never outgrown, this fact has financial value.

Works Automatically.

The incubator works automatically, three electric heaters, with two 'permanent' ones, should need arise, maintaining a correct temperature of one hundred degrees, which has not bees found to vary by scarcely the fraction of a degree. Should the thermometers go slightly over the 100 mark the heaters shut off automatically, and come on again immediately the exact point is reached. A machine heating unevenly is always unsatisfactory as to results, as those who have operated the smaller incubators, depending upon a lamp for temperature, know.

There is, of course, the possibility that the power might go off in an emergency, but the claim is made that a maximum of ten hours could elapse under such circumstances with no untoward effect on incubation; but in any case having the incubator in a furnace-warmed room, Mr. McDowell has provided for such a contingency as the heat from the register could be increased and the correct temperature maintained.

The eggs are placed in trays, of which there are 24 (six sizes and four of each) the capacity varying from 250 to 100 eggs a tray; these are placed in the 'drum' which is turned twice a day by a simple device on the outside of the incubator, and eliminates entirely the tedious turning by hand which consumes time and patience under other methods. A fan, electrically controlled, keeps an even distribution of heat, moisture and air; the large water pan is immediately below the drum and over the heaters.

Eggs Candled.

On the eighteenth day of incubation, the eggs are candled, all dead germs and infertile eggs removed, and the others placed in the hatching compartment at the top of the incubator; there are three departments in the hatchery; so that flocks of chicks from 'custom' hatched eggs, may be kept separate if necessary.

Every week a hatch of about fifteen hundred chicks is ready for removal from the incubator, and the fifth hatch of the season will be the next in line. Orders are booked up until the middle of June, and will probably extend beyond that time.

Having had to refuse a number of farmers who wished chicks hatched in April or May, Mr. McDowell has in mind for another season having a still larger incubator with capacity sufficient to meet the demand, the initial venture having given general satisfaction, and an increasing patronage being a feature quite evidently to be counted upon.

A separate building, suitably equipped as to heating facilities in case of emergency, lighting, etc., will probably be erected at a convenient location on his grounds, this summer, by Mr. McDowell; the purchase of the 'mammoth' incubator this season being more or less in the nature of an experiment, a room in his residence has been used for operating the machine, which is remarkably easy of control in every detail.

Officially, the use of waste eggs from incubators has been recommended as a ration for young chicks, market broilers, and laying hens, providing they are properly prepared. Before feeding infertile, dead germ, and dead-in-shell eggs, they should be boiled from 30 to 45 minutes, and then put through the food chopper, after which the ground product is mixed with an equal quantity of dry mash to absorb moisture. Feed the mixture daily in open troughs, to chicks a week old, and in quantities that will be cleaned up in thirty minutes.

Feeding such eggs raw would be dangerous because of transmitting disease. For crate-feeding broilers for the market, at the Experimental Farm in Ohio, 45 per cent of the cooked product is added to the dry feed mixture and sufficient milk or water stirred in to make a batter just thin enough to be poured into the feed trough.

TORNADO KILLS MORE THAN 50

Property Damage By Tornadoes in South West Over Two Million Dollars.

HUNDREDS INJURED.

At least fifty persons were killed, more than one hundred injured, and property damaged to the extent of more than two million dollars, by tornadoes and cyclone winds, accompanied by downpours in some sections, that lashed the middle west and southwest over the week-end. Death lists were expected to increase momentarily as additional reports were received from the storm area. Texas was the hardest hit with twenty five deaths, and a half hundred injured reported from tornadoes that struck Garland and Nevada, both within thirty five miles of Dallas, early to-day.

S. A. TAG DAY IS SUCCESSFUL

More Than $500 Raised For Self Denial Allotment of Local Corps.

TAGGERS WORK HARD.

The annual tag day of the Salvation Army was held last Saturday in the city and graced with fine weather, the result was very satisfactory, the sum of $500 being raised which will consierably assist in boosting the amount apportioned to the local corps as a target in the Self Denial Fund. Adjt. P. Ham desires to express his thanks to all the citizens who assisted in making the effort a success by their contributions, and to those who 'tagged' so zealously, and to the Examiner for its assistance.

Individual taggers who raised sums over $10 were: Edith Halcrow, Faith Boorman, Mrs. Hayw[illegible], Jean Gilmour, Nellie Boorman, Mrs. Cooper, Commdt. Sharrock, Jean Cox, Dorothy Robinson, Maud McCleary, Mrs. Prout, Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. James, Nellie Collins, Adjt. Ham, Mrs Kelly, Helen Peryer, Phyllis Braund.

BUCKHORN LADY WINS WHIPPET

Mrs. James O. Weir Was the Holder of Ticket 6,614.

BIG CROWD AT DRAWING.

Over 7,000 people crowded into the space behind J. J. Duffus Ltd., and up Charlotte street to the Empress Hotel to watch His Worship Mayor Holloway draw the ticket for the Whippet car on Saturday night.

Mrs. James O. Weir, of Buckhorn, was the lucky winner, holding ticket 6,614, the coupon of which was drawn by Mayor Holloway out of the churn.

The people started to gather about two hours before the draw and by 10 p.m. one of the largest crowds seen in Peterborough on Saturday night gathered in front of the C.P.R. freight sheds. 14,000 tickets were printed and 13,973 were given out to people from the counties of Peterborough, Durham, Northumberland, Victoria and Haliburton.

The tickets were held in locked ballot boxes by Detective Meagher and he emptied them into a churn which was turned by W. H. Bradburn, who seemed to be a good mixer. Mayor Holloway drew three tickets. The first was that of Mrs. Weir, the second that of Daniel Pearson of this city, and the third Rita Condon, also of Peterborough.

Mrs. Weir came to the city with her husband, Mr. Robert Shaw and Harry Shearer last Thursday morning. Mr. Shearer sugested to Mrs. Weir that they go and get a ticket on the car and after some persuasion she said: "Oh well, we will not win it anyway."

Mayor Holloway made a short speech, after which Mr. Duffus expressed his thanks to Mr. Bradburn, Mayor Holloway, Detective Meagher, the Chief of Police and the men who were handling the crowd in an excellent manner, Art Blade, manager of the Imperial Oil, who was official announcer, E. V. Warne for his kindness in loaning the Orthophonic Victrola, the Sheiberling Company, which has taken over the K. and S. tire company for decorating the plant, Peterborugh Hardware for the churn, Ross Dobbin, manager of the Utilities Commission for the searchlight, officials of the C.P.R. for the use of the roof of the freight sheds, The Examiner, and his own staff, which had helped to make the week a huge success.

He thanked his patrons and customers for their custom in the past nineteen years and he promised that their requirements would be looked after in the same courteous manner and that his firm was now ready to sell a full line of Willys-Knights, Falcon-Knights and Whippet cars.

NOW—GOLD-PLATED CLOTH

In an amazing new process of electroplating reported from Germany, the object to be plated is subjected to a bombardment from a filament of gold or silver in an electric vacuum tube. Speeding atoms of precious metal dislodged by the electric current are hurled across the vacuum, says Popular Science Monthly, to attach themselves with terrific force to any object placed in their way. Anything at all can thus be plated, it is said—metal objects, wood, and even cloth.

The story of Cinderella has been traced to the account of a girl named Rhodopis whose sandal was carried by the wind to the feet of an Egyption king, who offered a reward for the owner, married her when she came to claim to the sandal.

CIRCUS PARADE IS INTERESTING

Rare Animals, a Jazz Band and Calliope Are the Features.

The Boys' Week Circus Parade on Saturday afternoon attracted a lot of attention. The many rare animals were headed by a jazz band and the procession had a real circus tail with a calliope operating at full blast. The circus is to be held at Brock Street Rink tomorrow and Tuesday nights, and promises to provide two hours' of fun and entertainment with a lot of clever gymnasium work thrown in. Don't forget the parade at 6.30 tomorrow night, and after seeing it, drop into the circus.

THREE LOCAL MEN ELECTED DIRECTORS

C. H. Rogers, J. H. Vernor, and J. J. Turner on Board of Safety Association.

TORONTO, May 9 (Special). — Directors elected at the annual convention of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association here today include C. H. Rogers, Peterborough Canoe Co., Limited; J. H. Vernor, Western Clock Co., Limited; and J. J. Turner, J. J. Turner and Sons, Limited.

Industrials executives and plant officials, to the number of eleven hundred, from all over Ontario are gathered at the King Edward Hotel to take part in the two-day review of the year's work of the associations and gather new ideas and fresh incentive from the program of informative and inspirational addresses. Lieut.-Governor W. R. Ross addressed the luncheon meeting today, followed by James A. Emery of Washington, D.C.

V. A. Sinclair, Chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board, delivered an address in the afternoon. At the dinner meeting this evening, Aubrey Bond, L. V. Dixon and A. G. Greenwood are the speakers. To-morrow, morning and afternoon sessions are being held to hear talks on various phases of industrial accident prevention and first-aid work.

CORNS

Quick safe relief

The most painful corns cease hurting the instant Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads are applied. They strike at the cause of corns—pressing and rubbing of shoes. That's why they are permanently healing. If new shoes cause irritation, a Zino-pad stops it at once.

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads are thin, medicated, antiseptic, protective. No liquids, no risk, no bother. Safe, sure, quick results guaranteed. At your druggist's or shoe dealer's.

HOW TO MIX PLASTIC PAINT

Plastic paint for decorative purposes can be prepared by mixing one quart of flat wall paint of any desired color, one pound of plaster of Paris, one-half pound of bolted whiting and about one-eighth pint of varnish of the best quality. If a thicker mixture is desired, add more plaster of Paris and whiting in the proportion of two parts plaster to one part whiting. This mixture can be made in larger quantities and used for finishing walls in the same way as prepared plastic paint.—Popular Science Monthly.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

Churchill did not cross-examine Purdy, since the man's story dove-tailed exactly with the account of Cherry's doings on that fatal Thanksgiving night which she herself would tell when she was called to take the stand in her own defense.

"Call Mr. Ralph Cluny, Jr.," Banning directed the clerk.

The young assistant district attorney, grandson of the murdered man, appeared superbly unconscious o the ripple of excited interest that swept the rather bored audience as he took the stand. He was a thin, slight young man, with straight, sandy hair smoothly brushed over a narrow head. His pale grey eyes, so like his dead grandfather's, gleamed persistently behind thick-lensed glasses.

After Banning had established the relationship of the witness to the murdered man he asked abruptly:

"Mr. Cluny, when did you last see your grandfather alive?"

"At about four o'clock on Thanksgiving day, in the afternoon," young Ralph answered precisely.

"Where did you see him, Mr. Cluny?"

"At his home. My father, Alexander Cluny, and I had dined with my uncle. Father left the house at about three, but at my uncle's request, I remained with him until four."

"Was he in good spirits, happy over his approaching wedding?" Banning asked.

"He was in good spirits until about an hour after dinner, when he began to suffer from indigestion," the young man answered. His pale eyes flashed indignation when a few in the audience laughed.

"Was there any conversat on between yourself and your grandfather relative to his prospective bride!

"After my father left, yes. My grandfather seemed depressed and unhappy over the family's disapproval of his marriage, and fearful of the effects upon his health of a three-months tour of Europe. I asked him why he did not call the trip off, and he answered to this effect, 'My little girl has her heart set on going to Europe, and I'm afraid to cross her'."

"He used the word 'afraid'?" Banning demanded loudly.

"Yes, sir. He said, 'I'm afraid to cross her. She's a mighty sweet girl when she has her own way, but she has the devil of a temper, my boy'."

Banning questioned the grandson a few moments longer, but elicited nothing else of importance.

There was a sharp edge of sarcasm to Churchill's booming, rich voice as he opened fire upon the witness.

"Your grandfather was in the habit of making you his confidant in his affairs of the heart?"

"No, sir."

"And yet he criticized to you the girl he was going to marry, the girl whom he knew the family hated because she would be an heiress to a large part of his fortune?"

Banning's furious objection was sustained by weary old Judge Grimshaw.

"That is all, Mr. Cluny," Churchill dismissed him contemptuously.

When Banning had dismissed the witness also, he rose and addressed the court:

"We have presented our case, your honor. The state rests!"

A half dozen local reporters dashed for exits; the jury stopped yawning and looked intensely relieved; the audience buzzed with surprise and excitement.

Uncle Wiggily

By Howard R, Garis

To-day's Bedtime Story.

UNCLE WIGGILY AND NURSE JANE'S BEATER.

Copyright, 1927, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

(By Howard R. Garis.)

"What about doing something for me now, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy as she saw the rabbit gentleman getting ready to hop away from his hollow stump bungalow one morning.

"Do you mean take you to the movies?" asked Mr. Longears as he loosened a knot in his whiskers.

"Oh, no! Your wife and I are going to the movies this afternoon," squeaked Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "But, since you came home after your visit with Boppy, Um and the Wogglejigs in the bungle-ump, you have been mending broken toys for your little bunny boys and girls."

"Oh, I see!" laughed Mr. Longears.

The 'Gator waddled to the hollow stump bungalow.

"You want me to make a new leg for your rocking horse or fix the sleepy eyes in your doll; is that it?" And he blinked one eye to show that he was joking.

"No; that isn't it!" laughed the muskrat lady housekeeper. "I am past playing with toys. But my beater is broken and I wish you would mend it for me."

"Do you mean your carpet and rug beater?" asked the rabbit gentleman. "That is easily mended. I'll get you a new beater in the woods where I am going adventuring."

"It isn't my carpet beater that needs mending," said Nurse Jane. "It is my egg beater. The wheels won't go round, any more than would the wheels of Scooter's skates that you fixed. And if I can't beat eggs I can't make you a carrot short cake."

"Oh, that is quite too bad!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "I shall mend your egg beater right away before I go adventuring."

Nurse Jane's egg beater was the kind that turns around in a bowl. There was a wheel with a little handle on it like the monkey's music organ, and when this handle and wheel were turned the whizzy izzie shiny parts twirled around and made the eggs frothy so they could be mixed into a cake. But now the beater wouldn't twirl and Uncle Wiggily got out his screw driver, his hammer, pincers and other tools to mend the broken part.

"You may work in my kitchen," kindly said Nurse Jane, "as I must go to the store to get some sugar. Here are some eggs that Mrs. Cluck the hen lady just left. If you get the beater mended you might try it on these eggs and when they are well mixed I'll put them in a cake."

"All right," agreed the rabbit gentleman. So, whistling merrily, he set to work to mend Nurse Jane's beater while the muskrat lady went to the store.

Now it so happened that a little while after this the Skillery Scallery Alligator, having nothing special to do, thought he would waddle down the hill to see if he could catch Uncle Wiggily.

"For," gargled the 'gator to himself, "I haven't nibbled any ears in a month of Sundays! Uncle Wiggily's ears ought to be just proper for nibbling now."

So the 'gator waddled to the bunny's hollow stump bungalow, just in time to see Nurse Jane go to the store. And Mrs. Longears hurried across the street to ask Aunt Lettie, the goat, what was the best flavoring to use in lace cushion pudding.

"This means Uncle Wiggily is home alone," whispered the Alligator to himself. "All the little bunnies are at school, but Uncle Wiggily is home for I can see his hat on the rack. I'll sneak in and nibble him."

So while Uncle Wiggily was mending Nurse Jane's beater, the bad chap slipped quietly in the kitchen door and flopped over to the table at which the rabbit was working. Just then Mr. Longears finished what he was doing on the broken beater and he cried:

"Hurray! Now it will work!"

"Yes, and so will I work!" gargled the 'gator, but it will be more of a pleasure than a task!"

Uncle Wiggily was so surprised that, at first, he did not know what to do. But, all of a sudden, before the 'gator could nip him, the rabbit broke three eggs into a bowl. Then, putting the beater into the whites and yellows, Mr. Longears, screening himself back of a chair so he wouldn't be splattered, turned the handle and wheels so fast that a lot of the egg batter splashed into the face of the bad chap. Into his eyes it went, blinding him so he couldn't see, and this gave Uncle Wiggily a chance to hop out and get the Police Dog, who arrested the Alligator and took him off to jail, where he is yet if he hasn't broken out.

"Did you mend my beater?" asked Nurse Jane when she came from the store. "And does it work?"

"Oh, it works fine!" chuckled Mr. Longears. "You should have seen it splatter the Alligator! Ha! Ha!"

Advise Women

to adopt new hygienic method and retain freshness this way; true protection; discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND Registered Nurse

LARGELY on medical advice, women are abandoning the old-time "sanitary pad" for a new way that supplants uncertainty with positive protection.

Sheer frocks and ill-timed social engagements no longer remain as worries. Lost days are fewer, and health better.

It is called "KOTEX." Ends the insecurity of old-time sanitary pads; 5 times as absorbent! And deodorizes—ends all fear of offending.

As easily disposed of as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." Buy without hesitancy, and be sure to get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

Eight in 10 better-class women employ it. Proves the risk of old ways.

DRESS

Clocks appear at the knees instead of the ankles of some of the new stockings, as shown in the sketch above. For wear with the brocade evening shoes are stockings of moonlight gray with pointed heels in darker gray. Rose beige stockings with square topped black heels are shown below at the left and at the right very sheer gunmetal stockings with openwork on ankles, giving the effect of anklets.

While you have recently set the clock on the mantelpiece forward to fall in line with the widespread adoption of daylight saving time—you may have noticed that clocks on women's stockings have been set upward. Once there was something coquettish—almost mischievous—about clocks on ankles—that served to lead the eyes of the beholder upward. But fully exposed ankles have become so universal now that the kick has somehow gone out of the old-time clock. It not only begins but ends in full view. The new clocks are placed further up—beginning midway between ankles and knees and ending—as the old clock used to—out of sight. And that makes them more interesting.

One of the things that strike the country cousin visiting the city this spring is the prevalence of the black heel. Flesh or beige-colored stockings are made with square or pointed-top heels that give the impression at first glance of shoes cut with upward extensions at the back. These black heels tend to make the ankles look more slender. They accentuate the tilt of the foot in high-heeled shoes—emphasizing the perpendicular line of the side of the pump or slipper. When these black heels are cut in a slender tapering point they do even more to make ankles appear slender. The woman with ankles that are not quite slender enough to suit her taste should bear in mind this fact.

There are stockings of light pastel shades with heels made of a deeper shade of the same color, and these will doubtless come into increasing favor as the season advances. Thus if you wear a rose-colored frock you may select pinky-flesh-colored stockings with rose-colored heels. As a usual thing it is well to have the dark heels match the shoes—thus flesh or beige stockings with black heels should always be worn with black shoes.

One of the most interesting pairs of stockings seen recelty showed one stocking made with a round-about clock on one leg only. This was in openwork to suggest the outlines of an anklet.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

FOR TUESDAY, MAY 10, 1927

This is another lucky day, according to astrology, which finds the day favorable except in the early morning.

Farmers may have disappointments under this planetary government, but they will be temporary in all probability.

This is read as a most auspicious sway for writers, editors and publishers. Advertising is subject to an especially fortunate rule.

There will be an increase in book-buying, if the stars are read aright, for newspapers and periodicals are to become wearisome because of chronicles of war and crime.

This is a fortunate date for the signing of leases and contracts. The stars presage profit and contentment.

There is a sign making for general stimulation of trade and giving promise of a summer of great prosperity.

Real estate and home-building will spur ambition in many parts of the country.

The seers prophesy tha the white race is reaching its apex of attainment, and declare that art as well as business will develop marvelously in the United States.

This country is to focus world interes and to wield world power as never before, it is forecast, and the Pacific coast will gain special attention, because of its ports from which ships sail for the Orient.

Some sort of a troublesome immigration problem is presaged for the summer when new conditions change present policies.

Mars rising i believed to cause special interest in military training camps and other steps towards preparedness.

Railway stock, steel and other manufactures will be in big demand from foreign countries, it is foretold, and the United States will benefit.

New harbors are to develop and our commerce is to grow rapidly in the coming summer, it is foretold.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of great success through business enterprises in the coming year.

Children born on this day should make first rate employees, but they may lack in the initiative that makes for independent success.

CADETS ATTEND CHRIST CHURCH

Rev. N. C. Wallace Gives Inspiring Address To Campbellford Boys.

FAVORS PREPAREDNESS.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 9.—The Public and High School Cadets, with Mr. Charles Haig, Mr. Greig and Mr. E. Stephens in attendance, attended divine service in Christ Church on Sunday morning. The officers in charge were: Captain Nadoo Reynolds, Captain Jack McAvoy, and Lieuts. Godden Little, and Carr.

The Rector, Rev. N. C. Wallace, delivered an inspiring address to the Cadets, taking his text from Luke 2, 52: "And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man."

He said: I heartily favor the Cadet movement and think it should have eveyone's support for it is both a physical and mental training for the boys and also adds strength to the military forces. I make no apology when I say that I believe in preparedness even in times of peace and and that no man has a right to enjoy liberty and peace which he is not willing to defend. I wish to congratulate the instructors, officers and Cadets for the splendid appearance you made in your review on Friday afternoon. Friday was a very appropriate day, for it was the seventeenth anniversary of King George's accession to the throne.

"In our Scripture lesson we find that religion is an essential in every walk of life. If I asked the question, Who is the greatest man that ever lived? what answer would I get? Some would give the name of a great soldier or doctor, or a clergy, or many others who have done noble things for the good of some one else, but I want to tell you that the greatest man that ever lived is Jesus Christ, whose boyhood life is summed up in this chapter. As in this 52nd verse, we have, Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man, just so today you are developing mentally, physically, spiritually, and socially. Your training for development teaches you self control, self sacrifice and co-operation, your excellent educational facilities are training for your mind, your many religious opportunities for the spiritual side of life, and for the social part of life you may make your life a record of unselfish service to others. See that you develop your lives so that you will keep Canada a country worth living for and, if if necessary, worth dying for."

AUTOGRAPH COPY OF POEM IS SOLD

Manuscript of "The Raven" Written By Poe, Brings $20,000.

NEW YORK, May 9 — The only known autograph manuscript of Edgar Allan Poe's world-famous poem, "The Raven," has just been sold by the family of Mrs. Edith D. Whitaker of Philadelphia to dealers, who value it at more than $50,000. The manuscript has been in possession of the Whitaker family ever since Poe penned the copy and signed it to gratify the wishes of Dr. Samuel A. Whitaker, a college companion.

Manuscript experts, when informed last night of the sale, said there was no other American literary document of comparable value outside libraries. They welcomed the news of its purchase by dealers, because it would mean that the manuscript would pass to some private collector and probably into some great library later.

Thomas F. Madigan, dealer in autographs, 48 West Forty-ninth Street, and George C. Grasberger, a Philadelphia bookseller, were the purchasers. According to Mr. Madigan, the manuscript was brought from obscurity by the high prices recently paid for early American documents. Its former owners, he said, felt that the value of the Poe manuscript has increased to a point where they were no longer justified in retaining it.

NEW METAL ALLOY FOUND

Harder than steel or softer than lead according to the way it is made, is a new alloy reported in Popular Science Monthly. It was discovered by T. D. Kelly, London chemist, who calls it solium, and declares it to be impervious to powerful acids. It may replace platinum, he says, wherever that costly metal is used in industry because of its resistance to oxidation and corrosion. The alloy is prepared from oxides and earth metals.

Besides being president and general manager of one of the largest lumber concerns in the country, Miss Helen McCabe, of Cincinnati, is a director in five other large corporations.

Eggs, salads, cheese, dark bread and fruits are the suggestions made by a prominent doctor to business girls who wish to choose the most nutritious and economical luncheon dishes.

PORTSMOUTH WINS WAY INTO FIRST DIVISION

Defeat Preston North End by Five Goals to One.

ENGLISH LEAGUE

One of Most Thrilling Contests Ever Played in League.

LONDON, May 9 (Canadian Press Cable).—By the infinitesimal fraction of one five-thousandth part of one goal the Portsmouth soccer club of the second division (English Football League) nosed her way into the first division for next season when, in a game at Portsmouth, one which was replete with thrills, they secured over Preston North End a victory of five goal to one and thus beat out Manchester City for second place in the division, in spite of the fact that the Manchester team obtained a win by no less than eight goals to nothing over Bradford City. Portsmouth's narrow success terminated one of the most thrilling contests which the English league has enjoyed in many years. The league is divided into three division, the third string comprising two sections, the Southern and the Northern. At the close of each season, the two top teams in the second and third divisions are promoted one step higher for next season, the two from the second going into the first and the winners of each of the two third division sections moving into the second. Their place is made for them by dropping from the first and second divisions the two bottom teams.

It became early apparent that Middlesborough would win the second division championship and automatically move up, but the question as to which team would accompany Middlesborough was not settled until the last kick of the ball on the last day of the football season. Until two weeks ago there were five contestants, Portsmouth, Manchester City, Chelsea, Preston North End and Notts Forest. Gradually the three last named clubs dissipated their chances, leaving only Portsmouth and Manchester City in the running. Saturday was the fateful day. Both of these teams were equal in aggregate points and it was apparent that the decision would come when the goal averages of the clubs had been better goal average would be promoted.

In an atmosphere of great tenseness the games were played at Manchester and Portsmouth, and it was not untill late on Saturday that the league statisticians established that Portsmouth had won out, their margin of advantage being, as stated, one 5,000 part of a goal.

The game at Portsmouth was marked by scenes of frenzied enthusiasm on the part of the spectators and at the close of the encounter the crowd broke the barriers and rushed the field, carrying Haines, the Portsmouth centre-forward, shoulder-high round the field in a general delirium of delight. The game itself was a critical one, for Preston North End were the first to score, securing their lone counter early in the game. At the interval, Portsmouth were still a long way from the first division, for they had succeeded only in evening up the count, one-one. After the resumption, however, Portsmouth settled down to a desperate struggle and quickly asserted themselves. They swarmed all over Preston in the second half, keeping them pinned down to their own territory throughout that period.

Camsell, Middlesborough's centre-forward, made a new season's scoring record when he registered 59 goals in all games; Morris of Swindon Town scored 47. The previous record was the comparatively moderate total of 44. Middlesborough Saturday beat Swansea Town by one goal to nothing, and this brought their season's grand count up to 122 and their aggregate points to 62.

The football season closed officially yesterday, and England will now turn its attention to cricket.

Tommy Newman Defeats Davis in 16,000 Point Billiard Match.

MANCHESTER, England, May 9 (Canadian Press Cable). — Tommy Newman retained his professional billiards championship here Saturday night when he defeated J. Davies by 16,000 points to 14,763.

Emerged Victorious

LONDON, May 6 (Canadian Press Cable)—Tommy Reece emerged victorious from his 15,000 point exhibition match with Arthur Peall here Saturday night. He ran out the required score while his opponent, who he gave 3,500 points at the beginning of the match, could extend this to only 6,003 during the several days the match lasted.

Using his pendulum cannon stroke Reece made a new world's record break during the match of 6,417.

MASSEYS WHACK THISTLE SOCCER FIXTURE 3 TO 1

Winners Scored Through Sharman and Beggs in First Half.

LANG INJURED.

Play Indicated the Lack of Practice on Both Teams.

Splendid weather favored the large number of soccer fans who witnessed the Masseys whack the Thistle to the score of 3 goals to one in a league fixture. The winners now head the league with two decisive wins against the opposition. Play indicated the one essential—practice.

Goal in Four Minutes.

Masseys wons the toss. Forrest kicked off in favor of the Thistle, who scored from an accurate pass from Lang, four minutes after the start. This set-back to the winners resulted in a good comeback which brought into prominence Griffin, in goal, when the forwards ranged shot after shot in his direction. A breakaway on the Thistle right terminated in Cameron missing by inches.

Sharman Equalizes.

Exchanges were even, thereafter, although the tactics were more of the defensive than offensive character, in which free-kicks were in abundance. A doubtful decision given against Dawson gave the Masseys the equalizer through Sharman. After twenty-five minutes plays. As the tussle progressed it was evident that the players were more or less playing the man instead of the ball thereby penalties being awarded accordingly. It was left to T. McPhate to introduce new tactics when he drove time and again from far out, in fact a beautiful drop kick deserving a better reward than a fruitless flag-kick.

Lang Retired For Treatment.

During a concentrated attack by the Thistle forwards, Lang was injured and retired from the field to receive treatment. Play run from end to end without gaining any tangible result, although flag-kicks were in abundance. Lang returned to play after ten minutes absence. To view the game was anything but pleasant because the players lacked the necessary training for such a hard battle.

Massey Gain Lead.

After making two successful saves between the posts, Griffin had to concede defeat when the referee declared a goal as the ball rolled over the line from the foot of Beggs. Then Geo. Logan missed from close range. A foul against the Thistle let their custodian do the marvellous when hard pressed. A free-kick was given against the Masseys a few minutes before half-time. Masseys 2, Thistle 1.

Play Very Keen.

On resuming both elevens checked very closely and the halves never faltered in attack when the forwards tried to gain a breakaway. At this point, Cameron was labouring under a handicap as he continued to play with a painful injury. The Thistle men weer now "all in" in every position and the two injured players didn't help the play in any degree. Free-kicks again came in an abundant crop to each side, with the goal-keepers having a busy session. Of course this left Geo. Blowers to his favorite pastime, as he drove hard for goal every time without success.

Laidler Made It Three.

Breakaways by the Massey forwards finished with many corner-kicks that had a poor finish. On an individual play by Laidler, from Beggs' splendid opening, the former increased his team's account with a nice shot. Play fell away considerably near the finish, although Dawson and Bromley were working like trojans to gain success while Laing was evidently suffering from his first half injury, limping all over the field. Eventually he was knocked out for the count by his opponent and had to be assisted off playing pitch. Thereafter the game lacked any excitement where a draw would have been a good criterion of the result, Masseys leading counters being both of the doubtful orders. Masseys 3, Thistle 1.

Goal scorerers—Masseys: Sharman, Beggs and Laidler. Thistle: Frost.

Masseys—Fowler, goal; Wade and Grant, backs; W. Logan, Mann and Blowers, halves; Willis, G. Logan, Beggs, Laidler and Sharman, forwards.

Thistle—Griffin, goal; McLeod and Miller, backs; Dawson, Scott and Bromley, halves; Burgess, Cameron, Forrest, T. McPhate and Laing, forwards.

Referee—W. Rickard.

NEW YORK WINS FROM THE CUBS

Terry's Double in the Ninth Sends Home Winning Run.

CARDS EVEN SERIES

NEW YORK, May 9 (Canadian Press)—New York took the Chicago Cubs into camp yesterday by 5 to 4. Terry's double with one out in the ninth sending Roush home with the deciding run. Earl Webb put Chicago in the lead in the first with his sixth homer of the year with English on base. A unique feature was that Chicago had no players left on base.

Flint Rhem and Chuck Hafey proved an all-powerful combination at Brooklyn yesterday, as the St. Louis Cardinals evened the series count by taking the second game by 5 to 1 before 30,000 fans. Rhem allowed only two hits, both coming in the sixth when the Robins obtained their lone tally. Hafey hit two homers and a single, the first circuit drive coming with one on in the second inning and the other in the eighth with none on base.

BUFFALO TIED SECOND PLACE

Colts Win Two Games From Reading at Rochester.

STARS LOSE OUT

NEW YORK, May 9 (Canadian Press)—The Colts went into a tie for second place with Buffalo and broke the tie with Baltimore for this place by winning two games from Reading at Rochester yesterday, 12 to 11, and 16 to 4. The Tribe came from behind to score the first victory in a game that lasted two hours and forty-eight minutes, seven pitchers being used. Noble lost the first game as a relief hurler aind also lost the second in which he was hit for twenty blows for a total of 33 bases.

The Baltimore Orioles squared the four-game series with the Bisons at Buffalo at two all by winning out, 7 to 4, in a spectacular ten inning duel before 14,000 persons here this afternoon. The Birds filled the bases with none out and scored plenty of runs to win when Bissonette uncorked a wild heave to the plate on a call that appeared to be the start of a double play.

Jersey City's six run rally in the ninth inning obtained the Skeeters a 11 to 7 decision over the Stars at Syracuse. Neitzke's home run with the bases loaded climaxed the ninth inning assault.

YANKS BLANK WHITE SOX 9-0

Hammer 3 Chicago Moundsmen and Knock Homer in Seventh.

BROWNS WIN 8-3

NEW YORK, May 9 (Canadian Press) — New York handed Chicago its second consecutive shutout at Chicago yesterday when Waite Hoyt blanked the White Sox, 9 to 0. The Yankees hammered Blankenship off the hill in the third inning and continued to bunch hits off Connally and Cole when their support wavered. Pat Collins, Yankee catcher, smashed a home run in the seventh inning with Connally on the mound.

Detroit took the second game of the series from the Red Sox here yesterday when Marty McManus singled in the ninth with the bases filled. The score was 3 to 2. Tony Welzer, Sox Boston pitcher, had filled the bases by purposely walking Fothergill and Manush after Warner had doubled. Fothergill went hitless for the first time this season. He had hit safely in 18 straight games until Welzer stopped him yesterday.

Cleveland made it two straight from Philadelphia, winning 4 to 2 in a pitchers' battle between Ehmke and Buckeye. A fumble by Eddie Collins was the deciding factor. The veteran let a grounder roll between his feet in the fourth inning, giving Cleveland two runs.

Coach Gleason, of the Athletics, was put off the field by Umpire Nallin for disputing a decision at first base.

Combining six bases on balls with eight hits off four Washington pitchers while Tom Zachary kept the nine safeties garnered off his delivery well scattered, the Browns defeated the Senators, 8 to 3, at St. Louis. The Browns squared the series at one game each.

COBB-SIMMONS ARE SUSPENDED

For Alleged Umpire-Baiting in Philadelphia Last Thursday.

INDEFINITE PERIOD

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 9.—(A.P.) — Ban Johnson, who signalized his apparent return to the presidency of the American League Saturday by ordering suspended Ty Cobb and Al Simmons, Philadelphia outfielders, for alleged umpire baiting in Philadelphia last Thursday, said yesterday he was unable to say when the suspensions would expire.

"I am awaiting word from Mr. Mack of the Athletics," Johnson said, "for anything the club may have to say on the side of the offenders. Thus far I have been advised of no reply on the part of the club.

"The offence of Cobb in particular is a serious one, since it violates the rule which prohibits a player from touching the person or clothing of an umpire. My report (from Umpire Ormsby) states that Cobb shoved Ormsby around. Then, realizing his offence he began apologizing, but after the action of Simmons and himself had incited the crowd to the extent that the umpire had to be escorted from the field. Cobb knows the rules and apparently there is no extenuation. There was nothing to do but suspend him," Johnson asserted.

Johnson was informed that Cobb had said "Anybody who said he had 'baited' the umpire, lied."

"Ormsby's report," Johnson said, "set forth that Cobb shouldered him and touched his person. Baiting umpires does not have to be done by word of mouth. Fans cannot hear and do not judge of what is transpiring by words. The actions and attitude of the player towards the officials are what convey the players' intent to the spectator."

Denies Report.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 9.—(A.P.) —Ty Cobb, here with the Philadelphia Athletics, Saturday night branded as an "absolute lie," reports from Chicago that he was suspended with Al Simmons for an argument with Umpire Ormsby over the fairness of a home run in Philadelphia last Thursday.

"Whoever gave that statement out is an absolute liar," Cobb declared heatedly. "I've stood for a lot of things in the past, but I'm not going to stand for them any longer."

"Whoever gave that statement out, Johnson or anybody else," he said, "is telling an absolute lie.

Cobb refused to comment further on his suspension other than to say that it was "unjust" and that the reasons were unknown to him.

DICK BATES LEADS IN DISTANCE RACE

Dickie Bates just trotted away from Louis Yeotes' protege Indian runner on Saturday afternoon when he defeated him in the ten mile hop from Lakefield to Peterboro.

Bates lived up to his previous reputation as a long distance runner, and made the run in 59 minutes on a real good road in excellent weather.

George Whetung failed to realize anything like his previous records which he has made on the same route, taking about nine more minutes than the winner and doing the heat in 68 minutes. Bates ran with a nice easy swing which gave him an early lead over Whetung, which at the four mile post lengthened into one mile. He is a smooth runner, and with a little more experience and training he should be able to make the course in a lot less time.

The feature of the race was the running of Albert Smowe, that far-famed Indian runner, who has made the same course in 52 minutes. He joined Whetung about seven and a half miles out with ordinary civilian clothes on and a pair of boots and finished the course as fresh as if he had been in training for some months. Albert is a real runner yet and he gave Whetung encouragement which made him do a little better in the last seven and a half miles. Albert got so excited that he left his wife and child sitting in the car near Lakefield.

Hundreds of cars lined the route of the race, and when the runners entered the city the streets were lined with people.

Bates made a nice finish from the Y.M.C.A. down which showed that he had not been forced to exert himself in the race. George Whetung came in almost ready to drop. Albert Smoke with his old time vigor did his best to get George to sprint from Hunter street down but he left him behind and showed the people that he was by far not a back number and made one of his old time sprints to the finishing line at Louis Yeotes' store. He was greeted with much applause showing that the people of Peterborough have not forgotten the man who put this city on the map in running circles. Bates also received a grand welcome when he came in first. The boys of the Y.M.C.A. Circus, and all, were out to greet him and prove that they were behind one of their number who some day might win fame as a long distance runner.

FIGHT DEER WITH MOTH BALLS

Moth balls are the latest weapon that mountain fruit growers are using against herds of wild deer that despoil their orchards, says Popular Science Monthly. Loath to kill the animals, local dwellers are heeding the advice of state game wardens that moth balls are just as distasteful to deer as to moths.

COUNSEL FOR GRAY SUGGESTS VERDICT

Asks Jury For Manslaughter Finding Against His Client.

NEW YORK, May 9 — (Canadian Press).—Summation of the case of Henry Judd Gray was completed today and that of the case of Mrs. Ruth Snyder followed. William M. Millard, addressing the jury for Gray, asserted that Gray never struck Albert Snyder at all, and that only luck saved him from being felled by Mrs. Snyder. He asked for a manslaughter verdict.

WATCH THE KIDNEYS

Fatigue and that tired feeling is the result of poison in the blood. When the kidneys fail to remove this poison from the system it leads to backache, rheumatic pains and sometimes to that fatal ailment known as Bright's disease. When this condition exists, don't delay, go to your druggist and get a box of Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills and they will quickly correct the cause of your trouble.

Mr. Arthur Pinch of Smith Township states that Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills give him more speedy relief than any other preparation that he had tried.

CANADIAN GIRLS IN TRAINING.

All Canadian Girls in Training are especially invited to the annual meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association, Friday evening, to hear Mrs. A. Kingswood, of Toronto, speak on "My Ideal Canadian Girl." 1d-109-1198

Y.W.C.A. WEEK'S ACTIVITIES

The two main items of interest for this week at the Y.W.C.A. are, the Annual Meeting of the Association, which will be held Friday evening, and to which all friends of the Young Women's Christian Association are most cordially invited; and the Opening of the Swimming Pool.

Annual Meeting promises to be very interesting. After the reports of a successful year's work, and the business of the meeting, Mrs. A. Kingswood of Toronto, will give an address on "My Ideal Canadian Girl." This talk will be most interesting to all girl members, and is most appropriate in view of Canada's Celebration this year. There will also be musical program and numbers from the Gymnasium Pageant, and refreshments.

Swimming — The "Y" Swimming Pool opens this week, and every girl of the city will now have an opportunity of learning to swim or enjoying a refreshing plunge. The new filtration plant has been installed and everything will be in readiness for a busy and happy season in the pool.

Monday, 6.30 to 8.—All Seniors wishing to learn to swim are asked to meet the swimming instructor and arrange for further classes.

Tuesday— 2 p.m., Swimming pool open for swimmers; 4.30, Swimming lessons for Babies and Juniors; 7.00, Swimmers; 8.00, Gymnasium Class for Senior School Girls. Advanced Class, Elementary and Dancing Classes.

Wednesday—10 to 12, Swimmers; 4.15 Gymnasium Class for Babies' Rhythmic and Junior Dancing Class; 4.30, Swimming, Junior Boys. 5.00, Swimming lessons, Business Girls. 7.00 Life Saving Class. 8.00, Advanced Life Saving.

Thursday—10 to 11, Ladies' Swimming Lessons. 11 to 12, Ladies' Advanced Swimming Lessons. 7.00, Senior Swimming Lessons.

Friday—10 a.m., Ladies' Life Saving. 11 a.m., Ladies' Swimming Class. 4.30, Junior Life Saving. 5.30, Senior School Girls' Swimming Lessons. 8.00, Annual Meeting.

Saturday — 10.00, Swimming Party for all Babies, Juniors and Intermediates who took part in the Gymnasium Pageant. Please bring suits, towels and caps. Refreshments served. 1d, 109, 1197

WEDDING BELLS.

SHEPHERD--SEYMOUR.

At the Salvation Army Windsor No 1 Citadel, by Adjutant Wallace Bunton, on Thursday, April 28th, 1927, at 8 p.m., Miss Ella Seymour, of Newfoundland, formerly of Peterborough, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Sidney Edgar Shepherd, of Sunderland, Eng.

The bride, dressed in the Salvation Army uniform, wore a corsage bouquet of Columbia roses. The brides maid, Miss Olive Foy of Peterboro, dressed in uniform, also wore a corsage bouquet of roses.

Mr. Albert Shepherd, brother of the groom, acted as groomsman.

The wedding march was played by Miss Jean Bunton.

After the ceremony a banquet was served to 65 guests.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd will reside in Windsor.

AFRICAN BIRD FADES IN RAIN

Brightly colored when the sun shines, the feathers of an African bird recently studied by Dr. I. Krumbiegel, German biochemist, become a sad spectacle when wet by the rain. The brilliant hue of its red feathers faded to a pale pink. Food the bird eats probably supplies minute quantities of the natural dye's ingredients, says "Popular Science Monthly." Known as turacine, the dye is a compound containing copper.

Dog Catcher Loses Out; Someone Frees Five Dogs

The official dog catcher on Saturday night had five dogs locked up in the pound, but on Sunday morning three had disappeared and by night the other two had been taken. Mr. Pengelly had the gate padlocked and each dog tied with a chain, but that did not stop those who let the dogs loose.

WITNESSES FAIL TO ATTEND PROBE

Counsel Urges That Steps Be Taken To Force Their Attendance.

HAMILTON, Ont., May 9 (Canadian Press) — Unless Mr. and Mrs. Rocco Perri of Hamilton turn up here to give evidence, the Royal Customs Commission will be asked "to take proceedings" to bring them here. Mr. and Mrs. Perri, who were examined in Toronto, are still under subpoena, but their solicitor, according to N. W. Rowell, K.C., has failed thus far to locate them. Mr. Rowell announced that A. F. Healy, former member of the House of Commons for North Essex, had wired him that he would appear at the Hamilton sittings and give evidence.

Counsel also stated that unless A. C. McAdam of Vancouver arrived he would ask that he be declared to be in contempt of the Commission and further steps taken to bring him to give evidence. Mr. McAdam has been ordered to appear for some time and has failed to turn up.

NEW MIMEOGRAPH IS NOW INSTALLED

Chamber of Commerce Prepared To Turn Out Duplicate Letters.

A mimeograph machine to be used for public stenography, has recently been installed in the Chamber of Commerce, which is automatic, and modern in every respect. This is the first machine of this nature to be installed in Peterborough and Frank Stinson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, expressed his wish to The Examiner this morning that all who required this kind of work done would take advantage of this excellent method of turning out mimeographed letters.

Business men may also go to the Chamber of Commerce building and dictate their letters to efficient stenographers, who after transcribing their notes, will produce as many copies as required on the machine. The machine is operated by hand, but copies may be turned out at any speed by merely turning the handle faster.

When the mimeograph form is made up on the typewriter it is placed on a roller which passes over the blank paper as it is driven through and makes the impression, thus as many copies as are required are printed.

This work is done at a minmum cost, for the time and work the machine saves the user. The complete equipment was installed at a cost of one hundred and twenty-five dollars.

JAMES WILSON.

The death occurred this morning of James Wilson of Otonabee, in his 87th year.

He leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing wife and three sons: E. Roland of Peterborough, and Robert A., and J. Allen of Otonabee. He also leaves three daughters, Mrs. C. C. Munro of Winnipeg, Mrs. Dr. Christie of Vancouver, and Mrs. J. Davidson of Peterborough.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday at 2 p.m., from his late residence to the Little Lake cemetery, the Rev. G. J. Bousfield of St. Luke's church, officiating.

GARDINER TELLS OF WHEAT POOL

Outlines Rapid Strides of Saskatchewan Farmers In Marketing.

URGES SIMILAR MEANS.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 9.—By C. P.).—Outlining the rapid strides made by the farmers of Saskatchewan in the field of co-operative marketing, Hon. James G. Gardiner, premier of Saskatchewan, addressing the International wheat pool delegates in conference here to-day, suggested that agriculturalists in other countries might benefit to even a greater extent than the Canadian farmer, if the producer placed greater reliance upon his ability to handle his own affairs.

"Whether the wheat pool remains a permanent method of marketing or not, it has proved a godsend in the form of a steadying influence in the province of Saskatchewan. It has caused us to look to the future with renewed optimism and a spirit based upon the confidence inspired by having done something worth while for ourselves," Mr. Gardiner said.

Measured by cost of shipment and percentage of crop which is exported, Saskatchewan, he asserted, was farther removed from its markets than any other of the great wheat producing areas of the world. The province had produced as much as 271,600,000 bushels of wheat in one year, with a population of 800,000 and an acreage of 12,700,000. This, he pointed out, was an average of 21 bushels per acre or 340 bushels per head of population. Of that amount, 241,000,000 bushels had been exported, the greater part of it going to Liverpool. About 80 per cent of the farmers in Saskatchewan and about the same percentage of the acreage was signed up in the contract wheat pool.

"In other words," Premier Gardiner said, "our people are sold to the contract pool and the government of the province agrees with them that it is necessary to continued prosperity within our province. I admit that Saskatchewan is so situated that it will find the pooling method more essential to its continued prosperity than any other wheat growing province or state.

"We are situated in the very heart of a great continent, two thousand miles from the sea in any direction where a port can be found from where to ship our wheat to foreign markets. We are completely shut off from what otherwise would be a natural market in your country by a tariff which is even more disastrous to us than the long haul to Europe. That, however, is your business, but it is nevertheless our disadvantage."

The grain belt of western Canada, the speaker explained, was comparatively new. From 1905 to 1925, the three prairie provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, were populated by newcomers from all parts of the world. Most of these, he said, had been young people, willing to work, but with little financial backing.

These settlers, Mr. Gardiner said, would file on a homestead, put what little money they had into a shack, and a yoke of oxen, and then make for the nearest town to get equipment. When fall came the creditors naturally wanted their money, while the farmers were anxious to meet their obligations. They could not get a dollar for their wheat until it was in the elevators, so the farmers were compelled to throw it into the lap of any organization that would take it and give them a price, Mr. Gardiner said.

All this mad rush of the pioneering days, the speaker added, caused the Canadian farmers' organizations and governments to throw around the trade, regulations and restrictions for the purpose of preventing dishonest practices. These restrictions, he believed, had merely added to the cost of handling.

"I believe that behind most of the fortunes made in the west in the grain trade will be found a combination of two sets of circumstances," Premier Gardiner declared. A man with obligations, very little money at hand, but a crop of wheat, provides one party to the condition. An organization with good financial backing, storage facilities and a willingness to carry the risk, which holding wheat for months entails, provides the other. But the organizations which undertook to carry the risk endeavored to get a margin which transferred all the risk right back on the shoulders of the producer. They did this by holding the price at a point where there was little, if any, chance of them doing worse than breaking even and if things went in the opposite direction they made a real thing.

"We attempted to meet the situation by forming our own elevator companies. In Saskatchewan we had the Co-operative elevator company. They did business under the same method as the line elevators. I think they forced the other companies to play the market on a little closer margin but that was about the extent of their effectiveness.

"Into the midst of this condition was thrown the wheat pool idea with all the enthusiasm that Aaron Sapiro can command. It came at a time when our farmers were downhearted. They grasped it with that eagerness which is always noticeable when individuals are nearing the point of despair. They held it fast. They put it over."

ONE DYKE HOLDS FLOOD FROM DELTA

Sugar Bowl Area Of Central Louisiana Threatened By Waters.

NEW ORLEANS, May 9. — Canadian Press. — "The sugar bowl" of Central Louisiana, was threatened with inundation to-day as the flood waters of the Mississippi River, surging from six dyke crevasses in the northeastern part of the state, piled up against the Bayou des Glaises levee seeking an oulet to the sea. A funnel shaped stream covering thousands of square miles of the delta of northeast Louisiana poured its strength into the backwater that already subjected the Bayou Des Glaises levee to an enormous pressure. Federal and State Engineers feared that the dyke could not hold.

HALF ACCOUNTS NEVER AUDITED

Sales Tax Clerk of Hamilton Says "Lack of Help" is Reason.

PROBE COMMENCES.

HAMILTON, Ont., May 9 (Canadian Press).—The accounts of one-half of the 637 sales tax licensees in Hamilton have never been audited, the Royal Customs Commission was told this morning.

"Lack of help" was given as the reason for this condition of affairs when H. J. Kirkpatrick, Senior Sales Tax Clerk, was on the stand. "This condition should be reported to the Minister," Chief Commissioner Brown declared.

"Is it, in your opinion, a satisfactory state of affairs," he asked the witness. "No, very unsatisfactory."

"Have you discussed the matter with your collector?" "Yes." Mr. Kirkpatrick explained that the auditors of sales tax accounts came directly under the chief inspector at Ottawa.

The exceptional qualifications of Port Maitland as a point for liquor export to the United States were discussed. That it was used by many distillers and brewers was stated to the commission by F. J. Quinn, former acting sub-collector at Port Maitland.

"To what ports do boats coming for liquor clear?" asked Mr. Calder.

"Toledo, Erie, Cleveland," said the witness.

He explained that the beer and liquor were shipped from the breweries and distilleries to Port Maitland by the carload. Then the carload lots were broken up into smaller lots to go into boats.

"Some of the vessels calling for the liquor are high-powered speed boats carrying only about forty cases," said Mr. Quinn. Railway cars remained there twenty-four hours at a time, he said, and it was impossible for the single officer on duty to watch the liquor all that time. The commission was informed that the number of permits for the manufacture of horse brew in the Hamilton district was approximately 10,000.

PLAY AT CAVAN.

Lily Lake Dramatic Club To Put On Play On Tuesday.

A play entitled "Kentucky Belle" will be given in Cavan Community Hall on Tuesday evening, May 10th, 1927, at eight o'clock, under the auspices of the Women's Institute by the Lily Lake Dramatic Club, who will also give a good programme of music, drills, recitations, etc.

In the afternoon of the same day the Women's Institute will hold a Bazaar from two o'clock at which there will be a parcel post booth and afternoon tea will be served.

Everybody is invited to come and have a good time.

IN MEMORIAM.

HUSK: — In kind and loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Albert E. Husk, who passed away May 9th, 1909:

In Zion cemetery softly sleeping,
Where the flowers nod and wave,
Lies our dear mother, we loved so dearly,
In her lone and silent grave,
Our hearts are full of sorrow,
And tears have dimmed our eyes.
But we shall meet you once again
In the home beyond the skies.
Farewell dear mother,
Your life is passed,
We loved you dearly to the last.
In life we loved you dear mother,
In death we do the same,
And Christ shall bind
That broken link when we meet again.

—Sadly missed by her daughters Hazel and Mabel.

Mining Market Weak In Dull Session To-day

TORONTO, May 9. Canadian Press. — Business suffered depression on the Toronto mining exchange to-day and little was done. The market was weak and declines were general. Argonaut Consolidated lost 3½ at 51½, Barrie Hollinger was down 1½ at 35; Chaput Hughes declined ½ at 11, and Dunlop was down ¾ at 84¼. Potter Dyal was also weaker, dropping 2 at 30. Among the higher issues were Grover Daly, up 5-8 at 10⅝; Geld Sill mines, up 2 at 38, Kirkland Hunton up ½ at 23¾, and Kirkland Lake up 1 at 148. Macassa gained 4 at 34. There was little change in the balance of the list. Total sales amounted to 479,732 shares.

Unfavorable Weather Sends Wheat Prices Up

CHICAGO, May 9 (Canadian Press) —With unfavorable weather both north-west and south-west, wheat averaged higher to-day during the early dealings. Large world shipments and relatively unresponsive Liverpool quotations failed to act as an offset. Opening at ¼ cent decline to 3-8 advance, wheat sagged a little more in some cases but then scored moderate gains all around. Corn, oats and provisions were easy, corn starting at 1-8 to 3-4 cents off and subsequently holding near to the initial range.

Opening prices were: Wheat, May 142; July 136. Corn, May 79 1-8, July 83 7-8. Oats, May 48 3-8, July 49 1-8.

New York Market Strong; Many Causes For Increases

NEW YORK, May 9 (Canadian Press)—Continued easy money, satisfactory trade news, favorable trade predictions, and heavy investment buying all contributed to a pronounced demonstration of strength in to-day's stock market. National Biscuit was particularly buoyant, soaring over eight points to a new high of 137. Higher prices for South Western Railroad shares followed bullish demonstrations in St. Louis and San Francisco and Texas and Pacific, which rose three and 4 1-2 points respectively. The revival of reports of new railway lineups in the northwest were associated with an advance of Chicago and North-western to 89, a new high price. The expectation of another extra cash dividend on General Motors stock the latter part of the week and squeezing of short interests in Hudson Motors, which went up three points, contributed a good tone to motor and accessory shares. Public Utilities varied. A number again establishing new peaks for the year.

Declines In Majority On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, May 9 (Canadian Press)—The general list on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day was weak and the declines out numbered the losses to some extent. International Nickel was the leader in point of activity and declined 3-4 at 58 1-2. Arnold Bros. was 1-2 lower at 17, Atlantic Sugar declined 1-4 at 31 1-4, and McKinnon Volting Trust was 3-8 lower at 25. There was little business transacted, the majority of trading being done in a few of the larger issues. Kirkland Lake gained two on the unlisted market at 148 while Hiram Walker gained 1-4 at 48. Gooderham and Worts was down 1-4 at 59 1-4. American Oil was 1-4 higher at 27.

Grove School Boys Lose Return Game By 56 Runs.

SPLENDID FIELDING.

Peterboro cricketers gained an easy victory over the Lakefield Grove School on Saturday afternoon, winning by 56 runs. Peterboro won the toss and opened the batting with Dunkerley and Garbutt to the bowling of McKenzie and Peck, Jr. Runs came slowly. With the score at 8, Garbutt was bowled in playing forward to a short-pitched ball. F. Dyer came in and soon started scoring, and the total was taken to 23 before Dunkerley was given out l.b.w. Thorpe followed, but after scoring six runs, was well caught in the outfield. Monkman, R. Dyer and Jefferson were also caught after adding to the score. Hammond and Ryland added 16 runs for the eighth wicket, the former making top score of the match. The innings finally closed for 78 runs.

The tea interval was then taken.

On resuming, Lakefield opened their innings with Robertson and Griffiths to the bowling of F. Dyer and Elliott. The first wicket added 10 runs, when Dyer cleaned bowled Robertson. With only 2 more runs added, Griffiths was caught in the outfield by Dunkerley. Of the remaining batsmen, Roulter was the only man who could stand up against the varied Peterboro bowling, the side beng all out for the low score of 22 runs.

F. Dyer took 3 wickets for 5 runs, Elliot 2 for 11 runs, Thorpe 2 for no runs, Dunkerley 1 for 2 runs, and Ryland 1 for no runs.

The bright feature of the game was the splendid fielding of the Lakefield boys. All the catches that were offered were accepted, and it was their brilliant work in the field that kept the Peterboro score under the century.

Thanks are due to the ladies who kindly served the refreshments. Charlie Coleman, in his capable manner, supplied the necessary eatables. Quite a number of spectators witnessed the game, and there is no doubt that the Oval and its surroundings will assist considerably in boosting this fine summer sport.

DOCTORS ADVICE TO THE SICK

Wash Away All Poisons in Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Bowels Before Breakfast

To feel your best day in and day out, no more headaches, indigestion, gas on stomach, bilious attacks, rheumatism, kidney pains, bad breath, you must bathe your self inside. Start today by taking one Tanol Calomel tablet before meals or two at bedtime, then next morning drink a glass or two of hot water to wash from the stomach, liver, kidney and bowels all the previous day's waste, poison and toxins before more food is taken in. Get a few Tanol tablets from F. C. Weber, Charlotte street, Peterborough. They are harmless to take, do not nauseate, no bad after effects, no salts or seidlitz next morning, like ordinary calomel. Then you can eat better, sleep better, work better, think better and look better.

CITIZENS WORK TO BANK LEVEE AGAINST FLOOD

Labor Day and Night To Put Sandbags at Weakened Spots.

SITUATION CRITICAL.

New Orleans Out of Danger, But Waters Threaten Valley Points.

NEW ORLEANS, May 10 (Canadian Press)—While the capped billows of the Mississippi cut deeply into the levees along a fifty mile front north of Baton Rouge yesterday and last night and to-day, hundreds of laborers were sand bagging the weakened spots. Along the Bayou des Glaises levee, where the danger has centered for several days, 600 citizens were fighting the flood. As the situation there hourly grew more critical, Major John C. Gotwals, engineer in charge of the rescue fleet with its base at Natchez, Miss., announced that all boats in his area except those needed for transportation of food and supplies would be concentrated in that section.

Throughout the lower valley tension was increasing and patrols were more vigilant. New Orleans was considered out of danger. Thousands of persons in the valley between New Orleans and Old River were still menaced, however.

BODY FOUND IN TRUNK.

Scotland Yard Officials Have Gruesome Mystery To Solve.

LONDON, May 10 (Canadian Press).—The discovery of a dismembered body of a woman, apparently thirty years of age, in a trunk in the baggage room of Charing Cross Station, provided the police of Scotland Yard with a gruesome murder mystery to solve.

A railway porter stated the trunk was brought to the station about five days ago in a taxi cab by a man between 30 and 40 years of age. He said he could identify him.

Wedding Guest Joker Handcuffs Bridal Pair

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10.—As the preacher pronounced them man and wife M. G. Brown and Edna Carruth, Oakland, heard a sharp click and felt cold steel on their wrists. They had been handcuffed together by George V. Tredhope, Jr., a wedding guest with a penchant for wedding jests.

The young couple, after an hour or so of unavailing effort to remove the handcuffs, repaired to the Oakland police station for assistance. The officers succeeded in unlocking the manacles and the bridal couple left to look for George.

FACE TRIAL ON THEFT CHARGE

Two Brothers Accused Of Stealing Fourteen Chickens Plead Not Guilty.

WANTED IN BELLEVILLE.

William Nicholson of Dummer township pleaded not guilty this morning in police court to a charge of stealing fourteen chickens from the farm of Roland Dixon in the township of Otonabee. He will come up for trial along with his brother Pearse, who is arraigned on the same charge, on Friday before Magistrate O. A. Langley in County Police Court.

Pearse was arrested some weeks ago and has been held in the County jail until his brother was arrested as he was a material witness in the case. When this case is disposed of the provincial police in Belleville are wanting the two brothers on a similar charge as it is claimed they stole eighty-two chickens in one week between Belleville and Madoc and sold them in this city. It is understood that William has already acknowledged this latter theft.

"CHAMP" IS DEFEATED.

VANDALIA, Mo., May 10. — This city will not have a dictator. D. H. Boatman was almost everything but mayor, and sought that office too. But the voters decided that the offices of city marshal, city collector and constable were enough, so they defeated him in the mayoralty race.

The attempted transatlantic flight of the French aces, Nungesser and Coli, is illustrated in the map herewith. From Havre to Newfoundland is roughly about 2,800 miles. The liner Stockholm, as is shown, was the only ship known to be in the path of the transocean plane. CENTRE is Coli, the one-eyed navigator, LEFT and RIGHT is Nungesser, the handsome ace, who is the pilot. Both are missing, and ships fail to report having seen the plane.

Whale Chewed 80 Feet Out Of Alaskan Cable

WASHINGTON, May 10 (Associated Press).—The whale which interrupted traffic on the Alaska cable early in April, chewed up so much of the cable that an 80-foot replacement was necessary to restore communications.

A report reaching the War Department and just made public, said that when the cable ship Delwood reached the scene and pulled up the cable, a 20-ton whale, 28 feet long and about 19 feet in girth, was found trapped in coils of the cable that had become wound about its lower jaw and tail.

W.M.S. MEETS IN CITY TO-DAY

Annual Meeting of Lindsay Presbyterial Opens This Afternoon.

GOOD SPEAKERS.

The second annual meeting of the Lindsay Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church takes place in the city to-day and to-morrow, with sessions which commenced this afternoon and continue this evening and tomorrow morning, to a conclusion to-morrow afternoon. The meetings take place in George Street United Church, and about two hundred ladies are expected as delegates from the district. This afternoon's meeting was mainly of a business and routine nature, as will be to-morrow's meetings. This evening, words of welcome from the Presbyterial and from the Mayor will be extended, and an inspirational address will be given by Miss Susie Smythe, who is affiliated with All People's Mission of Hamilton. Another speaker of interest will be Mrs. Forbes of Weston.

Elizabeth Pechy, the famous Hungarian prima donna, has been appointed an officer of Academie Francaise.

MOTHERS WAIT ANXIOUSLY FOR WORD OF FLIERS

Mme. Nungesser Confident Son Will Reach Shore Safely.

PARIS DISAPPOINTED.

Reports Of Arrival at New York, Received Yesterday, Wildly Acclaimed.

PARIS, May 10 (United Press).—Two mothers waited anxiously today for news of the French trans-Atlantic fliers. The mother of Charles Nungesser said she was fully confident her son would reach America.

"Even if we are without new for two or three days I will still believe in his success," she said.

It was learned Nungesser did not tell his mother when he was going to leave, desiring to spare her as much anxiety as possible, but she said he promised he would be back by May 30—her Saint's day.

Francois Coli's mother was less confident, according to a United Press dispatch from Marseilles, her home.

"I am burning with anxiety and am praying for his safety," she said.

"He often said my prayers saved him in the war. He is very religious.

"But the time is long. I hope he returns safe. Every mother will understand."

Then she asked, "How far is it from Newfoundland to New York?"

But she sobbed and was unable to ask further questions.

Paris Disillusioned

PARIS, May 10 (United Press).—Paris was a city disillusioned today after a delirious afternoon of celebration yesterday when erroneous reports that Charles Nungesser and Francis Coli had arrived in the United States were circulated by newspapers, booming guns, and airplane flares.

When the first reports of the arrival were spread, men and women embraced on the boulevards and cafes in an excess of joy and from

FEAR ENTERTAINED GAS SUPPLY OF AIRMEN MAY BE EXHAUSTED

Fliers' Fate, With Estimated Flight Time Exceeded, Remains Uncertain.

FOGS OFF COAST.

Believed U. S. Coast Guard Airplane Confused With French Machine.

NEW YORK, May 10. Canadian Press — Two French airmen, who pitted their war-steeled nerves against the murky terrors of the Atlantic in storm were "somewhere on the trial" between Paris and New York late yesterday in their trim, stripped craft, the "White Bird," as the 40 hour gasoline supply period ended without word as to their whereabouts.

Whether the aviators, Captain C. Nengeser, pilot, and Francis Coli, navigator, were still in the air, floating on the ocean or wrecked upon high waves or Newfoundland wasteland, no one early last evening could say.

Great excitement pulsed through waiting crowds assembled at the New York waterfront and standing on tugs in the harbor when report after report told of the progress of a plane between Rockford, Maine, and Gloucester, Mass. But before dark hopes from that direction died when the navy yard at Boston messaged its opinion that the plane was a coast-guard craft, and New York, beneath a murky fog, continued its preparations literally in the dark.

Speculation, indeed, due to the total absence of positive sighting was the 'news' of the day. Reports ranged widely from rumors of seeing the plane off Newfoundland to spotting its glistening body over Portland, Me. and Boston.

False Rumor.

No ship, however, in the regular lanes had reported its whirring motors on this side of the Atlantic; no encouraging news came from the ice patrol boat, Modoc, scouting northward off the 'beaten tracks' of shipping lanes; and wireless operators, shipping men and coast watchers from Halifax to Montauk Point strained eyes and ears for hours without avail.

The tenseness of the wait for news of the men who sought to make the first westward crossing of the Atlantic by air, kept Paris and New York in a constant cable communication as rumors and reports went flashing back and forth.

Paris, where spirits rose to a high point early yesterday, overflowed in celebration of a victorious crossing long before a victory was certain.

On this side of the Atlantic bad weather prevailed. Fog, the white menace to airmen, swelling inland from the Grand Banks early yesterday, left clearing weather along the coast of Newfoundland, where conflicting reports of 'sighting,' the plane came during the day. But south of Boston huge walls extended down the sea and air lanes, making the coast line invisible and forming a barrier through which descent would have been, aviators said, extremely hazardous.

Heavy Fogs.

Ships at sea reported the visibility limited considerably off the coast and fliers cancelled local plans of taking the air as a convoy to the visiting Frenchmen.

While Paris, with the eagerness that is French celebrated, New York City, lacking nothing in eagerness, lacked much in information on which to get out the bands and the top hats.

In office building lights burned much of the day, and the cold, unseasonable drizzle added to the uncomfortableness of a grey, foggy Monday, and airmen explained, the fliers upon reaching New York would have been at any time to-day up against a problem in finding New York despite the city's skyscrapers, expansive harbor and flying field flares.

Prepare Celebration

Several hours before the dark the Battery, however, was swarming with thousands of persons armed with binoculars and umbrellas and trying to see between the raindrops into the murky ceilinged heavens.

The official greeting tug chartered by the French line chugged with steam up for much of the morning, impatient for a dash to the outer harbor.

Finally at 3 o'clock, the 39th flying hour for the men still "somewhere on the trail," the little tug with its cargo of diplomats and notables cleared its pier and felt its way out to quarantine and at nightfall it was still waiting hopefully, that much nearer France.

Minus its landing legs and the ears and voice of its radio, dispensed with to reduce the 'White Bird,' may be 'anywhere' along the course, airmen said here last night. If it had fallen it was capable of sustaining itself and its daring passengers for a day in the water.

Stabbed In Prison Yard During a Football Game

BANQUET HELD AT ST. PAUL'S

Taylor Statten is Speaker at Father and Son Banquet.

WITH BOYS' WEEK.

In keeping with the Boys' Week program, a father and son banquet was held in the auditorium of St. Paul's Sunday school at 6 o'clock last night. Taylor Statten, leader of the boys' work, gave the fathers and sons a short talk prior to his speech at the mass meeting held in the Grand Opera House immediately following the banquet.

After the toast to the King, a toast was proposed to the fathers by Jack Clayton, who remarked that boys should look up to their dads, for their fathers are their best friends, and every fellow should regard his father as a hero and become himself a hero-worshipper.

Richard Lee, in responding to the toast agreed with Jack Clayton, in that a boy should become a hero worshipper, and that fathers should remember that they are setting an example to their sons, and should arouse a closed feeling between themselves and the boys so that father and son banquets should not be necessary to draw them to closer companionship. Mr. Lee remarked that the editor of The Globe once remarked that there are no young people any more and that banquets such as the one last night were really necessary.

W. L. Ferguson proposed the toast to the ladies and in doing so, stated that the ladies of St. Paul's were always good providers and the repast last night was only a sample of the many excellent suppers these ladies had provided in the past. Mrs. Jordan, in responding remarked that on behalf of the Ladies' Aid she was pleased to say that it was only a pleasure to help prepare a dinner for such a happy gathering as the one last night.

Tom Dutton was called upon to introduce the speaker of the evening and before calling on Taylor Statten, outlined the program for the week and expressed his wish that every father and son would go from the banquet to the Grand Opera House.

Are Better Today.

MANY VESSELS JOIN SEARCH OF ATLANTIC FOR AVIATORS WHO ARE NOW LONG OVERDUE

English, French and United States' Ships Scour Coastal Waters.

MANY FALSE REPORTS.

Imaginative People Told News Services of Seeing Planes in Flight.

LONDON, May 10. — Canadian Press. — England is still without any definite reports of the French trans-Atlantic plane being sighted anywhere along the route. The various shipping companies are anxiously awaiting word from their captains at sea. Captain E. G. Diggle, commander of the Mauretania, the latest arrival in port, declared at Plymouth to-day that those on his vessel had seen no trace of the fliers.

SEARCH IS STARTED.

CHERBOURG, France, May 10.—Canadian Press, — Destroyers, submarine chasers and seaplanes began a search of the English channel this morning in view of the possibility that Captain Nungesser's trans-atlantic plane might have fallen even before reaching the English coast.

Early reports, though not confirmed, were that the Nungesser plane was last seen off Fastnet Rock on the Southern Irish coast.

FOG HAMPERS EFFORTS.

NEW YORK, May 10. Canadian Press. — Heavy fog to-day hampered an intensive search for Captains Charles Nungesser and Francois Coli, daring French airmen, who dropped from sight a short distance off the French coast on a 3800 mile flight from Paris to New York.

The death challenging biplane of the famous French war heroes, was long overdue, as land, sea and air forces of the United States government were organized for the hunt through an area extending from Newfoundland to New York harbor.

Paris-New York Contest Costly In Lives and Money Four Killed in Two Crashes, $400,000 Is Expended

NEW YORK, May 10.—A great deal of money and four lives have so far been dedicated to the feat of flying between New York and Paris. At least $400,000 has been invested in the various flights, including the cost of the planes and all the complicated and difficult preparations.

The plane which Commander Noel Davis and Lieutenant Stanton H. Wooster were to have flown across, and in which they lost their lives, was a very expensive one, and with all the expenses of preparation cost at least $120,000. Nearly all of that was lost, although some parts of the plane were salvaged after its dive into a mudbank near Langley Field, Va.

The big Sikorsky plane in which Captain Rene Fonck, French ace, and Lieutenant Lawrence Curtin attempted to take off last Fall cost more than $100,000. Two lives were also lost when this plane crashed.

Commander Richard Evelyn Byrd's big Fokker, which was constructed at the order of Rodman Wanamaker for the transatlantic flight, cost about $50,000, and the expense of preparing a runway for it on Roosevelt Field and other incidental expenses, which were increased by repairs to the plane after its crash, cost many thousands more.

The Bellanca plane cost at least $20,000 to develop, although it can be manufactured for less now, and the many changes which have been made in it and the constant tests have largely increased the expense connected with its flight.

The Ryan monoplane, which was built for Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, was a special airplane and an expensive one.

Just what the cost of Captain Nungesser's plane and preparations were can only be estimated, but they undoubtedly were as much as $50,000.

Building special airplanes for transatlantic work, with all their details of structural strength and special equipment, is a task that exercises the greatest ingenuity of designers and cannot be accomplished without the lavish expenditure of money. It is doubtful if any other sporting feat in the world, with the possible exception of the Norge over the North Pole, ever enlisted so many minds and so much money as these long flights between Paris and New York.

One Of Originals Dies; In Hospital For Years

TORONTO, May 10. — John Pilley, 34, died in Christie Street Military Hospital on Sunday, as a result of injuries he received in the war. Pilley was one of the oldest patients in point of time spent in hospital. Following his return from France, a total disability case, Pilley has never left the hospital.

He was one of the Originals, his regimental number being 64.

CONCRETE DAM WILL BE BUILT

Lock 24 To Be Scene of Next Improvement Along the Otonabee.

TENDERS CALLED FOR.

The Department of Railways and Canals has decided to build a new concrete dam at Lock 24 and tenders are being called for. The building of this dam is part of the reconstruction policy of the department on the Trent Valley Canal. The dams between Peterborough and Lakefield are wooden structures and are being replaced by concrete ones. This is the fourth one that has been built in the last few years as Lakefield, Nassau, and Lock 23 were previously constructed.

MINISTER TELLS PLANS FOR NORTH

Will Close Up Townships in Haliburton—Send Settlers To New Ontario.

LINDSAY, Ont., May 10 (Canadian Press).—Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests in the Ontario Legislature, to-day outlined his policy regarding the reforestation and conservation of Ontario's timberlands and plans for fire protection, before the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs here.

The Minister of Lands and Forests stated that he hopes to seal up a number of townships in Haliburton County and will offer the settlers rich farm land in New Ontario, giving them free transportation for families, stock, implements, etc.

The sealed townships, the Minister said, would be closed to everyone, except for persons holding permits, while nature took its course. The townships mentoned, he said, had been overrun by fires and were unfit for farming.

BOYS' WEEK IS OFFICIALLY OPENED BY TAYLOR STATTEN

Fathers and Sons of City Gather Together at Mass Meeting.

SPOKE ON VOCATION.

Selections Rendered By Male Voice Choir and Junior Band.

Boys' Week was officially opened last night by Taylor Statten in a grand mass meeting for the fathers and sons of this city that was held in the opera house. The body and first gallery were filled almost to capacity with fathers and sons. The Male Voice Choir under the direction of M. B. Chenhall, with Miss Muriel Bridge at the piano, rendered several selections. The boys' band also furnished music which received the deserved mention of the leading speaker. Harry Barton played the "Orchestral Bells" and the "Westminster Bells," in a manner which received much applause.

His Worship Mayor Holloway acted as chairman, and others on the platform with him were Taylor Statten, Brigadier-General Hughes, A. L. Killaly president of the Rotary Club, and Tom Dutton, who is head of the Boys' Week Committee.

Mayor Holloway welcomed the speaker of the evening and General Hughes to Peterborough. His Worship said that this was the most important occasion in the year and a half that he has been Chief Magistrate of the city, and it was a great pleasure for him to act as chairman at such an important gathering. "You boys are living in times of vast opportunity and I hope you will see this week just what this city is doing in the industrial line. There was a time when Peterboro ranked third in proportion to her population as a manufacturing city in Canada. I congratulate Tom Dutton and all others who have put on this boys' week, and may it be a real benefit to every boy in this city and community."

Opens Week.

Taylor Statten declared "Boys' Week" officially opened, and then in turning to the boys' band on the platform said that their music had been the finest demonstration of boys work he had ever seen anywhere.

Mr. Statten made an earnest plea to the boys to look ahead in life and make up their minds what they are going to be; then set that as their goal, and work towards accomplishing it. "What I am going to say tonight will be for the boy who is ready to do some thinking with me, and I do believe there are boys here to-nigh, who will go out with a little more determination to get along in life and who will start climbing a little faster towards that goal which they have set for themselves.

"I am not going to talk so much to the fathers to-night, but there are occasions, like this one, when the boy needs to be drawn a little closer to dad. I firmly believe we are going to be the kind of people we think we are going to be. The boy who believes he is going to be a drifter will just drift along, and the boy who believes he is going to be somebody will strive towards that goal, and at last accomplish it."

Mr. Statten then told the story of a boy who at 13 years of age set a goal which he decided to reach at 21 and during those eight years which elapsed he strived towards that goal and at 21 he was a university graduate with jobs seeking him, rather than he trying to get a job. He also told the story of the great Boston relay race some years ago when four runners from Canada and four from the United States were competing against each other. The first two Canadian runners did well and had a considerable lead on the third runner, who fell down, and the fourth man the best race in his career, but it was not enough to win the race. It was the third man who lost the race. A boy's life is a great relay race and it is the third lap between the ages of 14 and 21 that are most important."

Are Four Changes.

"It is said a person's body changes every seven years, so is not life just like a great relay race," and it is the third relay which matters. That is the relay when a fellow grows, and when the third eyebrow appears on his upper lip. At 14 he is stepping into the most critical time in his life—a time when he must assume responsibility. To-night there are a great many boys in front of me in the third relay and could I get you to see what you will be like at 21 years and for the remaining years, keep that fellow ever foremost in your mind, you will say when you reach that age that life is a success, all on account of the fact that you ran the third relay well.

How to Accomplish It.

The speaker gave under four H's how this might be accomplished.

"The first H is the development of the head. In Vancouver a few years ago I saw the sign: 'If you want to get a head you must go ahead. Each day at school is worth

MRS. SNYDER AND GRAY FOUND GUILTY FIRST DEGREE MURDER

Formality of Sentence Was Postponed Until Next Monday Morning

OUT TWO HOURS.

Neither Defendant Exhibits Any Emotion at Hearing Of Verdict.

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP) — Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray, her corset salesman paramour, are to pay with their lives for the crime that snatched them from obscurity and made them internationally known.

Deliberating less than two hours, twelve of their peers yesterday found them guilty of the murder of Mrs. Snyder's husband, Albert Snyder, magazine art editor. Death sentence is mandatory for first degree murder, but the formality of sentence was postponed until next Monday morning.

Cheers greeted the verdict when it was flashed to the crowd that had congregated before Long Island City's supreme court. In the court the verdict was received in a dead, musty silence. Neither defendant exhibited any great emotion, and seemed to be either too dazed to fully comprehend its portent, or only hearing what they had expected.

When, answering the clerk's "Have you reached a verdict?", the foreman, a press agent by profession, utted his "Both guilty of murder in the first degree," Mrs. Snyder's blonde head, dressed for the occasion by a hairdresser jerked perceptibly. Her eyes, roving like those of one fainting, fixed upon the square shoulders of her erstwhile lover, Judd Gray. Then she stiffened, her head came back into position, and thus, erect and proud, she sat while the jury was polled.

Made No Fuss

But Judd Gray, whose plea of dominance by the superior mind of Mrs. Gray had led some to believe him less the stoic than the woman who insinuated murder into his head, made no more fuss about the matter than she. His face was slightly flushed as he was brought into the courtroom behind the jurors. It retained that flush as he heard his fate. But his weak eyes peered queerly through his spectacles and one hand went, almost as if by reaction, to his legs, where one set of electrodes are fastened by the verdict. Then he, too, pulled nimself together and sat rigidly erect without turning for a glimpse of Mrs. Snyder, who sat behind him.

They were led, one at a time, before the bench and their pedigrees taken. Then both were led to the obscurity of their separate cells. Counsel for both deferred announcement of their intentions as regards appeals. As they passed from the room, Justice Townsend Scudder thanked the jurors and they left their seats, to be swept bruisingly along in the stream of humanity that has surged about them for weeks without daring to touch them.

Outside they were greeted by cheers and flashlights as photographers pressed around them. The Snyder-Gray murder trial was over and they, too, were about to pass back into comparative obscurity.

Courtroom Packed

The verdict was a capsheaf of a day that made women faint and strong men perspire. Hundreds were in the courtroom before it resumed this morning. They crowded two to every seat, they packed themselves into windows, they blocked the aisles and they squatted on radiators. And they paid the penalty, for before the case was given to the jury at 5:29 this evening four women had been carried from the room in a dead faint and dozens were beseeching, in fading voices, to be permitted to pass through the doors that had been locked when Justice Scudder began his 75 minute charge.

Bertaud and Chamberlain Will Start Flight To-day

NEW YORK, May 10 (United Press).—The Bellanca monoplane, in which Lloyd Bertaud and Clarence Chamberlin plan to make their New York-to-Paris flight attempt, will leave for Paris this morning, weather permitting, if Nungesser and Coli fail to arrange by night, G. M. Bellanca, builder of the plane, told the United Press yesterday.

FRENCH FLIER STILL MISSING

Nothing Heard From Captain St. Roman, Who Disappeared Last Thursday.

CONTINUE SEARCH.

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, May 10.—(A.P.)—Captain Saint Roman and his comrade, Commander Mouneyres, French aviators who hopped off from St. Louis, Senegal, last Thursday morning for Pernambuco, Brazil, only to disappear from all contact with civilization, were still missing last night.

Despite the profound alarm over their fate, the French consul here declared that he had not lost all hope of their being discovered. The narrow margin of their safety, however, is felt to be rapidly diminishing, particularly in view of the fact that the fliers had removed the pontoons from their plane before taking off, thus giving them little chance for life unless alighting on land or its immediate vicinity.

The Brazilian steamer Mercury left here Sunday for the Island of Fernando de Norandah, 145 miles off the coast, to make a thorough search of the sea within a radius of fifty miles of the island. Later it will proceed to the Roccas Islands and then will sail for Saint Paul's Rocks, 490 miles off the coast, to make a thorough search in that neighborhood.

It was reported, but this could not be confirmed, that all east and west bound ships of English and Dutch companies and several other companies had been instructed to run out of their regular courses by 25 miles in an effort to locate the missing aviators.

CAT COATS CHEAP

LENINGRAD, May 10 — Midnight alley symphonies seldom are heard here now. Raiding parties spurred by the State Clothing Syndicate's offer of 50 cents a cat fur, have made the city's feline population almost extinct. Despite protests of citizens who have lost their pets, the company says the campaign is a worthy one, making fur coats cheap.

MANY KILLED BY TORNADO

Heavy Damage Wrought When Twister Sweeps Over Middle States.

CHILDREN VICTIMS.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., May 10.—(A.P.)—More than a score were dead here last night as a result of the tornado which laid waste the business district of this city yesterday, causing unestimated property damage. Eleven victims were identified.

Several school children were reported killed when a school building was wrecked.

Six unidentified dead were in the Missouri Pacific station last night and several more reported dead were in the wreckage of the Farmers' Supply Company.

Several victims were expected to be extricated from the ruins of the newly built Melbourne Hotel.

Schools Destroyed.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 10.—(A.P.)—Seven persons are known to be dead and many injured in a series of tornadoes which swept Arkansas yesterday.

Four are reported dead in Walnut Ridge, two school children at Hoxie, where both school houses were destroyed. One woman was killed at Carlisle and several others are reported dead in Norphlet in Southern Arkansas. Nine or ten were injured at Lonoke.

Reports of the storm at Walnut Ridge and Hoxie came from the Missouri Pacific operator at Hoxie, who talked with the superintendent.

Six Killed.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., May 10. — (A.P.)—At least six persons were killed and more than a score injured in a tornado which demolished virtually every building in the business section here late yesterday. The known dead were:

Eli Cravens and wife, about 60 years old.
A Mr. Boyd, 60.
Proctor Cook, 30.
Mr. George Sanner.
And one unidentified.

A report was received at the telephone office that several persons were dead and several dying in the Missouri Pacific station, but this could not be definitely verified because of lack of communication facilities.

Calls For Aid.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 10. — (A.P.)— England, Ark., at 5:30 p.m. called Keo, a few miles distant, for all available doctors and nurses. Persons calling said a storm had struck the town and that several were either dead or injured.

Further details were lacking.

$1,000,000 Damage.

SIKESTON, Mo., May 10.—(A.P.)—H. J. Maddox, of the Missouri Pacific railroad at Poplar Blub late yesterday estimated between 25 and 30 were killed by the tornado which struck here. He estimated property damage at $1,000,000.

ASK PASTEURIZING OF OSHAWA MILK

Board of Health Decides To Send Recommendation To Council.

OSHAWA, May 10.—Following the Montreal typhoid epidemic, the Board of Health here will press for a pasteurization bylaw for this city. The matter is to come before the City Council at the next meeting, according to information given the Board of Health at a meeting.

"The Montreal epidemic should be an object lesson to Canadians for all time to come," declared Dr. T. W. G. McKay, Medical Officer of Health, in bringing the question before the Board.

Woman Drowns On Way To Grave Of Husband

ST.. CATHARINES, May 10. — (Canadian Press).—The body of Mrs. Catherine Burgar, aged 72, of Grantham Avenue, was found in the long level of the present Welland Canal near Niagara Street, at 6 o'clock yesterday by a passerby. She retired as usual Saturday night at the home of her son, but was missing from her bedroom Sunday morning when a member of the household went to arouse her. As she was in the habit of making frequent visits to the grave of her husband, in Victaria Lawn Cemetery, it is believed that she was taking a short route along the canal bank and stepped into the water.

Extensive Red Spy System in France Charged By Accomplice Who Told Military Secrets

PARIS, May 10. — Existence of a vast Communist system of espionage with unsuspected ramifactions into every branch of French military activity was alleged yesterday in the deposition of former Municipal Councilman Cochelin of the French munitions town of St. Cyr in connection with the trial of five Communists held in the alleged spy plot.

Cochelin described his relations with Menetrier, one of the Communists who, he said, came to him seeking information regarding powder formulas and who revealed to him the extent of the aims of the Communist mission in which he was engaged.

"I was stupefied at the magnitude of the organization which I at first thought merely a sporadic effort to learn French secrets," Cochelin told the examining magistrate. But I soon saw that Mentrier and his associates, Depouilly, Dadot, Provot and Grodnicki, were only tiny links in an immense enterprise with ramifications everywhere which was constantly increasing its hold on all French war establishments.

"He told me that the Third International aimed to devote 80 per cent. of its efforts to French military establishments. To do that it was necessary to place Communist party agents as workers in all factories and in positions where they were able to obtain needed information.

"During one conversation Menetrier told me that, because of the present situation in China, Russia might find herself in danger. It was therefore absolutely essential, he said, to supply the Soviet Government with information to enable it to keep its army up to the standard of those of other nations."

The operations of the spies were described by Cochelin, who admitted having assisted in supplying data related to all branches of war materials, including tanks, aviation, high explosives, artillery and various categories of explosives and chemicals.

SAYS EXPORT LIQUOR SOLD IN ONTARIO

Commission Hears of Re-routing From Windsor Back in Province.

OPENS AT HAMILTON.

Regular Route For Liquor Shipments For Windsor To Toronto.

HAMILTON, Ont., May 10 (Canadian Press).—The Royal Customs Commission turned yesterday from an inquiry into how liquor is exported from Canada to the United States to learn a little about how part of this same "export" liquor appears mysteriously in various parts of Ontario. Generally, it developed during the examination of certain Ontario provincial police inspectors, the liquor is accompanied with the necessary "B-13," indicating an export shipment. But, as Hon. N. W. Rowell, commission counsel, suggested, if a man is found driving a truck load of liquor inland from Windsor, Ontario, when the consignee of the same liquor is stated on the export entry to live in Detroit, he appears to be taking a roundabout way to reach his destination.

While the Commission left Windsor last Friday, yesterday's sittings indicated that Windsor has not quite left the Commission. The Port of Windsor figured in the testimony of certain of the provincial police officers as the source from whence a number of these seized shipments emanated. There is a route for liquor and beer shipments from Windsor to Toronto, Inspector Frank Elliott told Mr. Rowell. There was no question about that.

"Windsor is a point of concentration and it distributes to Ontario and the United States," summarized counsel, and the inspector agreed with this.

Healy to Appear

Again Windsor figured in the opening sitting here yesterday when Hon. N. W. Rowell informed the Commissioners that A. F. Healy, former Liberal member for North Essex, had signified by telegram that he proposes coming here to give evidence. Mr. Healy figured prominently in the evidence given by certain witnesses in Windsor. He was associated in the testimony of Frank Cooper, one of the latter witnesses at that place, with a fund which Mr. Cooper referred to as the "rat" fund. Mr. Cooper declared that Mr. Healy

NO MORE STRAPS.

NEW YORK, May 10.—For many years, John Emory Andrus, manufacaurer and capitalist, rode back and forth to work in the subway. He was called "the richest straphanger" and always said he got the most from his nickel that way. But one of his legs were injured in a rush-hour jam recent and now at 86, Andrus has bought a motor car.

Stockholm Cripple Will Push His Cart To Paris

STOCKHOLM, May 10 (Associated Press).—Frans Alfred Witt, a cripple since 1914, is planning to set out shortly for Paris in his wheel chair.

Witt hopes to win a $270 prize. His route will be through Malmoe, Copenhagen, Hamburg and Brussels.

Miss Linde Klenckowshrom, a Swedish noblewoman, made the trip on horseback last year. She spent two months on the road, although only two days is required by rail and ten hours by airplane.

MOTHER.

Every day is Mother's Day
To those who weigh her worth;
Casting up acounts we owe,
From childhood through to age, we know
The debt is ours where'er we go,
And never can we pay.

Every day is Mother's Day,
E'en tho' her soul is flown—
Mem'ries of her closely cling,
Times we failed her leave their sting,
Vain regrets the hot tears bring
When Mother's gone for aye.

Every day is Mother's Day,
And the hours we used to know,
We live in retrospect again
And drain the joy of their refrain,
As voice and smile of her remain
To cheer us while we stay.

An Ex-Buck Private Goes Back to France

Dear Mac:

I'm not going to stay long in Paris. I'm too eager to reach the places we knew better—Arras, Cambrai, and the rest. They haven't the comforts that Paris has, and, after all, Paris is Paris. It's the capital of the world—this city on the Seine. Men from every nation know its streets, and are seen on them daily. It was known to the tribes of Gaul—known to the Caesars, to Charlemagne, and to multitudinous C. E. Fers. Alors.

Gendarmes with their caps and striking blue capes—a blue uniform and a cap with wide gold braid—a sign in a store window: "Man Spricht Deutsch" (the war ended in 1918)—a woman sitting on a box in front of a jewelry store in the Boulevard des Italiens calmly polishing some brass letters, an all-day job that would be done in Peterborough in five minutes.

There's an epicerie; there's a charcuterie—a horse with a bell on his collar clatters by hauling a high-wheeled cart—a baker's boy riding a bicycle cart loaded with long loaves of French bread (it is amazing that he threads the traffic and doesn't lose his cargo in one wild jump)—another sign: "Defense d'Afficher"—"Post No Bills" (a few of these would help the appearance of the electric-light poles back in Peterborough).

Nattily-dressed women and girls stroll along, and all is so leisurely, so soothing.

"Peep-Peep"—another taxicab chugs around the corner of the Rue Scribe and veers on to the Place de l'Opera. A merchant goes by pushing a low three-wheeled cart filled with bottles. A sign: "American Bar"—another sign: "Robes et Manteaux" — electric advertisements flash—and on every hand are familiar trade names.

Oh, it's nice to be in Paris, alright, but somehow it hasn't the same thrill that it had when we came down from the line on leave. A soldier always wants to be where he isn't—we go back to our hotel. Remember how many officers we used to meet in Paris? We were saluting so fast it looked as if we were scratching our foreheads.

It is never late in Paris, but when it is time to retire there is a brass bed—with huge pillows—a silk coverlet—and an excellent mattress—and very soothing to a worn frame, be it native French or visiting Canadian.

"Restez la! Restez la! Couchez! Fas de mauvais reve!" Which is, if you recall the "Good-night" of the madame at one of your war-time billets, "Sleep and don't have any unpleasant dreams."

My dreams are very pleasant tonight, as I hope yours are.

QUARREL OVER GIRL CAUSE OF SHOOTING

Wounded Doctor Makes Statement Regarding Affair at Montreal.

IS RECOVERING.

Results in Suicide of Dr. Frank Brown, of Vancouver.

MONTREAL, May 10 (Canadian Press).—The shooting of Dr. J. F. Puddicombe, Ottawa, by Dr. Frank Brown, Vancouver, and the subsequent suicide of the latter in the private room of Dr. Puddicombe, at the Royal Victoria Hospital Sunday night was the result of a quarrel over a girl, according to a statement by the wounded doctor, after the affair, told to Coroner McMahon by Dr. W. G. Webster, hospital admitting doctor, at the inquest here yesterday.

Dr. Brown recently has been superintendent of the first aid station operated in connection with the construction of a large paper mill near Quebec.

Is Recovering.

Coroner McMahon yesterday morning began the work of unravelling the mysterious case of Dr. Frank Brown, the former Vancouver man, who on Sunday night shot and wounded Dr. J. F. Puddicombe, who was operated on for the removal of a bullet from the muscles of his neck, was reported to be recovering yesterday morning.

Insanity Suspected.

Dr. Brown, who originally came from Carmen, Manitoba, was given a good character by his employer, W. I. Bishop. At the Royal Victoria Hospital, where Mr. Brown was at one time an interne, it was said he was an excellent student, bearing a good character, holding strange ideas on some subjects, but having nothing that would justify his being classed as abnormal while an interne. It is thought he subsequently went insane.

Shortly after nine Sunday night, Dr. Puddicombe staggered from his room in the hospital and gasped: "Frank Brown shot me. He's in my room. He shot himself, too."

SHE SELLS TIME TO WATCHMAKERS

LONDON, May 10.— One of the most unusual businesses in the world, that of selling the correct time to watchmakers, still is carried on here by the daughter of the man who founded it in 1831. At that time, the Royal Astronomer suggested to a friend that people who needed the exact time ought to be willing to pay for it. The friend followed the suggestion and soon had all the London watchmakers as customers. At his death, his wife took over the business, and now the daughter makes $2,500 a year by setting her watch at Greenwich Observatory and then visiting her 50 clients once a week.

VICTORIA PARK A BEAUTY SPOT

City and County Combine in Making Park More Beautiful.

FLOWERS PLANTED.

Peterborough is the possessor of many beauty spots, but one that is attracting a great deal of attention and favourable comment at the present time is Victoria Park in front of the Court House, with its neat green lawns and perfect rows of sprouting tulips o fa late variety that will cry defiance in two weeks or so to any lasting memories of the dreary winter.

The caretaker of the park, in speaking to The Examiner today, remarked that the county was giving him every assistance possible to make this park a spot to which all citizens would care to go, and had fixed the old bank at the extreme top, so that it would be ready for seeding in a short time. The benches of last year have been all repainted and many new ones have been obtained so that the whole park now presents an appearance of beauty and rest.

Already, in the smaller beds, flowers are beginning to show their heads, so that in a short time the park will be a mass of colour, such as only the different shades of tulips can provide.

OLD MASTERS

When I am dead and sister to the dust;
When no more avidly I drink the wine
Of human love; when hte pale Proserpine
Has covered me with poppies and cold rust
Has cut my lyre-strings and the sun has thrust
Me underground to nourish the world-vine
Men shall discover these old songs of mine
And say: This woman lived—as poets must!
This woman lived and wore life as a sword
To conquer wisdom; this dead woman read
In the sealed Book of Love and underscored
The meanings. Then the sails of faith she spread
And faring out for regions unexplored
Went singing down the River of the Dead.
—Elias Barker: "When I am Dead."

If a golfer drives a ball into a public highway he is liable for any damage done, declared a judge in England recently in awarding damages to an auto truck driver whose windshield had been broken by a player's sphere.

LYRICS OF LIFE

By Douglas Malloch

TROUBLE IS TROUBLE

Folks talk of troubles great and small,
But I don't think that way at all.
They talk as though you could divide
Your troubles, put the small aside
And only care about the great.
Well, I've had both, I'm here to state,
And want to put this truth in rime;
Trouble is trouble, anytime.

Though little troubles mine may be,
My troubles look as big to me
As bigger woes to bigger men.
My little troubles now and then
Can keep me just as worried as
The trouble that the banker has.
It's just the same in either case,
Trouble is trouble, any place.

It's easy lightly to dismiss
Another's woes a way like this,
To see the tear, to hear the sigh,
And pass the little troubles by.
But, when a youngster's eye grows dim,
His trouble's big to him.
Let kindness pause a moment there—
Trouble is trouble, anywhere.

U.S. JOURNALISTS WILL HAVE LODGE

"Six Point Lodge" Built By A. D. Greene For Professional Brethren.

A letter was received by the Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce this morning from Alfred D. Greene, of New York City, proprietor of "Six Point Lodge," at Paudash Post Office, Ontario. Mr. Greene is a newspaper man and journalist in New York and has built this lodge in the north country for men of the same profession.

In writing to F. G. Stinson, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, he thanked him for sending the copy of the "booster talk" that he gave for the Kawartha Lakes district at Station WOR at the time he was attending the Motor Boat Show in New York City. It seems that Mr. Greene also speaks over this same station, and the next time that he does so, he promises that his talk will be on this subject of inducing tourists to come to the great outdoors of Northern Ontario.

Mr. Greene states that $19,000 is to be spent on the roads up north and so provide better accommodation for visitors to that part of the Province. He will make a visit to the city shortly and purchase canoes and procure some signs that will enable tourists to find the location of and to visit his lodge.

BOYS' WEEK, ETC.

$10 to you in future life. We often hear men say when they have reached maturity if they could only talk; so, boys, never miss the opportunity to stand on your feet and express yourself, or we learn to do by doing.

The second H is Health, which is often called organic vigor and pep. Boys observe health habits, habits of eating the right things, at the right time, habits of sleeping and breathing. I have no quarrel with the full grown man who smokes cigarettes, but the fellows who are doing the best [illegible]-day are those who did not smoke until they were at least 21. He must develop himself physically for it the flabby muscled boys who goes to the back. The boy who goes about with his head up and his shoulders back is the one who overcomes temptation, for there is a close connection between a fellow's posture and his mind. As a boy plays so will he live; if he can be trusted to play fair he will be square in his dealing with men in future life.

"The third H is Heart; it is written that those who are pure in Heart shall see God and with God is connected goodness. It is only the fool who says there is no God. We must follow God's laws no matter what our religion is, for your church needs you and you need your church.

"The fourth and last H is Hand—always to do the other fellow the kind of thing you would like that fellow to do to you. Do not hate a fellow—try and make him your friend.

Be ye Doers.

In conclusion, to-night, when you go home, think of the fellow you would like to be when you are 21, and try to be like him in the ensuing years, and I will guarantee that this boys' week in Peterboro will have been a real success to you because at this night's meeting you got the picture of the fellow you want to be at 21. Be ye doers, not hearers only.

Three rousng cheers were given to the speaker when he sat down. Tom Hutton and A. L. Killaly [illegible] thanked the speaker for his fine address, and the other entertainers who had made the evening such success.

POWERFUL POLISH

IRVINE, Ky., May 10—Sam Smith, farmer, read a recipe for making shoe polish, concocted the mixture according to directions and placed it on the stove to boil. The polish exploded, knocking out part of the ceiling, part of the floor, all of the windows. Sam gets his shines in town now.

SAYS EXPORT, ETC.

had been a party to demands which were made upon him for money.

Witnesses examined yesterday dealt with the Port of Hamilton and outports in evidence which was not sensational. Counsel followed the usual process of examining the port officers, beginning with the Hamilton customs collector, Robert Colvin. In the afternoon, Mr. Rowell started off with the provincial police inspectors, who dealth with specific seizures of liquor and beer which they had made in Ontario. Inspector G. F. Airey, of Niagara Falls, told about a number of "finds" of liquor on premises of farmers. In the first instance he described a seizure of approximately 170 bottles of whiskey, which he discovered at the side of a road.

"Evidently it had been left there for someone to pick up," he commented.

Seized on Highway.

The name of "J. Penna," prominent in the Toronto hearings, again came before the Commission yesterday afternoon. Yesterday, however, the Commission discovered a real "J. Penna" while in Toronto he was merely a name to which shipments of liquor were made in the United States. Inspector Taber, of the provincial police, told of seizing a truckload of liquor on the Hamilton-Kitchener highway. The driver was equipped with export papers to "J Penna, Wilson, New York." Inspector Taber told how he had seen Rocco Perri, of Hamilton, on the road in a car just before he came on the truck, which was seized. When he seized the truck, he returned to the place where he had seen Perri, but the Hamilton man had disappeared.

"Later," said Inspector Taber, "he came and offered to run the truck for me. We have often seen the truck at the rear of Mr. Perri's garage."

Inspector Airey filled in some of the gaps in the story. He told of a trip which he made to Wilson, N.Y., in an effort to locate the mysterious "J. Penna," to whom large quantities of liquor are supposedly shipped. He found that Wilson was a place of approximately 800 people, and that prominent citizens there absolutely failed to recognize J. Penna as belonging to them, either in the present or the past. Then, said Inspector Airey, he pursued his search in the City of Buffalo, and there he found a J. Penna, who accepted the name as his. But this Mr. Penna denied that the shipment of liquor was for him.

"I asked him if he knew Rocco Perri," stated Inspector Airey. "He said 'Yes.' I then asked him if he had given Rocco Perri authority to use his name."

"He replied that he had not."

Evidence given before the Commission in Toronto was to the effect that telephone orders in the name of J. Penna for liquor had been transmitted over the Rocco Perri telephone. At present the Perri's are not available to explain these matters.

Inspector Airey's seigure of liquor included one made in a granary. The farmer who owned the granary, he said, "denied that it was his liquor although it was under lock and key." Again, he found some liquor in a root house on a farm.

"The farmer claimed that a man had broken down, and he took compassion on him and allowed him to put the liquor in his root house," was the explanation.

Once again, a consignment of liquor was found under a trapaulin and some hay in a man's orchard. "This man didn't know anything about it," said the witness.

"There seems to have been a lot of ignorant people," Mr. Rowell commented.

Examine Officials

J. H. Spence, Collector of Customs at Brantford, told the Commission that he had a staff of twenty, with two assistant appraisers. The value of imports at Brantford in the fiscal year 1925-26 he gave as $7,234,502, and the revenue collected during the same period as $1,091,330. It would run about $1,150,000 in 1926-27. His staff was sufficient to handle the work of the port, he said.

There had been about 35 excise seizures during the past three years, Mr. Spence said. These covered seizures of illicit stills, and also of alcohol. The alcohol which was in "American one-gallon cans" had been sold chiefly to the foreign population.

"How many home-brew permits have you at Brantford?" asked R. L. Calder, K.C., who was examining this witness.

"About 1,160," Mr. Spence replied. He said that the customs officer on duty at the Bixell Brewery in Brantford, was an old experienced officer who was thoroughly conversant with his duties. He believed that the main consignee of this brewery was the Bermuda Export Company. Evidence before the commission shows that this company handles the export product of the majority of Ontario breweries. The Bixell Brewery had been penalized once some time ago in connection with non-labelling, he stated.

The examination of William Comerford, customs and excise enforcement officer at Brantford since 1925 was conducted by R. B. Law, assistant counsel. Mr. Comerford said that he had been a commercial traveller prior to entering the service.

"When you were appointed, did anyone come down to see you?" asked Mr. Law.

"No," replied Mr. Camerford.

"How did you receive instructions as to your duties?"

The witness said that he had read the customs act and customs circulars. He had not been supplied with a writ of assistance, and he had made two seizures without one.

"One of my seizures was cancelled," he informed counsel.

"What do you mean by that?"

Mr. Comerford said that he had made a seizure of some "Chinese tonic" which contained, he thought, an unnecessarily high alcoholic content. Ottawa, however, ruled otherwise and he was instructed to let the tonic pass. He had never paid a visit to Ottawa to consult his chief, the witness said, and he had never had a visit from Ottawa. He simply read up his Customs Act and regulations and acted under them.

In earlier testimony, A. E. Nash, of Clarkson, Gordon and Dilworth, commission auditors, gave the duty collected at Hamilton in 1926 as approximately $3,500,000, and the imports during the same year as approximately $38,000,000.

Comparing the staff of appraisers here, and that in Toronto, Mr. Law suggested that a Toronto port must be under-staffed. Customs duties collected in Toronto, he thought, amounted to about sixty millions a year.

Mr. Nash said that he had not the Toronto figures before him and could not be positive as to what they were.

BANQUET HELD

the boys and girls of today are better in every respect than those of twenty-five years ago. Going back to his own boyhood, he told that he used to live between Toronto and Hamilton where the boys did not compare in any respect to the present boyhood and girlhood.

"But it was not the fault of the boys, for they had no means of learning anything different", Mr. Statten said, "for there were no men interested in the lives that their boys were living, thus they had either to shape their own lives or go to the bad.'

"Men in those days ran temperance lodges and participated in the work of Sunday schools, but did not take any interest whatsoever in the weekly activities of boys," said Taylor Staten, "or the boyhood of past years would have registered up to the present average of good clean lads." He stated that men of today seem to be a pal to their boys and do not grow old as in former times. Mr. Statten then related a trip to a town of some twelve thousand population, in 1911, to study the problem of boyhood. On approaching the minister of a church in the town, he asked how the boys of his Sunday school attended classes. The preacher was satisfied, but on inquiring into the matter, Statten found that out of five boys who attended school, two had dropped away from the attendance list and out of every five of employed boys three had stopped attending before they reached the age of eighteen.

Needs Men.

Mr. Statten then went on to say that Canada needs men to study how to combat with this problem. To illustrate this he told of a farmer who was only getting a small yield from a very good orchard, but was perfectly satisfied. A young man had recently graduated from the Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph came to the farmer and leased the place so as to produce a bigger yield. The farmer merely scoffed at such a foolish idea as scientific farming but their amazement was great when the yield for that year was treble any former yield that inexperienced hands had wrought. "Thus", said Taylor Statten, "we should learn to teach our boys in a scientific method so that five out of every five will learn to go "the right way," and no better way of making a beginning is shown that by the gathering of fathers and sons that are present tonight."

Mr. Logan, in moving a vote of thanks to Taylor Statten assured him that everyone would go away with the inspiration of living better lives.

Taylor Statten presented Jack Kirkland with a medal for the selling of bonds that aid this great work.

Before the address Mrs. Gerald McClelland gave two very humorous readings, and music for the banquet was provided by an orchestra under the direction of Martin Chenhall, and composed of Alex Johns, George Johns, Harry Chenhall, Ralph Clark, Gerald Dawson, Jack Factory, Perrin Clark, and B. Wiley.

BOWMANVILLE PUTS CLOCKS ON

Will Operate on Daylight Saving Time in Spite of Vote.

TOO MUCH CONFUSION.

BOWMANVILLE, Ont., May 10. — After a week of some people working on Standard Time and others on Daylight-Saving Time in this town, the Council met in special session on Saturday night and by a unanimous vote passed a resolution to issue a proclamation that Daylight-Saving Time be adopted in Bowmanville from midnight, Monday, May 19, continuing to September 25th.

Citizens, in a vote last January, rejected Daylight-Saving, but in the face of this several industries adopted fast time when Toronto moved the clocks on last week. Local merchants then circulated a petition agreeing to operate on Summer time. Many parents appealed to School Boards to follow suit. A straw vote was taken among [illegible] and Daylight-Saving was [illegible] 4 to 1. Under these cond[illegible]nt meeting of High and I[illegible]ol Boards was held on Fri[illegible] when a motion was passed requesting the Town Council to adopt Daylight-Saving Time.

TUESDAY, MAY 10, 1927.

. . . REPORTER OF THE NEW . . . REMEMBRANCER OF THE OLD AND TRIED . . . HERALD OF WHAT IS TO COME.

SAFETY FIRST.

Monday's newspapers, as a rule, contain the most pointed warnings against recklessness and the most effective propaganda in favour of safety first methods.

Week-end motoring is responsible for the condition, supplying as it does an alarming list of accidents.

Here are a few headlines gleaned from Ontario papers of yesterday's date that should help to bring about a general resolve to be careful:

"Two brothers killed as motor turns over."
"Battery acid burns face of girl in motor clash."
"Driver arrested following clash near St. Thomas."
"Walks in train path, Brantford girl killed."
"Boy injured when thrown from a bicycle."
"Woman and man hurt in a collision."
"Lady receives injuries when struck by a car."

TONIGHT'S CIRCUS.

May The Examiner once more urge its readers to show their interest in the activities of Boys' Week by attending the Boys' Week circus in the Brock Street Rink tonight.

There is no hesitation in saying that, judged simply as an entertainment, the circus is well worth a visit; it contains many features of interest and will prove a revelation in the demonstration it will give of the results of gymnasium training, as offered by the Y.M.C.A. physical department under the direction of Douglas Loomis.

In addition, the proceeds from the two nights of the circus are to be devoted to covering the expenses of Boys' Week, and patrons will thus have the satisfaction of seeing an unusual programme and at the same time of knowing that their 25c admission is being used to carrying out an unique programme in the interest of the boys of Peterborough.

There should be a capacity audience when the circus opens tonight with the usual grand entry of the performers.

BETTER PALS.

If Boys' Week leads to the fathers of Peterborough becoming closer pals with their own boys, the week's endeavour will achieve a remarkable success that will be lasting in its effects.

After all there is nothing a father can give his boy that is of more value than a little of his time.

Gifts of money, toys, even of automobiles, will not turn the trick; sometimes indeed they do positive harm.

Every boy, on the other hand, needs the friendly interest of his father in the things that appeal to boyish hearts.

He wants his father to share with him the thrill of the hit that won the ball game, the shot that meant victory at hockey, the spurt that carried with it first place in the swimming race.

The boy that comes home to a family too engrossed in what its adult members consider the major affairs of life to show any interest in his activities soon seeks companionship elsewhere, and sometimes, alas, he finds it under conditions that spell ultimate disaster.

Boys' Week is an opportune time for Peterborough's fathers to decide that they will be better pals.

AUSTRALIA'S NEW CAPITAL.

Canadians generally will unite in congratulating their brother members of the British Empire, the people of Australia, upon the formal opening of their new Federal capital at Canberra yesterday.

There is an interesting history to the selection of the new site.

When the Federal Government in Australia was first established Melbourne was selected as the temporary capital, and it has remained so until this time.

There was considerable jealousy between the representatives of Sydney and Melbourne, Australia's two largest cities, as to which should be selected as the capital, and finally a compromise was agreed upon, placing the permanent capital of the Commonwealth in New South Wales, but setting forth that the site should not be within 100 miles of Sydney.

This agreement led to the setting aside of the site of Canberra as a separate district, and that place from now on will be the seat of the Federal Government of Australia.

The Duke of York, in declaring the new temporary Parliament building open, was quite right in declaring that a new epoch has opened for the Commonwealth.

BAD BUSINESS.

Ottawa hears that the Imperial Tobacco Company has made application to the Department of Finance for a reduction of the excise tax on cigarettes down to the level imposed by the United States. This application, it is said, has been referred to the Advisory Board on Tariff and Taxation.

If the Department of Finance uses good sense it will grant the prayer of the petitioners. The chief reason for the smuggling of millions of cigarettes into Canada from the United States is the matter of price. And cigarettes are going to be smuggled just as long as the difference in the price of American and Canadian smokes remains as marked as it is at this moment. This is only human nature and all the tariff regulations in the world will not stop the smuggling.

The object of increasing the excise tax on cigarettes and other forms of tobacco some years ago was, of course, to raise additional revenue. In recent years, however, it is said that the high impost has worked just the other way. In other words, according to authorities on the subject, the Government has received less total revenue, by hundreds of thousands of dollars, under the high rate than it received when the rate was lower. How anyone can look upon this as good business is past all explanation. And why this condition has been allowed to continue nobody seems to know.

The reasons for the decrease of cigarette revenue are easy to locate. Many persons started "rolling their own," some quit smoking cigarettes altogether and countless more commenced "importing." When a cigarette sells at two packages for a quarter in the city of Detroit and in many other American points, and at from 35 to 50 cents a package in Canada—depending upon where one happens to buy—it is almost asking the impossible to expect people to pay the three-or-four-times-as-much rate if there is a chance for them to smuggle.

The present high tax on Canadian cigarettes is a tremendous handicap to Canadian manufacturers and to Canadian tobacco dealers. And it means, in addition, that the Government is losing a great deal of revenue each year that it would have saved had ordinary business judgment been shown in fixing taxation rates. One of the unfortunate phases of the situation, now, is that the high rate of duty existing for some years has resulted in many Canadian smokers developing a taste for certain American brands. It will take some little time to overcome this handicap, but it can be done if excise duties are lowered and Canadian cigarette prices brought down to a level with American. This change should be made at once for the three obvious reasons already mentioned: Increased Government revenue, increased Canadian manufacture and sales, and last, but certainly not least, a better deal for the public.—Border Cities Star.

IS THE UNITED STATES A GOOD NEIGHBOR?

(From The Minneapolis Journal.)

Is the United States a good neighbor? The question is rather to the fore these days. The United States is a good neighbor and has been, says Sir Robert Falconer, President of Toronto University, giving the Canadian point of view.

Sir Robert cites the long standing amity between the two nations because of common elements of their populations. He shows that the key to the development of both has been the frontier and the westward movement, in which people, homes, schools, churches and railroads have spread from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Canada and the United States have had their differences over the determination of boundaries, over bank and shore fishing, over the interpretation of treaties. But always resort has been had to commissions of adjustment, to arbitration or to judgments rendered by The Hague tribunal.

The interdependence of Canada and the United States makes for good-will. Each needs the other. Ontario gets her coal from Pennsylvania, while this country relies upon Canada for paper, and may before long rely on her for supplies of wheat and fish. Because the United States has been so good a neighbor, Canada, first-born of the British Empire, Sir Robert points out, has become the chief interpreter of the New World to the Old, of the United States to Britain and of Britain to America.

Turn now to Mexico, Chile, Peru or Brazil, and ask if the United States is a good neighbor. Their answer is likely to be, "Not particularly."

In the first place, their prejudice was set by the Mexican War, waged nearly a century ago in the face of divided sentiment in this country. That war did not foster our good reputation among the peoples to the south of us. It gave us California and a great stretch of territory north of the present boundary, and it brought to Mexico fifteen million dollars for the loss of her fairest provinces and to cancel all claims which the citizens of this country had against her. Despite the fact that Mexico was the immediate aggressor in the conflict, it tended to arouse a more intense suspicion and fear in Central and South America, of what the doctrine of manifest destiny might mean.

And then the Monroe Doctrine has not inspired the friendship that it might or should in the republics to the south of us. As first promulgated, it was a firm and pacific protest by the United States against interference on the part of the monarchic powers of Europe with the affairs of the Western hemisphere. Its purpose was the protection of republican institutions, and the Central and South American countries have profited from it, but they have continued to regard it as an unjustifiable manifestation of paternalism on the part of this country.

President Wilson's refusal to recognize Huerta and the new policy he advanced of non-recognition as a means of discouraging governments established by force and violence, did not add to the popularity of the United States in countries whose governments have not been any too stable or secure.

It is evident that the question whether the United States is a good neighbor, depends upon the point of view. The whole matter of good neighborliness between nations, as between individuals, is conditioned upon certain likenesses of mind and method, upon keeping order and security in the back yard as well as in the front yard, upon care in trespassing, upon mutual confidence and the willingness to co-operate and be patient in little things, as well as in great matters.

SOME GOOD RULES ON EATING

1. Each meal should be made as simple as possible with the smallest number of combinations of food-stuffs. Variety must be introduced at the different meals, however, so as not to repeat a certain food, unless it is especially preferred.
2. Do not eat unless you are hungry for plain, simple food. It is always possible to develop a false appetite by the use of condiments, pickles, etc.; but this must not be mistaken for real hunger, and the one needing such stimulation does not need food.
3. Three well-balanced meals a day seems to be the best rule to follow, although those who are inclined to be stout should only eat breakfast and dinner, eliminating lunch entirely, or using some one of the acid fruits.
4. Do not make a practice of eating when you are tired. Lie down and relax for a half-hour before meals, and you will get more good from your food and suffer less from digestive disturbances.
5. Do not drink much water during the meal. If your saliva does not flow freely it is because you are not hungry, and should not be eating at all. Do your water drinking between meals.
6. If you miss a meal or two you may suffer from temporary constipation, and must take enemas for a day or two.
7. Do not use too many concentrated foods at one meal. Supply plenty of roughage through using the non-starchy vegetables, cooked and raw.
8. Most people can use one or two eggs daily, and also one-quarter to one-half pound of meat. This is not too much protein if enough exercise is taken.
9. Serve yourself only a small amount of each article of food so you may keep your combinations correct and not over-eat on any particular food. For a while cut your quantity of food to one-half of what you have been using. As a rule people eat at least twice too much; therefore, they live on one half of what they eat and the doctor and undertaker on the other half. No one ever starved to death on a small amount of food as long as the food was of the proper quality.
10. Remember that starches and sugars are the most dangerous foods and should be either greatly reduced in your diet or eliminated all together. If you are not perfectly well, cut out the starch and substitute green vegetables. When patients consult me personally, no matter from what disorder they are suffering, they are always put on a diet entirely free from starches and sugars.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 10 (Canadian Press).—Freezing temperatures predicted for Nebraska and Kansas last night, with complaints of seeding delay northwest and crop damage southwest gave wheat a decided upturn yesterday. here was also buying on correct belief that the government crop report would prove bullish. Wheat closed strong, 1½ to 2½ cents net higher; corn ¼ to ¾c up; oats at ¼ decline to 3-8c advance, and provisions varying from 17c drop to a rise of 2 cents.

Corn and oats rallied with wheat and as a result of wet weather interference with corn planting.

Provisions reflected downturns in the value of hogs.

STERLING EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, May 10 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

Demand $4.85 1-8.
Cables $4.85 9-16.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, May 10 (Canadian Press).—The demand for cash grain in the domestic market was of a very limited character but the undertone was firm and prices were fully maintained.

A stronger feeling developed in Spring wheat flour and prices were marked up 10 cents a barrel. A moderate amount of business was done. Winter wheat flour was unchanged.

Trading in all lines of millfeed was fairly brisk and stocks revealed a firm undertone. The market for standard grades of oats showed no change.

A firm feeling prevailed in the egg market. Business was brisk with prices unchanged. The receipts were 2,371 cases.

A firm undertone was in evidence in the potato market. The demand was good with sales of odd cars of Quebec white stock at $2 per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, ex-track.

Trading in butter was quiet, with prices slightly higher. Receipts were 620 packages.

The tone of the cheese market was firm. Trading was inactive. No. 1 white was quoted at 16 1-4c per pound. Receipts were 899 boxes.

MANUAL FOR BEGGARS.

A book found in the pocket of a beggar arrested in Paris was called "A Manual for the Use of Beggars." There's already a movement on foot in this country among the fathers of college students to suppress the volume. . . . What beggars really need, of course, is not so much a manual as manual labor. . . . If the book were introduced in America the title could be changed to "Manual for Oil Stock Salesmen," and it would go over big. . . . The strange thing about it all is that they should arrest a beggar in Paris. We thought they elected all their beggars foreign ministers.

Canoe Upsets in Turbulent Part of Winnipeg River Near Kenora.

COMPANION SAVED.

KENORA, May 10.—Caught in the swollen racing waters of The Dalls, a narrow stretch of the Winnipeg River, Pearce Proudlock, Kenora High School boy, was drowned. Pearce and a companion, Maurice Webster, were making a trip by canoe up the Winnipeg River to Minaks, 20 miles distant from Kenora. The waters of the river are swollen by the 43,000 cubic feet per second spilled into it from the Norman Dam by order of the International Commission.

The boys were attempting to pass through The Dalls, a narrow gorge, and the most turbulent part of the river, when the canoe overturned. Both boys after a hard struggle gained a high rock, but Pearce was too exhausted to clamber up, and fell back into the water.

D'ANGELO TO HAVE SECOND HEARING

Appellate Court Quashes Conviction on Manslaughter Charge.

TORONTO, May 10.— A new trial has been ordered by the First Divisional Court at Osgoode Hall in the case of Bert D'Angelo, who was convicted of manslaughter at the Milton Assizes and sentenced to four years in Kingston Penitentiary by Mr. Justice Rose.

Accused was the only one convicted out of 30 arrested in connection with "poison alcohol" charges in the Province.

In the opinion of Chief Justice Mulock it is not unlawful to sell potaable alcohol, either under the Criminal Code or the common law.

Sir William's Views.

"While such selling might be an infraction of Provincial legislation," says his Lordship, "it is not unlawful in the sense of that unlawfulness which is a necessary element in determining whether an act amounts to manslaughter. In the present case, if the accused honestly believed that he was selling potable alcohol, or was not criminally negligent in selling wood alcohol for grain alcohol, he was not, in my opinion, guilty of manslaughter, and I am, therefore, unable to agree with the law as given to the jury. The jury, I think, should have been told that if the accused honestly believed that what he sold was grain alcohol, and had been guilty of no negligence in reaching such belief, it was their duty to acquit."

In a separate judgment, Mr. Justice Ferguson expresses the opinion that the questions whether or not D'Ahgelo knew that the liquor was poisonous, or whether or not he was negligent, were questions for the jury rather than for the trial Judge, and that the verdict could not be supported without the opinion of the jury on these questions.

"The O.T.A. is not in pith and substance an act designed and intended to prevent injury to the person by prohibiting the supplying or consumption of intoxicating liquor, but is rather an act designed and intended to only regulate or limit the consumption of liquor by prohibiting its sale for beverage purposes, and consequently, in the circumstances of this case, the trial Judge should have instructed the jury that if D'Angelo did not konw that the liquor he sold was injurious, he should be acquitted unless the jury were of opinion that he had been reckless or grossly negligent."

Justice Hodgins, in a dissenting judgment, holds to the view that the circumstances of the case fully warranted the learned trial Judge in charging the jury that if they found that the prisoner had sold wood alcohol to Maybee, an unlawful act was committed, resulting in the death of Maybee, and he would, therefore, affirm the conviction.

Jubilee Preparations

(Notes by the Secretary of the Central Committee.)

On Monday afternoon, a meeting of members of the executive committee of the First of July Demonstration, and of many ladies of the Council of Women, was held at the City Council Chamber, to hear reports from Mrs. Stevenson, who had been in communication with several of the promoters and companies engaged in putting on pageants in the province. As may be surmised, these latter are all unusually busy just now, with the demands from many points seeking such attractions.

As the Council of Women, with approval of the Executive, had agreed to look after the proposed pageant in its many details, the several propositions were pretty thoroughly canvassed from all angles. One proposition, sent in by letter, was that the pageant should not be presented on Dominion Day evening, and on the evening following, but deferred until a week or ten days afterwards. This was not viewed favorably, as if adopted it would necessitate the providing of other attractions for these evenings. And, besides, the ultimate cost seemed rather excessive.

After thorough discussion, it was resolved that Dr. J. J. Craig (chairman of the parade committee), and Mrs. Stevenson, with possibly one other, should go to Toronto and personally interview the promoters of the several pageants; discuss the situation, tell of the situation here, and get all information at first hand. Then they will report to a general meeting of the executive and the Women's Council and reach a decision.

Locked up in the proposition is a deal of work for the ladies, on preparation of costumes, etc., many of which would have to be made locally. It is hoped that by the end of this week a definite conclusion will have been reached as to the pageant.

The men of the Orange Order have assumed the work of erecting one of the decorative arches and will meet to perfect plans and arrange for the work of erection when the time comes. With the Engineers' Club committeed to building an arch it is open for two other organizations to come forward and join in this distinctive feature of the day's decoration scheme. The Council has given permission to make use of the streets for these purposes. What about the Golf Club, men of action and resource. The Scotchmen of the city should be heard from. The Knights of Columbus, if they have not arranged for other patriotic display, could worthily build such an arch as would grace the Day and the Display.

* * *

So far, nothing has been heard from the Board of Education in the way of addition to the civic display, while the City Council seems still in doubt. But Mayor Holloway may spring something good on the general plan presently.

* * *

Peterborough Masonic Lodge, on Friday evening last, named a committee to consider the preparation of a float, featuring the Fathers of Confederation. As the Masonic Order is much older than the above-named Fathers, something may be expected in recognition of the Day and the Event.

* * *

Letters are coming in replying to an enquiry sent to all villages in the district as to probability of each or any holding celebrations on their own account. One letter from Keene says that nothing such is contemplated and that the information that so far, the indications are that every wheel in Keene and Otonabee will be turning in the direction of Peterborough on July 1st, next. The folk in the district expect a big day and propose to see it.

* * *

The Decorations Committee, with T. O. Donaldson as chairman, are setting out on a canvas to get assurances from merchants, hotels, and places of business that fine displays of bunting and other forms of decoration will be undertaken. The ample electric light display, as planned will be at the expense of the general finances, and it, if carried out, will be noticeably good. It is proposed, with the consent of the local Hydro office, to hang the lamps from the dis-used street car cable, thus illuminating both sides of George Street, its entire length from Smith Street to the Exhibition Grounds.

* * *

Rotary Club has been asked to provide one of the arches, and a committee will be appointed to discuss and reach a conclusion. The Club can easily do the city proud if it bends its energies to the proposition. A fine form in which to display the Rotary Wheel.

TRUMP VALUES.

The partner counts only the three highest honors, A, K, Q, as of any value in assisting bids, therefore the expression "honors" refers to them in what follows.

When the dealer starts with a bid of one in a suit, he can not be credited with more than five cards in that suit, and may have only four. It is therefore important for his partner to warn him if he will find dummy with only one or two small trumps, which might leave anywhere from six to eight against him. Just as the dealers expects to find three tricks in his partner's hand, so he expects to find at least three small trumps, or an honor and one small. This is called "normal" assistance, and must not be counted, as it is included in the dealer's bid, just like three tricks.

But there are certain ways in which trumps may be valuable. In the first place, there may be more than normal assistance, which is valued as follows:

Four small trumps are worth 1 trick. One honor and two small are worth 1 trick. Two honors and two small are worth 2 tricks.

Five trumps are worth no more than four, unless something can be done with them besides following suit to the dealer's trump leads. If the partner has a singleton, or a missing suit he may count on his ability to ruff such a suit as follows:

Ruffing 1st round, holding only 3 trumps, 2 tricks. Ruffing 2nd round, holding 3 or 4 trumps, 1 trick. Ruffing 1st and 2nd rounds, with 4 trumps, 3 tricks.

Ruffing both 1st and 2nd rounds is not counted upon when holding only three trumps, because trumps may have to be led before dummy can be given second chance.

Holding less than normal assistance in trumps, such as one or two small only, the dealer should be warned by "denying" his suit if possible. This may be done by naming any five-card suit, or any four-card suit containing three tricks, or by going to no-trumps with good cards in the three other suits.

As examples of counting the partners hand, take the following, the dealer bidding one heart, second hand one spade:

H. xxx; C. A J 10x; D. xxx; S. xxx.

There is no assist, as the hand contains only normal trump assistance, can not trump anything, and contains nothing but the three tricks included in the dealer's bid.

H. xxx; C. A K xx; D. xxxxx; S. x.

This is worth two assists, as there are four in clubs, and the ability to ruff the 2nd round of spades is equal to a king, or one trick. (It is an excellent plan to put a trump alongside a singleton, to remind you that it is as rood as the king of that suit.)

H. xxxx; C. A xxx; D. Q J xxx; S. —

This is a jump assist, even at auction. At contract it is an immediate advance to four hearts. The extra trump is worth 1; the ace of clubs 2; and the ability to ruff both 1st and 2nd rounds of spades, 3 more.

It should be remarked in passing that the original bidder never counts on ability to ruff a suit, but counts only on ability to exhaust trumps by leading them. The five highest trumps in the pack are worth only five tricks, whether they win tricks by leading trumps or by trumping other suits. Seven trumps to the ace-king-queen is seven trump leads, ot three leads and four ruffs, but never more than seven tricks.

The partner, on the other hand, counts the fourth trump as a trick, because if the dealer has five, valued as four tricks, and dummy was four, the dealer may catch all the adverse trumps in two leads, and make five tricks in trumps by leading, while dummy can still make one or two more by ruffing.

There are many cases in which the partner of the dealer can bid another suit instead of increasing the bid in the dealer's suit, just to show exactly where tricks can be won. If the dealer bids two spades, for example, and you go to four on ace king of diamonds and four spades, he does not know exactly what you are assisting on. But if you bid three diamonds he does. If you bid three diamonds because you have not a diamond in your hand, it shows the same thing.

Theatres

AT THE CAPITOL.

"MIDNIGHT LOVERS."

Lewis Stone and Anna Q. Nilsson have the stellar roles in "Midnight Lovers," the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for the first three days of this week. As Bill Ridgewell, a famous war ace and daredevil hero, and as Diane Fothergill, they stage a sudden marriage in London in June of 1918, after having known each other for only the two weeks of Bill's furlough. Diane grows ill at the thought of flying, but Bill delights in it, so they depart on an aerial honey moon, which proves a complete flop, owing to the bride's dislike of aerial travel. Then she finds that their apartment has been furnished throughout to correspond with Bill's taste for war-like decorations, and, at his departure to the front, sends for an interior decorator to come and change her environment.

Later, Diane's aunt pays a surprise visit to France and discovers Bill in a flirtation with a French girl. She informs Diane, and the latter makes arrangements for a separation. When Bill returns to London, and is repulsed by his wife, he goes on a drunken spree and returns to his own apartment later on, to add a comedy touch to the situation by his actions. Diane has formed a friendship with Ffolliott, the interior decorator, in the meantime, but gradually matters straighten themselves out and the path of the "Midnight Lovers" runs smooth once more.

AT THE REGENT.

"UPSTAGE," MISS SHEARER'S BEST, SCORES TRIUMPH.

"Upstage," Norma Shearer's latest starring vehicle, scored a literal triumph last night at the Regent Theatre. It is something so new, so entertaining, that it is astonishing.

The story is the "inside" of vaudeville life—its players are all vaudeville folk, on the stage, in booking agencies, in actors' boarding houses—it shows people who are literally a little world in themselves—children of the night who play while others sleep.

Norma Shearer plays the feminine half of a song and dance team—a wistful bit of humanity when in trouble—a gorgeous creature indeed when in glittering gowns she parades in the spotlight.

Author Knows Vaudeville.

Walter De Leon, the author, knows what he writes about. He was a vaudeville player himself, for many years, until his fiction of the vaudeville stage won him recognition as a novelist. Monta Bell, who directed the picture, has produced vaudeville acts—he was thoroughly at home on the story.

It is a comedy drama played by actor folk. There are laughs galore, with a romance, a few heart throbs—and even a thrill. It is intensely human.

The settings, showing a reproduction of a big vaudeville theatre; a reproduction of the Pennsylvania station in New York, and other incidentals, border at times on the spectacular. The rehearsal scene, with real vaudevillians preparing their acts is one of the most realistic affairs ever screened.

DELEGATES NAMED BY WARSAW W.M.S.

Three Ladies To Attend Meeting of Presbyterial—Warsaw News.

WARSAW, May 10.—The United Church Missionary Society met at Mrs. Robert Paynes home on Thursday afternoon. The delegates to the Presbyterial are Mesdames Robert Moore, George Taylor, and Arthur Edwards.

Mr. Herrington will go, not as a delegate, but to reply to the address of welcome.

Mrs. Moore read a paper explaining the meaning and use of the Womans Foreign Missionary Society. Mesdames Roland Payne and Arthur Edwards sang a duet. Lunch was served by group "C".

The rainy weather stopped seeding operations for a few days.

On Wednesday some school children returning home saw two dogs with a lamb on Edward's Brothers pasture. They phoned and Mr. Edwards went out and found the sheep in a panic, and one little dead lamb near the spring.

They saw the dogs but at too great a distance to recognize them. It was the first time the sheep had been taken out and they had been away scarcely an hour.

The actual value of a little dead lamb is not so much, from one point of view, but after a lamb is a few days old the probability it will live, if it is allowed to. With practically no expense the lamb is worth ten dollars. The expense is wintering and caring for the flock, and if lambs are lost, the profit turns to loss.

Saturday was a good growing day, the best of the season.

An Armenian boy was placed with Fred Clifford on Friday. That makes six in the community. Five go to Warsaw school and one to Forsythe school, and all go to the same Sunday school.

LAKESHORE LEAGUE TO CONSIDER PETES

O. B. A. A. Officials Will Attend Next Meeting of Executive.

OSHAWA, May 10. — The secretary of the Lake Shore Senior Baseball League sent out notices yesterday that all playing certificates must be in P. B. Stevenson's hands at New Toronto, on or before Saturday, May 14, when the executive will meet to pass on the same, and any player's certificate not presented to be countersigned by the secretary, will not be eligible for the opening games, Oshawa at New Toronto, on Saturday, May 21, or Goodyears at Oshawa Motors, on the holiday, May 24th.

Arthur Hillmer, of Oakville, chairman of the sub-committee, and Past-President W. J. Smith of Toronto, who were appointed by the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association to confer with the Lake Shore officials as to the Peterboro request to be allotted playing dates in the regular league schedule, will attend the meeting.

If no satisfactory arrangement can be made, Peterboro will be given a bye in the league, and will play a series of best three in five games, with the winner of Goodyears, Oshawa Motors or New Toronto, to determine which team shall represent the Lake Shore League in the Senior playdowns of the O.B.A.A.

KEENE AND LANG TEAM COMPETE

Boys' Baseball Game Is Tied, Five All—Keene Girls Win.

Keene, May 10. — On Friday afternoon Keene school paid a friendly visit to Lang. During the afternoon two ball games were played. The first game resulted in a tie score, 5 to 5. The line up was as follows:

Keene: J Melling, M McFarlane, H Stillman, B Wood, J Gall, R Rennie, S Comrie, C Weir, R Richardson, subs, Brown and Wedlock.

Lang: C Redpath, M McIntyre, J Elmhirst, V Speirs, S Miller, O Fife, F Miller, E Walsh, M Weir.

Following this game the Keene girls defeated Lang by a score of 7 to 2. The line up was:

Bertha McCarthy, Edith Nelson, Mary McCarthy, Katherine McCarthy, Margaret Dinsdale, Kathaleen Nelson, Marjorie Brown, Roberta Gainor, Marion Gillespie; sub., Lois McCarthy.

Eileen Donaldson Marion Renwick, Helen Weir, Isobel Davis, Eva Miller, Vera Elliott, Kathaleen Walsh, Margaret Miller and Alison Weir.

EFFEMINATE GUNMEN.

CHICAGO, May 10.—A new vogue among the better class of well-dressed Chicago gunmen is a ducky little automatic in a severely plain holster to be worn on the wrist. Fashion leaders of the underworld's Four Hundred pronounce the novelty a great convenience, since it allows a very snappy draw. Considerable amusement is furnished when, with the hands in the elevated position, the gunman produces the pistol from his sleeve and shoots an unsuspecting enemy.

A POWERFUL URGE TO BE DIFFERENT APPEARED IN SAMUEL COLT WHEN HE WAS ONLY 15 YEARS OLD. TIRING OF SCHOOL IN AMHERST, MASS., HE RAN AWAY, GOT A JOB ON A SHIP SAILING TO FAR-OFF INDIA AND CARVED THE FIRST MODEL OF A COLT REVOLVER.

A SAILOR'S LIFE HAS ITS DISADVANTAGES AND COLT WAS KEEN TO PERCEIVE THEM. RETURNING TO THE UNITED STATES HE OBTAINED WORK WHICH PERMITTED MANY SPARE HOURS OF EXPERIMENTING. HE WAS 23 WHEN THE GOVERNMENT DECIDED TO USE HIS FIREARMS AGAINST THE SEMINOLE INDIANS OF FLORIDA.

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

BUT ALTHOUGH THE REVOLVERS PLEASED THE TROOPS, THE GOVERNMENT QUIT BUYING THEM AT THE END OF THE INDIAN WARFARE. THE RESULT WAS THAT 10 YEARS LATER WHEN THE GOVERNMENT WANTED MORE COLT PISTOLS FOR GENERAL ZACHARY TAYLOR IN HIS MEXICAN CAMPAIGN THERE WAS NONE TO BE HAD.

DESPITE HIS INABILITY TO FIND A SINGLE MODEL OF THE PISTOLS HE HAD FURNISHED FOR THE SEMINOLE FIGHTING, COLT SOON WAS PRODUCING MORE WEAPONS. THE GOLD RUSH OF '49 DEVELOPED, TOO, AND BUILT UP A REGULAR DEMAND FOR COLT REVOLVERS. THE GROWING BUSINESS SOON NECESSITATED THE CONSTRUCTION OF LARGE FACTORIES IN NEW HAVEN, CONN., WHERE COLT MADE MANY IMPROVEMENTS BEFORE HIS DEATH IN 1862.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story.

By Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE TICKLER

Copyright, 1927, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.
(By Howard R. Garis.)

Outside the door of the bungleump in the woods, where Uncle Wiggily was visiting Boppy, Um and the Wogglejigs, sounded a soft, fuzzy noise.

"Hark! What is that?" whispered Um, who had sharp ears.

"The wind!" answered Boppy.

"It may be Nurse Jane, coming to ask me to go back to my bungalow," spoke Uncle Wiggily. For Nurse Jane, being a muskrat lady, was quite wuzzy and she hade a fuzzy noise.

He heard the sound of laughter and shouting

"And it may be," whispered Um, with a little laugh, "the noise may be made by one of our little Wogglejig children trying to creep softly into our bungleump."

"Why would they do that?" asked Boppy. "They have gone to school."

"Perhaps one of them came back," said Um. But when she opened the door, to find out what had made the fuzzy noise on the door step, there was a dear little old caterpillar lady with a bonnet and shawl.

"Good morning," spoke the caterpillar lady in a soft voice. "Have you—"

"We don't want any needles or pins to-day, thank you," said Um, quickly but kindly. "Though if you are hungry I can give you some bread on jam," offered Um. "Most folks," added the little wooden creature, "give caterpillar ladies jam on bread, but I always give bread on jam, which is much better."

"Oh, much!" agreed the caterpillar lady. "But I didn't come for something to eat. I am looking for my little boy who is lost. I thought perhaps you had seen him."

"What is his name and what does he look like?" asked Uncle Wiggily, who was fond of hunting lost children.

"My boy's name is Tickler and he looks like me only smaller," answered the caterpillar lady. "Oh, dear! I'm afraid I shall never see my boy again," and she cried a few tears which made wet spots on her shawl.

"Now see here!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily kindly. "Don't worry any more. I am going adventuring, as I do every day, and I shall look for lost Tickler. When I find him I'll send him home. Where do you live?"

"In a knot hole in that old apple tree," answered Mrs. Scuzzy, which was the name of the caterpillar lady. "Oh, please find Tickler and send him home."

"I will!" promised the rabbit gentleman. "Now you crawl back home and don't worry. I'll find Tickler." So the caterpillar lady went to her knot hole home and Uncle Wiggily went adventuring, wondering why the little lost chap had such a funny name.

This way and that way through the woods hopped Mr. Longears, until, all of a sudden, he heard the sound of laughter and shouting.

"No—let him crawl on me!" cried one.

"No, it's my turn!" some one.

"Yes, let Wumple have a turn," a third voice begged.

"Dumple—Wumple!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily to himself. "Those are two of the Wogglejig boys. They haven't gone to school yet! I wonder what's the matter?"

Hopping on a little farther, the rabbit gentleman saw, sitting around a mossy, green stump, the three Wogglejigs, red, yellow and green in color. They were laughing in glee.

"What's going on over there?" called Uncle Wiggily. "What are you doing?"

"We have a tickler here and he is tickling us by crawling on our legs," answered Dumple. "We were going to school, and, all of a sudden, we saw this fuzzy little fellow crawling on the ground. And he crawled up my leg and he felt so funny I told Bumple. Then Tickler crawled on Wumple's leg and—"

"A little fuzzy chap—Tickler!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "This must be the lost caterpillar boy Mrs. Scuzzy is looking for. I've found him!"

And, surely enough the rabbit gentleman had. There was Tickler, crawling over the wooden legs of the Wogglejig boys, making them squirm in delight.

"Enough of this!" cried the rabbit. "You Wogglejig chaps skip along to school! I'm going to take Tickler home—he's lost."

"That's what I kept telling them when I was crawling on their legs," said the little caterpillar boy, "but they laughed so loudly they didn't hear me, I guess. But I'm glad you found me, Uncle Wiggily."

Mrs. Scuzzy thanked Mr. Longears very much for bringing lost Tickler home, so everything was all right, except that the Wogglejig boys were a little late for school. But the Lady Mouse Teacher forgave them.

A SHORT STORY

By H. D. Atkinson.

Shirley Tucker had wandered up and down Main Street window shopping and hardly conscious of what she saw. She stood now looking at a New Year's greeting:

"If the old year used you badly
Left you penniless or sad
May the New Year bright and sunny
Bring back all and make you glad."

Had the old year used her badly she thought: In a lot of ways. As a small girl Shirley had been left an orphan. She went to live with a miserly uncle who however gave her a good education with the strict understanding he was to be paid with interest. education with the strict understand- And he had been paid too. For the past four years Shirley held a good position as teacher at Central School but had deprived herself of necessities to pay her debt, and now that it was paid she hardly knew where or how to begin to enjoy life.

"I believe I will visit Madam Helene's beauty shop and get dolled up just for once to know what it feels like" mused Shirley and no sooner said than done, she was in an easy chair, covered with a large apron and a pretty attendant, creaming, powdering and shampooing. The girl was chummy and told Shirley of the many struggles she had had, and Shirley soon found herself confessing her own hard life.

"Oh, if I could just have one wish, I would love to be able to go away for two weeks and just pretend I was somebody, with no worries of any kind," said Shirley. The girls laughed and talked and finally, with skin, smooth as satin, and her beautiful auburn hair in little waves about her pretty featured face, Shirley decided she would have a new dress and new coat to add the finishing touch.

While waiting for her change, a very pretty lady, not unlike Shirley, came up to her and said, "I was in the next booth to you and I could not help hearing you two girls express your wishes. Now I do wish you could just make up your mind to impersonate me for a couple of weeks. My name is Justine Faye and I was to go down to the country to see an old aunty of mine, but oh dear, just now the only one I really care anything about, has received orders to go to India next week, and I do want to stay here, also I hate to disappoint Aunty. Oh, won't you please go? I will give you money, clothes and all if you will only go."

Shirley was bewildered. "Why, my dear, I couldn't go. Your aunt would know me as soon as she saw me and that wouldn't do."

"I forgot to tell you my aunt is blind and will never know the difference, and if you have nowhere to go, it will be a pleasure for you, and my aunt will not be disappointed. Please say you will go," Miss Faye explained.

At this juncture the attendant returned and before she realized, Shirley promised to see Miss Faye, that evening at her hotel.

Evening came and Shirley succumbed to Miss Faye's pleading and the next afternoon, saw her speeding to Miss Gleddon's home, beautifully dressed, plenty of money, well versed in Miss Faye's family affairs, but withal a very dubious heart.

Upon her arrival there, Miss Gleddon, a dear old lady of seventy, welcomed her so heartily that Shirley's fears were soon banished. She was shown to a beautiful guest room and soon after dinner was announced. After dinner, Miss Gleddon and her supposed niece went to the library and talked long about many family affairs.

Shirley passed muster fairly well and the old aunty was much in love with her. "My dear," she said, "you surely have improved since you were last here. You are so quiet and reserved. Have you given up your love for parties and gadding around or are you just trying to please an old woman for once."

Miss Gleddon's home was always open to visitors, but Shirley managed to escape meeting them, with the exception of one persistent young man, Jack Fellowes, who followed her out to the sun-room one day. "I sure got a surprise since I met you," said Jack. "Miss Gleddon's always been telling me the pace I would have to go to keep up to you, but this is no pace, if I can only keep track of you." Shirley only smiled, but said nothing.

Each day brought its own delight and joy for her and the two weeks would soon be brought to a close. Jack was her constant companion, now, in all their hikes, tennis, boating and other sports but, although she was sure he was fond of her, he never said anything until her last evening. Her social position worried him and Shirley, although she loved him very dearly, dare not betray her confidence and so they parted, he to go back as civil engineer and she to go on teaching.

Shirley was again at her old job as teacher but somehow things did not seem to slide along as easy as they might. Jack, always Jack, where was he, had he forgotten her!

One cold day she returned to her lonely rooms, imagine her surprise to find him in her living room.

"Oh, Jack," she faltered, "How did you know I was here. Do you know me, who I am. What——?" He covered her mouth with his hand. "Sure I know all about you now and believe me, it didn't take me long, to hunt up the real Justine Faye and make her pouy up."

After much rapturous explaining he showed her a marriage announcement he had received. "Why, that old guy she married, is my best pal, so, dear girl, just hurry up and quit your job and Justine the second will be handing out the same kind of announcements as Justine the first, only the bridegroom's name this time will be lucky Jack Fellowes."

HOFMANN'S FINGERS WIN DOUBLE FAME

Genius of Piano Has Invented More Than Sixty Useful Mechanical Devices.

Although Josef Hofmann is famed the world over as a musician, few probably are aware that he may justly claim fame as an inventor. In the fifty-one years since his birth in Cracow, Poland, he has invented more than sixty useful mechanical and electrical devices. These range all the way from folding skates and extension pedals for pianos to mechanical toys for his numerous children friends and from a frictionless air spring shock absorber for automobiles to a device to record automatically all the refinements of a master pianist's touch on a paper roll for a player piano.

"Next to my music, I get more pleasure out of my inventive work than out of anything else in the world except my friends," Hofmann said in a recent interview reported by Jack O'Donnell in the May issue of Popular Science Monthly. "There's a kick in overcoming a mechanical problem that thrills me as few other things do."

Hofmann's career as an inventor began at the tender age of nine. Even then he had displayed a remarkable talent as a pianist and was playing professionally as a "boy prodigy." His playing, though, was somewhat hampered by the fact that his legs were so short he couldn't reach the pedals. When nobody else came to the front with a remedy, young Hofmann turned his own attention to it.

One day he saw a "sandwich man" on stilts. This gave him an idea. He went home and promptly got busy in his grandfather's workshop. A few days later he had the plans of a set of extension pedals—an attachment that fastened to the pedals and extended upward high enough so that his feet made natural contact with it. He then designed a bench on which to rest his heels, using this as a full-grown pianist uses the floor. These extension pedals were used in all the boy's public concerts thenceforth until he "grew up."

Thirty-three years ago, when he built one of the first steam-driven automobiles seen in Germany, he became convinced that motoring would never become universally popular until some way was found to make cars comfortable. Then and there he began a series of experiments which resulted, a few years ago, in the invention of the air spring shock absorbers which bear his name and are used on thousands of motor cars in all parts of the world.

Hofmann says he is "not an inventor for profit."

"I invent things purely for my own pleasure. I like to investigate mechanical things to find out what makes them go. There is romance, surprise and a million delights in the game of inventing."

The latest brain-child of the great virtuoso-inventor is an apparatus to record automatically the pianistic touch on a paper roll such as is used on artistic player pianos. Technically speaking, it records the impact of the pianist's arms, wrists, hands or fingers on the keys of a piano, actuating a device which automatically will mark or perforate the music roll to correspond with the dynamic expression of the pianist's effort. The desired effect is to record exactly the shades of expression that differentiate the inspired playing of a master from the merely mechanical excellence of a trained musician.

An old custom at West Point calls for a general remitting of punishment whenever a royal visitor makes the request. Both Queen Marie and the Crown Prince of Sweden exercised this privilege when they visited the academy.

CONTINENTAL EUROPE PROVIDES CANADA WITH MANY SETTLERS

Highly Selective Process Needed in Dealing With Applicants.

OFFICES IN EUROPE.

Inspectors and Officials Serve Canada at Many Ports.

(This is the ninth of a series of articles on Canada and Immigration contributed by the Federal Department of Immigration and Colonization).

Although the British Isles have always been regarded as the chief source of immigration to Canada, Continental Europe, with its millions of agriculturists, affords a fruitful field for recruiting settlers. The necessity for a highly selective process in dealing with many races from many envoronments is self-evident, especially when it is remembered that the war has left in Europe an aftermath of refugee and unwanted nationals eager to emigrate to any country which may afford a haven of refuge.

To meet this situation the Canadian Department of Immigration and Colonization has established an inspectional service in Europe and has offices located at Antwerp, Danzig, Hamburg, Paris, Riga and The Hague, where Canadian Immigration officers seek to prevent the sailing to Canada of persons who should not be admitted, thus reducing the number of rejections at Canadian ports and the consequent hardship to the intending migrant. The immigration regulations require that all European continental immigrants shall be in possession of valid passports, which must be vised by a Canadian Immigration Officer stationed on the continent of Europe. This provision brings the immigrant into personal touch with the officer and provides a valuable check on the migration of insuitable or undesirable persons.

The adoption by the United States in May, 1921, of a quota law restricting the immigration to that country of European nationals, and the reduction of that quota which became effective on July 1st, 1924, have had important reactions upon the situation as it affects Canada. In 1914, for example, immigrants entering the United States totalled 1,218,480. Under the present quota restrictions the maximum number of quota immigrants in any year is 167,000. One result has been a increased demand on the part of Europeans for admission to Canada, not only of those who intend to become bona fide settlers, but also, unfortunately, of considerable numbers who hope to use Canada as a vantage point from which to effect entry, legal or illegal, to the United States. The system of European inspection adopted by the Department is reducing the latter movement to a minimum.

Broadly speaking, Europe may be divided into three areas, supplying different types of immigrants. The first area includes Western Europe from France in the south ot the Scandinavian countries in the north. The people of this section are mainly of a type accustomed to climatic conditions similar to those prevailing in Canada, and have been found by experience to make excellent settlers. Every encouragement is offered desirable immigrants from these countries.

The second section includes most of the countries of Central Europe. This district includes such countries as Poland, Jugo-Slavia, Czecho-Slovakia, Hungary, Russia ,Austria, Esthonia, Roumania, Lithuania and Latvia. Canada can absorb a considerable immigration of the agricultural type from these countries, provided they are assured of employment either as labourers on Canadian farms or as farmers on their own account. In order to promote this type of immigration from this area the department in 1925 entered into an arrangement with the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific Railway under which these companies recruit agricultural settlers in the countries specified, giving a two-fold guarantee to the Canadian Government, first, that the imigrants selected are of the agricultural type, and, second, that they will place them in farm employment in Canada. This, of course, does not in any way limit the right of the department to reject any of these proposed immigrants on grounds of health, character or general unfitness.

This third area of Europe includes mainly those countries bordering the Mediterranean. Immigrants of the agricultural class from these countries are admitted on compliance with the general provisions of the Immigration Act, but there is no special arangement for promoting such immigration.

While general immigration from the three areas of Europe is dealt with in the manner outlined, special movements arise from time to time which call for special treatment. A plan by which the Department undertakes to place a number of European farmers on the land in Canada provides that such families must have from $300 to $500 on arrival and must deposit with the Department from $200 to $400 for expenditure under departmental supervision in providing farm equipment. Another special movement is that of Mennonites from Russia who are settling in the prairie provinces under the auspices of a private organization—the Canadian Mennonite Board of Colonization. These Mennonites prove to be good settlers, amenable to Canadian laws and customs. Other movements include a highly educated class of Russians who were exiled from that country after the revolution and who are entering Canada by the Pacific, settling mainly in British Columbia and Alberta.

The question of immigration from continental Europe presents many problems and difficulties ,which are being worked out by the Department on the general principle that the ultimate good of Canada rather than any temporary advantage to the immigrant must govern both in the encouragement and in the admission of immigrants. With the strict observance of this principle it is believed that Canada can absorb a large immigration from Europe with advantage both to the Dominion and to the settler.

68 Miles Per Gallon In Public Test

Startling Invention Gets Miraculous Mileage and Starts Fords Instantly

GET ONE FREE!

Chicago, Ill.—The motor public was amazed recently when a Ford equipped with the new Blanche Thermostatic Control made 43.8 miles on one gallon of gas in an Official Public Test; 68 miles per gallon in another test. Average in 200,000 tests 32 miles per gallon, breaking world's record. The Blanche Control is entirely automatic and saves its small cost every few weeks as it is guaranteed to start coldest motor instantly in winriest weather, remove and prevent carbon, save half oil and increase speed, pep and power. Thermostatic Control used on Cadillac and Delco Light under Blanche License—another sure proof of merit. The Inventors want agents everywhere and will send one Control Free to introduce it to your community. Sales guaranteed. Agents made $1000 to $2000 a month. Free trial and Agents' Plan by which you can get new Ford Car free by time your present Ford is worn out will be sent at once to anyone who writes promptly to Blanche Auto Devices Co., Dept. 7-B. 357 E. NATIONAL WEALTH ABOUT 22 BILLIONS

Average Property Per Capita in Canada Now is $2,525.

OTTAWA, May 10 (Canadian Press).—Canada's national wealth is officially estimated at twenty-two billion dollars, which works out on the average at $2,525 per head. This is apart from undeveloped natural resources. There are no accurate figures available as to what the national wealth was at Confederation, but it is estimated at under one and a half billions. It is now, therefore, almost fourteen times what it was when Canada became a Dominion. Agricultural values make up about eight billions of the present total, urban real estate nearly six billions, the railways considerably over two billions.

MOUNT PLEASANT W.I. HAD GOOD YEAR

Reports Show Much Done By Branch—Officers Elected.

MOUNT PLEASANT, May 9.—The annual meeting of the Mount Pleasant branch of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Joshua Eggleston on Wednesday, May 4. The retiring president was in the chair and conducted the meeting.

An item of unfinished business, left over from the previous meeting, was brought up and discussed, that of the Tuxis boys, Cavan, who asked to put their play on under the auspices of the Women's Institute at Mount Pleasant. It was decided to invite them to come and the president, Mrs. Lowe, and Mrs. Rutherford were appointed the committee in charge. Several letters were read and discussed, one from the Neighborhood Workers' Association, Toronto, asking the members to open their homes to a couple of little children for a period of two weeks; no remuneration is offered; the homes taking the children would do so in a spirit of helpfulness. The children would be medically examined before leaving the city and the transportation arranged. A group of ten or fourteen could be sent at one time for a period of two weeks. A worker would take charge of the party going out and return for the children when their holiday was over. This matter will be discussed in the homes and decided at the next meeting.

A card of thanks was read from Mr. and Mrs. James Fee for flowers sent Norma when she was ill, and the many acts of kindness tendered them by the members.

Just before the election of officers took place, the president asked the members to stand, when a few moments' silent prayer was offered, after which Mrs. G. Shield also lad in prayer for a member who lay in a very critical condition.

At the conclusion of the business, the report of the year ending May 31, 1927, was read by the secretary, Mrs. G. Shield, and the treasurer, Mrs. T. C. Morden, read the treasurer's report, both of which showed many activities for the past year.

The following are the officers elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Ira Lowe (re-elected); vice-president, Mrs. Thos. Graham; sec., Mrs. Garnet Shields (re-elected); assistant secretary, Mrs. Rutherford; treasurer, Mrs. Clew Morden (re-elected); branch director, Mrs. Norman Fee; directors, Mrs. Henry Lowes, Mrs. John Handley, Miss Dorothy Paragreen; auditors, Miss Lena Finley, Mrs. George Jamieson; visiting sick committee, Mrs. Richard Graham, Mrs. George Jamieson, Mrs. Chester Best; floral committee, Mrs. Clew Morden, Mrs. Gertrude McLean; organist, Mrs. Eggleston.

After the election of officers, a social time was spent around the tea-table, while the hostess, assisted by the lunch committee, served refreshments. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Finley on June 1, with Mrs. Rutherford and Mrs. Norman Fee responsible for the programme, and Mrs. George Jamieson and Mrs. Ira Lowe as lunch committee.

The following is the secretary's and treasurer's reports:

The annual report and financial statement of the Mount Pleasant branch of the East Durham Women's Institute for the year ending May 31, 1927: Number of members for the year, 21; regular monthly meetings held, 12; total attendance, 124; average attendance, 12; visitors, 19; number of meetings addressed by government speakers, 1.

Activities of the Institute.—Number of papers given at meetings, 7; readings, 9; demonstrations, 1 (on work-bag); debates, 2, also a question drawer and spelling match.

The sick were remembered at Christmas with books, a box of Christmas cheer was given to a neighbor; a bale of clothing was sent to Bonar Sunday school, Toronto; a box of fruit sent to the Sick Children's hospital, Toronto; a donation to the Navy league; also a welcome was extended to the strangers lately arrived in the district. This took the form of a fruit and pickle shower and a quilt. A strawberry festival and garden party was held on July 6; a delightful banquet in honor of the officers was held on November 11; a traveling library was received for the winter months from the Department. Two papers were sent in to the Department "On habits and what they lead to," by Miss Finley; "How to maintain interest in the Institute," by Mrs. Bland; also two letters written for the convention on "Home Economics and Education."

The sick have been remembered with fruit and flowers, and a roll-call rally contest was tried out for the year.

Third 'Vimy' Peterboro Troop.

Our troop reporter was not on the job last week, so no report was made on the meeting. This report will therefore cover the meetings of April 29th and May 6th.

First, we will see what happened a week ago. The meeting started off well. After Flag Break P. L. Jack Gray of the Hawks, was awarded his Second Class Badge, amid the cheers of the rest of the Troop. Jack is the Third Scout in Vimy Troop to earn this badge.

A. S. M. Taylor had to leave after the presentation of the badge to go back to work, so P. L. Archie Inch of the Hounds was left in charge of the meeting to carry on.

In the period of work which followed the Hounds and Hawks practised Morse and semaphore signalling, the Wolves worked on Kim's game and the Chickadees took tenderfoot work.

A lively game of Scout law baseball followed. It was a close game and provided food for all.

There was not much work done in the next instruction period so the leaders had games. Several races were run, Crab race front and backward and many others.

At the Council Circle a bunch of new songs were sung ,and the 'Y' camp quartette, composed of members of the Troop who have attended 'Y' camp, rendered several selections.

Now for last Friday night. As this was to be the first meeting of the new quarter the competition should have started again in full force, but as we were to leave the Troop room at 8 o'clock only a few points were awarded.

Inspection showed that the Scouts in the Third have at last learned to wear their uniforms correctly, and no points were lost. Several Scouts were out in shorts and we hope that next meeting will find all Scouts out in full uniform.

A few minutes were spent in playing "The Scoutmaster's Hat," or "Who Sir? Me, Sir?" The Scouts grew too wily to be caught at that so that something more difficult was given.

A verbal message relay was played. Teams were Wolves and Chickadees vs. Hounds and Hawks. This message was read twice to the first runner in each team: "Mafeking is in distress. Typhoid is raging. Send serum by aeroplane. Help must arrive by noon to-morrow."

The first man raced to the next man, repeating the message as he remembered it. Thus the message was carried down the line. The last man in each team ran to the A.S.M. and wrote down what he remembered of the message. The Hounds and Hawks proved to be the better team at this, finishing first with this message: "Maffa King is in distress. Typhoid fever is raging. Send in aeroplane for help if possible." The Wolves and Chickadees finished with this message: "Mafeking is in peril. ..... is raiding. Send man in aeroplane by noon." More practise is needed in this sort of work.

The Hounds and Hawks won five points each for their work and the Chickadees and Wolves one point each.

The respective standing of the Patrols at the end of the half hour was Hounds, 118; Hawks and Chickadees, 115; Wolves 112.

At 8 o'clock the Troop proceeded to St. Alphonsus Lyceum where the Scouts of the Sixth Troop were putting on a concert. A very enjoyable evening was spent in listening to a really good programme of singing, recitations, and an especially good act with two darkies performing. The Sixth is starting its work with a rush and will soon be making the older Troops work to keep up with them.

Next Friday night will be the first complete meeting of this quarter and the real race for the prize in the Competition will begin. Every Scout be on hand in uniform.

The Scouts of the Third have entered many exhibits in the Boys' Hobby Show, and hope to win two or three prizes. Boys, be sure to take your parents to see your work. They will see something worth while.

THINK SUICIDE SAGINAW MAN

Body of Man Who Went Over Niagara Falls Not Found Yet.

NO MARKS ON CLOTHES.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., May 10.—It is believed that the man who committed suicide by going over the American Falls Sunday evening, is James A. Tunney, 51, of Saginaw, Mich. In full view of hundreds of tourists, too far away to hinder him, he removed his overcoat and suit coat, laid them on the bank and waded out, soon to be caught by the swift current and borne over the brink of the cataract. The body has not yet been recovered.

Some time ago the police were notified that Tunney had left a note stating he was on his way to "end it all." No identification marks were found on the clothes, but the general description tallies with the Saginaw man.

QUEBEC ANNULS MARRIAGE HERE

Ontario Has No Legal Remedy For Recent Case.

HUSBAND UNDER AGE.

TORONTO, May 10.—Ontario is said to have no legal remedy for the recent case in which Judge Bruneau of the Supreme Court of Quebec issued an order annulling the marriage conducted in Ontario, of a young Baptist girl resident of Ottawa to a Jewish resident of the Province of Quebec.

The matter has been referred to the attention and consideration of Attorney-General W. H. Price.

The Quebec court set aside the marriage on the ground that the Jewish husband was under age, notwithstanding the fact that his marriage had been celebrated in Ontario and legalized in every way. Under the Civil Code common to Quebec the annulment order was within bounds, but this instance marks the first time such power has been applied outside the confines of Quebec Province.

Incidentally, it is the first case of its kind that has been brought to the Ontario Attorney-General's Department. While Ontario can do nothing, it is understood, in the way of remedying the situation, there is a possibility, it is said, of the Federal authorities intervening.

CONGESTION AT PORT COLBORNE

Twenty-one Vessels Tied Up Awaiting Removal of Grain.

NO STORAGE ROOM.

PORT COLBORNE, May 10—Sixteen grain boats, caught here in the worst grain tie-up in the history of this port, yesterday settled down for a week to ten days wait to get in to elevators. Unloaders wtre barely operating to-day, with elevators being taxed to capacity to hold the huge volume of grain en route to the seaboard.

The tie-up reached its peak Saturday with 21 vessels on the waiting list, while last night two of these are tied up outside of the breakwater, unable to get into port. These will be joined by five others due here with 1,627,000 bushels of grain Tuesday.

Marine men declare the tie-up strongly emphasizes the lack of adequate storage facilities at this port, and little relief is anticipated until the great fleet of canal boats is cleared away at Montreal.

The tie-up is directly attributed to the early opening of navigation, which left Montreal, with its much later opening, unable to cope successfully with the huge volume of grain now moving down the lakes.

MADOC CADETS ARE INSPECTED

High School Boys Make Good Showing, Receiving High Praise.

MADOC, May 10.—Cadet inspection was carried out on Thursday afternoon on the High School grounds in spite of heavy showers. Captain Heron of Kingston conducted the inspection and expressed himself as well pleased with the showing made by the boys. He commented on the improvement made since last year and spoke words of encouragement and praise.

In the evening the Cadets held a most successful dance in the Armories. Besides the large number of townspeople present, many guests came from Deloro, Marmora and Tweed. The Armories were made attractive with blue and red streamers and Japanese lanterns. A Napanee orchestra provided excellent music. The proceeds amounted to over one hundred and sixty dollars.

WOMAN'S BODY FOUND IN CANAL

Mrs. George Clark Has Been Missing From Home Since April 28.

BADLY MANGLED.

THOROLD, Ont., May 10 (Canadian Press).—The body of Mrs. George Clark, missing from her home in Buffalo since April 28, was found in the Welland Canal last evening. A note found by her husband attached to a shirt in his dresser informed him that she would end her life seven poles above Lock 25 in the Canal. Hurrying to Thorold the husband found her hat and coat at the point indicated. The body, when found, was three levels below where her coat was placed and had been badly mangled by the propellers of passing steamers.

MOTHERS WAIT

all sides the shout was heard, "The Frenchmen beat the Americans."

Even the government was deceived by the early reports of the fliers' arrival.

Minister of War Painleve cabled congratulations to the aviators. While the cit ywaited today for more news, Lieutenant Coudert of the French army announced he would begin preparations for a flight to South America, via Africa, in a Levasseur stock plane, similar to that used by Nungesser and Coli, as soon as he received definite word of the result of the Nungesser-Coli flight.

ARMY OF THE HELPING HAND

Self Denial and The Salvation Army

"There is no Joy like Giving"

SELF-DENIAL

To bring a smile to tired faces—to help the needy—doing these thousand and one kindnesses—bringing joy where there is sorrow—light where there is darkness—to unfortunates who have fought and lost in the battle of life, is the daily work of those tireless, cheerful soldiers of Christ.

The Salvation Army "Self Denial Week" May 7th to 13th is the week when every man and woman in the Army deny themselves something to help fill the coffers. When the call comes to you, will you not give something to further this great work for humanity?

WEDDING BELLS.

McMURRAY—SCOTT.

DOURO, May 10.—A pretty May Wedding took place on Monday morning at ten o'clock, at St. Joseph's Church, Douro, when Mary Ellen, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. Scott, was united in marriage to Clarence McMurray, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew McMurray. Rev. M. J. McGuire performed the ceremony and celebrated the nuptial mass.

Miss Mabel Allen, the organist, played the wedding march, and the choir sang appropriate hymns.

The bride wore a gown of sand flat crepe, with satin hat to match, navy tricotine coat and shoes, stockings and scarf in blonde shade. She carried the groom's gift, a beautiful prayer book.

The bridesmaid, Miss Margaret Scott, sister of the bride, wore a gown of sand satin-faced crepe, with satin hat to match, tweed sport coat and blonde shoes and stockings. Her gift from the groom was a string of pearls.

The groomsman was Leonard McMurray, brother of the groom. His gift from the groom was a pair of gold cufflinks.

A wedding dinner and reception was held later at the home of the bride's parents. Among those from a distance who attended were: Mr. and Mrs. Michael Long and children, Omemee; Mr. and Mrs. John Ayotte and son, Stanley, and Mr. and Mrs. Parberry and children, Young's Point; Mr. Stephen Scott, Chandos; Miss Kathleen McMurray, Toronto; Mrs. Emma O'Connell and daughters, Mrs. James O'Toole and daughter, Peterborough; Mr. Francis Traynor, Otonabee; Mr. Thomas Sullivan, Lakefield.

Mr. and Mrs. McMurray will reside in Douro.

OBITUARY.

MRS. WILLIAM W. KLOCK.

DOWNEYVILLE, May 10.—Mrs. W. W. Klock died at her home, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, after a short illness. The deceased was born here at Downeyville, received her education here, and resided here until her marriage some fifty years ago, and a number of the old residents were sorry to learn of her death. She was remembered as Catharine Morrissey.

The funeral was held Friday from St. Joseph's Cathedral where Requim High Mass was said by Rev. Father Van Dorpe, who also preached the funeral sermon, Msgr. Deprutere assisting at the services. Deceased is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Willard Heipie, Mrs. Ida Simon and Mrs. E. T. Connor, of Oklahoma City, and Mrs. J. C. Champaigne, of Chicago, Ill.; one brother, Edward Morrissey, of Los Angeles, Calif., and three sisters, Mrs. Clara McGuire, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Mrs. Henry Matthews, Toronto, and Miss B. A. Morrissey, Downeyville.

The pallbearers were Messrs. William Mackintosh, J. W. Faherty, John Connolly, Michael Gordon, M. M. Tate, Mark C. Ingle and Fritz Straughn. Interment was made in Rose Hill Cemetery.

MRS. JOHN MAHER.

DOWNEYVILLE, May 10.—The funeral of the late Mrs. John Maher, who died in Lindsay, was held from St. Mary's Church, interment being in St. Luke's Cemetery, Downeyville. Deceased lived in this parish until a few years ago, when she moved to Lindsay. She is survived by two sons, Michael and Joseph, of California, who were present at her funeral.

ELEAZIR KELLY.

NORWOOD, May 10.—The funeral of the late Mr. Eleazir Kelly, who died in the Nicholl's Hospital, Peterboro, on Tuesday last, took place from the family residence on Thursday afternoon. The service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Moyer.

Measurements prove that girl students at American colleges are superior in height and weight to the average of girls employed in factories.

Mrs. Martha W. Caughlan, of Oakland, Calif., has invented a motor car headlight which is said to be a successful departure in road illumination.

CONCERT GIVEN FOR INSTITUTE

Pupils of Harry Wagner Put On Fine Programme at Millbrook.

LARGE SUM REALIZED.

MILLBROOK, May 10.—The "Hawaiian Night" entertainment, under the auspices of the Women's Institute given by the Peterborough, Millbrook, and Cavan pupils of Mr. Harry Wagner, Toronto, with assisting artists, in the Town Hall on Friday evening, drew a fair-sized audience, the numbers being considerably increased for the dance which followed.

It was about 9.15 when the curtain rose, thirty or more of the students of banjo, guitar, and ukulele being arranged in two rows upon the stage with a number grouped at either side, the men wearing white shirts with wide blue sashes, while both ladies and gentlemen had 'ruffs' of brilliant orange, pink, yellow, blue, and variegated shades—the Hawaiian effect evidently being intended by the costumes worn.

The assisting artists, Mr. J. Nazimok, violinist, and Miss Baumer, pianist, both of Peterborough, were well received, the former having to respond to double recalls each time, and the latter being applauded with equal warmth after her piano solo numbers. Mr. Wagner's personal contributions to the programme, particularly his guitar solos, were also popular, and an encore demanded.

The programme included the following numbers:

"Mauna Kea"—Opening selection by the group.

"On the Beack at Waikiki", guitar solo— H. Wagner. Encore, "The Rosary" (Nevine).

Violin solo—J. Nazimok.

"Hawaiian Waltz", guitar duet—Mr. Wagner and Miss Dawson. Encore, "Silver Threads Among the Gold.'

"That's Where My Money Goes", song, with ukelele accompaniment, by A. T. Armstrong, Mr. Wagners' youngest pupil. Encore, "O The Farmer."

Piano solo—Miss Baumer.

Duet, ukelele and harmonica —Messrs. J. McIvor and H. Wagner.

Song, "Some One is Losin' Susan" —Clare Winslow. Encore, "Too Many Girls",

Violin solo, "Concerto in F Minor" —Mr. Nazimok.

A five minutes intermission was allowed between parts I and II of the programme.

Part II.

Fox Trot, "Don't Say Aloha When You Go," by the group.

Hawaiian March, duet, guitars—Messrs. Osborne and Wagner.

Piano solo—Miss Baumer.

Guitar duet, "Sleepy Eyes"—Two Pupils.

Violin solo—Mr. Nazimok.

Duet, guitars—Miss Gentile and Mr. Wagner.

Vocal novelty—Mr. N. Hunter.

Selection, "One, Two, Three, Four" —The Group.

"Old Time Songs" (in response to requests from the audience), violin solos—Mr. Nazimok.

"Farewell to Thee"—The Group

National Anthem.

Over seventy dollars was realized from the concert and dance, the Institute receiving twenty-five per cent as its share. Mrs. Charles Thorndyke is president, Mrs. Will Armstrong acting secretary, and Mrs. T. H. Aiken, treasurer.

Large, Red Pimples Covered Her Face

Miss Mable Moore, Blenheim, Ont., writes:—"A short while ago my face was covered with large, red pimples. I tried several remedies, but all failed. At last a friend advised me to take and I took three bottles. I will never regret the day I did this as my face is entirely cleared up.

My mother has taken B.B.B. for headaches, and she hasn't had the least sign of a headache for a long time."

This valuable remedy has been on the market for the past 45 years; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

GROWTH RAPID NEAR BURNBRAE

Most Farmers Have Grain Up Now—Ploughing For Corn.

SEEDING DONE EARLY.

BURNBRAE, May 10.—With fine warm showers this last week, growth has become rapid and farmers generally are feeling more hopeful of good crops. While most of the older alfalfa stands are killed, all the new clover seeding is coming fine, and the rain has given it the necessary boost to assure at least a fair hay crop. The growth of grass is especially welcomed by local dairymen, as the cows are becoming tired of stable feeding, and in some cases feed supplies are running low. With another week of warm weather cows will be out to pasture practically all over the district. Local farmers have very wisely kept their cows off the pasture thus far, and so given the roots a chance to grow.

While a number of farmers are finished seeding, several have a field or two yet. Rain held up operations for a few days, except for those who had plowing to do. It is expected that practically all the spring grain will be in by the middle of the month, unless very wet weather sets in. The low wet places are not giving as much trouble this year as in former seasons.

Some fields of grain have been through the earth and growing fine for several days. While the recent showers have brought everything up that was sowed, Mr. Thomas Hay was the first local farmer to have grain up.

When a farmer cannot do what he wants to do he does something else. When rain stopped seeding, Percy Oddie began plowing for corn, and others are following suit. It is probable that corn and root ground will be prepared much earlier this year than usual.

TRENT RIVER NEWS

TRENT RIVER, May 10.—Mr. Will Christie, Toronto, is spending a few days at the Christie cottage.

Messrs. Fairbrother, Long and McTavish, Toronto, motored home on Monday afternoon from spending the week end at the former's home. During their visit Mr. Fairbrother had wonderful successful pickerel fishing.

Mrs. Clifford Howsen and Miss Dorothy Carnrite, Toronto, are spending a few days at the parental home.

Rev. Ralph Spencer is at the parental home.

Mother's Day is Observed

AT WARSAW.

WARSAW, May 10.—The Anglican church held the regular Sunday morning service.

The United church Sunday school carried out the order of services provided by the Religious Education Council, with special pupil's work. "Jesus Bids Us Shine" by the beginners was sung very sweetly, and led by Mrs. Digweed. "Wanderers" by Elsie Moore and "The Loving Mother by Dorcas Lloyd. Mrs. James Greystock read a paper on "The Church's Debt to the Child's First Teacher."

In the evening Rev. H. B. Herrington preached from Ezekiel xix:10, "Thy mother is like a vine in thy blood." A choir, wholly of mothers, gave some special numbers, and Mrs. Foster sang "My Mother's Prayer."

Mr. Herrington conducted Mother's Day services at Carmel and at Zion. At both services Mr. Herrington sang solos.

In the Baptist church, Pastor Iknar preached on "Mother."

The Presbyterian Sunday school held its regular service and after the service Dr. Munro gave a very earnest address about mothers. Some one brought a beautiful hyacinth.

TRENT RIVER, May 10.—Mother's Day service was fittingly observed on Sunday afternoon at the United Church, with Rev. W. Archer, the pastor, in charge, assisted by the superintendent of the Sunday School, Mr. Wesley Redden.

A printed order of service was followed and opened with the doxology.

Responsive readings by superintendent and congregation.

Rev. Mr. Archer rendered a suitable number, "Tell My Darling Mother I'll Be There."

Recitation, "Somebody's Mother," by Milton Hawley.

Recitation, "Mother's Picture," by Bessie Inkster.

Recitation, "My Mother," Margaret Brown.

The pastor gave the usual short story on "Samson" for the children, followed by an address on Hannah and the boy Samuel, taking for his text Samuel 2:19.

There was a large congregation present, and a special offering was taken up.

GRACE CHURCH, MILLBROOK

MILLBROOK, May 10.—The service in Grace Presbyterian church on Sunday evening was in honor of Mother's Day, over thirty of the Sunday school scholars forming the choir and rendering a number of special selections.

Beautiful white lilies appropriately decorated the altar table. The church was filled for the occasion.

The pastor, Rev. John Riddell, chose his Scripture lesson from Exodus II, and his text from verses 9 and 10: "And Pharaoh's daughter said unto her, Take this child away and nurse him for me, and I will give thee thy wages. And the woman took the child, and nursed it. And the child grew, and she brought him unto Pharaoh's daughter, and he became her son. And she called his name Moses, and she said, Because I drew him out of the water."

"The Motherhood of Moses" was the pastor's subject, the importance of the family to the life of any nation being stressed. A mother's love and a daughter's obedience made it possible to save the life of the baby placed in the basket in the river reeds, but during the strain of waiting "doubtless Jochebed prayed for the safety of her little son, and this made fruitful the watching of the daughter, and the touching of the heart of the Egyptian princess.

"Use of the times of suspense which come into every life whether of mothers, or of others who have not shared in this highest of callings, as opportunities for close fellowship and petition with the Father, and learn how God responds for the cry of a soul in need.

"Certain things may befall the growing girls and boys that are worse than death; therefore, mothers, instill into their minds the power of the truth, and the love of God, and something will follow and save them as Moses was saved from Pharaoh's cruel purpose, and the dangers of the Nile. Remember, too, that prayer may be in thought and purpose, as well as in words."

That the influence of Moses' mother was seen in his later choice when he refused to be called the son of Pharaohs daughter, choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season," was pointed out by the speaker, who quoted also the testimony of many great men as to the debt they owed to their mothers.

"Egypt, and many other great nations have crumbled and gone; the Jews have seen all that, and today they are a mighty power in every empire of the world. Why? Due to Moses' initiative in bringing together two great influences, economics and religion, based upon the family—the only foundation upon which any nation may build and endure. When the family life gets loose and lax then the empire will disintegrate.

"Moses' mother little knew the great act she was performing as she daubed the basket with pitch and entrusted her baby within its frail shelter; so with any mother as she performs her duties to home and children if she does them in the same spirit as Jochebed did then. The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world in a far greater sense than any statesman may ever attempt, or reach.

Since the law of love should rule the home, and love is of God, it is evident that were this law between nations, men would live as a great family of God. There would be difference of temperament, and surroundings, etc., but there would be no exploiting and degrading of family life, and there would be union and not strife in international relationships.

Closing with the need of early beginning the child's training, Mr. Riddell urged the living up to the ideal: the true mother sets before her children, adding the thought that only in this way can the debt o motherhood be discharged.

The selections by the choir, were "Joy, Joy," and "Tell Mother I'll B There"; four girls, Ruth Thorndyk Margaret Armstrong, Vanita Ingram and Phyliss Brown also sang, "Some body Needs You." Miss Myrtle Russell presided at the organ.

The ushers for the services were Messrs. James Thompson and Keith Larmer.

MILLBROOK UNITED CHURCH

MILLBROOK, May 10.—The annual "Mother's Day" service was observed in the United church on Sunday at 10.30 a.m., the regular morning worship and the Sunday school session uniting for the occasion.

"Country, Home and Mother" was the subject for the service the official programme, issued from headquarters at Toronto, being used throughout substituting an address by the pastor, Rev. F. H. Howard, for the pageant suggested.

Suitable flowers decorated the altar table, and practically everyone, even to the little folk in the primary department, seemed to be wearing the flower, colored or white according to whether the mother is still living, or has "passed through the curtain which separates between Here and There" which custom has made symbolical of the Day now so generally observed.

Rev. Joseph Wilks led in the opening prayer, and the superintendent, W. Fred Fallis, had charge of the responsive Scripture readings. The hymns were either patriotic in character, or specially applicable to motherhood, two at least, "Faith of Our Mothers" and "Mother, That Precious Name", having been writted particularly for the occasion.

The pastor's talk was a practical one to mothers, and appropriate to the day, his subject being, "Keep the Confidence of Your Children—Their Confidence in You, and Their Making a Confidant of You," the laxity in the training of children by the mothers of today evidently having a place in the speaker's mind. 'I am not going to simply eulogise the mothers, but try if I can contribute something that will help in their great task."

"Begin early to teach your children to choose the best things in life both in employment and enjoyment; some boys and girls have put up the biggest fight of their lives before they have been warned, protected and instructed.

"To put the tag "bad" on anything is not enough; there should be explanation and reasons given. Many a boy and girl has gone down because of insufficient knowledge—much false mixed with the true. If they had known all they ought to have known, they might never have fallen when the temptation was thrust upon them.

"Evil things will never die a natural death. 'I am not come," Christ said, 'to bring peace, but a sword'; true peace is won through conflict; there will never be a church triumphant without first a church militant. The teaching of temperance in the public schools was a hard blow to the liquor traffice, and made possible the temperance legislation of the last generation. The white slave traffic will get its fatal blow in the public school, the home, and the church, and the home is the first and surest agent, not the policeman. Righteous condemnation of these evils is not enough, there must be information and education of the child mind."

The importance of giving truthful answers to the child's inquiries was emphasized by the speaker, and also the absolute need of teaching the sacredness of the physical, "the temple of the Holy Spirit" equally with the mental and the spiritual.

There was a closing charge to the boys and girls to give to their mothers the love and respect their hearts long for, remembering the suffering, patience, and self-sacrifice borne without thought of anything but the highest welfare of their families.

The choir rendered the selection, "O Happy Home Where Thou Are Loved the Dearest," and the offering received was for the Religious Education Council of Ontario.

The secretary's report showed 22 teachers and officers present, 271 as a total attendance, with an offering of $10.85.

The pastor conducted a baptismal service at the close, Rev. Mr. Wilks assisting, when five babies, and one child of about three years, were presented by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Coulter, Mr. and Mrs. W. Elson, Mr. and Mrs. S. Bonner, Mr. and Mrs. T. Douglas, and Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Hatherly, for this solemn rite of the church.

Next Sunday the service will be at 11 a.m., the Sunday School preceding the morning worship at 10 o'clock.

AT BETHANY

BETHANY, May 10 — On Sunday evening the United Sunday School held their annual Go-to-Sunday School and Mother's Day programme in connection with the regular Sunday evening service in the United Church. The church was comfortably filled; the Sunday school occupied the front centre seats. The church choir led the singing and also sang two very appropriate anthems.

The responsive readings were led by the superintendent, Mr. A. Monk, while the pastor, Rev. A. Poulter, addressed the school and congregation, basing his remarks on the latter part of the 31st chapter of Proverbs. Miss Evelyn Bigelow and Miss Beatrice Darroch both recited verses on mother's love for her children.

The offering taken was for extension work of young people's societies

Congregational Meeting

The four congregations of the United church of this district under the pastorage of Rev. A. Poulter are holding a congregational meeting on Friday evening at 6.30 in the basement of the United church. Reports will be heard from all departments of church work.

Supper will be partaken of and a musical programme will be given. Rev. A. J. Terrill of Pontypool will be present to give an address. There is to be no admission charge and a good time is promised to all who attend.

Rev. A. Poulter had been fortunate enough to secure Rev. Archer Wallace, M.A., to preach at the anniversary services in the United church here on October 9th and 10th. This will be a treat the congregation will have to look forward to all summer.

OLD ENGLISH HOME RECIPE

For Falling Hair, Baldness, Dandruff and Itching Scalp. Makes Hair Beautiful.

Thousands of people who find their hair coming out badly try various advertised hair tonics and hair growers without results and finally resign themselves to baldness and its attendant discomfort. Yet their case is not hopeless. The following simple home precription in many instances has made hair grow again after years of partial baldness and almost instantly stops dandruff and further loss of hair. It will not make the hair dry or greasy, is pleasant and easy to use, inexpensive and can be put up in a few moments by any good druggist. Bay Rum, 6 oz. Lavona de Composee, 2 oz. Menthol Crystals, one-half drachm. Add a little of your favorite perfume, if you desire. This preparation is absolutely harmless, but highly effective. Ladies using the prescription should be careful not to get it on the face or where hair is not desired.

Gray? Never!

A wise man or woman won't use a dangerous hairdye; nor anything that gives hair the dull, dyed look that's worse than grayness. Kolor-Bak is a very different proposition! A clean, colorless liquid which gently and gradually brings the hair to the color it should be. Your hair is unharmed—doesn't even lose its lustre—and the scalp is actually benefited!

Blonde or brunette; auburn, brown or black; no matter about the shade, for the one bottle of this clear liquid is right for everybody. Lots of people you know may use it—you can't detect it! Kolor-Bak will give you the same perfect results; that's guaranteed when you buy it.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

Evening Examiner Fashion

Fringe is Smart

The striking use of fringe is one of the charming features of this new model. Quite individual, too, is the cross-over arrangement of the collar, the ends of which are held in place with buttons. The dart-fitted sleeves are finished with buttoned tabs, and a narrow tie belt assists in creating a blouse effect at the low waist-line. The foundation of this frock is in one piece, the fringe being set on in rows one above the other. NO. 1393 is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards 39-inch material; 4¼ yards fringe seven inches wide. 20 cents.

Our Fashion Book, illustrating the newest and most practical styles, will be of interest to every home dressmaker. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

ROLLER SKATERS CAPTURE CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, May 10. — The roller skate is no longer just a juvenile play thing. It has become a power in Chicago's transportation system. Health authorities, while admitting that the invigorating pastime is beneficial, fear that crossing accidents will increase, due to the fact that skates have not yet been equipped with four-wheel brakes. The fad started when the faculties of the two large universities banned the use of motor cars by students. The collegians turned to roller skates, and now high school students and office workers skate to their daily duties on the level boulevards.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

It was ten minutes to five when District Attorney Banning announced that the State had presented its case in full. Judge Grimshaw immediately adjourned court until the next morning at ten o'clock.

Cherry rose, extended a wavering hand, then, before it could be clasped in the warm grasp of the attorney, a greenish pallor spread over her white face and she slumped to the floor.

"Quick! Get a doctor! Oh, Bob, for God's sake, hurry! She's dying!" Faith moaned. "Dad! Somebody to something!"

Bob Hathaway and Jim Lane made battering rams of their bodies to force a way through the crush of spectators. Flashlight booms announced that an enterprising cameraman had made a record of the scene. The whole courtroom was in an uproar, with the angry old judge rapping frantically upon his desk with his gavel. Bailiffs and deputy sheriffs fought their way through the mob that was milling about Faith and Cherry, and by the time Bob Hathaway and Jim Lane, panting and disheveled, arrived with two doctors in tow, the shouted commands and drawn revolvers of the deputy sheriffs had almost cleared the room.

The physicians lifted Cherry's limp body between them and carried her escorted by a guard of deputies, to a small chamber in the rear of the courtroom. Churchill, with his arm about Faith's sob-shaken shoulders, followed the little procession, his big face heavy with genuine concern.

Faith knelt beside the slippery horsehair couch on which Cherry's tiny body lay so still and limp, and lifting one of the small, dangling hands began to rub it frantically.

The doctors spoke together in low, significant voices as they administered restoratives, took Cherry's pulse and listened to the beating of the overwrought heart through the stethoscope.

"She's all right now," the doctor who was seated beside Cherry on the couch spoke cheerfully. "Hello, young lady! What do you think you're up to?" he demanded, as the curling bronze lashes lifted and Cherry's dazed golden eyes tried to focus on the unfamiliar face bent above her.

"Who's that, Faith?" Cherry cried, trying to sit up and pointing at the nearest of the doctors.

"It's a doctor, honey. You fainted, you know," Faith soothed her.

"A doctor? I'm not sick! Let me go! I don't want a doctor! I'm not sick, I tell you! Let me go! I want to go back to my cell! It was just—too hot! I won't have a doctor, I tell you! Faith, don't let them touch me again? Faith! Make them go away!"

The two doctors withdrew to a corner of the room, smiling significantly at each other. Faith rose from her knees, trembling so that she could hardly stand. For Cherry's terror had given her away. Faith had solved the puzzle to which that hidden bottle of spirits of ammonia had been the clues. And a nausea almost as sickening as that which had blotted out poor Cherry's troubles for a blessed few minutes poured in blinding waves over her horrified brain.

HUMAN BODY LIKE STORAGE BATTERY?

Electricity May Be Used To Recharge Life Cells, Discoveries Show.

With a glass tube whose point is smaller than a single life cell, a microscope and a supply of electricity, Dr. Samuel Gelfan of the zoology department of the University of California has just demonstrated that protoplasm, the substance of which all living organisms are made, is an excellent conductor of electricity. More, he has shown that electricity not only fails to injure the life cell, but leaves it stimulated, more active than ever.

Dr. Jacques Loeb, world-famous bio-chemist, held that life is a chemical mechanism. Dr. Albert Schneider, bacteriologist and fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, announced recently his belief that the body of man is comparable to a storage battery; that vitality may be restored, and years of activity prolonged, by the application of certain chemicals and electric current to the body.

The discovery of Dr. Gelfan appears to substantiate this theory. In his experiments he dealt with a single cell approximately four thousandths of an inch in diameter. To introduce the electric current into this minute organism, he had to devise an electrode less than one thousandth of an inch across the tip—even smaller than the microscopic cell.

His discovery, writes H. H. Dunn in the May issue of Popular Science Monthly, seems to be the first step into a new field—the restoration of the worn-out machinery of human bodies. Immunity to disease has advanced tremendously in the last quarter of a century. Where, so late as 1914, the life expectation of a child of ten years was fifty-nine years, today it is sixty-four years for a child of the same age. Yet all this lengthening of life has been accomplished without the discovery of any method for actually restoring or replenishing worn-out tissues of the body. Dr. Gelfan's discovery concerning the vitalizing effect of electricity seems to be a step in that direction.

REPAIRING THE GARDEN HOSE

Even when your old garden hose seems to be worn out, there are easy ways to make it serve for another season. First, connect it to a tap and close the nozzle tightly; holes or thin places will show by spurts of water or damp places. Ordinarily, leaks can be fixed with friction tape, wound tightly with about a three-quarters overlap, and doubled. Coat the winding with shellac.

While very bad holes can be mended with tape, it is better to cut out the rotten parts and insert an inner sleeve, first putting on some shellac. Be sure to get the right size of sleeve. Work it halfway into one piece, insert it into the other end of the hose, and finally fasten with regular hose clamps, one on each side of the joint.

End fittings tend to come loose and leak. Tightening the clamp, or cutting off the hose and reinstalling the fitting will make an end as good as new.—Popular Science Monthly.

SUCCESSFUL SALE HELD AT ALL SAINTS'

Ladies' Guild Members' Effort Very Well Patronized.

The Ladies' Guild of All Saints' Church held a very successful and well attended sale of work and tea in the parish hall, on Thursday and Friday afternoons and evenings of this week. The decorations were carried out with vari-colored streamers and the tea table was charmingly arranged with spring flowers. The president of the Guild, Mrs. N. H. Sutton, received the guests and acted as general convenor. The fancy work booth was in charge of Mrs. J. Davidson and Mrs. A. A. Robinson, the fish pond was in charge of Mrs. G. Benor and Mrs. B. Burns, and aprons were sold by Mrs. T. Sabin and Mrs. Henderson. Mrs. Charles Curtis and Mrs. Hulier had the sale of home-made cooking, and Mrs. C. Lacheur and Mrs. R. Cottrell the sale of candy, assisted by Mesdames Meeks, Wilcox and Clee. Ice cream was sold by Mesdames Thomas and Holmes. A pretty Spring booth was supervised by Mrs. F. Roberts and Mrs. E. Beatty. The Brownton Guild of All Saints' Church had a booth which was in charge of Mesdames J. Black, Hutchinson, Thompson, and Busby, and the tea room was in charge of Mrs. P. Fuller and Mrs. A. A. Haskill, assisted by Mesdames Dillon, Strickland, McLeod, Seaman, Fitzgerald and Seymour.

The Sunday school orchestra of the church, led by Mrs. C. Goodley, played on Thursday evening.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

She carries her summer straw hat trimmed with grosgrain ribbon in her hand, and her two-piece frock is of printed linen, finished with a narrow belt of the material and a little black ribbon tie at the throat.

To the American mind at least kings and queens and princes have or ought to have peculiar privileges in the matter of setting fashions. In Roumania Queen Marie never had such powers of fashionable persuasion as she did in this land of the brave and the free and the eagerness with which American young men followed the fashions set forth by the Prince of Wales when he visited these shores some years ago was amazing to any Englishman who was not familiar with our own fondness for royalty—suppressed no doubt but none the less real. Perhaps this is because to most of us there is still something of the fairy-story aspect to kings and queens.

And now the queen of Spain has been seen going about in broad daylight bareheaded. American women visiting Southern resorts in Europe were among the first to follow her example. English women too have been brave enough to follow suit—away from home. There would be to most English women at home something decidedly underbred about going about outdoors—outside one's own garden—bareheaded. But away from home with a queen of British birth to set the example the idea is not repugnant. And as every one knows the effect of fresh air and sunshine on the hair is extremely beneficial.

Doubtless this fashion of going bareheaded will increase during the summer. Hats are extremely close-fitting and not especially comfortable for the woman who is letting her hair grow a little. It would only be a most daring woman still who would pull off her hat as she sat for tea or luncheon in a restaurant in the city—but at Southern resorts late this winter you may yourself have noticed women who slipped off their hats holding them—light flexible little things that they are—in their laps or poised on the corner of a chair.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

FOR WEDNESDAY, MAY 11, 1927

While this day's aspects are read by astrologers as rather unimportant it is well to be cautious in important matters for there is one strong adverse influence.

This is read as rather an uncertain day for contracts or leases and it may be wise to postpone signing papers.

Newspapers are likely to publish cable messages of alarming import, but the seers declare that the United States is to be most fortunate in world relations.

Under this sway merchants and manufacturers may be less busy than usual, but they have the forecast of tremendous business.

There is a most encouraging sign for gardening which is to interest women especially.

Athletics now comes under a favorable direction of the stars which promises for American women new attainment.

Beauty is to become more and more general among the women of this country, it is forecast. In physical development they will outstrip men for a time, the stars indicate.

The summer is to be a time especially favorable to romance, astrologers predict, and it will mark a period of new stability in marriage, if the stars are read aright.

Much travel will be recorded in the coming summer when the tide will be strongly westward, with much activity at Pacific coast ports.

Japan is to profit in many ways in the next few months and to gain special favor in certain quarters in the United States, it is prophesied.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of success in the coming year. Those who are employed benefit.

Children born on this day probably will gain distinction. They are subjects of a sign making for distinction and success.

HAVELOCK NEWS.

HAVELOCK, May 9.—"The Colonel's Maid," a very interesting four-act play under the auspices of the United church choir, was presented on Wednesday evening in the town hall to a packed house.

It was entertaining from beginning to end, and the parts were exceptionally well taken by the young people of the cast, under the able direction of Rev. W. R. Archer and Mr. R. Bonny. Music was supplied by the Havelock Symphony Orchestra before the play commenced and between acts. A vocal solo was given by Miss Velma Davidson after the third act.

"The Colonel's Maid" would bear repeating in Havelock and would again be greeted with a large audience.

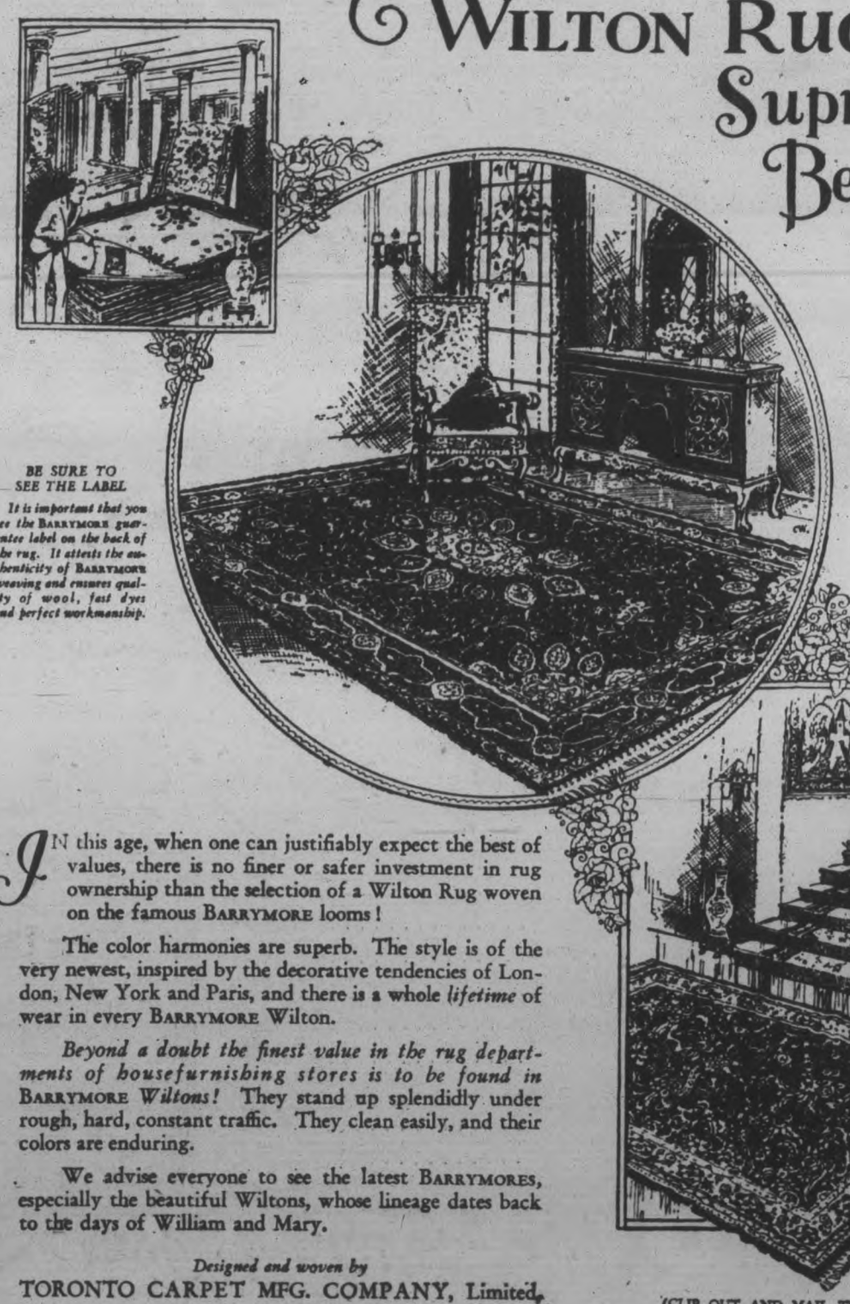
WILTON RUGS of Supreme Beauty



BE SURE TO SEE THE LABEL

It is important that you see the BARRYMORE guarantee label on the back of the rug. It attests the authenticity of BARRYMORE weaving and ensures quality of wool, fast dyes and perfect workmanship.

There are BARRYMORES in all sizes and designs, suitable for every room in the home and woven in qualities to accommodate the purchasing power of every family.

IN this age, when one can justifiably expect the best of values, there is no finer or safer investment in rug ownership than the selection of a Wilton Rug woven on the famous BARRYMORE looms!

The color harmonies are superb. The style is of the very newest, inspired by the decorative tendencies of London, New York and Paris, and there is a whole lifetime of wear in every BARRYMORE Wilton.

Beyond a doubt the finest value in the rug departments of housefurnishing stores is to be found in BARRYMORE Wiltons! They stand up splendidly under rough, hard, constant traffic. They clean easily, and their colors are enduring.

We advise everyone to see the latest BARRYMORES, especially the beautiful Wiltons, whose lineage dates back to the days of William and Mary.

SAFEGUARDING MILK BY PASTEURIZATION

I, therefore refer to the advisability or inadvisability of pasteurization with apologies to my colleagues, with whom the discussion of this problem is practically ancient history. No one who has been making a scientific study of the milk problem, and who is, therefore, in a position to given an intelligent opinion, has, within the past fifteen years at least, questioned for a moment the advisability of the pasteurization of all milk that does not come from herds that have been shown to be free from tuberculosis or that has not been procured under conditions necessary for the production of certified milk. However, I presume it is a matter of history repeating itself. In all advances of science there are always a few who cannot keep pace with advancement, and they expect others to wait for them. It is, therefore, necessary to repeat and repeat, over and over again.

I am reminded here of Lord Cromer's address at the Annual Conference of the British Research Defence Society in London in July, 1910, when the question of inoculation of animals was under discussion, in which he said: "It seems unfortunate that we should have to waste time on problems that are so self-evident in order to meet the objections of those who value the life of a guinea pig higher than that of a baby." He consoled himself by quoting the statement made by Mr. Cobden in the British House of Commons when endeavoring to bring about the repeal of the Corn Laws, which was as follows:

"I have come to the conclusion," said Cobden, "that the only way to get an idea into the heads of the British public is to repeat the same thing over and over again in slightly different language."

This finds a fitting application in our educational campaign for pasteurization of milk.

QUICK RESULTS BY THE POLICE

Alderman Denne's Car, Stolen Last Night, Found This Morning.

THIEF ESCAPES.

Alderman Denne has had several thrills within the past twelve hours—one to find his new Hudson car stolen, the other to hear that it was located this morning in Toronto.

On the invitation of a friend he was making a short stay on Weller street, and having faith in his fellowmen, left his car unprotected, and in running shape, at the street curb.

On coming out he had the peculiar sensation that comes to anyone under similar circumstances, when his car is not where he left it, and is probably stolen.

He immediately took the matter up with the city police who got in touch with Toronto police department, and as a result Ald. Denne received the joyful information that the car had been recovered. The thief, when he was chased, jumped out of the car and ran into the ravine and is still being pursued.

Mr. Denne does not know whether there was any damage done to the car or not. He wishes to thank the police of both here and in Toronto for the quick results.

Y.W.C.A. PLANS IMPROVEMENTS

Will Instal Filter Equipment in Pool—Regular Board Meeting.

REPORTS PRESENTED.

The regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Young Women's Christian Association, was held yesterday afternoon, with the president, Miss M. Hamilton, in the chair.

The financial report was presented by Miss E. Morrow, showing a splendid balance from the Pageant and in the Residence department.

The reports of the Repairs Committee were presented by Mrs. E. E. Harvey and Mrs. S. Porter, and the necessary repairs passed. The installing of a filtaration system means extra equipment to the extent of $1370, but the committee feels the advantages will be many.

The annual public meeting of the association was announced for Friday at 8 p.m. A special programme of musical numbers, pageant drills, and an address by Mrs. A. Kingswood, of Toronto, will be given. Mrs. Kingswood will speak on "My Ideal Canadian Girl," a talk which was given a year ago to the girls of the Ontario Ladies' College. All teen age girls of the city, their mothers, and others and all senior members and friends of the Association, are cordially invited. An opportunity to visit the swimming pool will also be part of the programme, as well as the year's report of Y. W. C. A. work.

The Triennial Convention of the Dominion Young Women's Christian Association, will be held in Toronto, May 28 to June 4. All members of the local Association may attend as visitors and eight members as voting members.

The Physical Director's report was most interesting, tracing the details of the work of the Pageant for the month and training of the hundreds of girls, from little tots to seniors.

The swimming pool opened Monday, May 9th and indications and registrations prove that this will be a record season for lessons and swims in the pool. Classes are being formed for all grades and all ages this week.

Mrs. E. Morrison, Residence Superintendent, presented a splendid report tracing the mothering of seventy two regular boarders and looking after their needs as well as those of hundreds of transients. The Y. W. C. A. residence is a popular and happy home for girls and has had a record year in all its activities.

The General Secretary's report included office work in connection with the Pageant, educational classes for the month, committee meetings, and meetings of various organizations as well as weekly programmes of seven clubs and organizations, as well as the culmination of Foreign Work campaign, with receipts of $130 for Y.W.C.A. work in Japan. A splendid membership tea was held with special talks on association work, and ideals and an initiation ceremony.

The meeting closed with prayer for guidance and help in future work.

AGED LADY WINNER OF "WHIPPET" CAR

Mrs. J. O. Weir and Husband Live With Daughter at

Mrs. J. O. Weir, who was the lucky winner of the Whippet car given away at the Duffus Motor Sales on Saturday night, lives with her retired husband at the home of their daughter in the village of Buckhorn. Mrs. Weir is the sister of Robert Shaw, ex-warden of the county of Peterborough.

In speaking about Mrs. Weir winning the automobile Mr. Duffus declared that he was more than delighted that she did for he considers that there is no more worthy citizen in all the five counties in which the company are distributors for their cars, who might have won it, than Mrs. Weir.

"I sincerely hope that I have been a means of giving Mr. and Mrs. Weir real and unexpected pleasure during the balance of their lifetime," said Mr. Duffus.

MANY VESSELS

International apprehension over the safety of the aviators was increased hourly as only vague reports, all of which later proved to be unfounded, were received from ships and shore points all the way from the northern Massachusetts coast to Cape Race, Newfoundland.

Three passenger liners, the Westphalia of the Hamburg American line, the Cunarder Cameronia, and the United States liner George Washington, and the freighter West Apaum, voluntarily enlisted in the hunt as soon as they received radio messages from the Independent wireless company here that the aviators had not been heard from since they left Europe.

HOPE STILL HELD.

LONDON, May 10. — (Canadian Press.)— The British Air Ministry has broadcasted a request that any person who observed the passage of Capt. Nungesser's plane on Sunday near South-western England and Southern Ireland report to the Air Attache of the French Embassy. While it is thought the fliers' position is seriously imperilled by the weather it is not assumed that disaster has befallen them. It is hoped that if Nungesser and Coli were forced to descend on the ocean they may be rescued by a ship. Early editions of newspapers which appeared with accounts of the safe crossing of the fliers as far as Newfoundland were quickly recast and later editions indicated anxiety for the Frenchmen in view of the lack of definite news.

NEWSPAPERS FOOLED.

PARIS, May 10.—(Canadian Press.)—Paris is in the grip of mixed feelings of anxiety over the fate of Capt. Nungesser and Capt. Coli and resentment against the newspapers for their over-optimistic reports of last night which went so far as to announce the arrival of the plane at New York and said the crowds were "delirious" with enthusiasm. Police were stationed at some of the newspaper offices to prevent trouble.

WIRELESS CHECK UP.

HALIFAX, May 10. — (Canadian Press.)—Hope that Captains Charles Nungesser and Francois Coli, who failed in an attempt to cross from Paris to New York in their aeroplane "White Bird" over the week end had been picked up by a steamer equipped with wireless faded to-day when a check-up of radio stations along the North Atlantic seaboard brought back in each case the fateful reply "no word." But the belief still persisted that the intrepid airmen were safe aboard a sailing vessel or small coastal steamer. In the meantime a sharp lookout was being maintained by all shipping.

The weather off the Nova Scotia coast to-day was clear with the visibility good.

Washington to Help

WASHINGTON, May 10 (Canadian Press)—The French embassy to-day asked the Washington government to lend its aid to search for the missing French fliers, Captains Charles Nungesser and Francois Coli. The state department assured embassy that every assistance would be given in search.

Ottawa Gives Assistance

OTTAWA, May 10 (Canadian Press) — The marine department so far has received nothing to indicate the whereabouts of Nungesser and Coli, missing French fliers, from patrol boats or wireless stations along the Atlantic coast which have been instructed to keep a lookout for them.

E.P.B. LEAGUE OPENS MAY 27

Crescents and Raybestos Compete Here—Cogs Go To Bethany.

DOUBLE SCHEDULE.

Raybestos, Crescents, Cognawagas and Bethany were represented at a meeting of the East Peterborough Baseball League last night, when it was decided to play a double schedule of games with the first and second teams playing off for the championship. Raybestos and Crescents drew the opening game and the schedule will get underway on Friday, May 27th, at Exhibition Park. The toss of a coin made Crescents the home team. Cognawagas will go to Bethany on Monday or Friday of the following week. The schedule will be drafted when playing dates are arranged for at Exhibition Park.

William Kay was elected president of the league, with W. Hanna, Bethany; D. Davis, Cognawagas, and A. Brioux, Crescents, as vice-presidents, and C. E. Curtis, secretary. These five will constitute the league executive.

The three city teams, who had strong lineups last season and furnished some excellent baseball, will be strengthened by the addition of new players, and Bethany, who are the champions of the Durham district, will prove real opposition.

MASONIC LODGES SEEK NEW TEMPLE

Members of the three Blue Lodges of Peterborough met at dinner last evening in the dining-room adjoining the Lodge rooms for the purpose of getting under way a fund for the erection of a Masonic Temple in Peterborough. Bro. W. J. Henry was chairman, and Bro. J. J. Turner explained the objects of the meeting.

A circular letter will be in the hands of all resident and non-resident members within the next few days.

The committee which met last evening will undertake the canvass of all resident members and will commence their duties next week.

The meeting was most enthusiastic and unanimously favored the project, all realizing the necessity of a Masonic Temple, and felt they will be well received on their canvass.

Toronto Market Quiet; Most Stocks Firmer

TORONTO, May 10 (Canadian Press)—There were no outstanding features on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day and business, for the most part, was quiet. The market was inclined to be bullish and gains outnumbered losses. While a wide range of issues was dealt in stocks were mostly unchanged or only fractionally moved. Atlantic Sugar declined 1-2 at 3 3-4, Davies 'A' was up 1-4 at 36 1-2, International Nickel lost one at 57 1-2, and McKinnon Voting Trust gained 1-2 at 25 1-4. Massey Harris common and Seagrams, though fairly heavily dealt in, were unchanged. Central Manitoba Mines, on the unlisted side, dropped three to 182. Kirk Lake lost 1-2 at 146 1-2 while Noranda gained 10 at 22.75. Hiram Walkers was 1-2 higher at .8 1-2, British American Oil (new) gained 1-8 at 26 7-8, and Canadian Breweries was up 3-8 at 27.

Prices On Mine Market Low During Dull Session

TORONTO, May 10 (Canadian Press).—Prices were lower on the Standard Mining Exchange here to-day and for the most part stocks declined fractionally. Business was light and featureless. Argonaut Consolidated lost ½ at 52, Atlas gained ½ at 5¾, Area declined 1 at 24, and Chaput Hughes was 1 lower at 10. Columbus Kirk was 1-8 lower at 4½, and Kirkland Lake dropped 1 at 146. Macassa was stronger, gaining 1 point at 34. Tough Oakes Burn lost 2 at 41, while Vipond Consolidated was 1 lower at 111. On the unlisted side Amulet gained 12 at 124, while Central Manitoba Mines was seven lower at 179. Total sales were 518,299.

Prices Irregular To-day In Wall Street Market

NEW YORK, May 10 (Canadian Press).—With many issues at levels which showed good profit on recent prices, realizing sales became more general in the stock market today and prices turned irregular after an earlier period of firmness.

A sprinkling of short selling also had its effect on the price movement when the rate for call money was raised from its renewal quotation of four per cent to 4½ in the early afternoon following the calling of $20,000,000 in loans.

This selling was coincident with vigorous buying of selected stocks on the circulation of reports of excellent earnings, stock dividends, and larger cash distributions to shareholders. Special buying was evident in railroad equipments, tobacco, farm implements, and foods. United States Steel after selling as low as 168, rallied to 169½ following the publication of the unfilled tonnage figures, showing a loss of 97,000 tons, somewhat greater than had been expected in some quarters. Other pivotal shares however were on the downward trend at one o'clock, a good many issues relinquishing earlier advances.

Wheat Prices Go Down As Weather Improves

CHICAO, May 10 (Canadian Press).—Wheat underwent a sharp early downturn today. Indications of better weather had a bearish effect and so took Liverpool quotations much lower than looked for. Opening unchanged to 1 1-8, cents off wheat later showed a decided setback all around. Corn and oats were also easier, corn starting at 1-8 cent to ½ to 5-8 cent decline and then holding near to the initial range. Provisions averaged a little higher.

Opening prices were: Wheat, May 144 1-8; July 136 5 8. Corn, May 79 5-8. July 84. Oats, May 48 5-8, July 49 1-8.

BELLE MAHONE HOLDS RECORD

Horse Owned Here Ran Half Mile in Fifty-nine Seconds.

WILL RUN HERE MAY 24.

Belle Mahone, formerly owned by Doctor Johnston of Port Hope, is now owned in Peterboro. She made a new record of 59 seconds for the half mile in Western Canada at Winnipeg in January. This wonderful horse will be seen in action at the coming meeting on May 24th of the Peterboro Turf Club at the Exhibition grounds.

There will also be such outstanding horses as Jack Abbe, Armadale, with a record of 5½ on the half mile track; Valley Todd, Jim Todd, the old war horse who has raced more than any horse in five counties; Alfred Elk, Just Jack, a horse that won seven races in seven starts last year; Major Hal, Bert Abdell, a Port Hope horse; Doris Patch, that old reliable horse; Bub, and many other noteworthy and reliable horses.

Every effort will be made to set new records on this track. It has been rebuilt and is now one of the best in Canada.

COLLIE BITES GIRL.

She Is Recovering, But Dog Has Been Killed To Avoid Further Attack.

HASTINGS, May 10.—Vivian Kerr, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Kerr, was bitten by a large collie dog recently. The bite was just across the ribs near the backbone, and for a few days she was feeling quite ill. The owner of the dog destroyed the animal for fear of more dangerous attacks.

TORNADO TOLL IS OVER 200; 800 INJURED

Storms Sweep Many Towns in Five Mid-West States.

AKANSAS HARD HIT.

Cyclone Cuts Swath Right Across State—73 Dead in Missouri.

KANSAS CITY, May 10 (Canadian Press).—Tornado and storm casualties in Middle Western States today stood at more than 200 dead and upwards of 800 injured, many probably fatally.

Hundreds were homeless in the five States visited by a series of freak storms that started on Saturday and reached a climax yesterday when large areas were devastated in Arkansas, Missouri, Texas, and Illinois. Torrential rains over the week-end added to property losses estimated at millions of dollars.

Arkansas led with seventy known dead and mire than 300 injured in the wake of a tornado that swept from the southern section of the State to the northeast counties. Lawrence County was hardest hit. At least twenty-eight perished there and approximately 200 were injured. Eighteen were dead and ten unaccounted for at Strong and Norphlet in Union County, while eight were killed in Cleveland County.

Seventy-three persons were known to have been killed in a dozen Missouri communities. Sixty died in a tornado that razed the business section of Poplar Bluff in southeast Missouri. Relief workers had placed forty-two bodies in morgues while twelve bodies were taken to homes in the damaged residential district.

Ten deaths resulted from tornadoes in central Missouri. Seven were killed in Callaway County in the vicinity of Auxvasse, New Bloomfield, Guthrie and Carrington. A seventy-mile gale that raked St. Louis caused three deaths.

Texas reported thirty-three dead and more than 100 injured and property damage exceeding $1,000,000 from twisters that ripped at scattered points at Dallas, Collin, Hunt, and Lamar Counties shortly before dawn yesterday. Sixteen were killed at Nevada, ten at Garland, four at Wolfe City, and two at Kellogg. Most of the victims were caught in their beds. Tornatdoes and high winds in Illinois killed ten persons and left many injured. Five perished at New Columbia last night.

DID YOU EVER WRITE A WANT AD?

You have heard, of course, of the newly married couple and the telegram. She wrote to her hubby, a commercial traveller, telling him of a chance to get fruit cheap for canning. He dashed off this telegram: "Take flyer home to-day honey love." She, judging by the hysterical note of the yellow form, leaped on the fast train and went to her home, expecting to find her people dead or dying. What he meant was "Take a chance in fruit when it's cheap. I will be home to-day, honey. With love."

And, do you know, the choice of words is just as important in a classified ad. as in a telegram. It is great fun to take some article you have no need of and try to put particulars of it into as few words as you can, still describing it clearly and attractively. Try it.

EMPLOYMENT

There are, of course, some points that should be specifically covered in special ads. For instance, if you seek employment or an employee, what occupation, and if it is a domestic position, how many in family?
- What wages and hours?
- What experience?
- What are the opportunities?

FOR SALE

If you have an article for sale, tell:
- What is for sale?
- What is condition?
- State size, color.
- Give maker's name (as of piano).
- Has it any special use?
- Give price and terms.

RENTALS

When advertising houses or apartments for rent tell:
- Where is it?
- Give name (of apartments).
- How many rooms?
- How about closet room?
- Upper or lower (flat)?
- How about neighborhood, schools, shops, cars?
- Is there a garage?
- Does rent include water, gas?
- How about sun? Heat? Use of phone?

BUSINESS FOR SALE

If you have a business for sale, explain:
- Kind of business?
- Give location and its good points.
- How long established?
- What is income?
- What is rent?
- How long is lease?
- What is stock value?
- Are there living-rooms?
- Give price and terms.

REAL ESTATE

In advertising real estate for sale:
- Where is the property?
- How many rooms?
- How large is lot?
- How many acres?
- Is it under crops? What kind?
- What about water, stock, improvements?
- How near railroad?
- Is it bungalow, house or cottage?
- Has it a high basement?
- Has it garage or drive?
- Is it near cars, trains, schools, churches?
- What of the view? The neighbors?
- Mention built-in features, sleeping porch, furnace, finish.
- Give price and terms.

AUTOMOBILES

If you desire to sell your car, cover the following points:
- Make and year?
- Model?
  - Roadster?
  - Coupe?
  - Touring?
  - Chummy Roadster?
- Mileage?
- Extra equipment?
  - Tires?
  - Mirrors?
  - Safety lock?
  - Side windshields?
  - Motometer?
  - Clock?
  - Wire wheels?
- Cash or terms?

WRITE AN AD. HERE

LIVESTOCK

Your livestock ad should tell:
- What animals or fowls?
- What is the breed, age, color, condition, training?
- Give price.

HOUSES FOR SALE

If you have a house to sell, your inquiries will be more satisfactory if you cover most of the following points in your description:

1.—Street No., avenue No., section.
2.—Size.
3.—Kind of floors.
4.—Exterior construction.
5.—Architecture.
6.—Exposure.
7.—Heating.
8.—Lighting.
9.—Finish and decoration.
10.—Plumbing.
11.—Basement.
12.—Roof.
13.—Extras included.
14.—Grounds.
15.—Garage.
16.—Other buildings.
17.—Advantages of location.
18.—Transportation facilities.
19.—Reasons for being on market.
20.—Sale price.
21.—Assessed value.
22.—Prices at which nearby properties sold.
23.—Rising values.
24.—Terms of sales.
25.—Date of possession.
26.—How and when to inspect property.
27.—Advertiser.
28.—Address.
29.—Telephone.

YOU wouldn't feel inclined to answer the following ad, would you? "Bungalow, $8,500. Brown, George street."

Here Are Some Phrases Useful in For Sale or Rent Ads.

1.—Location and Conveniences

"75 x 149, runs through to Water street."
"No stores or trolleys within 3 blocks."
"Corner property, 100 x 220, 2 blocks to street car."
"10 minutes' walk to Golf Links."
"Quiet street, lined with shade trees."
"Catholic church and Public Library within five minutes' walk."
"10 minutes' walk to high and public schools."
"Restricted neighborhood, 20 minutes to shops."
"8 minutes to station."

2.—Description of Exterior and Grounds

"Room for two-car garage and driveway."

"New brick house, old grape arbor and shrubbery."
"English type house, old grape arbor and shrubbery."
"Stone colonial house, large lawn, old-fashioned garden."
"Broad piazza front and side, glass inclosed sleeping porch."
"Well-kept private hedge along entire street front."
"Stucco garage for three cars, 350-gallon gasoline tank."
"Timber and stucco house, facing south, kitchen, garden growing."
"Slate roof, metal cornice, gutters and drain pipes all new."
"Outside stone chimney, large stone fireplaces in library and bedroom."
"Bearing apple, pear and plum trees; plentiful shade, abundant shrubbery."
"Grapes, raspberries, currants, asparagus bed and 2 large cold frames."
"Terraced lawn, beautifully ornamented with shrubbery; room for tennis court."
"Hedged clothes yard, rustic summer-house, ground for garden."

3.—Description of Features of Interior

"Plenty of closet room."
"Completely and comfortably furnished."
"Dry cement cellar, newly whitewashed."
"Hot water heater connected with furnace."
"Combination gas and electric fixtures, electric base plugs in every room."
"Laundry in basement, with stationary tubs and new gas stove."
"Four bedrooms, two baths, large square fireplace, finished attic."
"Two large bay windows, sleeping porch, large light rooms, tile bath and shower."
"Warm in winter, cool in summer, modern throughout, sun parlor and many refinements."
"Beamed breakfast room, porcelain tub, stand and toilet, screens, awnings and shades included."
"7 rooms and bath, Dutch hall, kitchenette, steam heat, electric lights, oak floors, all windows screened."
"Well built house, finished in white mahogany, new gas and plumbing fixtures, combination gas and coal range, stationary tubs, marble shower."

Rain Interferes With Baseball League Schedules

THREE GAMES IN AMERICAN

Yanks Toss Away Third Game in Series With Chicago.

THROUGH WILD THROW.

NEW YORK, May 10 (Canadian Press)—The elements in charge of "Jupiter Pluvius" yesterday interfered with a heavy baseball schedule and out of thirteen games scheduled in the National, American and International Leagues only three American League encounters were staged.

After taking two straight from the Chicago White Sox in their first western invasion of the year, the Yankees tossed away the third game when Wiley Moore's wild peg to first in the tenth inning allowed the Sox to score a 2 to 1 victory. Metzler opened the tenth with a two-bagger, Kamm was next to bat and when Moore tossed the opposing third baseman's bunt wildly toward first, Metzler scored from second.

Moore's pitching, however, was better than his fielding. Ruether started for the Yanks but got into trouble in the eighth when the Sox tied the score at one all and threatened to jump into the lead. Moore came to the rescue and checked the rally. The Yankees scored in the fifth on Gehrig's triple and Meusel's sacrifice fly.

Made First Error

Tony Lazeri made his first error of the season yesterday when he fumbled Metzler's grounder in the first inning.

At Cleveland the Indians made it three straight from the Philadelphia Athletics. Shaute held the Mackmen to six hits to win his first game of the season.

The Tigers and Boston Red Sox staged a batting spree at Detroit with the home team winning, 17 to 11. It was an off day for pitchers, no less than eight, four for each team, taking part in the fray. With the exception of part of the second inning, the hard hitting Tigers were always in front. The lowly Sox made a gallant bid to keep up with their opponents, but eleven runs are a lot for the Red Sox. Harry Heilmann, Detroit outfielder, hit two homers during the fray.

BOSTONIAN WINS RICH PREAKNESS

Beat Sir Harry and Whiskery, Who Finish in That Order.

CAPACITY CROWD.

NEW YORK, May 10 (Canadian Press)—Harry Payne Whitney's colors swept to a double victory in the Preakness at Pimlico yesterday.

In a sensational upset that surprised the turf world, his Bostonian won the rich $50,000 stake with a tremendous burst of speed at the finish, while his Whiskery closed with a rush that beat out Scapa Flow, the favorite for third. Sir Harry, of the Seagram stable, was second, three-quarters of a length behind the winner.

Both the Whitney horses had been rated less highly than Walter M. Jefford's Scapa Flow and Bostonian was considered not quite so good a choice as his stablemate. The parimutuel odds on Bostonian were 38 to 32. Under Jockey Abel he made the mile and three sixteenths in 2:01 3-5.

ENDS FIRST WEEK OF HARD TRAINING

The Ex-Heavyweight Champion Shows No Mercy Against Sparring Partners.

LOS ANGELES, May 10.—The serious young Hollywood millionaire who once held the heavyweight championship of the world is home here after his first week of intensive training, and the fifth week of roughing it, to await a chance to make his first public appearance Sunday afternoon in the Gables Club at Santa Monica.

Before leaving Soper's ranch Jack Dempsey went two rounds each with his two sparring partners, giving each a round in which to rest. He exhibited again that all work and no play is making Jack the fighter he once was. His good left hook was working better. His left seemed to be the stronger of the two fighting rods he carries.

Vic May Quit.

Vic Alexander again went to the floor several times and is beginning to indicate a general disinterest in whether he continues as a sparring mate of Dempsey. Benny Hill, the 200-pounder, took a vicious left on the chin that made his eyes so glassy Jack Price had to step in and prevent Jack from hitting him again.

Ed. W. Smith, the veteran Chicago sports writer, who watched the performance, declared that Dempsey looked as he did in Toledo against Willard, except that he is thicker about the waist. The woodchopping and training will bring the waist line down, believes Smith, who marvelled at Jack's condition.

Dempsey has lost seventeen pounds in his workouts. He weighed 198 pounds yesterday.

"You are not easing up on your sparring partners a bit," your correspondent ventured as Dempsey was being rubbed down by Jerry the Greek after his workouts.

"I can't afford to," replied Dempsey. "I can't pull any punches. If I'm going to do that, I might as well not be boxing with them."

"But didn't you pull your punches in your Atlantic City training camp?"

"No, not a bit. I was trying all the time. The trouble there was that my sparring partners were pulling their punches on me. There wasn't a single sparring partner I could lick before the Tunney fight."

Handlers Interfere.

If this is true, then Dempsey has certainly improved. If it wasn't for interference by his handlers, Jack would be knocking out each of his sparring partners in one round and probably have taken on a few of the several hundred fans about his open-air ring for further workouts. Dempsey wasn't satisfied with the competition he was receiving yesterday, so he made both boys punch the bag and liven up after their bouts.

"They are not taking this seriously enough," he said.

Dempsey gave a new line for the boys to mull over when one of his friends approached him and said: "Hello, Champ."

"Just a minute. Ex-champ," interjected Dempsey. "Call me Mr. X of Ojai."

Dempsey laughed when informed that Paulino wanted Tex Rickard to put up $25,000 as a guarantee that Dempsey would meet him and compensation for bouts he might lose.

"Who is going to pay Paulino twenty-five grand for a fight?" questioned Mr. X of Ojai. "If any one should put up any money, it should be Paulino. He ought to put up $25,000 for the chance at the big money.

Which all indicates that if Jack gets into any condition he would welcome the bouncing Basque as an opponent. He doesn't seem to take Paulino seriously.

Probably one reason why the Finns have come much to the fore in the athletic world is because physical training has long been compulsory in all schools and colleges in Finland.
SPORT PAGE

It is not always the fastest dog that wins the Waterloo Cup, the famous "blue ribbon" of English coursing, for a number of other points, including the cleverness displayed in making turns, influence the decision of the judges.

Johnny Tobin of the Boston Red Sox, a mighty smart batsman, has never gone in strongly for home runs during his big league career. John has won more fame laying down bunts and beating them out, or dragging one past the pitcher to reach first in safety. In other words, he gets more brain hits than through brute strength.

However, in a recent game at Boston with Washington, Tobin made one of his rather unusual home runs and it proved to be a decidedly rare one from several angles.

For five innings George Murray of Washington had held Boston hitless. In the sixth inning, an error and two bases on balls, filled the sacks. Then along came Tobin with the first hit of the game, a home run, that just carried into the right field bleachers.

It is the only instance I can recall where the first hit of the game was a home run and it resulted in four tallies crossing the plate. Tobin's super feat was wasted, however, as those four runs were the total Red Sox effort, while Washington made seven.

BETHANY NEWS

BETHANY, May 10.—Mr. Bruce Ryley and his mother, Mrs. H. Ryley, the Misses McKinnon and Mrs. George Foster were guests of Miss Alice Ryley, Peterboro, on Monday evening. They attended the concert of St. Andrew's choir, which was assisted by Mr. Frank Oldfield, baritone, of Toronto.

The first half holiday for this village for the summer was spent very quietly on Wednesday afternoon. This weekly half holiday will continue through May, June, July, August, and September, all places of business closing at 12 o'clock noon.

Mr. W. A. Jakeman was a business visitor to Millbrook Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Staples and Mrs. Lloyd Staples motored to Peterboro on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. R. W. Price was a business visitor to Peterboro on Thursday.

Arbor Day or clean up day was observed at the Public school here on Friday. The children went to school with rakes, wheelbarrows, etc. to help along with the work.

Mr. Will McCartney of Toronto spent the week end at his home here.

Mr. Newton Bray of Lindsay spent the week end with his mother, Mrs. William Bray.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Davis of Oshawa spent the week end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Davis.

Miss Allen of Bowmanville was the guest of Miss Mildred Davis over the week end.

Mrs. R. C. Waram has returned to her home here after spending the winter in California.

Mr. and Mrs. Bassett and daughter of Merriton were guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Price on Saturday.

Every family needs a car

Within the General Motors line there is "a car for every purse and purpose."

And those who wish to buy General Motors cars out of income are offered a sound credit service at low cost. This is known as the GMAC Plan, operated by a member of the General Motors family and available through General Motors dealers only.

The GMAC Plan can be comfortably fitted to the individual circumstances of those with assured income; and the standard price of a General Motors car bought on the GMAC Plan is the cash delivered price, plus only the low GMAC financing charge.

Any General Motors dealer will gladly explain the GMAC Plan.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE OPENING SATURDAY

Two Good Games Scheduled For James Stevenson Park.

On Saturday afternoon at 2.00 o'clock, at the James Stevenson Park, the curtain will be raised on the softball season when a double-header will be played. The Belmonts will meet the Lock Company team in the opening fixture and the De Laval will meet the C.G.E. in the second game.

The Lock Company team is made up principally of last year's Firemen's team who won the post-season series and the Eastern Ontario championship. The Belmonts will have a strong team in the field, with three of the best softball pitchers in the city.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.
On account of the veil, which is over their eyes of spiritual understanding, many are preaching false doctrines, that are defamatory to the Holy Name of Jehovah God; and yet they say they are preaching the Word of God. The following are some of the false statements they make: "Man does not die"; "Man is not a soul"; "Hell means endless torment"; "Probation for life in this age only"; "The majority of mankind go into endless torments"; "The Holy Spirit will not operate in the age to come"; "No preaching of the resurrection"; "Ignoring of the work of the Holy Spirit in this age"; "False interpretation of the word "church"; "proclaiming men and women gone to heaven who will never be there"; "This earth will be burned up and destroyed"; "False statements in regard to the judgment day"; "Ignorance regarding the day of restitution," etc.

MRS. SNYDER'S NERVE CRACKS

Guilty Woman Lies in Her Cell in a State of Collapse.

UNCONSCIOUS FOR HOUR.

NEW YORK, May 10 (Canadian Press).—Mrs. Ruth Snyder, Queen's Village housewife, who with her corset salesman paramour, Henry Judd Gray, must die in the electric chair for the murder of her husband, today was in a state of collapse in her cell.

The iron nerve that supported her through the three weeks' ordeal of the trials and which did not even fail her yesterday when she heard the jury's verdict of guilty, cracked only when she reached her cell in the County jail. She collapsed and after attendants worked over her for thirty minutes in an unsuccessful effort to restore consciousness. A call was sent to St. John's Hospital. Two physicians responded and found her unconscious, her jaws tightly set, and her hands clenched. Consciousness was restored in an hour. Dr. Di Rosa said her symptoms resembled epilepsy.

OTONABEE MAN TO PAY $3,442

David Armstrong Assessed For Injuries To Miss Olive Weese.

BROCK STREET CRASH.

TORONTO, May 10 (Canadian Press)—David Armstrong, farmer of Otonabee Township, will pay $3,442 in damages for having crushed Miss Olive Lorraine Weese, eighteen year old daughter of Bryden R. Weese, against a telephone pole at George and Brock streets, Peterborough, with his motor car. She sustained a double compound fracture of the left arm and was for several weeks in hospital. The settlement at the above amount has been ratified by Mr. Justice Middleton. There will be $2,800 paid into court to the credit of Miss Weese, the balance being applied on the expenses to which her father was put.

TO ATTEND COUNCILS.

Adjutant Frank Ham, who for almost a year has been the officer in charge of the local corps of the Salvation Army, has been selected to represent Canada, together with four other officers, at a conference to be held at the international headquarters of the Salvation Army, London, England. There are to be representatives from all round the world, and the prime object of the Conference is to study the development of the work amongst the young people. Besides the main meetings in London, councils are to be held in all the larger centres in England, at which the problem of the younger generation will be the feature.

When the Adjutant was asked for a message before leaving the city he pleaded that a quiet "farewell" would be more to his liking, but he added that he deemed it an honor to represent Canada at these gatherings in England, that that he was also representing Peterborough and that he would at all times boost this beautiful city. He also said that it was not a pleasure trip, although there would be doubtless some pleasures derived, but he hoped that he would do as his mother in a farewell letter he had just received said: "Profit in body and soul and return better fitted for the work ahead."

The Adjutant's genial personality will be considerably missed in the city the next few weeks, but citizens and all will join in wishing him Godspeed. The local organization will be in charge of Commandant Sharrock during Adjutant Ham's absence.

SPECIAL RACE WILL FEATURE BOYS' CIRCUS

Bates, Smoke, Larmer and Whetung To Compete To-night.

FOR SILVER CUP.

Fun and Entertainment For Everybody at the Rink.

A two-mile race bringing together Dick Bates, who won the Lakefield-Peterborough jaunt last Saturday; Whetung, the Indian runner, who was beaten on that occasion; Albert Smoke, well known Italian marathoner, and likely Ted Larmer of Millbrook, will be a special feature at tonight's Boys' Week Circus in Brock Street Rink. The interest that is being displayed in running here at the present time led to this contest being arranged and the winner will carry off a silver trophy. Smoke ran most of the distance with the runners in Saturday's race, and finished in great style. He will be dangerous at two miles, but Bates, who is in excellent shape will give him a battle and Larmer is a stylish runner with a lot of speed.

With the race added to the programme the Circus looms up bigger than ever. There will be a wealth of entertainment features and with the admission price only 25 cents the seating accommodation of Brock Street Rink should be taxed to the utmost. Acrobatic stunts, gymnasium specialties, funny clowns, rare animals will all be featured in the two rings on the central platform.

It looks like a big night at Brock Street Rink tonight.

M. J. HOGAN.
PORT COLBORNE, May 10.—M. J. Hogan, wealthy railway, bridge and harbor contractor, who was widely known throughout three provinces, passed away at his home here yesterday in his seventy-eighth year. Death was due to heart disease, from which he had been suffering for some months.
The late Mr. Hogan was associated with scores of railway and bridge building projects throughout Quebec and New Brunswick, and had held contracts in nearly every Canadian Lake Erie port.
He was born near Bagotville, in the Eastern Townships, Quebec, in 1849. In his early years he was associated with the late Thomas and Robert McGreevy, who held a contract for the construction of the Intercolonial Railway at Millstream, N.B. Following this he held many contracts of his own on the Intercolonial, and in 1885 was associated with the Dominion Bridge Company in the construction of the original railway bridge over the Reversing Falls at St. John, N.B. On the completion of this work, he built a railway bridge over the St. John River at Fredericton, N.B. This was followed by construction contracts on the Quebec Central Railway and also the building of a 20-mile section of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway. From 1897 to 1899 he held the contract for Section 12 of the Soulanges Canal on the St. Lawrence.

Various Reports Presented by Secretary at Lindsay Presbyterial Conference.

SOLOS RENDERED

Outline Minutes of Executive Meetings Held During Past Year.

The second annual meeting of the Lindsay Presbyterial Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada commenced a two-day session in George Street United Church yesterday afternoon, with an attendance of about one hundred and fifty delegates from the district surrounding the city and a large number present from the United Churches of Peterborough. The president, Miss E. Dunoon, of Lindsay, occupied the chair. The afternoon was occupied with the presentation of reports by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. Morrison, of Lindsay, and the treasurer's report, prepared by Mrs. Fred Brandon, of Cannington, and read in her absence by Mrs. H. Irvine of Lindsay, an exceptionally fine address given by Miss Effie Jamieson, of Toronto, secretary of the Home Board of the W.M.S., who also conducted an interesting Question Box. Miss Jamieson attended the meeting as a substitute for Mrs. G. Forbes of Weston, prevented by illness from being present.

The afternoon session commenced with a Devotional Service, led by Mrs. J. W. Gordon of St. Andrew's Church, Mrs. M. Kerr and Mrs. T. Gillespie, of St. Andrew's, leading in prayer. Opening words were voiced by Mrs. S. R. Armstrong of George street Church, who spoke of the fine work accomplished in the past two years, during a session made difficult, owing to the change in organization of the society. "Some of us like to look back to the beginning of the Missionary adventure," said Mrs. Armstrong, "when a few women gathered together to commence the work." The speaker also referred to the study of India undertaken this year as being productive of much good to those to whom it had brought that country so much nearer, and to the necessity of prayer, study and the giving of one's best in the accomplishment of the aims of the society. The three watchwords of the W.M.S., "The World for Christ," "Whatsoever He saith unto you, do it," and "Not by might or by power, but by My Spirit," saith the Lord of Hosts, were also outlined by Mrs. Armstrong, in an inspirational, brief address, which was replied to in appropriate terms by Mrs. H. B. Herrington, of Warsaw, expressing the thanks of the visitors to all who had helped in any way to make this meeting possible.

Outline of Minutes.

A concise, well-worded outline of the minutes of the last annual meeting and of the executive meetings which were held during the year, was given by Mrs. W. H. Morton, of Peterborough, and the appointment of committees was made, as follows: Courtesy committee—Mrs. A. P. Latter, of Oakwood; Mrs. J. J. David, of Kinmount, and Mrs. George Nickle, of Manilla. Business committee—Mrs. Edwards, of Campbellford, Mrs. A. F. Bookhout, of Peterborough; Mrs. Parker, of Minden; Mrs. John Weir, of Norwood, and Mrs. E. Coon of Peterborough. Press secretary—Mrs. E. J. Wagar, of Peterborough.

Presbyterial annual reports were then given in the records of the year's work, submitted by the Corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. Morrison, of Lindsay, and the treasurer's statement, read in the absence of Mrs. Brandon by Mrs. H. Irvine, of Lindsay.

Mrs. Morrison reported 53 auxiliaries in the Lindsay Presbyterial, with a total membership of 2293, and a giving of $13,253 to the treasury. Young Women's Auxiliaries numbered 4, with 98 members and $374 in givings; 13 circles, with 398 members, gave $2366.-00; 6 affiliated C.G.I.T. groups, with 1456 members, gave $78; 35 Mission Bands, with 922 members, gave $1150,-00; and $1,000 was given in extra donations to the society. The allocation of $17,400 was over-subscribed by about $500, with $17,800 remitted to the branch treasurer and $100 from Woodville. In givings, standing first was the First United Auxiliary of Lindsay, $1508, Trinity Church, Peterborough, came second, with $1378, and Knox Church, Peterborough, third, with $867. Next in line were St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough, $856, George street United Church, Peterborough, $750, Keene, $604, Fenelon Falls, $535, Cannington, $500, Woodville, $459, Oakwood, $458, Beaverton, $443 and Norwood, $427. The total Auxiliary Thank-offering was $4,197, in which Knox Auxiliary, Peterborough, stood first, with $734, the First United Church of Lindsay second, with $517, and Trinity Church, Peterborough, third, with $361. Next in order came St. Andrew's, Peterborough, $338 and Cannington and Fenelon Falls, $212 each. The envelopes brought in $2,224, with first place to the First United Church, Lindsay, giving $850, followed by Cannington, $200, Beaverton, $176, Norwood, $172 and Keene, $93. Knox Church, Peterborough gave about $28 a member, with 31 members giving $877, Haliburton about $10 each, with 11 members giving $109 and Fair-

Kite Lodges On Wires; Boy Is Expected To Die

SCOTTVILLE, Mich., May 11.—Little hope is held out for the rerovery of Donald Parsons, 12-year-old son of Jay Parsons, who received a shock from high tension electric wires when he attempted to dislodge his kite after it became entangled in the cables.

Tying a wire to a stone and holding the end of the wire, the boy tossed the stone over the kite string in an effort to bring it to the ground. The current, passing through the wire, made the boy unconscious and caused severe burns.

His companion, Dale Gilmore, summoned I. J. Eddy, banker, who released Parsons. The boy has remained unconscious since the accident.

UTILITIES BOARD INSPECTS PLANT

Members Make Tour of All Buildings Under Their Care.

EVERYTHING WELL KEPT.

Yesterday afternoon the members of the Peterborough Utilities Commission went on a tour of inspection over the different plants under their charge which serve the city with power and water.

They found everything kept very clean and in first-class condition. A few improvements were ordered to the various buildings and a general survey made of everything.

Behind the pumping station on a few acres of waste land the Commission has set out 4,000 trees, mostly pine, as part of the reforestation policy which is being carried out all over the province. The Commission received these trees from the Ontario Forestry Department.

A short meeting was held, at which it was decided to co-operate with the decoration committee for the Diamond Jubilee as far as material and supplies will permit.

The Quaker Oats Company wrote asking for a rebate on their March water bill as a leak had been found between the mill and their sub-station. The Commission decided that nothing could be done as it would be setting a very bad precedent.

The manager submitted estimates of the cost of placing a water main on Water Street, between Dublin and Smith, and he was ordered to go ahead with the work immediately as that street is to be paved this summer. He was also authorized to put in side mains on George Street before resurfacing.

The Commission decided to ask the City Council to notify them a year in advance of any paving that the Council expects to do so as to allow the Commission to get all the water mains in.

BIG CIRCUS TO BE REPEATED THIS EVENING

Brock Street Rink Programme Greatly Delights Crowd.

A REVELATION.

Work of Young Athletes Shows the Results of Their Training.

The Boys' Week Circus at Brock Street Rink last night proved a genuine success both from a box office and from an artistic standpoint. Rotarian Doug. Loomis, physical director of the Y.M.C.A., deserves all kinds of credit for the splendid programme provided, the work of the boys being a revelation to the big crowd.

To-night the circus is to be repeated and another large attendance is certain in view of the good things that are being said of the performance by last night's audience.

Both as an interesting and unusual entertainment and as a demonstration of the training received by the members of the Y.M.C.A. and the Boy Scouts the Boys' Circus is too good to be missed.

Lone Aviator Takes Off To Hunt Missing Fliers

NEWPORT, R.I., May 11.—Braving a fog which caused less daring airmen to delay their flights, Lieut. Joseph P. Bolger took off from the Gould Island naval airdrome yesterday in quest of Captains Nungesser and Coli.

Bolger joined the search on the order of Captain Edgar B. Larimer, executive officer in charge of the naval torpedo station and the airdrome.

Naval airmen here felt that Bolger would be obliged to return within a short time because of the extremely low visibility.

FEWER ENGLISH WORKLESS NOW

Next Report Expected To Show Total Below a Million.

LESS THAN LAST YEAR.

LONDON, May 11 (United Press).—Unemployment is decreasing in England and fewer than one million men are expected to be jobless by the time the Ministry of Labor issues its next report.

A survey made public by the Ministry predicted.

Unemployment on May 2 totalled 1,021,000, which was 23,000 less than the week before and 84,000 less than the figure a year ago, when the coal strike had just started, the Ministry's report said.

The 1926 figure used for comparison did not include miners who had walked out.

LEGATION GETS DATA PREPARED FOR DISCUSSION

Mr. Massey and Secretaries Confer Whole Day on Immigration.

ASK POSTPONEMENT.

Want Enforcement of Border Laws Delayed—Question U. S. Right.

WASHINGTON, May 11 Canadian Press. — The Canadian Legation today was preparing for the biggest task that has confronted it since the appointment of the Hon. Vincent Massey, as Canadian Minister to the United States. Mr. Massey and his secretaries were in an all day conference on the argument to be presented when they meet representatives of the United States government to-morrow morning to discuss the new border immigration ruling requiring Canadian residents working on the United States side of the boundary to conform with the United States laws on a new basis of immigrants.

The first effort of the Canadian representatives wil be to secure a promise that the new regulations will not come into effect this year, but will be postponed sufficiently to allow those affected time to secure recognition.

The general question of Canadian citizenship will probably be discussed as well as the right of the United States to define Canadain citizenship.

THE WEATHER

Yesterday was quite warm, the temperature rising to 72 degrees and the lowest the thermometer receded last night was 50 degrees. The rainfall during the last few days has been fairly generous, the first heavy shower totalling .55 while several minor ones since have added another one-tenth. If you are of an observant nature, watch the leaves unfold these days. It is quite possible to see a difference from day to day—I was almost going to say you could actually see the buds unfolding. — V.P.

LEVEES EXPECTED TO BREAK TO-DAY

Rush Of Water Into "Sugar Bowl" Would Follow Collapse.

NEW ORLEANS, May 11 (Canadian Press).—The levees at Bayou des Glaises, about 170 miles above New Orleans, were expected to collapse at any time today, allowing a rush of muddy water across the "Sugar Bowl" of Louisiana, where most of the domestic cane is grown.

NEW BUILDINGS ARE DISCUSSED BY FAIR BOARD

More Accomodation Needed for Dog Show, Poultry and Cattle.

FURTHER CONSIDERATION

Committees Interested Will Have Prices to Submit to Board.

Building extensions and alterations were discussed by the Exhibition Board meeting last night under the chairmanship of Vice-President Tom McIndoo. Definite information as to the cost of the various porposals will be on hand for the next meeting to be held within two weeks when the matter will be settled.

The claims of the poultry, dog show, and cattle committees were presented by their respective chairmen. W. S. Merrill said that the dog show has paid out $1,200 in three years for tent rentals, placing of benches, wiring, etc. A tent, he informed the board, is not suitable for a show of this kind as ventilation is poor. He urged the board to consider the erection of a building, saying that the amount saved in rental would quickly pay for it. His claims were supported by W. E. Jackson.

George Paxman and Fred Holmes stated the case of the poultry men. Their present building is not large enough; last year a tent had to be used as an annex. Many exhibitors would come to Peterborough if they could promise suitable accommodation. Ground Superintendent Tom Brown reported that he had asked a contractor for prices on extensions. Lengthening the building thirty feet would cost in the neighborhood of $300; widening it sixteen feet would cost about $500. The committee spokesmen stated that widening it would result in double the capacity due to more economical use of the space, while the extra length would be speedily used up and the widening be necessary in a couple of years anyway.

The increasing number of accredited herds was given as the reason for the absolute necessity of building another cattle barn. William Knox was spokesman for the cattle committee and reminded the directors that some of the cattle had to be kept in the open this last few years.

Among the suggestions advanced was one by Reg. Turner that the present Merchants' Building is no longer suitable for that purpose but could be used for the dog show and a new building provided for the merchants. His proposal was approved by the dog fanciers, who agreed that it would make a splendid building for their purpose.

The purchase of the old C. N. R. freight shed and its use, or the use of the lumber was mooted by a director. He suggested that the Government might sell it at a very reasonable price, in view of the purpose to which it would be put, and that it could be taken to the grounds in sections. The Building committee was instructed to look over the building to discuss its suitability for any purpose of the fair and, if deemed advisable, to take up the matter of purchase. One member of this committee threw cold water on the scheme by saying that the building would not be worth the trouble of moving it to the grounds, because of the condition of the lumber, but it will be considered.

The Building committee was in-

HEALY DENIES CHARGES MADE BEFORE PROBE

Ordered Cooper From Office, Refusing To Join Business, He Says.

TAKES UP STATEMENTS.

Sent Him No Demand For Money—Egan Had No Authority.

HAMILTON, Ont., May 11. Canadian Press. — An absolute denial of statements made by James Cooper during the Windsor sittings of the Royal Customs Commission was made from the witness stand here to-day, by A. F. Healy, former Liberal member for North Essex.

While denying positively that he had demanded money from Mr. Cooper ,or that he knew or had anything to do with the alleged "rat fund," Mr. Healy declared that Mr. Cooper had tried to bring him into his large liquor operations.

"I told him I was not interested, and finally I requested him to leave my office, and not come back," said Mr. Healy.

Mr. Healy took up the statements which he said Mr. Cooper had made, one by one. He referred to them as "charges."

Too Busy After "lections.

"In the first place," he said, "that within a week after my election I sent him to W. M. Egan for the purpose of extracting money from him. This is absolutely untrue. I was much too busy after my election to bother with Mr. Cooper."

In the second place, said Mr. Healy, Mr. Cooper charged that he had been sent to see John O'Gorman, referred to as "the big fellow," who also demanded money from him.

"Again ,this is absolutely untrue," said Mr. Healy. "I never sent him to see O'Gorman. Immediately after my election I was engaged in preparing to go to Ottawa."

"The third charge was that I forced Cooper to send his whiskey to Montreal at an extra cost of $1000 a car. This is also absolutely untrue. I know nothing about methods for handling whiskey."

No Power in U. S.

"The fourth charge that Mr. Cooper makes is that I had him indicted in the United States. I didn't even know he was under indictment in the United States and I can assure the commission that I have no power to have him indicted there."

"Mr. Egan at no time had the right to ask for money in the name of the Liberal party ,or in my name," declared Mr. Healy. "If he collected money it was not a political fund in any sense, was not gathered with my authority, and was was not for the Liberal party."

"I never met Mr. Cooper. I never had an appointment with him, I never made any proposition to him, and his statements about the interview were absolutely untrue," declared John O'Gorman, mentioned by Mr. Cooper as "the big fellow" in his "rat fund" testimony. Mr. O'Gorman was on the stand for only a minute.

JAPAN DEMANDS EVACUATION.

LONDON, May 11.—(United Press.)—Japan to-day peremptorily demanded that Chinese authorities at Nanking evacuate the Japanese consulate there, an Exchange Telegraph dispatch said.

MANY ATTRACTIONS SHOWN AT BOYS' CIRCUS HELD IN BROCK

Performance Has All Features Of Regular Travelling Caravan.

GYMNASTIC WORK.

Dick Bates Leads the Runners in Race For Silver Cup.

The mammoth circus of the boys of Peterborough opened last night with a perfection that astounded every patron of the show. Running on the scale of a Barnum and Bailey circus the performance opened with a grand march led by the ringmaster in his riding breeches and long threatening whip that cracked over the heads of the clowns as they went through their different little "stunts" of amusing the vast audience that packed the Arena almost to capacity.

Led by the Salvation Army band all the performers marched past and made their debut before entering the two large rings that occupied a large portion of the rink. Young athletes in gym attire, led by a negro kazoo band combined with grotesque looking "wild" animals and painted clowns all added to make the circus that the Y.M.C.A. instructors and other men have worked so hard for, a success.

Just as in the large circuses, white-coated men and boys were selling their wares which constitued, peanuts, chocolate bars, ice cream, etc., but all the proceeds from this was for charity aid.

Smart drills in both rings by the Y.M.C.A. boys and the scouts in the Salvation Army were given, and received much applause for they showed hard work on both the part of the director and that of the boys themselves.

A dance was then given by the "elephants" of the circus, to the merry airs from the kazoo band, which caused much laughter from the audience as they watched these "beasts" go through their little performance.

United States Annexes Another Seaplane Mark

WASHINGTON, May 11 (United Press).—Lieut. Carlton C. Champion, naval flier, has established a new seaplane world altitude record of 33,455 feet, the Navy Department announced yesterday.

Champion climbed to the new height at Hampton Roads, Va., May 5, flying a Wright Apache single-seat flight seaplane. The previous seaplane record of 30,479 feet was made by a French naval officer, Lieut. Demougeot, last March 28.

It was the fifth air record annexed by the United States in the last few weeks. Champion is from Savannah, Ga.

CAR KILLS BOY AT BELLEVILLE

Eight Year Old Lad Stopped To Pick Up Book on Street.

INQUEST ORDERED.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., May 11.—Ralph Demille ,an eight year old scholar, on his way home from Cannington school, was struck by a motor car driven by a man named McCabe yesterday afternoon and almost immediately killed. One of his companions, Ross Downey, was also struck and cut about the face and arm. Demille died after being carried to a nearby house.

One of the scholars had dropped a book and several stopped to pick it up when McCabe's car came upon them from behind a wagon. The driver declared he did not see the lad until too late. An inquest has been opened by Dr. Boyce of this city.

GRAY DESIRES TO SEE WOMAN BEFORE DEATH

Beseeches State Officials To Let Him Say Good-bye.

SENTENCE ON MONDAY.

Two Will Likely Be Kept Separate—Gray Seems

NEW YORK, May 11 (Canadian Press).—Henry Judd Gray would like to bid farewell to his former sweetheart, Mrs. Ruth Snyder, before they both die in the electric chair for the murder of her husband. Their counsel are preparing an appeal.

Twice since his conviction on Monday, Gray, whose story of the tragedy as told from the witness stand directly involved Mrs. Snyder and contradicted her plea of innocence, has expressed a desire to jail attendants to be permitted to see his former mistress.

"I didn't want to hurt her," Gray told an under sheriff, "and the least you can do is to let me see her and say goodbye."

"The State's doing what it wanted with her and me. I don't want her to suffer. I'm sorry the verdict went so hard against her. I just couldn't do anything else. I told the truth."

It is considered extremely unlikely, however, that Gray's wish will be granted. He and Mrs. Snyder will see each other in court on Monday when they appear for sentence. After that, they will be conveyed in separate automobiles to Sing Sing, where there will be no opportunity for communication. Gray is reported as apparently unconcerned by the prospect of death, but Mrs. Snyder is said to be suffering from extreme nervousness.

SEARCH FOR MISSING AVIATORS EXTENDS FROM COAST TO COAST WITH MANY SHIPS TAKING PART

Canadian, United States, and French Vessels Assist in Hunt.

PATROL LITTLE BAYS.

Liners Ordered To Cross Ocean Along Route Taken By Fliers.

NEW YORK, May 11 (Canadian Press).—Through the combined efforts of the Canadian Government, President Coolidge, the United States Navy Department, French officials, and the sailing masters of ocean passenger vessels, a hunt extending from the North American coast to the French coast went on to-day for Captains Nungesser and Coli, missing French aviators.

Fresh instructions were issued by the Canadian Government to radio stations, coastguard stations, and patrol vessels along the Atlantic to search for the French trans-Atlantic fliers.

The old adage that "no news is good news" was reversed as naval and coastguard vessels, after a twenty-four hour intensive search from Boston to Newfoundland, failed to send word of any trace being found of the fliers. Overnight there was an ominous silence as radio operators at the Boston Navy Yard listened for some message from the navy tugs Wandank and Mohave, which sped north on their quest yesterday morning.

Wide Sweep Covered.

Reports received from the tugs during the day yesterday indicated that they were covering a wide sweep of the North Atlantic. The Wandank was making its hunt well off shore, while the Mohave was keeping close to the coast on the chance that the "White Bird" might have come down in some isolated inlet.

Although seaplanes at Boston were in readiness to aid in the continued search to-day, flying conditions were so bad that there was little prospect that any of them would attempt to go up. Shore points and radio stations in Nova Scotia, Miquelon, and Newfoundland were on the alert for any sign of the missing fliers. All shipping equipped with radio was notified to send instant word in case they were located.

All France Is Anxious.

PARIS, May 11 (Canadian Press).—The mystery surrounding the fate of Captains Nungesser and Coli in their trans-ocean flight venture and of Captain Saint Roman and his flight companion, Commander Mouneyres, is binding all Frenchmen in the common bond of anxiety. Anxiety for Nungesser and Coli is tempered by strong hope that news of their safety will be forthcoming, but general opinion here to-day was there was little justification for optimism in the case of Saint Roman and Mouneyres, of whom nothing has been heard since they left the coast of West Africa last Thursday in an

Aircraft Agreement With U. S. Is Extended

WASHINGTON, May 11—The agreement of 1922 between the United States and Canada governing aircraft flights across the border was extended by exchange of notes yesterday until Oct. 31, and made reciprocal. Previously it applied only to American aircraft entering Canada.

The agreement, which was due to expire May 19, now provides that Americans or Canadians who contemplate flying into the other country notify that Government of their intent, giving date of the proposed flight, owner's name and address, pilot's name and qualifications, type of machine, route, duration of proposed flight, and the purpose for which being undertaken. All such aircraft must be licensed.

Chinese Leaders Dispute Statements Made in House By Chamberlain.

NOBODY PUNISHED.

LONDON, May 11 (Canadian Press).—Chang Tso-Lin and other Northern Chinese leaders are reported by Reuter's Peking correspondent to be very dissatisfied with the statement on the Chinese situation made in the House of Commons on Monday by the Foreign Secretary, Sir Austen Chamberlain.

The Chinese characterize as misleading his assertions that the Communist offenders have been punished. No important offender who intentionally committed outrages against foreigners has been effectively punished either by General Chiang Kai-Shek or his newly-formed Nationalist Government at Nanking, they say.

CROWDS WATCH CIRCUS PARADE

Memories Of Old Circus Days Brought Back By Procession.

CADETS TAKE PART.

"Hold your horses, the elephants are coming!" To the tune of real circus music the boys of Peterborough paraded along the main streets of the city at 7.00 last night. Memories of the "good old circus days" were brought back to the throngs of people that crowded the streets to see the parade pass by on the way to the "big top" in the Brock Street Rink.

Following the police car that marshalled the parade came a hack driven by a span of horses that one would read about in the fairy book of Cinderella. In the hack rode His Worship, the Boy-Mayor of Peterborough, Gordon Richardson, and his City Clerk.

Immediately after came the Junior band of the Salvation Army, which provided the music that gave the Collegiate Cadets a snappy gait as they swung down the street dressed in martial uniform. Then came five hundred and thirty-four school boys who lived up to the tradition of being "happy school boys," for last night will be a memorable event in their lives. Each school carried its own banner, and the following schools were represented: Prince of Wales, St. Peter's, King Edward, Central, Queen Mary, Queen Alexandra, King George, Sacred Heart, May's School, and the Immaculate Conception.

The Salvation Army Senior Band followed the school boys while a number of cars were also included in this part of the parade.

And then came the animals! Yes,

HOPE HELD LOST OCEAN ACES MAY BE SAVED BY SOME SHIP FATE STILL REMAINS UNKNOWN

Messages Sent Asking Steamships To Hunt For Aviators.

SCOURING COAST.

Havas News Agency Deny Publishing Reports Aces Had Landed.

NEW YORK, May 11 (Associated Press).—Hope for the rescue of the French aviators, Captains Nungesser and Coli, appears to hang by the tenuous thread that they may have been picked up at sea by Newfoundland fishermen or by a small coasting vessel off Ireland.

Overdue a full day here on their aeroplane flight from Paris, the fate of the French war aces has become a mystery of the sea. Wireless stations from New York to Labrador sputtered messages yesterday in all directions asking steamships in their courses to hunt for the aviators. But none reported sighting the "White Bird" which hopped off so bravely from Le Bourget field with the "skull and crossbones" and "death head" marked on the white fusilage as if to defy the elements.

The Canadian, French and United States Governments, instituting searches for the missing men yesterday, appeared balked in their early efforts to locate the plane. The "White Bird" has not been sighted since she was seen flying north-west at Carrag Island, Kerry and Kilrush, County Clair, Ireland, at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, so that the aviators may have been forced down anywhere along the remaining 3,200 miles of the water course.

Under orders of the Canadian Government, wireless stations, patrol boats and lighthouse keepers all along the shores of the Maritime Provinces are trying to find the airmen and to render them aid. The Canadian marine department announced yesterday afternoon that it was without advice on the French fliers from any source.

Require Forty Ships.

Navy Department officials at Washington figured that it would require forty ships to comb a lane two hundred miles wide across the Atlantic, a difficult task, as the searchers could only work in daylight and clear weather. The United States naval tugs Wandak and Mohave put out from Boston yesterday to search the trail between Cape Cod and Sable Island off Nova Scotia. The Government at Washington, in response to a request of the French Republic for aid in looking for the fliers, set about making organized plans to locate the aero plane. The navy and coastguard are making preliminary searches while the United States Shipping Board has despatched wireless orders to all its ships in trans-Atlantic service to keep a sharp lookout.

Would Remain Afloat.

Nungesser stoutly maintained before the start that if the 'White Bird' was forced down it would remain afloat indefinitely. With lightened oil tanks, the plants, its fuselage built of wood, might endure for some time unless buffeted by stormy seas. Whether Nungesser, with his limbs braced by metal because of injuries sustained in his air duels in the war, could long withstand the hammering of the waves before aid arrived is gravely doubted.

A representative of the United States Embassy yesterday visited the French Foreign Office regarding feeling shown against Americans and the circulation of rumors that American weather reports had resulted in misleading the French aviators. The French officials said that measures would be taken to stop the circulation of these rumors.

Seen No Trace

HALIFAX, N.S., May 11 (Canadian Press).—"No trace of the French fliers," was the report Commander Molloy of the United States coast guard cutter Tampa, which arrived in Halifax last night on her fortnightly relief from patrolling the steamer lanes of the North Atlantic, after conducting a search from Cape Race to 150 miles northeast of Sable Island, for the missing aviators, Nungesser and Coli, who set out from France Sunday morning on a non stop flight to New York. Commander Molloy said that a constant watch was kept for the fliers from the time they were advised by wireless that the flight had started, but had seen or heard nothing. Sunday night there was a snow storm on the Grand Banks, and since the flight was started a dense fog had prevailed in that vicinity, he reported. The Tampa was relieved by the Modoc, which is also keeping a lookout among schooners and smaller steamers and on the seas for news of the missing fliers.

Deny Reports

PARIS, May 11 (Canadian Press).—The Havas agency announced yesterday with reference to the erroneous reports published in France of the arrival of the Nungesser trans-Atlantic plane in New York, that it had received no cable or wireless dispatches containing such information and had published no reports to that effect. Havas is the leading French news bureau.

Will Not Start On Flight Till French Fliers Found

WASHINGTON, May 11 (A.P.).—Myron T. Herrick, United States Ambassador to France, yesterday cables the State Department that any attempt by United States aviators to make a trans-Atlantic flight while the fate of Captains Nungesser and Coli still is in doubt "might be misunderstood and misinterpreted."

This was made known early last night by the State Department in the following statement:

"The American Ambassador to France, the Hon. Myron T. Herrick, has cabled the State Department that the French are deeply moved and anxious over the lack of news of the missing aviators. Out of regard for their present state of anxiety, he feels that the take-off of a trans Atlantic flight from the United States at this time when the fate of the French aviators is still in doubt might be misunderstood and misinterpreted."

LYRICS OF LIFE

By Douglas Malloch

MORE THAN ALL ELSE

Beauty is what this old world needs,
More than all else. Some think it's money,
But I keep right on planting seeds
And try to make one corner sunny.
Some say it's know edge, but the book
That I keep reading has no pages,
And yet within it I may look
And find the wisdom of the ages,
A kinder wisdom than the sage's.

Beauty is what the world requires
More than all else. It has more quiet
When sorrow grieves, when labor tires,
Than all your shouting, all your riot.
And so I keep on making songs
While other men are making isms,
And look at all my hurts and wrongs
Through beauty's gay and glittering prisms,
Not much concerned with creeds or schisms.

Beauty is what this old world hath,
More than all else. Some think htat duty
Makes life a hard and narrow path;
'Tis not to him who sees its beauty.
So let us keep on finding flowers
Among the furrows, songs in stitches.
Some beauty in some task of ours,
Behind a desk, or down in ditches;
More than all else, there are our riches.

Plane Would Float 'Indefinitely," Nungesser said; Told Relatives Not To Worry For Two Or Three Days

NEW YORK, May 11—Before Captain Nungesser left Le Bourget airdrome he expressed the belief that his plane would be able to stay afloat "indefinitely" if it were forced down in the water. He did not fear that contingency, he said, because he and Captain Coli had prepared for it as carefully as possible.

Despite the size of the plane and the weight of the engine, there was great buoyancy in the huge gasoline tank amidships, and it is probable that the French pilots had a dump valve instilled in the bottom of it so that the gasoline might be drained off quickly if they were confronted with the necessity of landing on the water. Such valves have been installed in the Bellanca plane and in the plane Commander Byrd may fly across the Atlantic. Commander Noel had one in his ill-fated plane.

There is a good deal of buoyancy in the Frenchmen's plane itself. The fuselage is built of wood, and the framework of the wings is wood. The "doped" canvas of the fuselage had been put on in such a way as to be watertight, although a forced landing might easily split this fabric to pieces. The wooden framework also would hardly stand a severe battering by the sea without breaking apart after a few hours. But so long as it remained about the tank it would serve to keep the fliers on the surface.

They had also prepared for this emergency in other ways. They carried a filter to take the salt out of the ocean water, some food and lifebuoys to which they could cling. Planes have been known to land on the water and stay afloat for some time, but if there is a rough sea they are usually poor places of refuge.

However, Nungesser and Coli warned their friends and relatives according to The Associated Press, not to worry about them if they were not heard from for two or three days. They apparently felt that they could stay afloat until picked up by some vessel.

MARMORA NEWS.

MARMORA, May 10.—Mr. E. N. Grant of Trinity College, Toronto, is taking services in the parish of Rawdon until the end of June.

Mrs. Ernest Narrie of Mishawaka, Indiana, and her brother, Mr. James Lowery, of Milford, Ont., spent Thursday and Friday with Mr. and Mrs. William Narrie.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Gray and Mr. and Mrs. B. Davidson visited Oshawa on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Gordenier and Mr. and Mrs. D. McInroy visited Belleville on Saturday evening.

Messrs. W. R. Reynolds, A. Kennedy and E. Hewitt represented Deloro at the annual safety convention of the Industrial Accidents Associations held in Toronto May 9th and 10th.

Mrs. Harry Bird and daughters, Olive and Viola, of Trenton, were Sunday visitors at Dr. Lumsden's home.

WARM RECEPTION.

MARTIN'S FERRY, O., May 10. — When Fred Latham came home with his bride after the wedding ceremony, neighborhood children gathered about the house and began a loud and discordant serenade. Latham, smiling, appeared at a window, tossed a shower of pennies among the noisemakers. The shrieks became louder than ever, for the pennies were red hot. Haled into court by irate mothers, the bridegroom paid a fine of 1,000 pennies.

TROUBLE SIGNS FOR THOSE PAST 40

Bladder Weakness, Nervousness, Headaches, Frequent, Painful, Scanty Urination, Getting-up-Nights

The embarrassing annoyance and genuine misery of Bladder Weakness, often brings "discomforts of old age" to those who really ought to be in the very prime of life.

Countless thousands, perhaps seven out of ten, of folks near middle life are pitiful victims of Headaches, Nervousness, Pains in back and down through groins, frequent but scanty and painful urination—Getting-up-nights.

While serious if neglected—it is ordinarily a simple matter to relieve these troubles by the pleasant home use of Dr. Southworth's URATABS, which have been victorious in thousands of cases, after other treatments have failed.

No matter how serious or of how long standing your condition may be, you can quickly prove the value of URATABS without risk of cost—for any good druggist will supply you on an absolute guarantee of satisfaction or money back. If URATABS brings you quick and certian comfort, you will be greatly pleased. If they do not fully satisfy, their use will cost you nothing. Try URATABS today, and see what a difference they make.

PROBE FURTHER CAMOUFLAGING OF BEER CARS

Movements of Car, Numbered 568,348 Outlined Before Customs Board.

AS "SCRAP TIRES."

Shipped Under Various Names In Order To Get Past Border.

HAMILTON, Ont., May 11. Canadian Press. — The process of camouflaging beer laden freight cars in an effort to get their contents into the United States, was developed further for the benefit of the Royal Customs Commission here yesterday. Cars of "contractors' equipment," of "scrap leather" and of "automobile tires" proved according to evidence to contain large quantities of Canadian ale. One shipment of scrap automobile tires turned out to be 38,000 bottles of Canadian ale packed in barrels and screened with old tires at the doors of the car and scattered over the containers.

The history of this car was particularly interesting because of its mysterious movements. Its number was 569,348, and the shipping bill produced by William D. Thompson, in charge of billing for the Grand River Railway Company at Waterloo, showed that it was billed from Mason Anderson of Waterloo, to Frank Brothers, Kitchener. It was supposedly a car of "scrap tires." This was on March 2 of the present year.

Then in some mysterious way, car 569,348 turned up at Mimico, Ont, according to John Hope, Inspector of Investigations for the Canadian National Railways.

"How did the car get to Mimico?" asked R. L. Calder, K.C.

Mr. Hope replied that the records showed that it was shipped from Kitchener by Frank Brothers consigned to J. Bernstein.

"What was the next movement?" asked counsel.

"Between 11 and 12 on March 3rd a man giving his name as J. Bernstein signed for the car and ordered it placed on the Goodyear track so that he could put in more tires," was the reply.

Shipped to Chicago.

Later, he said, someone brought in bills, purporting to be signed by the Goodyear Tire Company shipping the car to Brown, Lane & Co., Chicago.

"I looked into the matter and the Goodyear Tire Company disclaim any knowledge of the customs papers or the waybills," Mr. Hope told the commission. "The car was seized at Port Huron, Mich., on its way into the United States."

The story of car 569,346 was then taken up by David C. McElroy, inspector of the United States customs at Port Huron. He was present when the seizure was made.

"What attracted your attention to this car?" Mr. Calder asked him.

"The billing from a large company to a small company," replied Mr. McElroy. The car was opened and the 270 barrels containing bottled beer were discovered.

"Have you a record of the labels on the bottles?" asked counsel.

"No."

"How was the rubber placed?"

"Packed in the doorway and over the tops of the barrels."

"Would it have deceived you if you

Hospital Drugs Stolen; "Blanks" Substituted

FLINT, Mich., May 11. — The theft of narcotics intended for use in treating patients about to undergo serious operations and the substitution of "blanks" went on at the Hurley Hospital for a considerable time and finally resulted in a woman employee leaving, an investigation under way yesterday is said to have shown. The facts were brought to light by Frank D. King, named last week as superintendent.

The young woman is said to have confessed that she had been using the drug and making the substitutions.

Discovery of the thefts was made after it was found the "anaesthetics" were not having the desired effect on patients.

HUSKY'S MERIT IS BEST PROVED IN LOCAL HOMES

All Members of the Family Use This Great Remedy With Fine Results.

The merit of Husky, the reconstructive tonic and premier preparation for the relief of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel ailments, is best known in the homes of this city where in many instances it has been used with splendid results by every member of the family. Mothers and fathers have found it fine and they give it to their children because they know Husky is compounded from pure vegetable juices and contains no harmful drugs. Husky is popular in the home because it has proven to be of surpassing value in relieving stomach, liver, kidney and bowel ailments and such accompanying ills as headaches, dizzy spells, indigestion, gas and sour stomach, constipation, catarrhal affections, rheumatic pains, nervousness, unsound sleep and weak, run down feelings.

Interesting Case Cited.

An interesting case which proves the merit of Husky is that of Mrs. Edith Parfrey, 127 Kenwood Ave., Toronto, who tells of her experience with Husky as follows: "For six months I suffered badly from stomach trouble. My appetite dwindled away and the little food I did eat would not digest well. It seemed that gas would form on my stomach almost every meal and then I would have a badly bloated feeling. I suffered severe pains in my back and my kidneys were in a weakened condition. My nerves were badly run down and I was restless and could not sleep well at night.

"I am taking the Husky treatment, and, thanks to this splendid remedy, my former ailments are being relieved. The stomach trouble is relieved, my appetite has returned and I can eat heartily without suffering from indigestion, gas or bloated feeling. The pains no longer appear in my back and my kidneys are acting normally. My nerves are stronger and I can sleep sound and restfully. I am gaining in health and strength each day. I am certain Husky will help others. It has been a blessing to me."

At Good Drug Stores.

Every person in this city suffering in any way Husky is recommended to relieve, is urged to give the Husky treatment a trial. Husky can be obtained at good drug stores everywhere and when taken regularly and over a reasonable length of time it will help you just as it is helping thousands of others.

TORNADO DEATH TOLL SWELLS IN SWEEP OVER MIDDLE WEST

Reported 233 Killed, With Probably Over Thousand Persons Injured.

SERIES OF STORMS.

Several Communities Hard Hit When Elements Strike at Missouri.

KANSAS CITY, May 11.—(A.P.)—Scourged by tornadoes, torrential storms and blizzards over a three day period, the middle west counted its dead at 233 late yesterday with probably a thousand persons injured, hundreds homeless and property damage in the millions.

In eight states from the Rocky Mountain region to the east and south-eastward, the fury of the weather brought death and suffering.

First destruction was wrought in Kansas where a twister roared in from the southwest Saturday night. There followed on Monday tornadoes that lashed Texas, Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana and Illinois, flattening farm houses and buildings in rural sections and laying towns and villages in waste.

Twice the elements struck at Missouri early Monday in a dozen communities in the central part of the state and late in the day at Poplar Bluff in the south-eastern section. The known dead at Poplar Bluff stood at 74 with scores injured and the heart of the city devastated. Ten persons were killed in central Missouri, three by high wind at St. Louis and two by twisters near Springfield, making a total of 89 deaths in the state, Cuts Swath.

Arkansas was swept from the southern section to the north-eastern counties by a series of twisters late Monday. Latest reports placed the dead at 79 and the injured at more than three hundred.

The death list in Texas, where tornadoes struck at two points, reached 35 yesterday when two died of injuries.

First report of casualties in Louisiana came yesterday when word was received that three negroes were killed and several persons injured by a heavy kind and rain storm that struck near Clarence, La., Monday.

Blizzard conditions in Wyoming resulted in three persons freezing to death. Two boys, Glen Holder and George Holmes, marooned a day and most of two nights in their motor car which was stalled in snow drifts, were rescued yesterday. They owe their lives to their faithful dog, which kept them from dropping into the slumber that procedes death by freezing.

The latest table of statistics in the storm stricken area follows:

State	Dead	Injured
Arkansas	79	350
Illinois	13	35
Iowa	1	—
Kansas	10	40
Louisiana—
Missouri	89	300
Texas	35	100
Wyoming	3	—

SEEDING DELAYED

Unfavorable Weather Having a Marked Effect on Western Farmer.

REGINA, Sask., May 11, (Canadian Press).—The continued unfavorable weather is having a marked effect on seeding in the province. Reports from all parts, telegraphed to Regina, indicate that, generally speaking, seeding is below the average of other years.

Another feature of the reports is that the wheat acreage will be decreased throughout Saskatchewan, but a corresponding increase in coarse grain acreage will make up for the loss in wheat.

SOVIET ANSWERS BALFOUR CLAIMS

English and Russian Delegates Have Tilt at Economic Conference.

—A tilt between the English delegate, Sir Arthur Balfour, noted industrialist, and the Russian Soviet delegate, Valerian Obolenski, was a feature at the session of the international economic conference Monday. Sir Arthur emphasized the difficulty of extending credits to Russia, whose state monopolistic system, he said, did not inspire confidence.

M. Obolenski retorted that the Soviet was not asking England to abolish the capitalistic system. The Russians were convinced that they would be able in the long run to restore the country without foreign credits, but the goal could be attained quicker with them.

He declared that trade between Russia and the United States now was greater than before the war, Russia's "monopolistic policy" having proved workable.

CLIMAX IN FIGHT OVER UNION BILL

All-Night Sitting in British House Expected on Thursday.

MANY AMENDMENTS

LONDON, May 11.—In all probability there will be an all-night sitting of Parliament next Thursday, when the battle over the government's Trades Union Bill will reach its climax, the Government being unwilling to apply forcible closure to the debate so long as Labor refrains from merely wasting time.

Many amendments are down for discussion. The die-hard Tories want to make the bill stronger so as practically to eliminate the possibility of all strikes in Britain's essential industries; the Liberals are seeking to soften and restrict its powers, while the Labor amendments are designed to wreck it entirely.

"Don't amend—just end," is Labor's slogan now being preached all over the country.

structed to inspect the rafters of the western section of the grand stand and if necessary to have an engineer look them over. This arose from a suggestion by W. R. Breyfogle that when the canopy is being put on the wooden beams should be replaced with steel. This was combatted by R. H. Turner who explained that the weight of the canopy would rest entirely on its own pillars and not on the beams, and asserted that the stand, constructed only two or three years ago, would last for years to come and support any crowd that might assemble there.

OLD MASTERS

On a starred night Prince Lucifer uprose.
Tired of his dark dominion swung the fiend
Above the rolling ball in cloud part screened,
Where sinners hugged their spectre of repose
Poor prey to his hot fit of pride were those.
And now upon his western wing he leaned,
Now his huge bulk o'er Afric's sands careened,
Now the black planet shadowed Arctic snows.
Soaring through wider zones that pricked his scars
With memory of the old revolt from Awe,
He reached a middle height, and at the stars,
Which are the brain of Heaven, he looked and sank.
Around the ancient track marched, rank on rank,
The army of unalterable law.

New Life Members.

South Dummer, it was reported, had reached almost an ideal condition with regard to membership in the W.M.S., almost every woman member of the church being a member of the society also. Thirty-eight new life members were reported for the year.

Mrs. Irvine, reading the treasurer's report, showed returns from auxiliaries as totalling $13,253.91; from Young Women's Auxiliaries, $374.45, from Circles, $2,366.06, from Bands, $1,073.96, from affiliated groups of the C.G.I.T. societies, $78, returned from the branch, $30, bank interest, $10.17, refund from the Supply Secretary, $10.90 and a donation of $1,000 from two women belonging to the Presbyterial. Disbursements included remittance to the Branch treasurer of $17,800 and also $100 from the Woodville Auxiliary, Presbyterial expenses, $178.45, exchange on checks, $11.41, transfer to the Toronto branch, on account of the Uxbridge District, $24.55, with a balance in the bank of $149, and a total of $18,263.41.

Sources of income were outlined as follows: Annual Members' fees, $837; Life Members' fees, $950; Y.W.A. annual members' fees, $2.25; Y.W.A. Life Members' fees, $25; Circles' Members' fees, $66.50; Circles' Life Members' fees, $40; Band annual Members' fees, $83.20; Band Life Members' fees, $80.00; Baby Bands, $6.38; Associate Helpers', $27.25; Donations, $1262.11; Mite Boxes, $2699.20; Public Meetings, $580.95; Easter Thank-offerings, $4783.75, and other sources, $6281.18.

The Dedicatory prayer, offering this money to God, for the extension of His Kingdom, through the work of the W.M.S., was then offered by Mrs. J. McIntosh, of Fenelon Falls, and an interlude in the session was provided by the vocal solo in excellent voice by Mrs. H. F. Doig, who sang the hymn, "Do Something for Others," with piano accompaniment by Miss Alma Blanchard.

The accompanist for the musical programme of the afternoon, in the hymns sung by the ladies, was Mrs. W. H. Cunningham. The report of the Nominating Committee, for decision this morning, was read by Mrs. H. Irvine, of Lindsay, and was followed by a splendid address, to which a hearty vote of thanks was accorded, given by Miss Effie Jamieson of Toronto, Home Board secretary of the W.M.S.

Words of Jesus.

Miss Jamieson based an exceptionally interesting and inspiring address on the words of Jesus, addressed to His disciples on the occasion of the Last Supper: "Verily, verily, I say unto you, he that believeth in Me, the works that I do shall he do also, and greater works than these shall he do, because I go to the Father." Miss Jamieson then went on to compare the works of Jesus in His lifetime upon the earth with the works, greater in capacity, that might be accomplished and were being accomplished by organizations like the Women's Missionary Society.

Jesus taught by the wayside and upon the mountains and upon the water. The Women's Missionary Society also takes as one of its greatest works the teaching of those to whom the True Word is a mystery, and they open the secrets of life and its sweetness to people like the little African maid who comes into the mission with no thought of personal cleanliness beyond that of a pussy cat in washing its face. Jesus preached His Gospel, and this is done by the society, the whole of the world being its parish. It likewise heals the sick in countless thousands through its many hospitals scattered over India, Korea, China and Africa, and, as He cleansed the lepers, so one of its main works in those lands which are afflicted with this curse is the effort to stem its tide and eventually wipe it out altogether. Jesus said "Suffer the little children to come unto Me," so the society does much for the children in far-away lands and those in Canada also. Jesus raised the daughter of Jairus to life, "but, I ask you, is it less of a miracle to take an outcast girl from an Indian village, or a little Chinese girl from where she has been thrown on the garbage heap outside the city, or a girl from an Africal kraal, with its polygamous existence, and train her until she can stand in a white dress with the degree she has won, in her hand?"

Just as Jesus performed a miracle for the Phoenican woman who came to Him, seeking help for her daughter, so the work of the society includes assistance to the foreign-born people who come to our shores, and the help given to the woman of Samaria by the well was likened by the speaker to the work going on in Quebec, in the French Protestant Schools and Institutes in Montreal, which gave, she said, help to the French-Canadians who sought the true light.

The feeding of the multitude by Jesus was duplicated in the Social Service work of the society, and He also trained His disciples in leadership, as it strives to do. Here the speaker referred to the missionaries, compelled to depart from China, who were enabled, in many instances, to leave their work in the capable hands of Chinese converts.

Miss Jamieson closed with a plea for the text of her address, to be used as a motto by the W.M.S.—"Greater works than these he shall do."

Young People's Work.

The afternoon session concluded with prayer, offered by Mrs. D. W. Walls, of Beaverton, after an interesting period had been given up to enquiries, when various questions were answered by Miss Jamieson.

Supper followed, served in the Sunday school hall downstairs by the Women's Missionary Society of George street church, with Mrs. S. R. Armstrong as convenor. A conference on Young People's Work featured the service, and a very interesting pageant, entitled, "Waiting for a Doctor," and outlining the work in different countries, was presented by the George street Church Mission Band.

ACTION OF TURF CLUB RESENTED

Campbellford Fair Directors See Opposition To Their Holiday.

MAY 24TH RACES.

(Special to The Examiner.)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 11.—Directors of the Campbellford Fair Board are rather disappointed at the action of the newly-formed Peterborough Turf Club in arranging for a race meet on May 24th. When the Campbellford Board announced weeks ago that they intended to hold their usual May holiday sports, they did not anticipate any serious opposition in the entire Trent district. And then, almost at the last minute, the Peterborough horsemen step into the ring, upsetting somewhat the hopes and calculations of the local Fair Board.

Two of those who referred to this suddenly developing opposition were Vice-President T. J. Horkins, and the Secretary-Treasurer, J. Nelson Stone. Their grievance compositely was somewhat in this strain: "We expected both people and horses for our day of sports, and it looks as if the Turf Club was breaking in at the last moment. Perhaps they were not all aware of it, but they must have known that we wanted as many as possible of the Peterborough horses to come down for our races. Probably we will get some of them in spite of the Turf Club's program. We certainly hope they will come, for we have good purses and we expect a big crowd from all parts of the district."

Several business men were not quite so diplomatic in their expression of opinions. Said one of them to The Examiner: "It looks like trying to hog things. Peterborough is putting on a big celebration for Dominion Day. Our day has been May 24th, and it would have been neighborly to have let us have it. Peterborough expects thousands from the country and towns in this district for Dominion Day, and evidently they are going to do things on a big scale, but it would have looked better from this distance if they had not grabbed up the May 24 holiday when we had previously announced our own race program for that day."

OBITUARY.

DOROTHY FEE.

Death claimed the little eight year old daughter, Dorothy, of Mr. and Mrs. William Fee, on Tuesday, following an illness of short duration from diphtheria. The little girl had visited her cousin a week or so ago, who complained of sore throat and she is supposed to have contracted it. She attended school last week until Thursday, and on Saturday the doctor was called, who was suspicious of the symptoms, and upon diagnosis it was pronounced diphtheria. On Monday her condition was very serious, but on Tuesday morning she showed a change for the better. However, she passed away about noon, much to the sorrow of the whole community.

Besides the sorrowing parents, her two sisters, Irene at home and Mrs. Clarence Laidley of Lindsay, and one brother, Clifford, survive.

The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon to Emily cemetery, Rev. E. W. Rowland conducting the ceremony.

OMEMEE LADY HURT BY FALL

BADLY CRIPPLED

OMEMEE, May 11.—Mrs. Redmond Carey, who is badly crippled with rheumatism, is confined to her bed suffering from several bruises and a severe shock which she received last week as the result of a fall, on her bedroom floor. Her daughters, Miss Marion of Tweed, and Mrs. Barrie, and husband of Toronto, and sons, George and Walter of Toronto, spent the week end with her.

SISTER FOLLOWS BROTHER IN DEATH

The One at Campbellford and the Other as Campbellcroft.

(Special Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 11.—Three weeks to the day after the funeral of her brother, Mrs. Elizabeth Stillman died early Tuesday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Bullen, Rear street. Although her health had been declining for five months, death came rather unexpectedly.

Mrs. Stillman was 72 years old and was born in Dorsetshire, England. In her twentieth year she came to Canada and had lived since then in this district, the last thirty-five years in Campbellford. As Elizabeth Thoms she was married to James Stillman who predeceased her ten years ago. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. C. L. Bland of Cantur, Sask., Mrs. Robert Bullen of town and Mrs. W. C. Findlay, of Portland, Oregon, the two latter daughters having been at her bedside. Other surviving relatives are her sisters: Mrs. Harry Noyes of Peterborough, Mrs. Oliver Baker and Mrs. Robert Marshall, of Belmont, and one brother, Edwin Thoms, of Peterborough. Her other brother, Harry Thoms, was buried at Campbellcroft three weeks ago.

Mrs. Stillman had been a faithful member of the Methodist church and latterly of St. John's United church. The funeral will take place on Thursday at 2.30 p.m. from Mrs. Bullen's home to Mount Pleasant cemetery.

IS it in the best interests of the road and the country?" That was the yardstick with which Thomas Shaughnessy measured every proposition. If the answer was "No," neither fear nor favor could move him.

Before he succeeded Sir William Van Horne as President, to Shaughnessy fell the task of organizing and supervising the enormous purchases of the Company. In that day, some men looked upon such a position as a legitimate path to easy riches. Not Shaughnessy. Duty first, last and always was the standard he had set for himself.

Lord Shaughnessy carried the same policy to the President's chair. He organized an intricate network of branch lines, collecting traffic and feeding it to the great main road. He inaugurated the Canadian Pacific's Atlantic fleet, operated freighters that carried the Company's house flag and the name of Canada to the ports of the seven seas.

But never a step was taken that had not some definite benefit to the road and to the country directly in view.

Lord Shaughnessy would brook no privately-controlled subsidiaries, waxing fat at the parent organization's expense. Steamships, telegraphs, grain elevators, lands and even sleeping and dining cars—all were integral parts of one system, pooling their earnings in one central treasury.

Through this husbanding of the Company's resources, the financial power necessary to carry out immense campaigns of colonization and industrial promotion was assembled. Through such far-sighted management the Company has paid its way, distributed well-earned profits to its thousands of shareholders, carried great plans to successful completion without call on the public funds of Canada. THE HOBBY SHOW.

Boys' Week opens out into a new field of boyhood activity tomorrow when the Boys' week hobby show begins at the Y.M.C.A.

This exhibition is probably the most unique feature of the whole programme.

It is the first time that an attempt has been made in Peterborough to demonstrate what use the boys of this city make of their spare time.

Everybody is the better for a hobby—providing, of course, it operates along rational lines—and citizens who attend the Boys' Week hobby show will be surprised at the variety of things in which some local boys are interested.

The prize list is a most ambitious affair; it had to be to provide scope for the hobbies of Peterborough boyhood.

Stamp collections, old coins, collection of newspaper headings, cabinet work, pets, comprise just a few of the classes to be exhibited.

A dog show is included, and the prize list even adds an award for the homeliest dog in the show and another for the canine with the most spots.

You would be well advised not to miss this unique exhibition, which is to be held on the last three days of the week.

THEY CALLED HIM "GOOD ROADS."

The people of Canada owe a deep debt of gratitude to A. W. Campbell, Dominion Highway Commissioner, whose sudden death at Ottawa on Monday has shocked the country.

No one man did more to give Canada improved highways than Mr. Campbell, whose persistent efforts to bring about better conditions so far as our system of roads was concerned long ago earned for him the name of "Good Roads" Campbell.

Thirty years ago, discouraged by the state of most roads in Canada, Mr. Campbell began his campaign for better highways, a campaign carried on for a long time in the face of no support at all from city dwellers, who then had no occasion to use the roads, and very little help in the rural districts.

He maintained the agitation, however, in season and out until the advent of the motor car added heavier pressure to the campaign, and eventually resorts were obtained.

"Good Roads" Campbell entered the Federal service, became Dominion Highway Commissioner, and last year had the satisfaction of knowing that $45,563,000 was spent on the construction and maintenance of Provincial highways in Canada.

The name of A. W. Campbell should long be held in grateful memory by the people of this country.

BLAZING THE TRAIL.

It seems impossible to hope that Captains Nungesser and Coli, the two gallant French flyers who winged their way into the air on Sunday to attempt a non-stop flight from Paris to New York, are alive.

Since they left the French coast no authentic information of their movements has been received; they should have arrived at New York on Monday evening, and it is feared that they are martyrs to the ambition to demonstrate the progress of aviation and to win laurels for their native land.

Nungesser, one of the greatest flyers of the World War, Coli, a distinguished navigator both of the air and on the water, both came close to death during the war, and it is the irony of fate that their lives should have been snuffed out in this peace-time venture.

There will be those who will call them fool-hardy, even crazy, but it must be remembered that it is only through the utter fearlessness of men like these who will face death with a smile on their lips that the world progresses.

They are blazing the trial for the transportation system of the future, demonstrating what is being accomplished in the world of aerial navigation.

They have failed, gloriously, tragically, but others will accept the risks and the perils of the long flight until finally we will hear of non-stop air voyages from America to Europe with the same lack of excitement as we greet the announcement that the noon train has arrived.

A REAL SPORTSMAN.

Clarence De Mar, five times winner of the Boston Marathon, seems to be not only a wonderful runner but a very gallant sportsman, and his defence of Johhny Miles, youthful Nova Scotian runner, is the utterance of a real man.

Incidentally, it is a rebuke to those individuals who are so eager to criticize the gameness or the probity of athletes.

Miles, it will be remembered dropped out of the recent Boston Marathon at the end of seven miles because his feet had become so badly blistered by the hot pavement that to continue would have probably ruined him for all time as a marathoner.

For that action the youthful runner has been condemned as a quitter by those people who are the first to cheer a winner and the first to desert him when the breaks are against him.

De Mar warmly defends his rival, pointing out that equipped with rubber shoes as he was he had no chance to go through.

"By quitting that race as he did, Johnny saved himself from serious consequences," says De Mar. "I predict that Johnny will square himself in the Olympic trials at Hamilton, Ontario, and I further predict that he will go abroad as a Canadian representative and there surprise thousands in North America.

"Johnny Miles is a marathoner in every sense of the word. I stated before the race here that he would win it; that I hoped to run second to him. I meant it. Had the weather been what he was used to and had he been better advised, I would not have won."

Very much of a man is Czarence De Mar, marathoner extraordinary.

CANADIANS ARE VICTIMS.

Communities along the international boundary are perturbed at present because of the promulgation of regulations of the United States immigration bureau which will tend to prevent the employment of foreign-born Canadian citizens and residents in the adjoining American centres and which will harass and put to some expense native Canadians who earn their bread and butter on the other side.

Although orators and editorial writers frequently point to the more than century of peace that has existed between these two countries and remark that along the thousands of miles of boundary there are no evidences of mutual military distrust, the observer cannot have failed to note the gradual restriction of free intercourse.

The genesis of restriction is the protective principle enforced by labor leaders on the United States Government. The excuse for the new regulations concerning Canadian citizens and residents is that an unguarded border would permit immigrants from across the sea to evade the United States quota laws by entering by way of a Canadian port. But it is apparent that one of the reasons for the discovery that the anti-Canadian restrictions are necessary is closely allied to the evils of bureaucracy. One of the most effective arguments of a bureaucrat in his own defence is that his bureau is self-supporting. The United States is taxing immigrants at not less than $18 the head and Canadians who are compelled to comply with the new restrictions will be helping the cause along.

In the diplomatic relations between the United States and Canada it has been the custom for Canada, when occasion demanded, to make polite remonstrances to Washington, and then to submit to the grievance. It is hoped, for once, that some measure of retaliation may be considered justifiable in order to demonstrate to the Government at Washington that submission to the whims and unreasonable policies of bureaucrats is not helpful in maintaining the mutual economic and social benefits of free intercourse between two friendly countries.—Financial Post.

GRATEFUL FOR OUR ANNOYANCES.

It seems more than likely that we are always going to have annoyances and exasperating situations to face and to endure. Try as we may there doesn't seem to be any likelihood that we shall ever reach such a sheltered and safe place in life that they shall not be able to get at us and test our fibre and disturb our peace. And even if there were any hope of ever coming to such a haven of rest, the continual searching for it looks like a rather cowardly and undignified performance, and would probably have a very serious reaction upon ourselves. No, we might about as well settle down to it that if we are going to play any real part in life and not all the time be running away from it, it is going many times to present us with situations that are quite annoying.

Well, what shall we do with them and how shall we try to meet them? As a matter of fact, we have our various ways of answering those questions and sometimes each of our ways varies according to the mood we happen to be in at the time, which isn't an altogether intelligent way of handling a difficult situation. Sometimes we allow ourselves to become thoroughly annoyed, which usually is about one of the very worst things we could do. Sometimes we adopt the martyr attitude, and insist that life has been giving us a bad deal by disturbing and exasperating us so. But that is a somewhat childish attitude to adopt. Sometimes we let these unavoidable provocations and annoyances of life whip us into a fretfulness and a touchy peevishness that is not good to see or to live with.

There ought to be better ways of handling such a situation than any one of those enumerated. There is one better way, I am sure, and it will work most effectively; not that I can boast that I have always succeeded with it. It is possible to take a kind of positive and constructive attitude toward one's annoyances just as one would swallow down a bitter pill that he was sure would do him good; it is anything but sweet to the taste, but one can quite easily forget that fact in thinking of the tonic results that may follow.

I am sure that it may be very good for us to have even annoyances stir us out of the too-great complacency and peacefulness that we would often like to indulge. The discipline of disagreeable and exasperating things is one of the disciplines that make for wholesome and invigorating health, and, we being such creatures as we are, it is very doubtful if we can get such health by any other process. If we would use them as we ought and see them as we might, perhaps there is nothing we should be more grateful for than some of life's annoyances.—The New Outlook.

INSPIRING TALK GIVEN W. M. S. BY MISS SMYTH

Tells of Work Among Foreign Born in Cities and West.

EVENING SESSION.

His Worship Mayor Holloway Welcomes Delegates To Peterborough.

Last evening's session of the second annual meeting of the Lindsay Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada was featured by an address from Miss Susie Smyth of the All People's Mission in Hamilton, and was attended by a large number of delegates and people from the other United churches of the city, who provided a good-sized audience for an interesting session. The choir of George street church, led by Mr. J. H. Renwick, organist, was present, and took part in the singing of several hymns, a quartette from the choir, composed of Messrs. Cunningham, Kenmure, Bryan and Lillow, rendering in fine voice a selection entitled "That Beautiful Land." Rev. J. E. Todd presided over the meeting and gave a Scripture reading, which was followed by prayer offered by Rev. M. Dyar of Greenmount, Rev. Mr. McNeely of Bridgenorth pronouncing the Benediction.

In the absence of the Moderator, Rev. Mr. Stillman, of Norwood, greetings from the Presbytery were voiced by Rev. J. W. Gordon, of St. Andrew's church, and greetings of the city to the delegates were tendered by Mayor Holloway, who referred in the course of his remarks to the interest being taken in boys' work this week by men of Peterborough, and expressed the hope that in some future time, differences in religion would be a thing of the past. "Although the Roman church seems to have a definite purpose in view, in keeping away from all other organizations, I am sorry for that."

President's Message.

The president of the Lindsay Presbyterial, Miss E. Dunoon, of Lindsay, gave a comprehensive outline of the way in which the work of the Women's Missionary Society is carried on. The entire work of the organization in Canada, she said, is done by voluntary workers, with the exception of two salaried officers, Miss Jamieson, general secretary, and the assistant treasurer, Miss Eva Smith. "There are only two paid officials in a business which has a yearly turnover of over a million dollars."

Speaking of the finances, Miss Dunoon said that 89¼ per cent of the funds received are sent directly to the missions and 2 per cent is allowed for an emergency fund, also for missions. The retirement fund takes 3½ per cent, and the speaker asserted that it was only fair to try to take care, in this way, of missionaries who gave, in some instances, from twenty to forty years of their lives in the work, and whose salaries were small, the women doctors in foreign fields receiving only $1,000 a year, with free housing. For organization, one-half of one per cent is allowed, and two travelling secretaries who go about Canada, encouraging, supporting, informing and organizing, are maintained in this way. For literature and publications, 2½ per cent is set aside, making a total for actual missionary work, said Miss Dunoon, of 98 per cent of the funds received for the work. Two per cent is used for administration expenses, and it has been said that no other board in the world operates on such a low percentage of cost as the Board of the Women's Missionary Society of Canada. Miss Dunoon also received applause when she said the Lindsay Presbyterial had gone "over the top" by $500 in its allocation of the past year, and went on to speak of the faithful work of the officers and workers in the society.

Approximately 200,000 women in Canada belonged to the W. M. S., said the speaker, but there are approximately double that number who do not belong, and might be brought into membership, "with wonderful returns to the work, and to themselves, in an enlarged vision, a more definite part in the world's redemption and a more vital place in the church's life."

Miss Susie Smyth's Address.

Miss Susie Smyth, of Hamilton, a speaker with a low, well-modulated voice, a fund of poetical lore on which she drew freely to illustrate her words, and an evident consecrated allegiance to the work she described, was the final speaker of the evening, giving an address which was thoughtful and inspiring in the extreme, with an abstract quality to its spiritual atmosphere. Speaking of the voices which call from different parts of the earth, asking for help and guidance in the way to Christ, Miss Smyth alluded to the work among foreign-born settlers on Canadian shores as an integral portion of the endeavors to be made by the W. M. S. East of Lake Superior, she said, there are 600,000 new Canadians of this type, and west of it, 700,000. Fifty per cent of the population of the Middle West is made up of the foreign-born element, and sixty-six nations are represented in this number. "And do these people find in Canada a Christian country, ready to help them make their homes here?"

Speaking of the needs encountered in the great industrial centers of the land, and of the necessity of teaching the newcomers the moral and social significance of the land to which they have come, Miss Smyth alluded to the many types of nationalities met in a city like Hamilton, where there are among the foreign-born, Russians, Serbians, Italians, Polish, Ukrainian, Rumanian, Galician, Czecho-Slovakian, Lithuanian, Austrian, German, Welsh, French, English, Scotch, Irish and Indian.

In community centers established in such large cities, there are kindergartens for the children, where English is gradually taught them, without the slightest accent; there are clubs for every age, whose aim is to Canadianize and Christianize the newcomers; there are Sunday schools, mothers' meetings once a month, where lessons in homemaking and care of the children are given; there are story hours for the children, men's clubs, "where they are taught, as they were not in their own land, to look upon Christ as a personal Friend and Saviour," and there are fresh-air camps.

"The Mission serves as an information and interpretation bureau between these people and the institutions of the land to which they come, and of whose laws and regulations they know nothing," said Miss Smyth, who concluded her discourse with a similitude between the art of mosaic-building and the building of a nation. "The cement which binds the different parts of the mosaic together is duplicated in the cement between these people and us, formed of good will and friendliness, born of mutual respect for each other."

A hearty vote of appreciation of Miss Smyth's address was voiced by Rev. Mr. Todd and accorded the support of the audience.

A well-stocked table of missionary literature is maintained in connection with the convention, with a table of "free" pamphlets. The literature is in charge of Miss Emma L. Light, of George street church, assisted by the literature secretaries of the various United churches in the city, including Mrs. Nelson, from St. Andrew's, Mrs. Denoon from Knox, Miss Pinnie from Mark street, Miss Preston of Trinity, and Miss R. English of St. James' church.

Arrangements for billeting the delegates are in the hands of Mrs. Rowe of St. James' church, assisted by Mrs. E. Wand of Mark street church, and Mrs. A. Bookhout and Mrs. A. B. Cunningham of Trinity church.

Section of Industrial Accident Prevention Association Holds Meeting.

F. B. Elliott, publisher of The Alliston Herald, with Campbell Bradshaw, managing editor of the MacLean Publishing Co. technical newspapers, and W. C. R. Harris, of The Toronto Daily Star, were elected directors of the printing trades section of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations at the annual convention at Toronto, on May 9th and 10th.

Hundreds of industrial executives and plant superintendents from all over Ontario gathered at the King Edward Hotel to take part in the two-day programme planned to inspire the responsible persons in Ontario's industries to greater effort to eliminate accidents in their plants.

Hon. W. D. Ross, Lieutenant-Governor, welcomed the delegates and commended the work of the associations. James A. Emery of Washington, D.C., and other speakers, featured the first day while practical problems were discussed by many speakers on the second day.

W. S. Campbell, of the Canadian General Electric Co., Toronto, formerly of Peterborough, is the new general chairman.

TRAIN CUTS OFF MAN'S LEFT LEG

Montreal Youth Also Loses Right Foot in London Accident.

LONDON, Ont., May 10.—A young man of about 28, who gave the police his name as Jack Raymond, of Montreal, had his left leg severed when he slipped and fell beneath a C.P.R. freight train near the Richmond Street depot late Monday afternoon. He was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital by the police and was attended by Drs. W. J. Stevenson and W. J. Tillman. His left leg is off at the knee and it was found necessary to amputate his right foot. He also had a severe gash on the head and his condition generally is regarded as very critical. Raymond told the police that he had been in Chicago and that he had taken the train from Windsor in an effort to get to Montreal, where he said his mother is critically ill. He was seen riding on the truss rods beneath a box car as the train entered London. At the depot he atempted to jump clear, believing that he was in the yards. He struck the depot platform and fell back beneath the wheels.

"CASEY" COMES TO BAT ONCE AGAIN!

Latest Wallace Beery Film Made to Order for All Diamond Enthusiasts

When spring's in the air, when birds come flying north, when the grass is beginning to sprout, when blossoms are starting to bud, when eyes wander away from one's desk, when a young man's fancy lightly turns to live, when thoughts direct themselves towards vacation, when new moons create tender yearnings, when heavy underwear is joyfully embedded in layers of camphor, when bathing suits emerge from their silken cocoon, when country excursions are playfully planned, when the crack of the willow manifests itself at each street corner, when empty lots overflow with baby Babe Ruths, when the umpire's busy "calling 'em out" (and so on, ad infinitum)—that's the time for me!

So we can imagine the baseball fan rhapsodizing as the big leagues get going. This year, more than ever, has he cause to rejoice. Paramount has built a fine comedy around America's national pastime, "Casey at the Bat."

Based on the immortal poem, Hector Turnbull, Paramount producer, builded a tale of many laughs, Starring Wallace Beery as the "mighty Casey", it starts in Centerville, a small town near New York. Casey, junk-man and baseball player, wins himself a contract to play with the Giants when he nonchalantly knocks out a home run while holding a stein of beer in one hand.

Taking place against a panorama provided by New York in the first decade of this century. Casey becomes the hit of the hour. He is toasted, feted and idolized until—but why write too much? "Casey at the Bat" arrives at the Capitol Theatre tomorrow. Ford Sterling, ZaSu Pitts and Sterling Holloway support the star. Monte Brice, former scenarist, is said to have hit the comedy bell a resounding blow with his first directorial assignment.

"SCANDALS"

"The dancing show of the decade" well describes the new George White Scandals, seventh edition, which comes to the Grand on Friday. From advance reports, it would seem that the seventh edition of this famous series of revues has set a new standard in dancing. Two separate and distinct ensembles of young and beautiful girls are found in the new Scandals,—the George White Beauty Chorus, and the famous Albertina Rasch Girls, whose ensembles were personally staged by Mlle. Albertina Rasch herself. Each girl in the seventh edition was selected for her youth and beauty, and yet only girls who could dance the intricate steps of the new production were engaged.

Bladder Weakness Remedied by Gin Pills

Buffalo man recommends them for kidney and bladder trouble

Gin Pills bring you quick relief from urinary and bladder troubles. They soothe the kidneys and bladder and get rid of that burning sensation; the frequent desire to urinate is overcome; brick dust deposits disappear. You can again enjoy comfort by day and sound sleep by night. Thousands of people are relieved of bladder and kidney troubles every year. Read what George F. Doetterl, Buffalo, N.Y., says of Gin Pills:

"I suffered from bladder weakness and frequent urination. I had tried other kidney remedies, but got no relief. Advised to take Gin Pills, I did so, and after taking half a box noticed much improvement. I can sincerely recommend these pills to anyone suffering from kidney and bladder derangement."

If you have headaches, backache, uric acid, pain in the kidneys, dizziness, frequent urination or swollen joints, Gin Pills will correct them. 50c a box at all druggists. The National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Toronto, Canada. 125

The stage is, therefore, filled with a sea of beautiful face and graceful forms, and the performance moves through scene after scene of astonishing beauty and humor. It is doubtful if many musical revues in recent seasons have been more beautifully costumed, nor any production been more beautifully lighted, for both of these factors contribute much to the success of a huge performance of this description. The cast itself ranks high and boasts such names as Sammy Howard, the well-known comedian, and brother of Eugene and Willy Howard; Lillian Norwood, late of the Passing Show; Sonia de Calvi, prima donna; Helen Claire McAllister, one of the amazing discoveries of the season; the La Gizzi Dancers, imported from Madrid, Spain, and many other of equal distinction.

AT THE REGENT.

YOSEMITE VALLEY AS FILM SETTING

"The deepest picture setting in the world," has been filmed, as a background with miles of space before it, in the production of "The Understanding Heart," which is coming to the Regent Theatre on Thursday, as a Cosmopolitan production, based on Peter B. Kyne's famous novel. It takes in miles of scenery at a glance, at the end of miles of space one of the strangest tasks ever assigned a motion picture camera.

The "set" is the whole view of Yosemite Valley from Inspiration Point, the pinnacle at the end of the famous California scenic wonderland overlooking all the famous spots of the valley.

Aside from being a remarkable lens feat the task involved daring work on the part of cameraman, technicians and actors. Cameras and equipment had to be hauled by burros over the "old trail" a narrow and dangerous roadway in the sides of gigantic crags where a mis-step might spell death. In some cases ropes were used to haul the cameras up the sides of cliffs.

Ramsay Macdonald, former Labor Premier, today, that impeachment of the Baldwin Government for its enactment would be justified.

Only Possible Clue Man Seen Carrying Child Along Street.

TORONTO, May 11.—While asleep yesterday afternoon in his baby carriage near Queen street entrance to a departmental store, Lloyd Daley, aged 2 months, was kidnapped.

Mrs. Mary Daley, 164 Duchess street, mother of the child, had left the infant sleeping while she went to the fifth floor to have a glass of buttermilk.

The baby was lifted from the carriage and carried away, unnoticed by any store attendants on duty in the doorways.

Child Not Found.

Police so far have been unable to find the missing baby. Inquiries made at all hospitals, the Infants' Homes and other institutions failed to throw any light as to the whereabouts of the child.

Detectives late last night and early this morning were endeavoring to trace an elderly man, who was seen by Constable Cool (303) of Dundas street west division carrying an infant in his arms on Yonge street.

Baby in Man's Arms.

Cool said he was on duty at the west side of Yonge at Dundas street when he noticed a man pass him, walking north, with a small baby in his arms. The constable had not at the time learned of a baby having been kidnapped.

He described the man as being between 55 and 60 years of age, about 5 feet 9 inches in height, of rubby complexion, and with a grey moustache. As the man passed Cool with the child the constable said he noticed it did not have any shoes on, just white booties or stockings. This was about 4.15 in the afternoon, a short time after the baby had been taken away.

Detectives Alexander and Winters, assigned to the case, were inclined to think some mother who had lost a baby resembling the Daley child had seen it and taking a fancy to it, carried it home.

Another clue they were working on was that some youngster with a strong fondness for babies had lifted the child from its go-cart and carried it away.

Born in March.

The baby is an only child and was born in St. Michael's Hospital March 14. It will be two months old next Saturday. Mrs. Daley said it was a good natured child and weighed 8 1-4 pounds.

Mrs. Daley said last night that shortly before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon she dressed the baby and placed it in the carriage to take it for an outing in the sun. On leaving the house, she told The Globe, she walked west along Duchess street to Ontario street. Here she turned north to Queen street and west along to the store.

Approaching Yonge street, she said, she noticed the baby had fallen asleep. She wheeled the carriage alongside a number of other carriages near the doorway and on walking into the store took the elevator to the fifth floor. She drank a glass of buttermilk, then returned to the street.

Frantic To Find Baby Gone.

'On walking over to the go-cart," she said, "I noticed one of the blankets had been pulled down. I shoved back the leather hood and was frantic when I found the baby was gone." For a moment the mother said, she thought the baby had been crying and that some kind-hearted woman might have lifted it from the go-cart to comfort it until the mother returned.

Unable to find her baby, the mother gave an alarm that set store attendants and citizens in a search. The mother was advised to notify the police.

Detectives Winters and Alexander went to the nurseries of departmental stores. Inquiries made failed to find any person who had seen the baby.

While the detectives drove to hospitals and other institutions to see if some person had taken the baby there, the mother paced up and down Queen street until nearly 6.30 o'clock, in hope that she might see some one with her baby. Her husband, James Daley, a returned soldier who works at the concessions at Sunnyside, was notified, and he at once met his wife to assist in the hunt for the child.

In Italy and Spain it is the rule to wear black for chuch services, bright colors being taboo.

Grim Pyorrhea gets 4 out of 5

All around you are people doomed, through carelessness, to contract Pyorrhea. Four persons out of five past forty (and many younger) are its victims.

Carelessness—neglect of teeth and gums—is the cause. And the results, too often, are loss of teeth, neuritis, rheumatism, or other serious diseases.

And yet, if you start in time, it is so easy to prevent. See your dentist twice a year. And start using Forhan's for the Gums.

Used regularly and in time, Forhan's prevents Pyorrhea or checks it. It firms the gums and keeps them healthy. It protects teeth against decay-causing acids and keeps them white.

Ask your dentist about Forhan's, the formula of R. J. Forhan, D. D. S. It contains Forhan's Pyorrhea Liquid, used by dentists.

Safeguard youth and health! Start the morning-and-night Forhan habit, today. Teach your children to use it as health-insurance. At all druggists' 35c and 60c.

No Embarrassing Give-Away

Forhan's Antiseptic, a new product, most powerful, safe, antiseptic mouthwash known, has no tell-tale odor of its own. Keeps you safe from whispering tongues. Try it.

Women's Hygienic Advice
New way discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

THERE is now a way in woman's hygiene that ends most of the bothers and worries of old ways. A new way called Kotex. 8 in 10 better class women have adopted it.

✓ You dispose of it as easily as tissue. Thus no laundry or disposal problem.

You wear lightest, filmiest gowns in safety and without fear. For Kotex protects absolutely under all conditions. Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

You obtain it at any store, without hesitancy, simply by saying Kotex. Many stores have it already wrapped for you to pick up, pay for, and take home without even asking.

Package of 12 costs only a few cents. Once you try it, you'll never risk the dangers of old ways again. Be sure you get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

KOTEX
No laundry—discard like tissue

OBITUARY

GEORGE W. WOODHOUSE

LAKEFIELD, May 11.—The following is copied from the 'Tweed "News" and refers to the death of George William Woodhouse, who was well known in Lakefield where his parents reside:

"George William Woodhouse, Lakefield, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Woodhouse, Lakefield, passed away in Wellesley Hospital, Toronto, on Wednesday, April 20th, after an illness of six weeks following an operation.

He was in his 34th year. Previous to his illness he was an employee of the Standard Bank, Stouffville. The remains were taken to Tweed and conveyed to the home of his cousin, Mr. A. Alexander. The funeral was held on Friday, April 22nd, under the auspices of Lorne Lodge No. 404 A.F. and A.M., Tarnworth, of which the deceased was a member. Service was held at St. James' Anglican church and was conducted by the rector, Rev. L. H. Webster, assisted by Rev. A. J. Poston, Tannworth.

There are left to mourn his loss, his father and mother of [illegible] two sisters, Elsie at Swift Current and Elizabeth at [illegible] brothers, Arthur of Montreal, Charles of Hull, and Jack at home.

The beautiful collection of floral tributes bespoke the warm esteem in which the deceased was held by his wide circle of friends, many of whom were present to pay their last tribute of respect to the departed.

Among those from a distance who attended the funeral were: A. W. Woodhouse, Montreal; M. M. Woodhouse, Hull, Que.; E. A. Woodhouse, Eagle River, Ontario; Mrs. James Isaacs and Mrs. James Willis of Whitby; Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Sutton, Mr. and Mrs. P. Hare and Miss Barrie of Newcastle; Rev. A. J. Poston and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. McCallum, Mr. and Mrs. S. Gilmore, Tarnworth, Ontario; Dr. and Mrs. Burrows, Mr. and Mrs. Axford, Miss M. Young, Mrs. W. Bird, Miss E. Wells, Miss Ethel Allen, Miss Bessie Allen, Miss Gertrude Mowers and Mr. Robert Perry of Marlbank, Ontario.

The first Protestant Sunday school is believed to have been founded in Philadelphia about 1790.

The usual result of the first ride—

"MUSCLES ALL TIED UP IN HARD KNOTS"
Limbers up quickly after hard ride

"After several years' absence from the saddle, I took a hard horseback ride, and the next day my muscles were all tied up in hard knots. I applied Sloan's Liniment. Right away the tenseness in the muscles began to relax and in an hour or so, they felt as limber as ever."

The makers of this wonderful liniment have received many thousands of letters like this telling of the amazing relief that Sloan's gives to every kind of muscular pain.

Sloan's gives real and lasting help because it doesn't just deaden the pain. It gets at the cause. Right to the place that hurts it brings a healing stream of fresh, new blood. And stiff muscles quickly relax, and pain stops as the healing stream carries off the "fatigue poisons." Get a bottle today. All druggists—35 cents.

LECTURE ON TRIP TO EUROPE GIVEN
Rev. W. M. Loucks Addresses Boys of Grove School and Others.

LAKEFIELD, May 11.—Rev. Walter M. Loucks, M.A., of Holy Trinity Church, Toronto, gave a lecture on "The Parson Abroad" at The Grove on Saturday night to the boys and also a number of friends of the school who were interested.

Rev. A. W. Mackenzie was chairman and introduced his old college friend, Mr. Loucks, and referred to the days when Mr. Loucks was a lordly senior and he, a shrinking freshman. Mr. Loucks has been in parochial work since his ordination and has held parishes in Ottawa, Winnipeg and Toronto. Ontario and Toronto are the richer for having him.

Mr. Loucks referred to Mr. Mackenzie's statement regarding his parochial work in Ottawa, Winnipeg and Toronto and said in his humorous fashion that the speaker had omitted Peterboro where he spent some time as curate and on June 10th, 1891, he took the service in St. John the Baptist church, Lakefield, for Archdeacon Warren.

Mr. Loucks took his trip abroad in 1924 visiting Britain, France, and Belgium.

He was much attracted by the cenotaph at which every man, no matter what his station, takes off his hat. In Canada we have caught too much of the spirit of rush and lack of reverence of the people to the south and we are too apt to neglect to pay respect to our cenotaphs and we are poorer in so doing.

Mr. Loucks paid a tribute to the marvellous hospitalty of the British people and their profound respect for law and order.

He crossed the channel and visited four places, Paris, Brussels, Bruges and Ostend.

At Brussels he saw the spot where Nurse Edith Cavell was shot dead for her devotion to her country. Nearby are two mounds where two German soldiers, who refused to shoot her and were themselves shot by their comrades, lie buried. The place where Nurse Cavell died will always be a shrine for British people. He went out to Waterloo, now a peaceful country scene, and climbed the 222 steps up to the top of the monument. The battle of Waterloo does not compare with modern battles in point of numbers but it had a greater effect on the Empire than any single modern battle.

Mr. Mackenzie thanked Mr. Loucks on behalf of the audience for his edifying and entertaining address.

The programme included a much appreciated piano solo by Mr. G. G. Connell, and wo choruses by the boys, trained by Mrs. E. de C. Fletcher, "A Sea Chorus" and "Land of Hope and Glory", the latter with violin obligato by Mr. Fletcher, while Mr. Connell presided at the piano.

had not noticed the billings?"

"Yes."

"Contractors' Equipment."

Another car which went through the camouflaging process was billed on April 12, 1927 ,to Port Stanley as "contractors' equipment." In this case the shippers, according to Mr. Thompson, were Hayman & Co. Examination of Mr. Thompson developed the evidence that when a freight car is placed on a private siding there was no check made of its contents. The witness said that he had been instructed to place this car on the siding at the Kuntz Brewery, which he had done.

"Did it not seem queer to you that a car of contractors' equipment should be shopped from the Kuntz siding?" Commissioner Wright asked the witness.

"No," was the reply.

"Don't you think it was your duty to check what was in the car?" the Commissioner suggested.

"Not on a private siding," replied Mr. Thompson. He stated that he was not entitled to check a car on a private siding. The railway company accepted the freight as it was billed.

"Is the Kuntz siding a private siding?"

"Yes."

The witness said that other classes of goods were shipped from a private siding than that turned out by the company using the siding.

It developed that this car contained hot contractors equipment, but 236 barrels of ale. John Picken, prohibition investigator, told of seeing the car standing with its door at the "barrel shute" of the Kuntz brewery. He did not actually see barrels being loaded on the car.

Gordon Lindsay, assistant counsel for the commission, told the Chief Commissioner that evidence indicated a number of the camouflaged cars originated at the Kuntz Brewery in Waterloo.

Chief Commissioner Brown, however took the ground that the evidence indicated that the beer was sold by the brewery to other parties who in turn camouflaged it and shipped it for export. The evidence seemed to be that the ale had been sold at the Kuntz plant he said, and presumably sales tax had not been paid on it.

"The evidence is not complete yet" said Mr. Lindsay. "I have asked Mr. Kuntz to come here and bring his books and we will try to trace the shipments."

Camouflaged Car.

The testimony of Harry Bierstock, of the Kitchener Rag and Metal Co., in regard to a quantity of scrap leather which he admitted supplying and which was later found camouflaging a car of beer seized at Pittsburg last March, was taken. Mr. Bierstock's denial that he had signed certain Pittsburg bills prompted Mr. Calder to ask him to write the name of his firm and his own name a number of times. Counsel examined the documents and compared the signatures.

"Do you mean to say, after signing these that the other is not your writing?" he then asked the witness.

Mr. Bierstock persisted in his denial.

He admitted, however, that he had billed a car out of Kitchener to Pittsburg without knowing its contents. He described the sale of leather scrap to one "Wherrett" who called with trucks and took it away.

John Millhausen, station agent at Kitchener, produced the bill of lading covering a car of leather scrap shipped from the Kitchener Rag and Metal Company to the American Tanners Products Association at Pittsburg.

"Have you had other billings of the same nature?" asked counsel.

"Yes."

Auditors for the commision were making an examination of the books of Kuntz Brothers. Mr. Calder told the commission. Until that was concluded the case would have to rest.

Shortly before adjournment, R. B. Law, assistant counsel ,called provincial inspector F. B. Taber of Hamilton, in respect to certain notifications to the provincial officers of export shipment of beer by the Grant Spring Brewery Company, of this city. These notifications, which were filed, covered a great many shipments via Port Dalhousie, Port Maitland, etc. He proposed to show, said Mr. Law, that none of these shipments reached their declared destinations.

The old law that imposed a penalty on Roman Catholic priests who officiated in a building with a steeple and bell has just been repealed by the British parliament.

RUNAWAY FOUND BUT NOT RIGHT BOY

Toronto Police Discover Lad From Newark While Searching For Another.

TORONTO, May 10. — Thinking they had located Vincent Runyon, 15-year-old schoolboy who disappeared from his home in Jersey City April 23 and came to Toronto, detectives sped last night to a rooming-house on Simcoe Street in search of the boy. They did not find the Runyon boy, but a younger lad, Irving Hindenberg, aged 11, who ran away from his home, 47 Eighth Avenue, Newark.

The boy was taken to the Detention Home, where he will be detained until word is received from his parents. Young Hindenberg told police he took $15 he had saved and bought a ticket from Newark to Toronto. He left Newark shortly after noon Sunday, arriving here yesterday morning.

When he stepped from the Pullman he had but 75 cents left, having paid $14.25 for his train fare. He went to the Simcoe Street lodging-house. The people were suspicious of him and telephoned the police.

Asked why he had left home, the boy said he had spent his vacation in this city on several occasions, and he just wanted to take a holiday.

SALVATION ARMY TEMPLE.

Mother's Day services at the Temple were well attended and the thought of the day was fittingly referred to. In the evening service Adjutant Ham took for his text the Fourth Commandment, "Honor thy father and thy mother," saying that this was the First Commandment with promise. There seems in these days to be a considerable lack of obedience to this commandment, sad to relate our detention homes and penitentiaries are crowded with young people. Why was it? If you show me the boy or girl who fulfills this commandment I will show you the boy or girl who will succeed in life. A short time ago I read an article by Roger W. Babson, the noted American statistician, in which he said: "If any of your readers have had a praying father or mother—a sincere earnest one—and is sorry that he or she had that kind of parents, please write me and say so. I guarantee to answer them all personally, but don't ask those who are glad to write or I'll have to engage a staff of secretaries to answer their letters." There are innumerable testimonies to prove that praying fathers and mothers have influenced their children's lives for good.

Our beloved founder, William Booth, said, "I had a good mother, so good has she ever appeared to me, that I have often said that all I know of her life seemed a striking contradiction to the law of depravity." What a tribute from a wonderful son. Commander Eva Booth, in a reference to her mother, says, "I can see her, the shade of her dress, the wondrous eyes and hear again the tremor in the voice as she prayed, 'Oh Father, our ever loving Father, in Thy holy arms shield my children from sin and harm and at last gather them with Thy flock into Thy great fold in Heaven'." How we can visualize this scene, and thank God many hear tonight can visualize similar scenes of mother.

None of us here are sorry we had praying parents? They taught us the power of prayer. Picture mother in her household difficulties, the family problems and her implicit trust in God, how often we saw her prayers answered. Then again praying parents have taught us to serve God and our fellow-men. You will recall the story of the tour when the founder took the present General through Whitechapel past the glaring gin palace, and, opening one of the doors, said to him, "Bramwell, these are our people." Such an illustration shows us that praying parents have taught us to see other people's needs and to love our neighbors.

There are here to-night veterans of Salvation Army warfare. There are mothers who have given their children to the service of God and the Army. We of the younger generation salute you and pray God may richly bless you. Listen to this as you sit here this evening, and you who have wandered from mother's God and her prayers return:

"My name, my name in mother's prayer,
There's just one word I thought I heard,
My name in mother's prayer."

PETERBOROUGH MILITIA UNITS CARRY OUT TRADITIONS OF THE ACTIVE SERVICE MEN WHO MADE CANADA IN FLANDERS GLORIOUS

Intensive Training Adds to Physical Development of Youths and Spurs Mentality to Cope With Problems Presented—Work is Thoroughly Done and Men Are Keen.

LOCAL MILITIA FORCES ARE FORTUNATE IN ALL HAVING SPLENDID INSTRUCTORS

Cavalry, Artillery, Machine Guns and Infantry Led by Efficient Officers and Composed of Keen Young Men—Carrying Out of Syllabus Means Real Work.

When the Peterborough units of the Canadian Militia parade tonight on their route march, citizens will have an opportunity to see men who are trained to the highest efficiency in the non-permanent forces of the Dominion. Inspecting officers never fail to praise the soldierly bearing of the men and the expert knowledge of the officers.

Lieut. Col. W. Gordon Hall, V.D., commanding the Peterborough Rangers, is a strict disciplinarian, but is well liked by the officers and men he commands. He succeeded Lieut. Col. Frank Bradburn, M.C.

Major Hurrell Dodds, commanding No. 3 Company, 4th Battalion, Canadian Machine Gun Corps, is a splendid type of civilian soldier, combining tact and military training in a way that makes him invaluable in the somewhat difficult task of training citizen volunteers.

Insert Peterborough Militia .. .. ..

Major D. J. Lawrie has commanded the Fourth Battery, Canadian Field Artillery, since it was reorganized eight years ago. He is a very popular and efficient officer and has devoted much time to the upbuilding of the unit.

Lieut. Col. T. D. Johnston, in command of the Third Prince of Wales Dragoons, has splendid overseas service to back him in his succession to his uncle, Lieut. Col. T. J. Johnston.

All of these commanders are fortunate in having efficient officers under them, and the men in the higher ranks of non-commissioned officers are not one whit behind the active-service standard. Quartermaster Sergeant Instructor T. Thomas, of the Royal Canadian Regiment, is the backbone of the instructional staff of the local militia units. He served in France and in Siberia, and knows the drill and maneuvres of all arms from page one to back cover of the drill manuals. Officers find him always obliging, at whatever expense of time and effort, and the men have in him an instructor both strict and tactful.

Robert Muir, chief caretaker of the Armouries is in close contact with all that goes on in local militia circles. He qualified this year for his long service decorations, which will probably be presented by General Emsley on his visit of inspection in July.

Corporal Joseph E. Nixon, of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps, assistant caretaker of the Armouries, is in charge of the equipment and stores of the 4th Battery Canadian Field Artillery and of the Machine Gun Company. He was mentioned last week in connection with honors given the Battery for well-kept and well-accounted stores.

The Machine Gunners.

Machine guns were just coming into their own so far as recognition in the British forces was concerned, when the Great War ended, though the Central Powers had appreciated their services long before. Today, they rank next to Field Artillery in effectiveness and in the amount of technical training required for their successful operation.

A splendid class of young man has been enlisted in the Peterborough unit, and the training is so attractive that many extra hours are spent in gun drills and study of the intricate mechanism. The syllabus calls for twelve parades during the training season, but sandwiched in between these are many voluntary parades at which most of the men are present.

Machine gun training is intensive, as is the life of the machine gunner. Whether leading a daring attack or raid, or hanging grimly to some strong point, or covering the rear of a forced retirement, the machine gun is the mainstay and actual and moral support of the infantry. Action is swift, and the men who operate the gun must be able to quickly diagnose and cure its ailments.

Training is divided into sections, which includes lectures, theoretical work, and practical exercises. The name of every part of the gun must be learned, and the problem of taking apart and reassembling the scores of pieces (looking so much like a Chinese puzzle in the early days of the recruit) become by long practice and application almost as automatic as eating or walking. One of the sergeants can knock down a Vickers gun and assemble it in a few seconds over a minute. Then there are matters like sighting and travers sing to be studied; stoppages, the bane of the machine gunner's life, must be met and overcome; and the operation of the gun in actual warfare must be learned. Map reading, signalling, cooperation with other arms in war, are some of the related subjects, and in addition the machine gunner must take the regular musketry exercises and tests, with revolver practice added for good measure. Loading and unloading the limbers and pack mules is an art in itself, but one that must be mastered by all members of a machine gun detachment. And there is ,too, squad drill and exercises. In fact, the Machine Gunners bid fair to snatch from the Horse Artillery the boast of members of that unit that the "Right of the line, the pride of the Army" can do anything, knows everything, goes everywhere.

Splendid Traditions.

As a weapon of offence and defence the machine gun is of late origin, but in the Great War were built up glorious traditions for the Machine Gun Corps. The first German drive on the western front was stopped mainly by the reckless rifle fire of the thin line of old foot regiments of the British Army. No better fire has ever been laid down on an advancing enemy than that from the muzzles of Lee Enfields in the hands of super trained British soldiers. But the last German drive was checked and finally stopped by motor machine gun corps of the Canadian Army in an action unsurpassed for brilliancy.

The story of those eventful days of March 191 can never be fully told, for the machine gun corps was decimated time and again. Rushing into the serried ranks of a contemptuously advancing foe, the motorized machine guns took terrible toll; then they deployed to right and left behind the scattered advance line of German divisions, and harried them by night and day till they were glad to dig in without reaching their objective—Amiens, key to the Allied defensive system.

Their comrades in the line were not a whit less valorous, though their role was less spectacular. There is nothing so demoralizing to advancing troops as that unexpected turning-on of a stream of bullets from an invisible machine gun. And the accuracy of the British and Canadian gunners in these defensive positions broke up many an enemy attack before it had well developed. They were days full of tragedy, but in them the Canadian Machine Gun Corps came to be recognized as one of the most important cogs in the allied fighting machine.

It is important work that is allotted to the machine gunners, and under Major Dodds the members of the Peterborough unit are learning well the practical lessons that will fit them to follow in the footsteps of those who so ably fought for Canada in the days of 1914-1918, should the threat of invasion menace Canada or the war cloud again roll over the Empire.

The following are the officers on the strength of the local Machine Gun Company:

Major, Hurrell Dodds; Lieut. Jas. Turnbull, Lieut. George Parks, Lieut. Sid. M. Ward, Lieut. John R. Heron.

The Peterborough Rangers.

Glorious memories inspire officers and men of the Peterborough Rangers in their training. Though they do not now wear the honored number "LVII" on collar and cap badges, all the traditions of the old unit are treasured by the city's infantrymen of today. They recall with pride its reputation as the smartest regiment in the east, if not of all Canada, in the days before the war when the red coats were worn.

Not only in the "piping times of peace" did the regiment gain its reputation. Many were the members from its ranks to serve in 1885 against Riel, in the Boer War, and in the Great War. On many a battlefield may be found the graves of its members who died fighting bravely.

More honors to uphold were given the citizen soldiers of Peterborough on the re-organization of the militia some seven years ago. The numbers of the overseas battalions were distributed among the regiments of the same military districts and to the Peterborough Rangers went the supreme honor of continuing the existence of the famous "Iron Seconds", Eastern Ontario's representatives in the First Division. Peterborough men who enlisted here with the 57th, made up the first two platoons of that famous battalion when it left Canada in 1914, and Peterborough men were among those who gained honors and died bravely while fighting in its ranks all through the war. Men who enlisted here in August, 1914, are among the officers of the regiment at the present time.

The British affiliation of the regiment is another incentive to greatness. The old 57th regiment of the British regular army won its title, "The Die-Hards", in the Peninsular campaigns under the Duke of Wellington. Now the Middlesex Regiment, or Duke of Cambridge's Own, this famous British Unit maintains its reputation and its Canadian sister regiment is proud of its affiliation.

Rifle and Bayonet.

"The infanty, the infantry, with the mud behind their ears," said the old song of the service, and in these days of trench warfare the words are most apt. The artillery may blast the enemies trenches with shells and destroy their wire; the engineers can perform the same service from below; for scouting or pursuit work the cavalry is needed, but when it comes to consolidating the captured ground and digging in and holding it, nobody can take the place of the infantry. British infantry with rifles repelled the waves of the Hun advance in 1914; Canadian infantry with bayonets formed the spearhead of many great advances in 1917 and 1918.

The lists of the Non-Permanent Active Militia show the reliance placed on the infantry. There are thirty-four cavalry regiments sixty-two batteries of field artillery, and one hundred and twenty-two infantry regiments.

The Peterborough Rangers, for the past few years, have concentrated on the work of most importance in infantry warfare, that is, shooting and bayonet fighting. The men are most enthusiastic in their training and are fast becoming skilful in handling their weapons. Nearly every Saturday in the drill season a large party goes to the rifle ranges and some good scores are made by members of the regiment. Their inspection demonstrations have taken the form of practice attacks for several years, the men moving down the range and firing from each position with good results.

Bayonet practice is forming the bulk of the training during the present training season. The methods of handling the principal shock weapon of modern warfare are being carefully taught to interested classes, and the men are progressing rapidly.

Foot drill and rifle drill are, of course, not neglected. Every parade some time is devoted to training in marching and in handling the rifle for ceremonials, etc. Smartness and precision in the movements has been acquired by all but the newest recruits, and they, with good instructors and experienced companions, are not long in picking up the work.

The Peterborough Rangers include the following officers :

Lt.-Col. W. Gordon Hall, V.D.; Majors M. H. Park, G. G. Winterbottom, M.C., D.C.M.; A. B. Mills; Captains D. G. Melton, Paymaster; H M. Yelland, M.O.; S. Whatley, Q.M.; W. P. Eastwood, G. Monkman, M.C.; E. E. Nicholls, M.C., D.C.M.; Lieuts. R. J. Bolton, Adjutant; G. Melton, J. Dunkerley, B. E. Park, W. R. Thompson, W. H. Peryer, Bandmaster; A. H. Cameron, and R. Stevenson.

Prince of Wales Dragoons.

The Department of Militia has been a little more generous than usual this year with the 3rd Prince of Wales' Dragoons and has allowed an increase in strength to 150 men of all ranks.

The camp is held every year in the Exhibition Grounds, generally in June, and it will be remembered that it was through the untiring efforts of the officers and men that the horse stables were saved last year from being burnt when a bad fire broke out on McGill Street.

Last year there were 105 men of all ranks on parade, and this year it is expected that the full allotment will be out. The regiment is made up of two squadrons: B which is recruited around Pontypool,and C from this district. The headquarters staff also is from this district.

Lt.-Col. Thomas Dalton Johnston is in command. Captain M. R. Sloan is adjutant; Captain James Abraham is paymaster; Lt. D. A. Loomis, M.C., is quartermaster. Major W. T. Rogers is veterinary officer, and Captain E. H. Wood is medical officer.

Major F. Hills is in command of C Squadron with Captain C. H. Stewart, Lt. F. A. Stinson, and Lt. L. R. Malane.

Major H. W. Powell is in command of B Squadron, with Captain E. G. Johnston and Lt. H. Mason.

Fourth Battery

Major D. J. Lawrie is in command of the 4th Battery with Captain J. W. Stevenson, Captain J. A. Harstone, M.C., Lt. D. W. Cameron and Lt. F. T. Webster the other officers. The battery goes to camp every year during the summer, but at present it is not known just the exact time of this year's camp. Last year the strength was 36 men.

WIND BLOWS GAS KILLING AGED MAN

Robert Watson, 75, Asphyxiated When Flame on Stove is Extinguished.

TORONTO ,May 11.—Robert Watson, aged 75, residing with his two daughters at the Willard Apartments, Triller avenue and King street, was overcome by illuminating gas while seated in the kitchen of his apartment yesterday. He was found dead by his daughter Gertrude when she came home from business about five o'clock.

An enquiry conducted by the Cowan Avenue police revealed that Watson had not been long in the city from the country. He had not been well. Yesterday morning, however, his daughters left him comfortably situated at home. While they were absent it is thought that the old man turned on one of the jets of the kitchen range intending to cook something. When the police examined the range they found one jet open, but with the light out. The pilot light also was out. A window near the stove was open, so it is assumed that the breeze blowing through it put out the flame and allowed the gas to escape. Watson, unused to gas, was not aware of his peril until too late.

Plaits Assume Importance

The latest reflections concerning the approved silhouette, admit plaits to a place of importance in bringing about the desired full skirt. In this graceful one-piece frock, narrow box-plaits are placed either side of the front, extending from the belt to lower edge, and provide the desired flare. The plain back is in one-piece, extending over the shoulders in yoke effect. There are a group of small tucks at each shoulder, and the long plain sleeves are finished with narrow cuffs. The diagram pictures the simple design of No. 1285, which is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years (or 34, 36 and 38 inches bust only). Size 18 years (36 bust) requires 3⅝ yards 39-inch, or 2⅞ yards 54-inch material. Price 20 cents.

The secret of distinctive dress lies in good taste rather than a lavish expenditure of money. Every woman should want to make her own clothes, and the home dressmaker will find the designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book to be practical and simple, yet maintaining the spirit of the mode of the moment. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

FOR THURSDAY, MAY 12, 1927

The latter part of this day is read as more fortunate than the morning by astrologers, who caution conservative action in all important matters.

In the early hours the judgment may be unreliable, especially where women are concerned.

It is well to postpone business with women until the aspects are more favorable and of course romance is to be avoided.

There is a favorable rule for banking and financial matters in the afternoon and financiers are to benefit from causes not usually considered in routine business.

Real estate is subject to the best possible sway and should be most profitable. This is a time supposed to be favorable for investment.

Farmers certainly are to profit greatly this year, if the stars are rightly read, for there will be a great food shortage.

Again shoppers are warned that the cost of clothing is to advance. This will be partly due to radical change in styles.

Reactionary conditions again are prognosticated, and may be strong before the end of the summer.

Next month will be marked by an eclipse of the moon and an eclipse of the Sun, attended by aspects interpreted as threatening to world peace.

Tidal waves may be expected after the Moon's eclipse and the Sun's eclipse is read as encouraging to revolutionary movements.

Ottawa, Canada, and San Antonio, Texas, are to be affected by the occultations, which are of sinister import, also, for Paris, Rome, Belgrade and Warsaw.

Persons whose birthdate it is may experience changes in the coming year, which may be unfavorable to romance and marriage.

Children born on this day may have decided opinions that interfere with their progress, but they are likely to be exceedingly gifted.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

To no one, not even to Bob Hathaway, did Faith ever tell the story that passed between herself and Cherry during the hour Faith was permitted to spend with her sister, the accused murderess, in her cell after her fainting spell that second Tuesday afternoon of the trial.

The two sisters lay sobbing in each other's arms, on the narrow iron cot which the county regarded as a bed good enough for prisoners. And in that hour Cherry whispered, between terrible sobs that tore at Faith's great heart, the terrible story of her wedding night, her night of supreme disillusionment, a night which she could never forget—for more reasons than one.

"But you must see a doctor, darling," Faith whispered pityingly, Cherry's cold hands held tight in hers.

"No, No! A doctor would tell Churchill! And he would use it in the trial. I'd rather die than—than to be acquitted just because the jury is sorry for me—and it. Oh, Faith, I don't want a baby! I don't want Chris' baby! I wish I were dead!"

For the rest of the hour that had been granted them, Faith strove with all the tenderness and exquisite sympathy of her great heart to comfort the little sister who had been trapped so hideously by an unworthy love—a love which had turned to bitterest hate in one soul-shattering day.

"But what am I going to do, Faith?" Cherry moaned, beating her breast with her clenched hands. "I'm in jail—in jail! And I may have to go to prison for the rest of my life! Faith! I can't believe that I've got to have a baby, and that in a few more days they may tell me I've got to go to prison for the rest of my life! Save me, Faith! Oh, God! I can't bear it!"

When at last Mrs. Webb, the matron, who had been waiting just out of earshot in the corridor, called to Faith that her time was up, Cherry had sobbed herself into a state of despair that resembled calmness. Faith kissed her tenderly on lips and cheeks and eyelids, then tiptoed to join Mrs. Webb in the dark, evil-smelling corridor.

Her kindliness comforted Faith somewhat, but her eyes were heavy with trouble when she joined Bob Hathaway, who had been waiting for her in his car before the jail. It was not until she sat beside him, saw the devotion and sympathy in his brilliant blue eyes, that it occurred to her to wonder how Cherry's tragic news would affect herself and Bob—their marriage, their future. If Cherry were acquitted—oh, dear God, was she doubting, too? When Cherry was acquitted, what could the poor, storm tossed little victim of circumstances and her own undisciplined nature do but come to her—Faith—for a home and for the tender care she would need for months? No, for years, for after a while there would be two, instead of one, needing care and protection, shelter and food and clothes. How could she consider, for a single minute, letting Bob share the terrible responsibilities that would be hers now? And yet—to give him up, to shoulder these new burdens without him—

"Dear heart, don't grieve so! Cherry will be all right. It was just the sudden relief of knowing that Banning was through with his evidence that unnerved the kid. Buck up, darling. I'm going to be busy tonight working on a tip I got from old Kelly. No, I won't tell you until I see if there's anything to it."

BREAKS UP GAS IN THE STOMACH

Don't suffer from dangerous gas pressing around your heart, from sourness, acidity, bloating or pain of indigestion. Stop worrying. Whenever you need quick stomach relief, take a little Bisurated Magnesia—powder or tablets. It breaks up gas, neutralizes acids and keeps the stomach sweet and strong, and digestion perfect. At good drug stores everywhere. Not a laxative.

W.M.S. SESSION THIS MORNING FOR BUSINESS

Consideration of Reports and Election of Officers Completed.

SPLENDID REPORTS.

Officers Recommended By the Nominating Committee Elected By Acclamation.

The election of officers and presentation and discussion of various reports featured this morning's session of the second annual meeting of Lindsay Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada in session here in George Street United Church. The meeting was presided over by Miss E. Dunoon of Lindsay, and was attended by a large number of delegates. The devotional service was led by Mrs. J. D. Richardson of the Auxiliary of St. James' United Church, prayer being offered by Mrs. E. Woodley. Minutes of yesterday's sessions were read by Mrs. W. H. Morton of Peterborough, recording secretary. Mrs. H. B. Feir of Haliburton presented her report on Christian Stewardship and Finance, showing that 35 auxiliaries out of 53 had reported to her. Of these, 21 have secretaries of Christian Stewardship, 17 have finance committees, 15 have the work of the Christian Stewardship Department presented at their monthly meetings, and 10 reported the systematic giving in envelopes as having proved a source of great increase in funds.

In the discussion which followed, Miss Dunoon spoke strongly in favor of the weekly envelope system. Mrs. Seymour of Fenelon Falls felt that the authorities in charge of church finances might object to the women giving a separate collection to the W.M.S., and Mrs. A. Bookhout, in answer to a statement of Miss Dunoon that she had given to six different Sunday collections for many years, thought that many women would not feel financially able to do this. In reply to an objection by another delegate who also upheld the envelope system, that raising money by other means, such as afternoon teas, was not a laudable means of increasing the funds, Mrs. Bookhout said that the type of personal service demonstrated by women who worked hard at rummage sales, for instance, was to her a very beautiful thing, and equally praiseworthy with the giving of money to the work.

A certain amount of discussion arose also as to the sending and receiving of various reports, Miss Dunoon saying that, in some cases, the corresponding secretaries fall down on their duties in not turning in correspondence received by them.

A suggestion made by Miss Dunoon that the Presbyterial send as its representative and pay the expenses of a girl who will attend one of the summer schools was left in the hands of the executive for immediate action, if possible.

A key woman who will get in touch with the different auxiliaries with regard to the Women's United Prayer meeting was appointed, in Mrs. H. Morrison of Lindsay.

The roll-call of auxiliaries was then made by Mrs. Morrison, showing only about half a dozen missing from the total of 53 auxiliaries in the Presbyterial.

Annual Reports.

Reports of work were then given by Mrs. A. C. Denike of Havelock, Strangers' Secretary; Mrs. A. Porteous of Peterborough, Associate Helpers' Secretary, and Mrs. M. McGillivray of Oakwood, Missionary Monthly Secretary, with a discussion following each.

Mrs. Denike reported that only 32 out of 53 auxiliaries have strangers' secretaries. During the year, 239 strangers were visited, 32 removals were reported, 71 patients were visited in hospitals, and 63 visited after returning home, 231 other calls were made, and 4 foreigners were taught.

Mrs. A. Porteous reported only 9 auxiliaries having Associate Helpers. St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough, heads the list with 56 members, giving $74.34. Knox Church, Peterborough, has 19 members, giving $6.15; Norwood, 13 members; Lakefield (Knox Church), 6 members, $12, and Keene, 10 members. There are 117 Associate Helpers in the Presbyterial, giving a total of $131.49.

Mrs. McGillivray reported 978 subscriptions to the Missionary Monthly, which she considered too low, in view of a total Presbyterial membership of 3,700 women. St. Andrew's, Peterborough, with a membership of 60, sent in 107 subscriptions.

A vote of appreciation of the excellent work done by Mrs. McGillivray who is retiring from office as Missionary Monthly Secretary, was accorded her by the meeting.

A report of special speakers to their societies was then given by delegates.

A letter was read by Mrs. Morton, received from Miss M. Dickson, at Preston Springs Hotel, regretting the absence of herself and her sisters from the meeting, and sending best wishes for its success.

Mrs. R. G. Lawlor of Norwood then took the chair for the election of officers. The report of the Nominating Committee, read by Mrs. H. Irvine of Lindsay, was adopted unanimously, the various officers being accorded election by acclamation, with a standing vote of the delegates.

Officers For the Year.

The new officers are as follows: Honorary Presidents: Miss M. Dickson, Peterborough; Mrs. E. B. Weldon, Lindsay; Mrs. A. Horn, Lindsay, and Mrs. J. K. Moore, Peterborough. President—Mrs. R. G. Lawlor, B.A., of Norwood. 1st Vice-President—Miss E. Dunoon, Lindsay. 2nd Vice-President—Mrs. J. McIntosh, Fenelon Falls. 3rd Vice-President—Mrs. Malcolm McKinnon, Cannington. 4th Vice-President—Mrs. A. Bookhout, Peterborough. 5th Vice-President—Mrs. D. W. Walls, Beaverton. Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. H. Morrison, Lindsay. Recording Secretary—Mrs. W. H. Morton, Peterborough. Treasurer—Mrs. Fred Brandon, Cannington. Christian Stewardship and Finance—Mrs. H. B. Feir, Haliburton. Secretary of Young People's Work—Mrs. Frank Riches, Cambray. Secretary of Mission Bands and Baby Bands—Mrs. E. W. Rowland, of Omemee. Missionary Monthly Secretary—Mrs. Wm. McPherson, Woodville. Literature Secretary—Mrs. J. John, Peterborough. Supply Secretary—Mrs. Robb, Norwood. Press Secretary—Mrs. E. J. Wagar, Peterborough. Strangers' Secretary—Mrs. A. C. Denike, Havelock. Associate Helpers' Secretary—Mrs. A. Porteous, Peterborough. C.G.I.T. Secretary—Mrs. A. I. Brown, Peterborough. Finance Committee—Mrs. H. B. Feir, Haliburton; Mrs. F. Brandon, Cannington; Mrs. Moir, Westwood; Mrs. E. A. Bailey, Lakefield, and Mrs. M. A. Morrison, Peterborough. The Nominating Committee is composed of the following ladies: Miss E. Dunoon, Lindsay; Mrs. E. Coon, president of George Street Church Auxiliary; Mrs. Richard Oliver, president of Little Britain Auxiliary; Miss Mabel Graham, president of First United Church Circle, Lindsay; Mrs. McFarlane, president of Keene Auxiliary; Miss Effie Munro, president of the Y.W.A. of St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough, and Mrs. W. W. Stinson, B.A., president of Janetville Auxiliary.

The newly appointed president, Mrs. Lawlor, spoke in terms of praise the efficient service rendered by the retiring president, Miss E. Dunoon, of Lindsay, who was prevented by other duties from again assuming office. Mrs. Lawlor asked also for the co-operation and support of her executive.

The installation of the new officers, in the absence of Mrs. Forbes of Weston and Miss Jamieson of Toronto, was carried through by Miss Dunoon, in an impressive dedication service, followed by prayer offered by Miss Susie Smyth of Hamilton.

Delegates to the branch meeting in Pembroke were appointed from the floor, as follows: Mrs. A. Long of Knox Church, Peterborough; Mrs. E. W. Coon of George Street Church, Peterborough; Mrs. Jno. Northey of Fenelon Falls; Mrs. A. P. Latter of Oakwood, and Mrs. E. M. Kemp of Lakefield. Alternates were appointed in Mrs. E. A. Bailey of Lakefield and Mrs. J. J. David of Kinmount.

Lunch to the delegates was served in the Sunday School parlors by the W.M.C. of George Street Church.

MANY PLAYERS FOR GOLF MATCH

Will Take Part in British Amateur old Championship.

LONDON, May 11 (Canadian Press).—One hundred and ninety-seven players will take part in the British amateur golf championship beginning at Hoy Lake, May 23, according to the draw announced yesterday.

A foreign representation of 18 will take part in the event, including nine from the United States, three from Calcutta, two from Cairo, two from Tasmania, one from Switzerland, and one from Sumatra.

All the old guard of noted British amateurs with the exception of Sir Ernest Holderness, former British amateur champion, who is in ill health, will compete.

Jess Sweetser, American holder of the title, announced recently that he would not defend his honors.

A pair of ice skates in the museum at Prague are estimated to be nearly 2,500 years old.

WELCOME GIVEN GEORGIA PEACH

Tyrus Cobb Handed Roaring Ovation by Fans at Detroit.

RECEIVES CAR

DETROIT, Mich., May 11 (Canadian Press).—Tyrus Raymond Cobb, who for twenty-two years wore the uniform of the Detroit Tigers, came back to the scene of his early baseball triumphs yesterday to receive a roaring welcome. The fact that Tyrus came as an "enemy"—playing against his former team as a member of the Philadelphia Athletics—made no difference. Yesterday was "Cobb Day" and Cobb for the day at least belonged to Detroit's fandom.

The lifting just a few hours before game time by President Ban Johnson at Chicago of a suspension under which Cobb and his team mate, Al Simmons, were placed last week, after a disagreement with Umpire Ormsby at Philadelphia, enabled the Georgia Peach to appear in the day's game.

The welcoming celebration for the former Detroit manager began shortly after he stepped off a boat from Cleveland with the remainder of the Philadelphia team and was climaxed shortly before game time with the presentation at the ball park of an automombile and other gifts, a testimonial luncheon at noon at the Masonic Temple preceded a parade to Navin Field, headed by a police motorcycle escort and a military band.

COBB AND SIMMONS ARE BACK IN FOLD

Reinstated To-day By Ban Johnson So Ty Can Play in Detroit.

CHICAGO, May 10 (Canadian Press) — President Ban Johnson of the American League to-day lifted the suspension of Ty Cobb and Al Simmons, ranking stars of the Philadelphia Athletics. Cobb was was reinstated so he could appear in Detroit to-day, playing with the Athletics. It was his first appearance in Detroit in the uniform of a visiting team. A mammoth celebration was arranged in his honor.

RUTH KNOCKS SEVENTH HOMER

Yankees Come From Behind to Defeat Browns Eight to Seven.

TIGERS LOSE 5-2

NEW YORK, May 11 (Canadian Press).—The New York Yankees came from behind yesterday to win from the Browns at St. Louis, 8 to 7. Babe Ruth, who hit his seventh home run of the season in the first inning with two men on, was purposely bases. Then Gehrig singled, scoring bases. Then Gehrig singled, scoring two. The Browns filled the bases in their half of the ninth, but Gerber hit into a double play for the final out.

Philadelphia defeated Detroit, 6 to 2, in the opening game of the series at Detroit. Ty Cobb, making his first appearance here in the Athletic lineup, was given a rousing welcome by a capacity crowd. He played six and a half innings and got a double, a base on balls, fanned once and was robbed of another hit when Tavener made a great pickup of a drive in the seventh.

Timely hitting by Tommy Thomas coupled with his own steady pitching after a wavering start, enabled Chicago to defeat Washington, 4 to 3, yesterday in the first game of the series at Chicago. In addition to holding the Senators safe in the pinches, Thomas delivered two blows which accounted for three of Chicago's runs. Metzler's home run in the first inning was the first made by a White Sox player in their remodelled park.

Boston dashed Cleveland's hopes of entering the first division yesterday by nosing out the Indians at Cleveland, 6 to 5. The Red Sox forced in five of their runs in the fifth when they bunched two doubles and two singles. Cleveland rallied in the eighth and had the tying run on third base with only one out, but Wiltse steadied and prevented a tied score.

CRICKET.

LAKEFIELD, May 11.—Lakefield won the first of the series of cricket matches arranged with "The Grove" on Tuesday last, the game being played on "The Grove" cricket field. The score was 81-68. Both teams are keen and cricket lovers will have much pleasure in these games.

there were elephants, tigers, giraffes and ostriches, led by the Ringmaster in his private coach, the act being cleverly taken by Art Blade. A negro kazoo band added another feature to the procession. Even the famous circus pipe-organ was not missing and its melodious tones could be heard a block away as the parade moved majestically up the thoroughfares.

Many people who had no thought of attending the circus which followed the happy youngsters to the show, and before they knew it, found themselves inside the "big top" staring with awed wonder at the marvels performed by the athletes and clowns of Peterborough.

Mr. Montgomery and daughter of Norwood spent Sunday at Mr. Henry Mathews.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Wellman and Mr. and Mrs. William Finch were in Belleville last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Bell and son, Jack, were in Brighton on Monday.

LEAFS FAIL TO HOLD ORIOLES

Sorrell Chalks Up First Defeat —Toronto Gets Bad Decisions.

FIELDING POOR

MAPLE LEAF STADIUM, May 11 —Baltimore scored first blood in the series with the Leafs yesterday afternoon winning a wild and woolly game 9 to 1. The hits were 14 for the victors and 11 for the losers, but the Birds were lucky enough to bunch their safe drives behind the Leafs' errors of omission and commission. The high wind caused many pop flies to go for hits and the gentlemen from Baltimore had the better of it in this respect. Sorrell suffered his first defeat of his International career in this game, being taken out in the fifth, when the score was 5 to 1 in favor of Baltimore. Head succeeded him and pitched well until the end of the eighth, when he retired in favor of a pinch hitter. Nounnan, the collegian from California, did the twirling in the ninth, and was roughly treated.

No other International League games were played; rain interfering at Buffalo, Rochester and Syracuse

MANY ATTRACTIONS

inality. It seems that one of the clowns took sick and the others immediately obtained a stomach pump, giving the poor man relief after a cat and other miscellaneous articles were extricated from his stomach. While this was being carried out in the one ring, Harold Barton, of the Salvation Army played his musical bells.

Following this some gymnastic work was put on by the older classes of the Y.M.C.A. that showed excellent training on the part of the young men and their director, Douglas Loomis.

Lighted by Lanterns

The lights were then turned out and probably this was the outstanding act of the evening. Each boy carried a Japanese lantern, and when these were lighted, their different brilliant colours presented a very beautiful spectacle. A take-off on rope walking was put on by the clowns and athletic work on the "horse" performed by the older athletes.

A different type of musical bells were played by H. Barton, while in the second ring the clowns provided more amusement by staging a barber shop scene where "the lather ran thick."

Second only to the lantern march was the posing act by the younger members of the Y.M.C.A. Two boys gilded with brass standing under a strong spotlight presented a real statue representing seven phases in a baseball game; the choosing up, batter up, strike one, infield fly being caught, a hot grounder being fielded, sliding to a base, and the finish of the game where the two captains shake hands.

Human pyramids were formed by the senior classes while the juniors participated in "blindfold boxing" which was very amusing. A pillow fight engaged in by the scouts also provided fun for everyone.

Foot Race

An added feature to the programme last night was the running race between two Indians, Albert Smoke ,the marathon racer, George Whetung, who was defeated in the road race last Saturday, Dick Bates, Peterborough, and Ira Dundas of this city. Although Bates won last Saturday, the odds were placed on Smoke who has established quite a record, and is an old hand at the game. Much was their surprise then when Bates lapped all the runners and finished the two-mile course in eleven minutes and fifty-nine seconds. Whetung started off strong and maintained the lead for two laps, but finally dropped back to the rear, and then quit altogether, owing to a bad boil on his leg. Bates strode to the front and stayed there, finally lapping the other runners, and winning the race. Ira Dundas took the second place while Smoke was obliged to finish last of the three.

The whole performance last night including the parade was splendid and shows the time and work that the directors have spent on making this item on Boys' Week a decided success.

SPAIN DEFEATED

India Wins in Doubles Match of Elimination Play.

BARCELONA, Spain, May 11 (Canadian Press).—India yesterday defeated Spain in their doubles match in the first round of the European zone Davis Cup elimination play, taking the lead in the tournament by two matches to one.

A. H. Fyzee and K. Prasada of India, defeated E. Flaquer and Senor Morales of Spain, 0—6, 6—3, 6—3.

OPEN BARRAGE ON THE PHILLIES

Chicago Wins Opener in Only Game Played in National.

GAMES POSTPONED

NEW YORK, May 11 (Canadian Press).—Chicago opened up a home run barrage on Hal Carlson and won the opening game of the series from the Phillies at Philadelphia, 6 to 3, in the only game played in the National League yesterday. Hack Wilson, Hartnett and Stephenson each hit for the circuit, the last named connecting with two on base in the eighth.

Blake was hit hard by the Phillies but they could not bunch their hits when runs were needed. Carlson had better luck with his hitting than with his pitching, making two singles in three trips to the plate.

Rain caused postponement of three scheduled contests.

SOCCER NOTES

Player J. Buchan was reinstated.

If sufficient clubs enter, the Association will form a Junior League, which will be under its jurisdiction. Any club desiring to enter should notify the secretary at once. This should be accompanied by a list of probable players.

On Friday evening at 6.15 p.m. the De Laval Juniors will play the Juveniles and on Monday, May 16, the Woollen Juniors will play the loser of the game on Friday or a fourth club, should one enter.

HOW'S YOUR STOMACH?

Mine's fine, thank you. It wasn't always so. You can easily get rid of your Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Catarrh of Stomach, Belching, Heart Fluttering, Sour Stomach, Nervousness, Constipation, Headache, etc. same as I did, and in the same way. Dont send one cent, for I am so sure this treatment will produce like results for you that I will send it, all charges prepaid, by mail.

After it has proven itself the means of getting rid of your stomach troubles, you may send me one dollar. How is that for confidence and fairness? Write now. Address, Theodore H. Jackson, 244C, Stratford Bldg., Syracuse, N.Y.

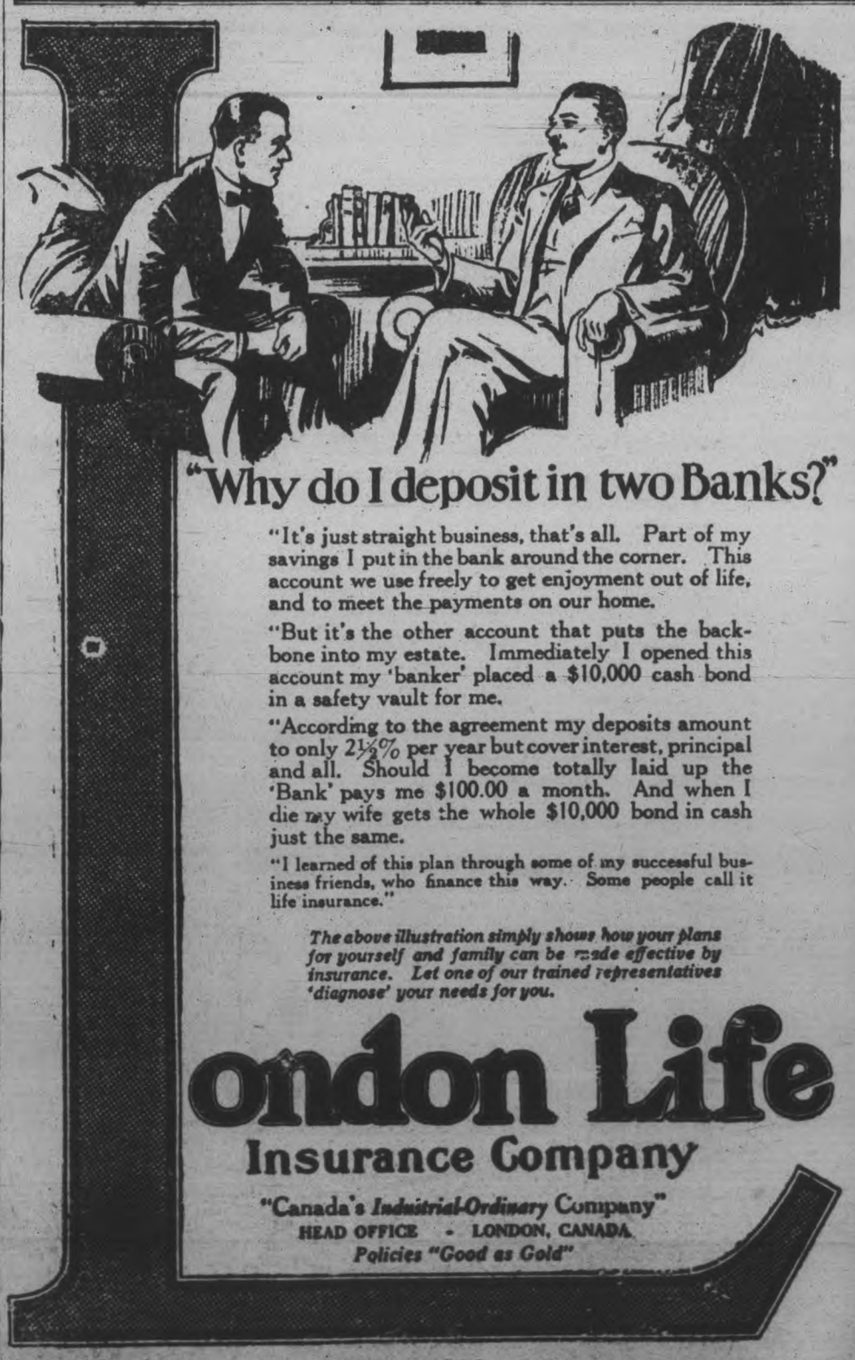
OUR BOARDING HOUSE — By Ahern



"Why do I deposit in two Banks?"

"It's just straight business, that's all. Part of my savings I put in the bank around the corner. This account we use freely to get enjoyment out of life, and to meet the payments on our home.

"But it's the other account that puts the backbone into my estate. Immediately I opened this account my 'banker' placed a $10,000 cash bond in a safety vault for me.

"According to the agreement my deposits amount to only 2½% per year but cover interest, principal and all. Should I become totally laid up the 'Bank' pays me $100.00 a month. And when I die my wife gets the whole $10,000 bond in cash just the same.

"I learned of this plan through some of my successful business friends, who finance this way. Some people call it life insurance."

The above illustration simply shows how your plans for yourself and family can be made effective by insurance. Let one of our trained representatives 'diagnose' your needs for you.
